SCHOLLMEYER IN HIS CELL AGAIN WHEN POLICE FIND TWO STOLEN CARS

Detectives in Trailing Another Stolen Car Find Two at House on Fee Fee Road in Which Are Schollmeyer and Mrs. Pearl Johynson.

NOT TIPPED OFF BY NEMESIS THIS TIME

Police Had No Idea Who Occupied House When They Went There — Woman Claims She Moved There After Home in City Was Raided.

The William A. Schollmeyer's Cell at Police Headquarters is occupied again. The alleged burglar and automobile thief, who has been occupying it frequently of late, had an idea that he might bequeath it to some other acquaintance of the police by moving into St. Louis County Friday. His idea didn't work.

A mysterious female nemesis has caused some of Schollmeyer's arrests, but not so this time. Detectives of the automobile squad "ran into him" 24 hours after he had established a new lair, in pursuing information from another guarded source as to the whereabouts of a stolen car. They found that car and another stolen one outside a house on Fee Fee road, near Natural Bridge road—and found Schollmeyer and three companions inside.

The "tip" yesterday, given to Detectives Wrenn, Hummert, Mealy and Kavanaugh, was to look for a stolen Buick roadster on Fee Fee road, near Church road. Farmers in that vicinity told them to go to a garage on Church road. The garage man told them he had towed a car, but had been instructed to say nothing. A glimpse of detective badges induced him to describe the location of a 3½-acre place on Fee Fee road to which he had towed it.

Not Glad to See Them.

Still the detectives didn't know they were on the Schollmeyer trail. They found the place, with a two-story frame house and neat yard. A knock on the door brought a response by none other than the visitors' old acquaintance, Schollmeyer. He wasn't glad to see them, for he slammed the door in their faces. They forced an entrance.

Inside with Schollmeyer, the detectives reported were Mrs. Pearl Johynson, in whose home at 4458A Page boulevard about $15,000 worth of goods from Schollmeyer's alleged burglaries was found recently; John Burns, who entered the woman's home when that raid was in progress, and a woman who described herself as Leona Pfeiffer, Mrs. Johynson's "maid." The four were arrested. Burns and the women said they lived in the Fee Fee road house, but Schollmeyer said he still lived at 3625 Finney avenue, where he has been living and where thousands of dollars worth of his alleged loot was recovered in a raid.

The Buick roadster that started the detectives' trip yesterday was found standing near the barn. The detectives identified it by a monogram and other marks as the car of Leonard Cottarelle of 5802 Highland avenue, which was stolen last Tuesday. In the driveway beside the house they found a Hudson coach. This they identified as the property of Lester Grisby of 220 North Main street, East St. Louis, which was stolen Wednesday. On it had been placed the stolen license of a Ford car, but its own license plates were under a seat.

Clothing in One Car.

In the Hudson were found several hats, caps and suits, which Schollmeyer said were his. Several hats and caps were found in the barn. Three automobile tires, mounted on rims, were found on the back porch.

When the officers entered the house, Schollmeyer's greeting, prefaced with a blasphemy, was: "can't you leave me alone? I got out of St. Louis to get away from you fellows." He gave the same explanation about the Hudson as he gave the other day, when arrested as he was about to drive off in a stolen car downtown—he said the car belonged to 'one of the boys,' who had left it in front of his saloon at 1046 North Grand boulevard.

WRINGS HALF PINT OF WINE FROM HIS WEARING APPAREL

Deputy Sheriff Saves the Evidence After Woman Hurls Kettle at Him.

When Deputy Sheriff Arthur Kraessig of East St. Louis started to examine the contents of a two-gallon aluminum kettle yesterday in the home of Hubert Zuperous, 18 North Fifth street, East St. Louis, Mrs. Zuperous attempted to prevent the raiding pary of five deputies from obtaining evidence so she hurled the kettle at Kraessig.

The contents saturated the deputy's clothing to such an extant that his associates succeeded in wringing one-half pint of what they say is wine from his wearing apparel. The evidence procured in this manner forms the basis of liquor charges against Zuperous, who obtained his release on $2000 bond. Mrs. Zuperous escaped prosecution because she is the mother of seven small children.

Deputy sheriffs also arrested Frank Polacek, in whose saloon at 1200 North Eighth street, they reported finding one pint of moonshine whisky and a quart of wine. He was released on $2000 bond to answer State liquor charges.

MRS. GEORGE J. GOULD JR. ENGAGED TO ARGENTINIAN

Former Dancer to Wed 23-Year-Old Son of Wealthy Planter in Late Summer.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 19.—The engagement in Paris of Mrs. George J. Gould Jr., formerly Laura Carter of Philadelphia, and Carlos Oritz Basualdo, son of a wealthy Argentine planter, was reported today in a cable dispatch to the New York Sun.

They will marry late this summer, said the dispatch. Basualdo, who is 23 years old and a cousin of the noted Anchereno family of South America, will leave for his home soon to gain parental consent to the wedding, the cable added.

Mrs. Gould, once a dancer, eloped from her Freehold, N. J., home with George J. Gould Jr. and was married to him at Philadelphia in 1917, when both were 21 years old. In March, 1923, American friends learned the Goulds had been divorced at Nice, France. Custody of their two children was awarded to the mother.

TOURISTS GET FISHES' LIQUOR

Captain of French Liner Sets 'Em Up for Passengers.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 19.—Capt. Felix Murass, of the French liner Paris, arriving today announced the discovery of a new method for disposing of liquors in excess of the medicinal allotment which his vessel had brought to the 12-mile limit.

Instead of dumping it to the fish, as has been the practice, he stood treat to all the second and third class passengers aboard the Paris. Thus, according to Capt. Murass, he disposed of 500 liters of wine, cordials and beer last midnight.

Big Days For Real Estate

The Springtime—also the ring time—is the time to buy real estate, whether improved or unimproved.
It is the season for the purchase of a home or a site for one. No other period of the year offers so many splendid opportunities for selection as now.
If you have one lot—or a house and lot—or an entire subdivision, city or suburban—if you have business property, improved or unimproved, for investment purposes, if you have apartments and flats for sale, the Post-Dispatch will find buyers for you.
The Post-Dispatch has approximately 50,000 more city daily circulation than the next nearest St. Louis newspaper; approximately 85,000 more city circulation Sunday than the other Sunday newspaper.

THREE GLOBE FLYERS HOP OFF AT CHIGNIK

They Proceed to Dutch Harbor, There to Await Their Commander, Maj. Martin.

By the Associated Press.

CORDOVA, Alaska, April 19.—Three United States army planes, attempting to circumnavigate the earth, hopped off from Chignik for Dutch Harbor at 11 a. m. local time.

The three planes hopping off today were the Boston, New Orleans and Chicago. They had remained at Chignik since Tuesday, when they successfully completed a 450-mile flight from Seward.

At Dutch Harbor, Unalaska Island, the American flyers will await their commander, Major Frederick L. Martin, who was forced down at Cape Igvak Tuesday and who is awaiting the arrival of a new engine for his plane Seattle, at Kanatak, Portage Bay.

When the world aviators left Chignik this morning they expected to make the 400-mile jump to Dutch Harbor in about six hours.

Word also was received here today from Major Martin that he would rush the installation of a new motor and probably would rejoin this companions on Unalaska Island within three days after the engine arrives on the United States Coast Guard Cutter Algonquin.

British Aviator Leaves Cairo for Bagdad.

By the Associated Press.

CAIRO, Egypt, April 19.—Stuart MacLaren, British round-the-world aviator, left Cairo for Bagdad today, planning to fly by way of Ziza, Palestine. A wireless message received later said the aviator had successfully crossed the Dead Sea.

Destroyers Made Fast Time in Search for Martin

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—The destroyers Hull and Corry averaged better than 31 knots an hour in their race through Alaskan waters in search of Maj. Frederick L. Martin, commander of the Round-the-World flight of the Army Air Service, when he made a forced landing in Portage Bay, Alaska, last Tuesday. This fact is disclosed in a message received today from Major Martin, who states that the two destroyers covered 312 miles, starting at 7:45 p. m. April 15 and arriving at the entrance of Portage Bay at 5:30 the following morning.

The text of Major Martin's message follows: "Forced down 2:40, 15th; hole in crankcase. Taxied near shore, anchored, spent night in ship. Moonlight, calm and cold. Destroyers arrived 5:30 a. m. Hull came into bay. Was leaving at 9 a. m. when sighted us. Had used all our signal ammunition.

"Starter broken, helpless if anchor had dragged. Struck two best days here in eight months.

"Express appreciation to destroyers, which made 312 miles, starting 7:45 p. m.

"Mr. Reed, Standard Oil, Pearl Creek, rode horse 18 miles in deep snow to aid search.

"Steamer Star speeding to location also.

"Wonderful weather our salvation. Getting motor Dutch Harbor. Can destroyers patrolling Bering Strait give possible rescue similar accidents?"

SAW PARACHUTE FALL IN RIVER

Dock Watchman Says Man and Device Both Sank.

Watchmen on a towboat at the Government dock, foot of Rutger street, reported seeing a man in a parachute fall into the river opposite the dock and about 200 yards from the Illinois shore, at 4 p. m. yesterday. The river is at a high stage and a strong west wind was making "white caps" on its surface. Man and parachute disappeared beneath the surface and were not seen again, the watchmen said.

The watchmen said the man came from the air over the city, but they did not see any aircraft. At Scott Field and Lambert-St. Louis Field officers said no aircraft had been in flight yesterday afternoon.

CITY HALL "BOYS" TRYING TO RAISE $25,000 FOR PAPER

Publisher-to-Be Says He Has Been Told the Money Is Waiting for Him at Kiel's Office.

MAYOR ASSERTS HE HAS ONLY $400 OR SO

Meanwhile Debut of Morning Newspaper Is Deferred and Subscription Seekers Are Anxious.

The "boys" at city hall have their usual political worries with a mayoralty election on the horizon, but their latest trouble is organic, related as it is to delays in publication of their "organ"—the St. Louis American.

When J. D. Flynn of Tulsa, Ok., announced Jan. 7, last, that he had acquired control of the German-language daily, Amerika, and planned to issue it as a morning English and evening German newspaper, the "boys" were interested. The "boys" always are interested in newspapers, including those which point with pride to administration accomplishments and never view with alarm the failures.

The interest was mutual and Flynn was introduced to members of the Republican City Central Committee. Cigars and compliments were passed and when the smoke had cleared, it was understood the "boys" were to try to obtain 5000 subscriptions at $5 a year for the St. Louis American—as an English edition of Amerika was to be known—and the American would be Republican in word and spirit.

Subscription Seekers Anxious.

It seems that the Times, heretofore regarded as representing the city hall state of mind and politics, had become rather critical of certain Republicans and had even gone so far as to stop calling itself "The only Republican Evening Newspaper in St. Louis." Very well, if the Times didn't behave, the American would.

Some of the city committeemen, notably Louis J. Becker, the chairman, were active in urging subscriptions and saw to it that municipal employes were given opportunity to sign on the dotted line. Many employes deemed it best to accept the opportunity. Others of the committee had little enthusiasm for the projected publication and said so. Still it is reported that a considerable part of the 5000 subscriptions were obtained by March 1, the date on which the American was to have made its bow to the public.

The debut was delayed, however, until April 15. Then until April 23. The latest word is that it will be published within a week or 10 days. The delays, naturally, made the subscription seekers anxious and some are said to have returned money they collected to the subscribers.

Sample Copy Printed.

Not all the troubles have been on the City Hall side. Flynn, known to his friends as Colonel, indicated the "boys" sized him up as a rich uncle. Anyway, it happened quite frequently that unemployed persons would appear at the South Sixth street office of Amerika with notes from the "boys," reading: "Please give this fellow a job." Flynn, as a good Republican, is willing to support the Republican ticket, but as Editor Flynn he intends to do his own hiring. Maybe the "boys" didn't like his independence in this respect.

Just how much money has been collected from municipal employes is not known. Flynn says he has been told the money is waiting for him at the Mayor's office whenever he gets ready to call. Mayor Kiel, however, says only part of the collections—something like $400 or $500—is in his keeping.

Meanwhile, the Amerika plant is being "Englished" a bit. Ten new typesetting machines and a used press have been installed. The office has been redecorated. A staff has been retained. A sample copy of the American, with a red headline or two, has been printed. Der tag will soon be here, the owner-editor predicts.

CARTER SAYS ANCIENT KINGS WERE NOT PROHIBITIONISTS

Co-Discoverer of King Tut's Tomb Arrives in New York—Hopes to Resume Work in Fall.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 19.—Howard Carter, co-discoverer with Lord Carnarvon of Tutankhamen's tomb, arrived today. He hoped, he said, that the litigation between himself and the Egyptian Government might be settled so that he could resume work at the tomb next fall.

Carter laughed at mention of the superstition that the curse of an ancient god descended upon explorers of tombs and sarcophagi. Even the 700 natives who worked with him took the curse lightly, he said. He insisted, however, that he did not believe in permanent despoilation of tombs, and advocated that when researches were completed, the mummy of King Tut, as well as all of the royal mummies now adorning museums be returned to their resting places. In answer to one query, he said:

"On many ancient tombs I have found this inscription: 'Let all those who love life and hate death wish thousands of geese, loaves of bred and beer to my soul.' That is what the old Egyptians thought of prohibition, and I believe I agree with them."

RE-ENACT REVOLUTION EVENTS

Paul Revere Rides Again—Two Lanterns in Old North Church.

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, April 19.—The old communities of Eastern Massachusetts united today to commemorate and re-enact the stirring events of 1775 which led up to the battles of Lexington and Concord, marking the opening of the Revolution. Late last night, 149 years to the hour after the lanterns were hung in the steeple of Boston's old North Church, starting Paul Revere on his historic ride to awaken "every Middlesex village and farm," two lanterns flamed in the belfry of the church. They were borne there by Paul Revere, great-great-grandson of the Revolutionary hero and fifth of his name.

Today the old roads through the Middlesex countryside, over which Revere and William Dawes Jr. rode on April 19, 1775, were again the routes of two horsemen, clad in exact copies of the costumes of Dawes and Revere. "Revere's" route again lay through Winter Hill, Somerville, Medford Square, Arlington Center and Lexington Green, with "Dawes'" journey lying through Brookline, Cambridge and Arlington to Lexington Green.

Actors' Equity Leases Theater.

NEW YORK, April 19.—The Actors' Equity Association, whose members have threatened to strike June 1 as a result of a controversy with managers over terms of a new contract, announced today that it had leased the Manhattan Opera House for the month of June. The move was interpreted as evidence of the union's intention, if a strike is called, to enter the producing business and furnish employment for some of its members.

HANIHARA DISCLAIMS ANY THOUGHT OF IMPLYING A THREAT IN HIS LETTER

Text of Letters Exchanged By Hanihara and Hughes

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 19.

FOLLOWING is the text of the Correspondence between Ambassador Hanihara of Japan and Secretary Hughes made public today:

Ambassador Hanihara's letter, under date of April 17, said:

"My Dear Mr. Secretary:

"In reading the Congressional Record of April 14, 1924, I find that the letter I addressed to you on April 10, a copy of which you sent to the chairman of the Senate Committee on Immigration, was made a subject of discussion in the Senate. In the Record, it is reported that some of the Senators expressed the opinion, which was apparently accepted by many other members of that body, that my letter contained 'a veiled threat.' As it appears from the Record that it is the phrase 'grave consequences,' which I used in the concluding part of my letter that some of the Senators construed as 'a veiled threat,' I may be permitted to quote here the full text of the sentence which contained the words in question:

"'Relying upon the confidence you have been good enough to show me at all times, I have stated or, rather, repeated, all this to you very candidly and in a most friendly spirit, for I realize, as I believe you do, the grave consequences which the enactment of the measure retaining that particular provision would inevitably bring upon the otherwise happy and mutually advantageous relations between our two countries.'

"Nothing Like a Threat."

"Frankly, I must say I am unable to understand how the two words, read in their context, could be construed as meaning anything like a threat. I simply tried to emphasize the most unfortunate and deplorable effect upon our traditional friendship which might result from the adoption of a particular clause in the proposed measure. It would seriously impair the good and mutually helpful relationship and disturb the spirit of mutual regard and confidence, which characterizes our intercourse of the last three quarters of a century and which was considerably strengthed by the Washington conference as well as by the most magnanimous sympathy shown by your people in the recent calamity in my country. Whereas, there is otherwise every promise of hearty co-operation between Japan and the United States, which is believed to be essential to the welfare, not only of themselves, but of the rest of the world, it would create, or at least tend to create, an unhappy atmosphere of ill-feeling and misgiving over the relations between our two countries.

"As the representative of my country, whose supreme duty is to maintain and if possible to draw still closer the bond of friendship so happily existing between our peoples, I honestly believe such effects, as I have described, to be 'grave consequences.' In using these words, which I did quite ingenuously, I had no thought of being in any way disagreeable or discourteous, and still less of conveying 'a veiled threat.' On the contrary, it was in a spirit of the most sincere respect, confidence and candor that I used these words, which spirit I hope is manifest throughout my entire letter, for it was in that spirit that I wrote you. I never suspected that these words, used as I used them, would ever afford an occasion for such comment or interpretation as have been given them.

"You know, I am sure, that nothing could be farther from my thought than to give cause for offense to your people or their Government, and I have not the slightest doubt that you have no such misunderstanding as to either the spirit in which I wrote the letter in question to you, or the meaning I intended for the phrase that I used therein.

"In view, however, of what has transpirted in the course of the public discussion in the Senate, I feel constrained to write you, as a matter of record, that I did not use the phrase in question in such a sense as has been attributed to it.

"I am, my dear Mr. Secretary,

"Yours very truly,

"M. HANIHARA."

Hughes' Letter to Hanihara.

The letter written by Secretary Hughes to the Ambassador said:

"I am gratified to receive your letter of the 17th inst., with your frank and friendly explanation of the intent of your recent note in relation to the pending immigration bill. It gives me pleasure to be able to assure you that reading the words 'grave consequences' in the light of their context, and knowing the spirit of friendship and understanding you have always manifested in our long association, I had no doubt that these words were to be taken in the sense you have stated, and I was quite sure that it was far from your thought to express or imply any threat. I am happy to add that I have deeply appreciated your constant desire to promote the most cordial relations between the peoples of the two countries.

"With high esteem, I am, my dear Mr. Hanihara,

"Very sincerely yours,

"CHARLES E. HUGHES."

ROSSITER, ALLEGED EMBEZZLER, REPORTED CAUGHT IN JAMAICA

Former Secretary to Tower Arrested for Theft of $500,000, News Dispatch Says.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 19. — The Herald of Kingston, Jamaica, declares a man supposed to be William A. Rossiter, alleged embezzler of more than $500,000, has been arrested by two secret service men, says a copyrighted dispatch received from Kingston by the New York Times tonight.

Rossiter has been employed for many years in the family of the late Charlemagne Tower, former Ambassador to Germany, first as head bookkeeper and later as secretary to Tower. He had not been suspected of wrong-doing until he suddenly disappeared June 29, last. Within a week there were rumors of forgeries and after an audit of Rossiter's books trustees of the Tower estate voted to place the case in the hands of the authorities.

Rossiter was indicted by a Philadelphia grand jury Jan. 31, on ten true bills, in which he was accused of forgery, uttering and publishing forged checks, embezzlement and fraudulent conversion. The only amount mentioned in the indictment was the alleged theft of $10,000, but the authorities said the peculations and forgeries probably would total considerably in excess of $200,000.

POMP AND SOLEMNITY IN EASTER CELEBRATION IN ROME

Most Important Ceremony at St. Peter's, Where Cardinal Merry Del Val Will Officiate.

By the Associated Press.

ROME, April 19.—Easter will be celebrated in Rome with more pomp and solemnity than has been seen at the Eastertide since before the war. Thousands of tourists have gathered within the gates of the Eternal City, surpassing all former records. Germans are here in the greatest numbers, the United States being forced this year to take second place among the chief pilgrim nations.

Sunday's most important ceremony will be at Saint Peter's, where Cardinal Merry Del Val, as archpriest of the Basilica, will celebrate mass. The Sacred Relics will be exposed in a solemn service which, it is expected, will be attended by 4000 persons. Pope Pius will celebrate mass privately in the Mathilde Chapel, only the members of his immediate entourage being invited. Another important ceremony will be at the Church of Saint John in Lateran, where thousands will gather to hear the Sistine Chapel choir.

The Teutonic visitors, numbering about 30,000, are adding a touch of the picturesque as they appear in groups at Saint Peter's, the Forum, the Coliseum and other points of interest, wearing the usual German tourist costume — knickerbockers, colored stockings and knapsacks.

NOTE MAY INFLUENCE PRESIDENT ON IMMIGRATION

Friendly Exchange Between Japanese Ambassador and Hughes Gives Rise to Discussion of Veto.

DISCLAIMER HAS TOKIO APPROVAL

Envoy Writes That He Sought Only to Call Attention to How Exclusion Might Disturb Relations.

20-23 Wyatt Building.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—Ambassador Hanihara had no intention of implying a "veiled threat" when he used the words "grave consequences" in his letter of April 10, a copy of which was sent to the Senate, stirring that body to pass the immigration bill, with a provision abolishing the gentlemen's agreement and excluding Japanese from the United States.

In a letter to Secretary of State Hughes, couched in most friendly terms, the Japanese Ambassador disclaims any thought of implying a threat. The txt of the letter, made public tonight by the State Department, indicates that the sole motive actuating the Ambassador was that our Government and Congress understand clearly the unfortunate effect exclusion would have upon the people of Japan.

Hughes' Brief Reply.

Secretary Hughes, in a brief reply, assures Hanihara he never believed a threat to be implied by the use of the disputed phrase.

On Thursday Secretary Hughes and Ambassador Hanihara had a full discussion of the "grave consequences" incident, during which the Ambassador is understood to have explained that the phrase was intended to be construed with the language that followed it and that no threat of any kind had been thought of. The letters made public tonight are the outgrowth of that discussion.

There were rumors that this latest development greatly increases the likelihood of a presidential veto of the immigration bill. In this connection, it was pointed out, many Senators who voted for the exclusion provision have stated they did so because of the threat implied by "grave consequences."

The frank disclaimer of the Japanese Ambassador that a threat of any kind was intended possible may influence a considerable number of votes if supporters of the exclusion provision should attempt to pass the bill over the President's veto.

Hughes Sees President.

Hughes conferred again today with President Coolidge, and before receipt of the Ambassador's second letter had been advised of the desire of officials of the embassy to have an explanation of the language of the protest placed before the public. Senator Lodge, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, who in Senate debate characterized the phrase "grave consequences" as a "veiled threat," in recent days has conferred with President Coolidge on the question, but leaders in Congress desired opportunity to study the language of the latest letter before appraising the situation.

Steps to send the immigration bill to conference were taken at the Capitol today, and the conferees are expected to begin work without delay.

It is understood that the Ambassador made his explanation with the approval of the Tokio Foreign

SPENCER LOSES IN ANOTHER VERBAL TILT WITH WALSH

THEY GLOWER AT EACH OTHER

Spencer's Tactics Win Praise of Republican Organ, to Whom He Has Become Hero.

By CHARLES G. ROSS,
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—Sharp verbal combats between Senator Walsh of Montana and Senator Spencer of Missouri have come to be a regular feature of the Senate inquiry into the naval oil leasing transactions.

Today's hearing was no exception to the rule. Hardly had the session opened before Walsh, the "prosecutor" of the committee, and the Missouri Senator were engaged in a hot wrangle over the introduction of material which Spencer desired to place in the record. This consisted of questions asked former Secretary of the Navy Denby by the Naval Affairs Committee of the House, and the replies of Denby thereto.

Walsh objected, saying that Denby had been on the stand three times and that it would serve no useful purpose to put in the record an ex-parte statement, not given under oath and not subject to cross-examination.

Glower at Each Other.

Spencer insisted, and they glowered at each other. Chairman Ladd sat between the two, wearing his best noncommittal expression. Walsh called for a poll of the committee. The count was three to two against the Missouri Senator, who was supported only by his fellow Republican, Stanfield of Oregon. Ladd of North Dakota, nominally a Republican, voted with the two Democrats, Walsh and Adams of Colorado.

Walsh takes no trouble to conceal his aversion for Spencer. His eyes glitter when he looks at the Missourian and his eyebrows seem to take on a sharper tilt. His whole expression is a study in disdain. He bites off his words scornfully. Spencer is more urbane, but is not less positive in his manner. He stands by his guns.

Praised by Republican Organ.

In proportion of the depth of Walsh's ill-will, Spencer has won the esteem of the National Republican, the official organ of the Republican National Committee. He has become, indeed, the leading hero of this publication, which in several recent issues has lauded him for the tactics he has pursued since becoming a member of the investigating committee. In one panegyric, the National Republican held him up to approbation as a stalwart fighter who had dared to commit lese majeste in opposing "the tyrant, Walsh."

Spencer appears to be well satisfied with the results of his new activity. He said today that he had been "overwhelmed" with commendatory letters from all parts of Missouri and from other states. The investigation, he said, had got wholly off the subject of oil leases and had developed into a mere political fishing expedition. He maintained that none of the recent testimony about events at the 1920 Republican national convention contained any proof of a "deal" involving the oil reserves. Much of this testimony, he said, was of a picayunish, secondhand nature.

Mammoth Replies to Suit to Annul Teapot Dome Lease.

By the Associated Press.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., April 19.—The Mammoth Oil Company's answer to the Government's suit for annulment of the corporation's lease on the Teapot Dome Naval Oil Reserve, filed in Federal Court today, makes denial of all charges of collusion and fraud contained in the Government's bill of equity. It asserts that the lease on the reserve is legal and valid.

The reply concludes:

"This defendant (Mammoth Oil Co.) prays that the plaintiff (United States Government) take nothing from its bill of complaint herein, and that the defendant be hence dismissed without delay and for all other and proper relief."

Should the Government's bill be granted and the Teapot dome lease be annulled, the Mammoth's answer asserts that the corporation should be reimbursed for the $5,000,000 it has spent in development of the lease and for all obligations assumed in connection with the lease.

—International Photo.

Thaw, now 54 years old, and his hair nearly white, was so surprised when the attorneys for the State declined to cross-examine him, that he all but suffered a nervous collapse. He had nerved himself for an ordeal and the reaction when he learned he was not to undergo it brought on a violent shock which manifested itself in a trembling attack. It is said, however, the counsel for the State will subject him to a severe cross-examination later.

OIL INQUIRY LIKELY TO WAIT ON RULING AS TO SINCLAIR

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—Senate investigation of the naval oil leases will not be finally closed until after the courts have determined whether Harry F. Sinclair, lessee of Teapot Dome, is to be required to answer questions put to him by the oil committee. In making this announcement today, Senator Walsh of Montana, the committee prosecutor, said the inquiry probably would be suspended after next week until there was a final decision in the Sinclair case. Walsh said he had only three additional witnesses to call and Senator Spencer, Republican, Missouri, has informed the committee that he expects to examine only one or two more persons.

The oil committee today began an investigation of the leasing of Government land in California Naval Reserve, No. 2.

Leasing in this reserve, which is known as the "checkerboard" because of the alternating squares on Government and privately-owned lands, began in 1920 with the drilling of offset wells to protect the Government plots from drainage.

Operator Recalled.

W. W. Tarbell, an oil operator living at Bethel, Conn., was recalled for cross-examination in connection with observations respecting leases in this field which he gave to the committee earlier in the week.

Senator Walsh developed from the witness that the 31 per cent royalty paid by the Doheny interests to the Government applied to a "phenomenal field" in a small section of Naval Reserve No. 1.

Sweeping his pencil over a map of the 30,000 acres in the whole reserve, Walsh asked if any one would consent to pay a royalty of 31 per cent on such an area.

"Not unless he is crazy," said Tarbell.

Walsh remarked that Leslie M. Shaw, a former Secretary of the Treasury, had been making statements in public addresses that Doheny was paying 31 per cent royalty on his lease.

Tarbell said no one could tell now whether the Doheny or Sinclair lease would prove the more profitable to the Government; that only the actual production of oil could answer that. On the present showing in Teapot Dome, he said, it would appear that the Doheny contract would prove the more profitable. This would be due to the fact, he added, that the California fields are more productive and furnish more "gusher wells."

"Entering Wedge" of Policy.

Walsh brought out that not a single lease for oil wells in Naval Reserve No. 1 in California, and No. 3, in Wyoming, had been issued prior to the Harding administration.

"All of the leases were in Naval Reserve No. 2," the witness said.

Senator Walsh displayed a map of that reserve.

"What are the possibilities of preserving this reserve in view of the checkerboard arrangement of private and Government lands?" asked Walsh. "None at all," Tarbell said. "The Government land had to be operated when the private land owners began operation."

Replying to questions by Senator Spencer, Tarbell said that after oil lands adjacent to Teapot Dome had been leased by Secretary Payne in the Wilson administration, "something had to be done" to protect the naval reserves.

Tarbell also said that the leasing of 120 acres in Reserve No. 2 during the last month of the Wilson administration had proved the "entering wedge" for the leasing of naval oil lands; that a policy of that kind once inaugurated usually was adhered to.

Walsh then made it a matter of record that Secretary Payne was obliged under the law to lease the fields adjacent to the northern ring at Teapot Dome. He also elicited from Tarbell the statement that a lease having been granted in No. 2, it did not follow that the other two reserves, on which no leases even for individual wells had been granted up to March 4, 1921, had to be leased."

MAY REDUCE WORKING HOURS

Court Decision Expected to Cut Work Day of 8000 Railroad Yard Men.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 19.—A decision expected to reduce working hours of yardmasters and yard men from 12 to 9 hours was made today by Federal Judge Cliffe in the case of the Interstate Commerce Commission against the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railway. The decision affects 8000 men.

The company was fined $3000, and preparations were made to appeal the case, which may go to the United States Supreme Court.

SAYS SHOALS METAL WILL SAVE MILLIONS

Atterbury Tells Committee of Possibilities in Manufacturing Metallic Magnesium.

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
20-23 Wyatt Building.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—W. W. Atterbury, vice president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, a co-bidder with J. G. White and Elon H. Hooker for Muscle Shoals, opened up a subject of vast possibilities today when he told the Senate Committee on Agriculture how millions might be saved and freight and passenger carrying capacity of railroads increased by manufacturing metallic magnesium with the great waterpower facilities at Muscle Shoals.

The Aluminum Co. of America succeeded in having a prohibitive tariff imposed on the metal, chiefly made in Germany, so that instead of costing some 28 cents a pound, landed, it would cost more than $1 a pound. This both kept it out and left the field clear for the aluminum company's products.

Atterbury told of first noticing the substance during the war when he picked up a fragment from a German dirigible. Then and since then Germans have used it extensively in aircraft. It is lighter and stronger than aluminum. Atterbury described it as having the strength of unhardened steel.

Want Metal for Planes.

Army and Navy aviation engineers have told the Post-Dispatch they would like to be able to obtain the metal for similar use, especially in airplane wings and motor pistons and parts, but have been barred by the tariff. The Aluminum Co. of America operates a plant at Niagara Falls, ostensibly to produce the metal, but has not succeeded in five or six years in reaching commercial production. It was on the strength of creating this "infant industry" that the aluminum company demanded the tariff.

Atterbury estimated that if Muscle Shoals were developed to produce the metal, it ought to be primarily employed, from his standpoint, in construction of freight and passenger cars. He told the committee "it would revolutionize the railroad industry." According to his estimates, the weight of trains would be cut in half and freight carrying capacity would be increased nearly 20 per cent, whereas passenger carrying capacity would be increased 30 per cent.

He explained to the committee that this was but one of the possibilities in the Muscle Shoals development and use of water power. His testimony attracted unusual interest. Chairman Norris of Nebraska had previously been informed of the inability of the army and navy to get the magnesium because of the tariff embargo.

Oppose Ford's Bid.

Henry Ford's offer came in for another sharp denunciation when Francis R. Weller, consulting engineer of New York, testified that the Ford bid was "indefensible from any standpoint," and that "practically the unanimous opinion of all the engineers in the country is adverse to the Ford proposal."

The chief engineering objection is to Ford's requiring that the Federal water power act be violated.

"I am convinced that the Ford bill is indefensible. The fact that it violates the established Federal policy, regulating water power development, causes the Government to break faith with every company that has undertaken such power development under the Federal water power act," he testified.

Only last week the American Society of Civil Engineers, at their convention in Atlanta, passed resolutions protesting the acceptance by the Government of the Ford proposal.

The reasons given by the majority of the House Committee on Military Affairs for recommending the 100-year lease can readily be proven to be unsound and contrary to engineering principles. Through a widespread publicity campaign the farming interests of the country have been led to believe that the cost of fertilizer would be materially reduced if the Ford offer is accepted, although there is nothing in the testimony to show that such would be the case.

AL. SMITH REITERATES STAND

Says He Will Take No Action to Seek Democratic Nomination.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 19.—Gov. Alfred E. Smith, who is spending the week-end in New York, reiterated tonight that he would take no action to seek the Democratic presidential nomination, referring to his recent speech to the Democratic State convention, in which he said that State affairs would take all his time for a month.

"I have heard all day from my friends how I can be elected President by 90,000,000 votes," he said, "and when I get through listening to them it will be time to go to bed." The Governor took a party of 18 children, relatives and friends, to the circus tonight.

By the Associated Press.

SENATE LIKELY TO PASS BONUS BILL THIS WEEK

House Insurance Measure Meets First Test Without Any Opposition.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—The insurance soldier bonus bill was advanced rapidly in the Senate today in its first real test there, and tonight the atmosphere apparently had cleared sufficiently to assure its passage without serious contest early next week.

Democratic spokesmen indicated they would not press their proposal for inclusion in the bill of a full cash payment option in the face of insistent support for the pending measure by both Republican leaders and the American Legion.

This stand was taken by Democratics after Senator Watson (Rep.), Indiana, had told Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, that some Republicans had told President Coolidge they would vote to override a veto if he should order one on the pending measure, but that they would vote to sustain a veto if the cash option were incorporated.

Quinn Urges Support.

Likewise, Commander Quinn of the American Legion, in a message sent to each Senator, urged support for the pending insurance bill on the grounds that it could be passed over a presidential veto but that a combination cash and insurance proposition could not. A careful poll of the Senate had shown such a situation, Quinn contended.

Repeated attempts by Senator Robinson to verify "rumors" that President Coolidge would sign the insurance bill but would veto the cash measure brought no definite response from Republican Senators.

Senator Curtis (Rep.), Kansas, in charge of the bill, did say in reply, however, that he believed the insurance measure had a better chance of obtaining presidential approval than would the cash and insurance proposition.

Senator Walsh (Dem.), Massachusetts, who yesterday introduced a substitute bill calling for options of full cash payments or insurance policies did not press it. He announced, however, he would speak on the bill Monday. The Walsh bill, which it is understood, had the support of Democratic members of the Finance Committee, with the exception of Senator King of Utah, who is opposed to any bonus, would provide funds for the cash payments by issuance of $1,500,000,000 more of the second Liberty loan bonds.

Adopt Many Amendments.

With but brief debate, the Senate adopted almost a score of minor amendments to the House bill proposed by the Finance Committee. Senator Jones (Dem.), New Mexico, announced he would propose some other amendments of a somewhat technical nature. Aside from these, the way practically was cleared today for passage of the bill.

During the more than three hours of debate, not a speech in opposition to the bonus was made, the controversy centering on the proposal for a cash option.

Watson declared, however, that if this proposition were adopted enough Republican votes would be lost to prevent passage of the bill over a presidential veto.

Curtis said the cost of the bill probably would amount to $2,500,000,000 spread over a period of 20 years. Senator Walsh of Massachusetts insisted the measure would cost $3,600,000,000, but that the combination cash and insurance measure would cost $1,500,000,000 less.

An amendment offered by Curtis to make all employes who would be required for administration of the bill subject to civil service examination was adopted, as was a committee amendment making women who served in the yeoman service in the navy and Marine Corps eligible to the bonus. This affects about 11,000 women.

CLARKE FREED OF DRY CHARGE

Former "Imperial Wizard" of K. K. K. Was Under $2000 Bond.

By the Associated Press.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 19.—Charges of violating Federal prohibition laws against Edward Young Clarke of Atlanta, Ga., former "Imperial wizard" pro tempore of the Ku Klux Klan, were dismissed by Judge A. B. Anderson in Federal Court today on the motion of Homer Elliott, U. S. District Attorney.

Clarke was placed under $2000 bond last September on charges that a quart bottle, containing liquor, had been found in Clarke's traveling bag, near Muncie, Ind., while he was attending a Klan meeting. Clarke declared the finding of the liquor was a "crude attempt to frame him." He was not in court today.

Section of Shipping Act Delayed.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—The effective date of Sec. 28 of the merchant marine act of 1920 was delayed from May 20 to June 20 today by the Interstate Commerce Commission. The order explained that Sec. 28, which provides that where preferential railroad rates are given to goods going to import or export through American ports, the ocean shipment must be made in American bottoms, "does not confer upon us any power to review the certificates made to us by the board, or to determine the facts as to adequacy of shipping facilities independently or otherwise than as certified to us by the board."

Hanihara Disclaims Any Thought of Threat in Letter

Office, which had given its explicit indorsement to the wording of the letter.

Tokio Had No Knowledge Beforehand of Covering Letter.

By the Associated Press.

TOKIO, April 19.—The true history of the pharse "grave consequences" in Ambassador Hanihara's letter to Secretary Hughes is as follows, according to a high official:

Hanihara's instructions regarding the matter only approved publication of a digest of the "gentlemen's agreement" and did not mention a covering letter, which, however, Hanihara had full authority to frame without reference to Tokio.

The Tokio authorities did not see the letter until 48 hours after press messages indicated a serious situation had been created in Washington. The official text of the letter was not received at the Foreign Office until the afternoon of April 14, prior to which Foreign Minister Matsui did not know what Hanihara had said, and refused to make a statement until he knew what the much discussed missive contained.

After the text was received Matsui issued a statement, obviously designed to counteract the impression the phrase had created. Hanihara's letter was not published in Tokio until April 27.

The earliest official reaction to Hanihara's letter was extreme annoyance. This was followed by the official assumption that Hanihara's intent had been misinterpreted by the American Senate; that since no threat had been intended, either by the Ambassador or Tokio, none should have been read into the letter.

It is stated that Tokio will not only not recall Hanihara, but under present circumstances would not even consider his resignation were it offered voluntarily.

Reported That Woods Has Asked Coolidge to Veto Bill.

SAYS M'ADOO ADVOCATED PRIVATE CLAIMS DURING WAR

Secretary Wilbur Notifies Senate of Practice of Former Secretary of Treasury.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—Secretary of the Navy Wilbur, responding to a recent Senate resolution, notified the Senate today that former Secretary of the Treasury William G. McAdoo was the only former cabinet official who had practiced before the Navy Department in advocacy of private claims. His letter says:

"The Hon. William G. McAdoo appeared in behalf of Albert C. Burrage, owner of the steam yacht Aztec, in the advocacy of the claim of Mr. Burrage arising out of the leasing of the Steam Yacht by the Navy Department during the World War. The amount of money involved in the claim was $325,000 as the cost of repairs, plus $60,000 for the loss of the use of the vessel, a total of $385,000. The sum of $300,000 was the final settlement of the claim. This sum has been paid."

Lewis appeared in advocacy of the claim of the Edward Valve and Manufacturing Co., Chicago, for reimbursement for partial cancellation of a navy contract for projectiles, work under which was terminated after the signing of the armistice. The amount of money involved was $2,259,783. The amount paid was $574,291.42.

Smith appeared before a department in the advocacy of the claim of the Federal Sugar Refining Co. for additional compensation of $37,350. This claim has not been settled and the claimant has instituted suit before the Court of Claims.

WHEELER GIVES $1000 BOND

Senator to Appear at Great Falls, Mont., on May 5.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—Senator B. K. Wheeler of Montana appeared before United States Commissioner MacDonald here today and furnished bond for $1000 for his appearance at May 5 Great Falls, Mont., to answer an indictment charging him with accepting money illegally for appearing before the Interior Department in land cases.

The Daugherty committee prosecutor went before the Commissioner voluntarily soon after he was advised by the District Attorney's office that the indictment had been forwarded here with a request for service. Bond was furnished by William B. Colver, a former member of the Federal Trade Commission, and a friend of the Senator.

Announcement was made that the presentation of testimony by the defense would begin Monday.

PACIFIST MOVEMENT IS ATTACKED AND DEFENDED

Preparedness Urged by Legion Judge Advocate Who Is Answered by Albion Student.

By the Associated Press.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 19.—Pacifists and advocates of preparedness for war had their inning before the National Conference of Methodist Students here today. Robert A. Adams, Indianapolis, national judge advocate of the American Legion, advocated preparedness and attacked the pacifist movement.

Any self-styled patriotic organization "which thrives upon or seeks to propagate race, creed or class prejudice" constitutes a "real peril to the establishment of the 'good will ideal' among men," was the sentiment expressed in a resolution adopted at tonight's session.

Gerald Stedman, a student of Albion College at Albion, Mich., and a World War veteran, sounded the note which was intended to attune the gathering to pacifism, and finished with the declaration that "certainly Christianity cannot send us into hell again, even if our nation must."

"When you send a man out to kill his fellowman," Stedman asserted, "you cannot prescribe that he shall do it under certain rules; when you unleash the primeval passions of the beast, you cannot expect an angelic battle; when you send a man into hell, certain of its atmosphere will stick to him all his life. War is insanity."

"I see the American Legion," he said, "which could speak with unquestioned authority, filled with men who are of common view with me, yet as a whole cowardly at this convenient time, dereliction the monumental opportunity they have of outlawing war.

"I see bands of Christian ministers, whom I have come to feel do not know what to believe about anything, stand indecisive on this question. I have seen the public press, with the old 1917 propaganda, hatch up a psuedo menace of bolshevism to try and quell the beliefs born from the realism of war."

TWO FIREMEN ELECTROCUTED

Tried to Cut Radio Aerial Wire, Blown Across Light Wire.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, April 19.—Capt. Frederick Miller and Fireman Joseph Tierney of a hose company of Montclair, N. J., were killed by electricity when Capt. Miller attempted to cut a radio aerial wire which had blown across an electric light wire in Upper Montclair today. Miller obtained a pair of pliers and rubber gloves and attempted to cut the aerial away. The wind blew the charged aerial against his face and he was thrown to the ground. Tierney went to his aid and attempted to pull him away from the wire. The wire swung toward Tierney and he raised his hand to push it away. He was hurled to the ground beside Miller.

$1,000,000 LAND SUIT INVOLVES INDIAN'S MARR

Commissioner Burke to Pass on Claims of Contesting Heirs in Oklahoma.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—Indian tribal customs, common law, State statutes and constitutional guarantees are involved in a $1,000,000 Oklahoma land dispute, which Commissioner Burke of the Bureau of Indian Affairs will decide next month.

Burke will determine who are the legal heirs of Lucy Lotson Perry, an Osage Indian, upon whose land allotment in Osage County, Oklahoma, lead and zinc deposits, conservatively valued at $1,000,000, have been discovered. Sam Perry, an Indian, who possessed and was accepted as her husband for more than two years, is contesting against Alexander Mudd, Lucy Perry's brother, and Mamie Lee Mudd, her niece, who maintain they are her only blood relatives and for that reason should alone share the estate. Her marriage to Sam Perry, they claim, was void because forbidden by the Oklahoma laws.

Lucy Lotson Perry divorced her husband, an Indian, named Beaver. The divorce decree, however, stipulated that she should not remarry for six months. But she had married Sam Perry, younger than she, who took her to Kansas City, where they were married under the laws of Missouri.

This, according to Jerry Mathews, Sam Perry's Washington attorney, constitutes the first point in his client's favor—because of the "Full faith and credit" clause in the Constitution.

The newly married couple returned to Oklahoma, where there was an Indian ceremonial marriage. Before Lucy Perry died the couple had lived together as man and wife for two years, during which time Lucy had her name on the Indian agency rolls and at the local bank changed to Perry.

The court in Craig County recently decided that Sam Perry was the lawful husband and, therefore, entitled to one-half of the estate.

HERRICK GIVES 'INSIDE STORY' OF POLITICS IN WASHINGTON

Oklahoman Defends His One Term in Plea for Nomination for Congress.

By the Associated Press.

ENID, Ok., April 19.—Mason Herrick presented his "inside story" of Washington politics and society in an address here this afternoon in which he defended his term in Congress, reviewed his romantic adventuresin the capital and made a plea for nomination to Congress.

Sodom and Gomorrah were paragons of virtue" compared to Washington society, Herrick declared. Bootleggers openly ply their trade in the Senate and House office buildings, he alleged. "bootlegger extraordinary" nightly makes the rounds of the legislative offices soliciting liquor orders from Congressmen, he charged.

Washington police refuse to enforce law violations by members of Congress, Herrick declared, alleging that 75 Congressmen taken in a raid on "a notorious resort" were allowed to escape from the police station through a rear window.

STREETS FOR BLOCKS JAMMED BY CROWDS

Brisk Wind Also Adds to Difficulty of Firemen—Small Loss to Adjoining Buildings.

Damage from a stubborn and spectacular fire that lasted more than two hours yesterday afternoon in the levee warehouse district was estimated by Fire Chief Panzer at $104,700.

The fire started shortly after 1 p. m., seemingly in the front and rear at the same time of the four-story brick warehouse and factory of the Ovo Mill Corporation, 305 North Main street. The cause was not determined. A general alarm was sounded.

The old-fashioned structure quickly became a seething mass of fire, burning like a huge furnace inside the walls, which remained intact. A brisk wind furnished draft to the blaze and carried dense columns of smoke aloft when the streams of many fire hoses were opened.

The damage to the stock of chicken feed, pancake flour and other products was estimated at $45,000, and to the building at $35,000. In spite of strenuous efforts to keep the fire from spreading, especially to the paint warehouse of two companies adjoining on the north, there was some spreading. Damage to the paint warehouse and stock of one occupant, the Kent & Purdy Paint Co., was estimated at $2500. The fire also damaged building and stock of the Liberty Press, around the corner at 107 Olive street, in the estimated sum of $2200.

There was a report that a woman had been trapped in the burning building, but this was refuted. Chief O'Donnell of the Salvage Corps was nauseated by smoke and was sent home after treatment by ambulance physicians. A fireman had his eye treated for irritation by smoke and cinders. A motorized pumping engine speeding to the fire overturned at Broadway and Spruce street and blocked street car traffic for a time. Its crew was not hurt.

Thousands of spectators, many of them released from work by the half holiday, crowded the streets for several blocks in each direction to watch the firemen work and see the blaze. Squads of policemen had difficulty controlling them.

BOYS AND WIND CAUSE $150,000 FIRE IN EAST ST. LOUIS

A group of small boys and a high wind got together in East St. Louis yesterday afternoon and started a fire which caused a property loss estimated at $150,000, rendered 10 families homeless, destroyed a lumber yard and two large buildings and threatened greater destruction for a time.

The boys set fire to a heap of rubbish in the lumber yard of the Central Illinois Lumber Co., which occupies the 300 block on North Eighth street. The wind carried the flames hither and thither and sparks borne on the breezes set fire to two houses six blocks away.

Two-Story Structure Gutted.

After destroying the yard and building of the lumber company, the flames spread to a two-story brick structure housing three firms, adjoining the lumber yard on the north. This structure was gutted. The Simon Sheet Metal and Fire Door Co. estimated its loss at $30,000; the Budd Auto Radiator Co., $7000, and the Johnson Auto Repair Co. $3000. The lumber company was damaged about $25,000.

The flames carried by the wind then jumped toward the new building of the Drodhead Motor Co., at Eighth street and St. Louis avenue. So hot was the blast of air that windows at the rear of the building cracked and broke in. But the wind changed and saved this structure. Seven frame houses in a row along Eighth street were destroyed or gutted and a saloon building across the corner at Eighth.

Six blocks away the homes of Otto Fletcher at 531 North Twelfth street and C. J. Miller at 535 North Twelfth street caught fire from sparks and were left two shells of black scarred walls.

Aid From St. Louis.

The fire started at 3:30 p. m. and raged for two hours while thousands watched and hundreds more worked to save their homes. Six East St. Louis companies, two from the National Stockyards and two from St. Louis fought the flames. Firemen said that only the gradual quieting of the wind enabled them to get the blaze under control.

BOYS AND WIND CAUSE $150,000 FIRE IN EAST ST. LOUIS

A group of small boys and a high wind got together in East St. Louis yesterday afternoon and started a fire which caused a property loss estimated at $150,000, rendered 10 families homeless, destroyed a lumber yard and two large buildings and threatened greater destruction for a time.

The boys set fire to a heap of rubbish in the lumber yard of the Central Illinois Lumber Co., which occupies the 300 block on North Eighth street. The wind carried the flames hither and thither and sparks borne on the breezes set fire to two houses six blocks away.

Two-Story Structure Gutted.

After destroying the yard and building of the lumber company, the flames spread to a two-story brick structure housing three firms, adjoining the lumber yard on the north. This structure was gutted. The Simon Sheet Metal and Fire Door Co. estimated its loss at $30,000; the Budd Auto Radiator Co., $7000, and the Johnson Auto Repair Co. $3000. The lumber company was damaged about $25,000.

The flames carried by the wind then jumped toward the new building of the Drodhead Motor Co., at Eighth street and St. Louis avenue. So hot was the blast of air that windows at the rear of the building cracked and broke in. But the wind changed and saved this structure. Seven frame houses in a row along Eighth street were destroyed or gutted and a saloon building across the corner at Eighth.

Six blocks away the homes of Otto Fletcher at 531 North Twelfth street and C. J. Miller at 535 North Twelfth street caught fire from sparks and were left two shells of black scarred walls.

Aid From St. Louis.

The fire started at 3:30 p. m. and raged for two hours while thousands watched and hundreds more worked to save their homes. Six East St. Louis companies, two from the National Stockyards and two from St. Louis fought the flames. Firemen said that only the gradual quieting of the wind enabled them to get the blaze under control.

The wind played many not at all humorous pranks. One family had moved, their furniture from their burning house. A gust of air and flame swooped down and set fire to the furniture, too. Householders scrambled over slippery roofs stamping out sparks or quenching incipient blazes with buckets of water.

GIRL 'WITH MADONNA FACE' TO BE TRIED FOR MURDER

She Is 15 and Killed Mexican Congressman Who Shot Her Father to Death.

MEXICO CITY, April 19.—Mexico's most sensational murder trial will open on April 26 when Ana Maria del Pilar Moreno, a beautiful 15-year-old girl, described as "a child with the face of a Madonna," will be arraigned charged with the murder of her father's slayer—Congressman Francisco Tejeda Llorica.

The girl's father, Jesus C. Moreno, was a newspaper writer Tejeda Llorica was rich, socially prominent and a powerful politician. Moreno wrote an article which infuriated the Congressman. The two men met upon the steps of the Ministry of the Interior. After berating Moreno, Tejeda Llorica, who was half the other's size, seized him by the shoulder. Moreno drew a revolver. Tejeda Llorica took it away from him and shot him dead.

Under the Mexican law Congressmen enjoy immunity from arrest. Consequently police did nothing. Three days later Ana Maria, with a pistol hidden in her dress, waited in front of Tejeda Llorica's palatial home in the fashionable Colonia Roma district. When he stepped from his automobile the girl shot him dead.

"Justice failed to avenge the killing of my beloved, so I shot him," she told the authorities.

Bullets of two different calibers were found in Tejeda Llorica's body. The girl denied she had an accomplice.

Querido Moheno, foremost criminal lawyer in Mexico, voluntarily offered his services to defend the girl. The defense will be that the girl was not guilty of murder, because she acted from "an uncontrollable impulse of moral and physical courage and love."

SEVERE QUAKE AGAIN FELT

Tremors in British Isles Last But Few Seconds, However.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, April 19.—Violent earth tremors were again reported today in the Midland Colliery district between Alfreton and Sutton in Ashfield. They lasted but a few seconds.

The characteristics of the disturbance were similar to those of the recent quake in this district, but it was of less severity. Little material damage was reported.

Mooring Mast for Shenandoah.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—Secretary of the Navy Wilbur has authorized the erection of a portable mooring mast for the rigid airship Shenandoah at Camp Lewis, near Tacoma, Wash. This mast will serve as a west coast base for operations of the Shenandoah with the battle fleet. Likewise it will be a Western terminal for transcontinental flights by the Shenandoah or by the ZR-3, nearing completion in Germany. Work on the mast will begin in the immediate future.

GARAGE MAN THWARTS HOLDUP BY SHOOTING AT HIGHWAYMEN

Fred Koenig Opens Fire on Robbers and Believes He Wounded Two in Their Escape.

Opening fire with a revolver handed him by an employe when one of a trio of holdup men struck him, Fred Koenig, proprietor of a garage at 2824 Easton avenue, drove the robbers from the place and directed shots after them as they escaped in an automobile two other men had kept waiting outside.

Koenig thinks he wounded two of the men. One tumbled into the car as if he had been hit, while another, who leaped from the running board as Koenig was shooting, fell after he had run a short distance. The man got up, however and escaped on foot. Koenig had between $400 and $500, the week's payroll, in his possession at the time of the attempted holdup.

SUCCESSOR TO COLE SOUGHT

Nat Lacey, Moberly, Asked if He Would Take Federal Job.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—Senator Spencer said tonight that he had asked Nat Lacey of Macon, Mo., if he would take the position now held in the Department of Justice by W. L. Cole, formerly of Franklin County, Mo., which will become vacant May 1, when Cole's resignation becomes effective. Cole, who was chairman of the Republican State Committee and later Senator Spencer's secretary, intends to enter a law firm in St. Louis.

Cole is technically rated as an attorney at the department, but officials said that his rank was similar to a special assistant to the Attorney-General. His work has been confined almost entirely to the Court of Claims. The position pays $5000 a year, but the salary can be increased or lowered at the discretion of Assistant Attorney-General Robert H. Lovett. Senator Spencer explained that it was by no means certain that Lacey would get the position, as there would probably be other candidates.

"AD" CLUB EXCURSION TUESDAY

Ground-Breaking for Hospital to Be a Feature.

Each of the 200 members of the Advertising Club of St. Louis who will go to Koch Hospital on the harbor boat Erastus Wells Tuesday, will participate in breaking ground for a new male hospital, which is being built by funds provided from the $87,000,000 municipal bond issue.

Mayor Kiel will preside at the ground-breaking ceremony and after he has taken a small shovelful, the excavation will be turned over to the members of the "Ad" Club, who will be expected to fill a wagon load.

Final Hearing on Budget.

The last of a series of public hearings to give citizens an opportunity to express their views on the items to be included in the municipal budget for the fiscal year 1924-1925 will be held in Mayor Kiel's office at 11 a. m. tomorrow, by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment. The Comptroller's office at that time will have prepared an estimate of the expected revenue of the city as compared to the budget requests. The budget bill will be introduced in the Board of Aldermen next Friday.

SCHOLLMEYER IN CELL AGAIN WHEN POLICE FIND TWO STOLEN CARS

vard and that he 'took it out for a little exercise,'" but didn't know just which of the boys owned it. He couldn't think of an explanation about the Buick.

Schollmeyer and the others said they had gone to the Fee Fee road place Friday. The detectives had been informed that Mrs. Johnson had moved from Page boulevard, but had not known where to.

While Schollmeyer was being held at an outlying police station last night, preparatory to transfer to Headquarters, Chief of Detectives Hoagland said to a Post-Dispatch reporter: "Tell your paper Schollmeyer will get his old cell again."

NEW MERCURAL FORMULA FAILS TO SAVE JUDGE

Connecticut Superior Jurist Dies After Responding Temporarily to Treatment.

By the Associated Press.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 19.—Judge James Henry Webb of the State Superior Court, died here tonight. Applications of a new mercurial formula, said to have cured several cases of septic poisoning from which Judge Webb suffered, failed to have more than a temporary effect upon him.

The treatment administered to Judge Webb during the latter part of his illness came of a formula discovered by physicians at Johns Hopkins medical school and were tried with apparent success in two instances in St. Francis Hospital, Hartford. In Judge Webb's case, his physician, Dr. Joslin, stated that the patient rallied immediately on application but the effect lasted only a few days.

HARTFORD, Conn., April 19.—Dr. F. Arthur Emmett, cardiologist at St. Francis Hospital here, today confirmed the report that a complete cure in one case of malignant heart disease had been affected under his direction through the use of a new mercurial antiseptic discovered by bacteriologists at Johns Hopkins Medical College. A second case in which the antiseptic was applied this week, is so far improved that recovery is believed to be certain. Dr. Emmett is credited by physicians here with the first cure of malignant heart disease ever effected.

Union Station Hall Redecorated.

Renewal of the decorations in the Grand Hall, restaurant and lunchrooms at Union Station was completed yesterday. The work required nearly two months and the great height of the vaulted dome of the hall necessitated the building of a scaffold 70 feet high, mounted on rollers. The large chandelier in Grand Hall, weighing more than three tons, was included in the redecorative program.

Service Car Drivers Plan Line.

Thirty service car drivers have incorporated as the Service Cab Co., and, beginning tomorrow, propose to operate a Hodiamont-Page service cars line on a 3-minute schedule, with a 15-cent fare. The cars will run from Hodiamont and Etzel avenues, north to Page boulevard, east to Grand boulevard, south to Washington boulevard, and east to Third street, returning over the same route.

INVENTOR OF THE SHOOT THE CHUTES DIES AT 77

Capt. Paul Boynton Was Great Aquatic Showman and Gave Exhibitions All Over the World.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, April 19.—Capt. Paul Boynton, great aquatic showman of the last generation, and inventor of the shoot the chutes, is dead at his home in Sheepshead Bay. He was 77 years old.

Capt. Boynton invented in his youth a pneumatic rubber suit and kindred contrivances which enabled him to float on the surface of the water and propel himself with a paddle. In his unique suit he gave exhibitions all over the world on every navigable river. He crossed the English Channel, the Irish Sea and the Strait of Gibraltar, floated down the entire length of the Yellowstone and Missouri rivers, and down the Mississippi from St. Paul to St. Louis. In the late seventies, and through the eighties, Capt. Boynton's aquatic exhibitions ranked in drawing power with the Barnum circus and the Buffalo Bill show.

In 1880 Capt. Boynton was engaged by the Peruvian Government to torpedo the ships of a Chilean fleet which was blockading the port of Lima. He made a number of attempts, but did not succeed, and was eventually captured by the enemy, barely escaping with his life.

Capt. Boynton is survived by his wife and three sons, Paul Jr., who is manager of the Sheepshead Bay bus lines; Joseph, treasurer of the Ringling Brothers-Barnum & Bailey circus, and the Rev. Neil Boynton, a professor in Georgetown University, Washington.

JINX FOLLOWS LEVIATHAN

Copyright, 1924, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Co. the New York World and the Post-Dispatch.

SOUTHAMPTON, April 19.—Hard luck first struck the Leviathan when it grounded off New York some months ago, and seems to be still a passenger aboard the giant liner. Shortly after it docked here on the completion of its first voyage this season fire broke out and before it was extinguished it had caused damage of $3000 or $4000. The fire fighters had a hard time to conquer the blaze. So dense was the smoke that they had to wear gas masks.

The ship was to have left for New York Tuesday. The jinx aboard it bobbed up only a few hours after it left New York, when Mrs. Gough of Los Angeles, lost a handbag containing $3500 worth of jewelry. This had not been found up to the time the passengers disembarked here. Mrs. Gough left the bag on the counter at the inquiry bureau for a few minutes when she was calling for letters. There was a big crush of passengers at the window and when she turned to leave the bag had disappeared.

HARRY M. RUBEY SUED BY FATHER OVER SECURITIES

Former Democratic State Chairman Charged With Withholding Property Worth $44,000.

"SHANGHAIED" FROM SAFE DEPOSIT BOX

Younger Man Has Left Macon, Mo., Again and Gone to Los Angeles, Cal., to Live.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

MACON, Mo., April 19.—Harry M. Rubey of Los Angeles, for many years a Macon banker and once chairman of the Democratic State Committee of Missouri is charged by his father, former State Senator Web M. Rubey, 88 years old, in three suits in the Circuit Court of Macon County with having "shanghaied" $44,000 in securities, the property of the elder Rubey, and appropriated them to his own uses.

Harry M. Rubey obtained considerable notoriety about 10 years ago through disclosures concerning him which came during his race against M. A. Romjue of Macon for the Democratic nomination for Congress from the First District, after which Rubey withdrew and Romjue was nominated and elected.

Soon after these disclosures Rubey disposed of his holdings in the Rubey Trust Co. here, which had been founded by him and his father, and departed for the West. For a time he was engaged in ranching operations in Wyoming. Then he tried motion picture promotions in California. He came back here last July, at his father's request, for a long visit, his wife, who as a member of the Wardell family had been born and reared in Macon, coming with him. They were to take charge of the Rubey home, the elder Mrs. Rubey having died in May. Harry was to handle the business, his wife the home.

But Nov. 9 came a split. The elder Rubey went to live with a nephew, Press Rubey, in the old Dr. W. C. Rubey home, and before long Harry and his wife again departed for California. The Web Rubey home is closed.

Web Rubey, who, though 88, talks and gets around with all the apparent vigor of 20 years less, says there was a quarrel between him and his son over the whereabouts of the keys to the Web Rubey safe deposit boxes at the Rubey Trust Co. According to statements made to friends by the elder Rubey, the son finally got the keys out of his father's trousers pocket. The next day the elder Rubey signed a power of attorney, giving the son authority to enter the safe deposit boxes and take possession of the contents, among them many securities.

Both Have Retained Lawyers.

State Senator James H. Whitecotton of Paris, Mo., and George N. Davis of Macon, are attorneys for Web Rubey, while Harry Rubey has retained Franklin & Vancleve, Shelton & Shelton and Dan R. Hughes, all of Macon.

Hughes today discussed the case with the Post-Dispatch correspondent.

"Harry admits having hid the securities," said Hughes. "But maintains that his father turned them over last July when Harry first came home. The elder Rubey wanted to get rid of the detail, he said, so Harry came home to look after things for him.

"Then Harry heard that his father was becoming rather more than passingly interested in a young woman who had been his nurse in a Kirksville hospital, and Harry feared that, perhaps, a marriage, which might not be for the best, was in prospect. So under an agreement which his father had made with him back in 1917, conveying all of his property outright, so as to do away with a will or the need of putting his estate through the Probate Court at his death, Harry took charge of the securities and then turned them over to his wife in California.

"Under this agreement, Harry was to provide for his father and mother as long as they lived.

Denies Son Used Force.

"That's all tush about Harry using force in any argument with his father. Why respect and veneration for the latter is almost a passion with Harry. And, besides, he didn't need to, for Web Rubey already had turned all this stuff over to him. We deny all those charges flat. And to show you what we think of the case, we were going to have it tried right here at home, where everybody knows both sides. Harry will come back from California for the trial, week after next."

George N. Davis, one of the attorneys for Web Rubey, said that, when Harry Rubey's deposition was taken in January, he had admitted having had the property of his father, but said he had turned it over to his wife in return for money which she had loaned him. Mrs. Harry Rubey was said to have inherited about $75,000 at the death of her father.

"That's all stuff about that girl," said the elder Rubey. "She was a nice girl and she treated me very kindly when I was under her care in the hospital. So I wrote to her several times after I came back home. And she wrote to me. But we were just friends that's all and I told Harry that I hadn't made any such arrangement when he talked about my getting married. But he got hold of a couple of letters and I couldn't convince him."

Formerly in Business Together.

Harry Rubey and his father engaged in a number of ventures together in Macon. Besides founding the Rubey Trust Co., they had established the State Exchange Bank previously.

While in the West, Harry Rubey had a ranching enterprise near Casper, Wyo., as the result of which suit is pending against him here now for collection of $13,107 on a note for $17,000 made in 1917. That suit was brought by the State Savings Loan and Trust Co. of Quincy, Ill.

The three suits by Web Rubey are designed to replevin 22 notes, one deed, two $50 Liberty bonds and a paid-up life insurance policy for $8107, all of the aggregate value of about $44,000, to declare their ownership, forbid collection of principal or interest by Harry Rubey or any other than Web Rubey and to require that the securities be produced in court here.

Counsel for Web Rubey contends that the so-called agreement set up as defense by the attorneys for Harry Rubey is not valid, and that even if such an instrument does exist, it gave the latter no right to take the securities.

Leading Topic at Macon.

Matters involved in these suits have been the leading topic of conversation in Macon for three months, part of the townspeople siding with Harry Rubey, part with his father.

Harry Rubey now is president of the Manufacturers and Wholesalers' Finance Corporation, with offices in the Great Republic Life Building, Los Angeles, the elaborate prospectus of which he has mailed to some of his Macon friends.

500 DRIVERS GET DIPLOMAS FROM SAFETY COUNCIL SCHOOL

Graduate of Sixth Annual Course and Officials Dine at Chamber of Commerce.

Five hundred drivers of commercial vehicles were graduated from the sixth annual chauffeur's school of the St. Louis Safety Council, with a dinner last night at the Chamber of Commerce. The course consisted of attendance at seven lectures on safety methods of driving.

Speakers at the banquet were: Robert E. Lee, who acted as toastmaster; A. T. Perkins, Oliver T. Remmers, Roy Rauschkolb, Arthur T. Morey, P. J. Kelleher, P. J. Hebron, R. A. Gamble and Capt. Gerk of the Police Traffic Squad. The graduates were given diplomas.

POLICE PUZZLED BY DEATH OF MAN AND ILLNESS OF ANOTHER

Both Were Found Unconscious in Their Tamale Factory at 523 Franklin.

The police are puzzled by the death of Charles Folles, 45 years old, and the critical condition of Arthur L. Black, 50, who were found unconscious in their tamale factory, 1523 Franklin avenue, by a tamale peddler, early yesterday morning. No evidence of poisoning was found, and a gas jet and gas stove in the factory were burning.

The men were taken to city hospital, where Folles was pronounced dead. Black, it was said, may die. He was said to be suffering from cerebral hemorrhage.

JUDGE HOCHDOERFER FILES

Seeks Renomination as Democratic Candidate.

Judge Anthony F. Hochdoerfer filed his declaration yesterday with the Board of Election Commissioners for renomination as the Democratic candidate for Judge of the Court of Criminal Correction, Division No. 2.

In the Housecleaners' campaign against the "three K's" in 1920, Judge Hochdoerfer defeated Chauncey J. Krueger, Republican candidate for the office, who was opposed by the League of Women Voters, despite the fact that the average of the Republican pluralities at the 1920 election was more than 50,000.

John J. Moroney, 517 Walnut street, filed for re-election as Democratic committeeman, Sixth Ward.

PLAN FOR U. R. REORGANIZATION OUTLINED IN SUIT

S. W. Adler Would Foreclose the St. Louis Transit Co. 5's as the Basis of the Procedure.

HE HOLDS $135,000 OF $10,000,000 ISSUE

Action Brought in Federal Court to Determine Priorities and Equities in the Properties.

A plan for reorganization of the United Railways properties, by which the St. Louis Transit Co. 5-per-cent bonds would be foreclosed as the basis of the reorganization, and the "general 4s" would be validated and continued until their maturity 10 years hence, is contained in a suit which Samuel W. Adler has filed in Federal Court, Edward W. Foristel is his attorney.

Adler was the plaintiff in the receivership suit under which the present receivership of the United Railways Co. was decreed. He holds about $135,000 of the Transit 5s, the total issue of which is stated as $10,000,000.

In his petition, Adler asks that the St. Louis Union Trust Co., Bankers' Trust Co., Mississippi Valley Trust Co. and Northern Trust Co., trustees in the several mortgages, be enjoined temporarily from prosecuting foreclosure suits until a final decree shall be entered, determining the respective priorities and equities of the securities of the United Railways properties.

Other Details of the Suit.

Adler asks also that the St. Louis Union Trust Co., as trustee under the $30,300,000 issue of general 4s, be "temporarily restrained from claiming or asserting that the bonds have been matured by the refusal of the court to allow the receiver to take up or extend the underlying bonds, or to pay the interest due on the bonds Jan. 1 last."

He asks further that the court order the receiver to pay off the underlying bonds which matured Oct. 1 last (amounting to about $4,000,000), and to pay the interest on the general 4s, due Jan. 1, or else that it order him to issue general mortgage bonds to take up the underlying bonds and receiver's certificates.

The theory of the suit is that the priority of the liens, when determined by the Court, will rank in this order: First, the $4,200,000 of receiver's certificates; second, the underlying bonds (Lindell, Cass Avenue); third, the general 4s; fourth, the Transit 5s; after the 5s, other securities.

Effect of Order Sought.

If the Court issued the orders asked for, the receiver's certificates and the underlying bonds would be taken up, and the general 4s, now in default through nonpayment of interest, would be reinstated as a first mortgage, with 10 years still to run. The Transit 5s would then remain as the basis for the reorganization, and the obligation of reorganization would devolve on the holders of the Transit 5s.

It is further the theory of the Adler suit that such a reorganization would be much cheaper, in the matter of interest, than a reorganization on the basis of the foreclosure of the general 4s. The saving in interest is estimated at $1,200,000. The 4s now bring about 43 cents on the dollar on the market, but any plan for reorganization on the basis of the 4s would require that they be taken up at par. Under Adler's plan, they will be permitted to continue, so that the matter of their market value will have no bearing on the situation.

The trust companies named in the suit will have until May 1 to file their replies.

F. O. Watts, chairman of the reorganization committee now at work, has stated that it was the committee's plan to continue the general 4s as an obligation of the company, after straightening out legal defects.

800 TOURISTS IN AUTOS FUMIGATED ON ARIZONA LINE

Pass Through Oven-Hot Disinfecting Shed Erected Short Distance From the California Border.

BLOCKADE TO BE PUT IN EFFECT AGAIN

Spread of Foot and Mouth Disease Feared — Machine-Gun Patrol Established by Militiamen.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

YUMA, Ariz., April 19.—The vanguard of the 800 tourists marooned in the desert at the California-Arizona line for the last eight days began trickling across the Yuma Bridge and into Arizona territory at 5 p. m. today.

They had been thoroughly fumigated and disinfected in an oven-hot corrugated iron fumigation shed, erected for the purpose at Knobs Siding in California territory, about 12 miles west of this city.

Under a scorching sun, with no real shade for miles around, the wilted and dispirited motorists lined up in front of the iron shed to await their turn at fumigation. They were hurried through the structure at the rate of 20 minutes for each party and within 24 hours it is expected they all will have been fumigated and permitted to proceed on their way.

Blockade to Be Restored

When all of the 800 tourists have undergone the process the blockade will be restored by the Arizona authorities with the intention of keeping it airtight until danger of a spread of the foot and mouth epidemic is regarded as over.

The first automobile party to take its formaldehyde spray shower bath and steam treatment for clothes, automobile and baggage comprised Robert Wiseman, two other adults and seven children from Oklahoma City.

Wiseman stated he had been marooned for eight days and that he and the other members of the party in the desert had gone through five fumigations since leaving Southern California.

A. E. Pellew, Washington, D. C., and his wife were the next to undergo the fumigation and disinfectant process. They had been held up at the desert blockade line for exactly a week and Mrs. Pellew stated she had been unable to change her clothing once during that time. To relieve the suffering of the stranded tourists a large supply of food, blankets and tents have been sent to Knobs Siding by business men of Luma.

Machine Gun Patrol.

The first tourists who crossed the line into the State late this afternoon heartily praised the efforts of the Yuma emergency commission in their behalf. Once the blockade is re-established, authorities here said, not a person will be permitted to cross the State line. Col. Charles W. Harris, with eight National Guardsmen and a machine gun is patrolling the line, assisted by a large squad of special officers and deputy sheriffs.

The feeling between Imperial County law officials and Arizona authorities is growing more tense hourly. A large supply of rifles, sawed-off shotguns and ammunition has been sent to Sheriff Gillette, who is in charge of the California side of the situation at Winter Haven, near the end of the Yuma bridge. The arms were hurried to the Sheriff after he had wired his office at El Centro that members of the Arizona State Militia were threatening to cross to the California side and blockade the roads opened up yesterday by officials of Imperial County.

Sheriff's Statement.

Sheriff Gillette declared that he intended to "defend Imperial County from invasion by any armed soldiers or residents of Arizona," and that he had full police power to keep California roads open in the face of the Arizona foot and mouth blockade."

Gov. Hunt of Arizona, in a telegram to Mayor Cryer of Los Angeles, said the blockade would be restored immediately after the last of the 800 tourists marooned there were across.

Wallace Characterizes Alarm in Western States as Hysteria.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—Quarantine measures of the Federal Government to prevent spread of the foot and mouth disease among cattle in California and to adjoining states are ample to meet the present situation there and to protect the interests of all concerned, Secretary Wallace declared today.

It was unfortunate, the Secretary said, that the authorities of certain Western states have thought it necessary to place drastic restrictions on the movement from California of commodities which never have been known to carry infection. Such action in some instances, he added, had resulted in great inconvenience without contributing to the safety of these states.

The Federal quarantine of the infected area and the adjoining territory was based on 30 years' experience with the disease and the regulations were drafted to meet every contingency, Wallace said. No record exists of the disease being spread by fruits, vegetables or other human foodstuffs, and the department has not felt it was necessary to fumigate fruit cars and other cars carrying such commodities. Such drastic embargoes would work a severe handicap and entail considerable loss if applied to such freight movements.

Secretary Wallace characterized the alarm which has seized the Western states as hysteria and said it was entirely unwarranted. He declared there was no occasion for reduction in the consumption of milk, butter and meat in California because of the existence of the disease in some counties.

In suppressing the outbreak in California, Federal and State authorities working in co-operation, have slaughtered 350 herds of cattle, leaving 18 herds and one exposed herd still to be destroyed, John R. Mohler, chief of the Bureau of Animal Industry, reported. The disease, he added, appeared to be under good control except in Merced and Los Angeles Counties, with progress being made there.

The aggressive measures of killing and burying diseased herds are going forward with machine-like regularity, Dr. Mohler reported. This policy has resulted in reducing known infection on April 18 to only three counties of the 15 which are quarantined. Livestock sacrificed thus far as a safeguard include approximately: 23,000 cattle, 13,000 sheep, 10,000 swine, and 300 goats.

No products of any kind are permitted to leave infected farms. The Department of Agriculture has 135 experienced men in California working in the infected areas.

SYDNEY, March 15.—The mineral output for New South Wales for 1923 is a record for the State, being valued at $81,500,000, or $9,500,000 above the previous highest. Practically every branch shows increases, especially silver, lead and zinc. The coal output amounted to 10,478,513 tons valued at $43,000,000.

Memphis Banks Consolidated.

By the Associated Press.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 19.—Consolidation of the Union and Planters Bank and Trust Co. and the Guaranty Bank and Trust Co., with combined deposits of approximately $37,000,000 and capital and surplus of more than $4,250,000, was announced after a meeting of the directors of the two institutions today.

PRINCE JUST WON'T TALK ABOUT TRIFLES

Refuses to Discuss "Simple Real Estate Deal" Involving Sale of Domain.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, April 19.—"See the treasurer of my household," imperiously replied Prince Helie de Sagan, Duke of Talleyrand-Perigord, husband of the former Anna Gould of New York, when asked yesterday concerning the proposed sale of the domains of the principality of Sagan, which has been advertised in the European papers the past few days. Inasmuch as the "household" referred to is in the confines of the principality, which is situated in Brandenburg and Silesia, Germany, about 100 miles southeast of Berlin, the correspondent interpreted the Prince's reply as a refusal to be bothered about such commercial trifles as those involving the sale of immense properties, containing various chateaux and valued at millions of rentenmarks.

The correspondent considered himself as having been royally dismissed from the presence of the Prince.

Princess Won't Discuss It.

The one-time Anna Gould, daughter of the late Jay Gould, who was one of America's most famous railroad men years ago, a few hours previously had said to the correspondent when asked concerning the sale of the principality: "This is a matter which concerns my husband and with which I have nothing to do."

Representations that her son, Charles Maurice Pierre Jason Howard de Talelyrand-Perigord, who is a student in a Paris high school, was heir to a title which if sold might cause him to go through life as a mere Duke, instead of as a Prince, failed to shake the determination of the former American heiress to remain silent, and a yellow-liveried flunky, wearing a little white tie and huge brass buttons on his uniform, gently tucked an expensive robe around his mistress and whisked her away in a highly expensive automobile.

"A simple real estate deal in Silesia," was the manner in which one member of the secretariat of Prince Helie's Paris household spoke of the affair. He added that the matter is being handled entirely from the German end.

Son to Retain Title.

It develops from information gathered in circles close to the Sagans that the sale of the Prince's title is not involved and that the son of the American Princess will inherit after his father's demise, no matter what happens to the property now offered for sale.

The principality of Sagan comprises population of 15,000, including 10,000 in the town of Sagan, the capital. As the property stands it is reported as being worth several million rentenmarks.

Prince Helie, who occupies a pink marble palace in the Avenue Bois de Boulogne in Paris, is quoted by French newspapers as having said yesterday:

"I occupy myself with nothing concerning the sale. My Berlin agents receive offers in my name. I shall have to intervene only if the sale is concluded."

At the French Foreign Office the Associated Press was informed that the French Government was in no way concerned with the sale.

HOAGLAND MEETS AN OLD ACQUAINTANCE

After 12 Years, He Recognizes Diamond Thief on Street and Arrests Him.

Once in a while Chief of Detectives Hoagland does something to show why he is called "The Eye" by his enemies, the crooks.

Yesterday afternoon he was crossing the corner of Sixteenth and Chestnut streets when he saw a man he remembered. "Melbourne Snodgrass, international diamond thief!" he might have exclaimed, but instead he approached the man and said, "Hello, Snodgrass."

The stranger stared. No hint of recognition was in the uplift of his eyebrows.

"Oh, you remember me, Snodgrass," said Hoagland. "I took your picture and prints for the Bertillon twelve years ago."

"It's a good rap," he man admitted. "But I just got into town. I haven't pulled anything here."

"Supposing we walked to headquarters," suggested Hoagland, politely.

There in the Chief's office he and Snodgrass discussed old times, when Hoagland was just a detective. Snodgrass, a three-time convict, is supposed to be an expert at the "switch drop," a method used by diamond thieves in which phony jewelry is quick-changed for the real goods under the jeweler's very nose.

As the Chief had nothing but suspicion to hold Snodgrass on, he probably will be released this morning.

DUG OWN GRAVE BESIDE WIFE'S

Then Died at 95 Instead of 100 Years He Planned to Attain.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

YORK, Pa.—Edmund H. Kalbaugh, 95 years of age, who was found dead in his bed at the home of his daughter in this city, was buried in a grave which he helped to dig beside that of his wife in the cemetery at Dobb's Church, near Hanover, this county.

It had been the desire of Mr. Kalbaugh to live to be 100 years of age, but when he was forced to retire from active work 15 years ago he began making preparations for the time when he would have to leave this earth. He helped to dig his own grave beside that of his wife, he helped to wall the grave and had a tombstone placed near it and everything was put in readiness for his death.

New High for Sterling and Franc.

NEW YORK, April 19.—Growing confidence in Europe as to the success of the Dawes plan, combined with an accumulation of buying orders for tourist and commercial requirements, today carried sterling and French francs up to a new high level for the year. Demand sterling made a brisk advance of almost 2 cents to $4.36¾, while the franc moved up several points to a new 1924 top price above 6.30 cents.

GEN. BRUCE IS CONVALESCENT

By Wireless to the New York Times and the Post-Dispatch.

LONDON, April 19.—The London Times announces: "We are informed that Gen. C. G. Bruce, leader of the Mount Everest expedition, has been compelled to leave the expedition for a time on account of an attack of malaria. He is now at Yatung. Gen. Bruce, however, is convalescent, and it is hoped he may be able to join the expedition before very long."

796 Visitors at White House.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—More visitors flocked to President Coolidge's office today than on any other day since he has been President. The noon line, comprising tourists, friends of congressmen and high school students sight seeing in Washington numbered 796. Mr. Coolidge shook hands with some of the callers but let the pupils pass through his office and the cabinet room while he worked.

Mausoleum Built for Casket.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, April 19.—A marble mausoleum, designed to hold the bodies of five canaries, has been built by a local marble company for Mrs. Clara Tuegel of this city. One of the five has died, after nine years of singing. The other four are between seven and 12 years old. The mausoleum is an oblong block 20 inches long, 12 inches wide and 8 inches high. Small sarcophagi will contain the bodies of the birds.

COLLECTOR OF REPARATIONS TO BE AN AMERICAN

Feelers Sent Out by Commission—Hoover's Name Among Those That Have Been Suggested.

POSITION THE MOST POWERFUL IN WORLD

Man of Tact, and an American Will Be Required, Says Owen Young—He Will Regulate Exchange.

By ARNO DOSCH FLEUROT.
Paris Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

PARIS, April 19.—The "King of the World," as he is being called—the agent of the reparations commission who is to collect 2,500,000,000 gold marks annually from Germany—is to be an American. No other nationality would carry sufficient authority to dominate the world exchange market. It is said.

Possible candidates for the job are not many. Owen D. Young, who is to sail for America on the Leviathan, would not take the dictatorial position that he helped, as a member of the experts' committee, to create, he let it be known. It will call for an American no less conversant than he of reparation affairs. The Reparations Commission is considering various possibilities and has sent out feelers. Secretary Hoover's name has been suggested.

"A man of understanding and tact, and an American, will be required," said Young. "He will be the most powerful man in the world, as he will control international commerce and regulate international exchange. He must be neutral."

Before any one is chosen, it is probable that the Premiers of Britain, France and Belgium will meet, it is reported here. No date for the meeting has been set, and the report that there will be one is denied from a semi-official source. According to this expectation, Poincare and Theunis will get together first, and then MacDonald will join them.

The second meeting, that of the three, is admittedly problematical, as MacDonald knows that if he sits down with Poincare he must discuss matters of security sanctions in the event of Germany's failure to carry out the experts' plan, and whether the British will agree to modification of the plan for a transfer committee provided in the experts' report, according to which one Frenchman will be on the committee. This body would distribute reparations among the Allies according to its own best judgment.

The French are contending that, as they are to receive 52 per cent of the reparations, they have not a proportionate representation on the transfer committee. This matter is likely to prove one of the obstacles in the way of formal acceptance by the French of the experts' plan. In some circles it is argued that a meeting of the Premiers should be called to consider it.

Marx Emphasizes Freedom of the Ruhr.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, April 19.—The Berlin newspapers reproduce an interview with Chancellor Marx, published in the Duesseldorf Nachrichten, in which the Chancellor declared the experts emphasized the point that their recommendations depended upon the restoration of the fiscal and economic unity of the Reich.

"The assent of the German Government to the experts' reports," continued the Chancellor, "also depends on this hypothesis. The experts have said that their proposals depend on the assumption that Germany's economic activity is not impeded by the supervision of any foreign organization and that existing measures insofar as they hinder this activity should be rescinded or adequately modified, and that consequently French military occupation of the Ruhr territory should be rescinded or adequately modified.

"The idea of productive pledges has been eliminated by the experts' representatives, and the Rhine and Ruhr as a reparations province have been superseded by general pledges recommended by the experts, the adoption of which would have the effect of freeing the Rhine and the Ruhr from the pressure put on them. These are substantially the reasons that moved the Government of the Reich to take up the standpoint of the experts' representatives."

COLLECTOR OF REPARATIONS TO BE AN AMERICAN

Feelers Sent Out by Commission—Hoover's Name Among Those That Have Been Suggested.

POSITION THE MOST POWERFUL IN WORLD

Man of Tact, and an American Will Be Required, Says Owen Young—He Will Regulate Exchange.

By ARNO DOSCH FLEUROT,
Paris Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

PARIS, April 19.—The "King of the World," as he is being called—the agent of the reparations commission who is to collect 2,500,000,000 gold marks annually from Germany—is to be an American. No other nationality would carry sufficient authority to dominate the world exchange market, it is said.

Possible candidates for the job are not many. Owen D. Young, who is to sail for America on the Leviathan, would not take the dictatorial position that he helped, as a member of the experts' committee, to create, he let it be known. It will call for an American no less conversant than he of reparation affairs. The Reparations Commission is considering various possibilities and has sent out feelers. Secretary Hoover's name has been suggested.

"A man of understanding and tact, and an American, will be required," said Young. "He will be the most powerful man in the world, as he will control international commerce and regulate international exchange. He must be neutral."

Before any one is chosen, it is probable that the Premiers of Britain, France and Belgium will meet, it is reported here. No date for the meeting has been set, and the report that there will be one is denied from a semi-official source. According to this expectation, Poincare and Theunis will get together first, and then MacDonald will join them.

The second meeting, that of the three, is admittedly problematical, as MacDonald knows that if he sits down with Poincare he must discuss matters of security sanctions in the event of Germany's failure to carry out the experts' plan, and whether the British will agree to modification of the plan for a transfer committee provided in the experts' report, according to which one Frenchman will be on the committee. This body would distribute reparations among the Allies according to its own best judgment.

The French are contending that, as they are to receive 52 per cent of the reparations, they have not a proportionate representation on the transfer committee. This matter is likely to prove one of the obstacles in the way of formal acceptance by the French of the experts' plan. In some circles it is argued that a meeting of the Premiers should be called to consider it.

BUCK M'KAY SERIOUSLY ILL OF EPILEPTIC CONVULSIONS

Oldest State Prisoner in Point of Service, Sent There in May, 1903, from St. Louis.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 19.—William (Buck) McKay of St. Louis, the oldest prisoner in the State Penitentiary in point of service, and declared by prison authorities to be their "biggest problem," is critically ill following a series of epileptic convulsions, and, according to prison physicians, is not expected to live.

McKay, a former St. Louis saloonkeeper, came to the penitentiary in May, 1903, for shooting and killing a negro he was putting out of his saloon at 302 South Seventh street, Oct. 2, 1902, and has served 20 years and 11 months of his 25-year sentence. He is subject to epileptic attacks and for seven years has been kept in solitary confinement because of his condition and attacks on prison guards. Prison officers regard him as dangerous.

He was paroled in February, 1922, to relatives, but within a few days they asked that the parole be revoked, declaring they feared attacks by him. In 1906 he was transferred to a hospital for the insane at Fulton, but escaped. He was recaptured in Oklahoma and returned to the penitentiary. McKay also was transferred to the State Hospital for the Insane at Nevada, in 1910, and while there he whipped seven attendants who tried to strap him down during an epileptic fit. He then was returned to the penitentiary.

GIRL IDENTIFIES NEGRO SLAIN BY POLICEMAN AS BURGLAR

Kathryn Brady Says Carl Williams Robbed Home the Morning of March 29.

Carl Williams, 20-year-old negro, who was shot to death by Patrolman Thomas McGrath Friday evening, as he tried to escape through a yard at 4252 West Pine boulevard, was identified yesterday by Kathryn Brady, 9 years old, daughter of Thomas M. Brady, 5243 Nottingham avenue, as the man who had robbed the Brady home on March 29.

At 5 o'clock on that morning the girl's mother was awakened by her daughter's screams. The mother asked what was the matter and the child cried a negro was in her room. At the mother's approach the man escaped through a kitchen window. About $200 in jewelry was taken at that time.

"SMILIN' JIM" SCULLY, OVERSEAS VETERAN, DEAD

Stretcher-Bearer With 138th Infantry in France Stricken With Heart Attack in Texas.

"Smilin' Jim" Scully, whose musical fingers and ready smile made him a favorite with the 138th St. Louis Infantry in billet overseas, died unexpectedly of heart failure Wednesday at Fort Brown, Tex. The funeral will be held at 7:45 a. m. tomorrow from a chapel at 1519 South Grand boulevard to Calvary Cemetery, with military honors.

James P. Scully was 38 years old, and before the World War had played the piano with local dance orchestras and with shows. He was a stretcher-bearer with the 138th. After the war he re-enlisted in the Twelfth Cavalry and was a member of the band at Fort Brown. A sister and six brothers, three of whom were in service, one in the 138th, reside in St. Louis.

W. U. NURSING SCHOOL ON UNIVERSITY BASIS

Four and One-Half Year Course, Leading to Degree, Will Be Offered.

The nurses' training school of Washington University has been placed on a university basis and will hereafter be the School of Nursing, with a four and one-half-year course leading to the degree of Bachelor of Science in Nursing, and the diploma of Graduate Nurse. The first class in the School of Nursing will be admitted to the university next September.

The students will take the freshmen and sophomore years in the college, taking in general and same work as other students, but with selection of courses to be of value in the work of nursing. A part of the summer vacation will be spent in the hospitals affiliated with the university, taking instruction in elementary nursing procedure. After the two years of college work, two years of hospital training will be given, with practical instruction in Barnes Hospital, the Children's Hospital and the Maternity Hospital, with coures in anatomy, physiology, bacteriology and chemistry in the Washington University Medical School.

Miss Claribel A. Wheeler will be director of the school and professor of nursing. A committee of the university will administer the school, and an advisory committee of St. Louis women will co-operate in the management.

The present three-year course in nursing, given in the hospitals affiliated with the university, and leading to the diploma of Graduate Nurse, will be continued, and will be improved in a number of particulars.

Chancellor Hadley, in announcing the raising of the school to a university basis, said this action would mark a new era in nursing education in Missouri.

WRIT RESTORES BABY

Habeas Corpus Gives Mother Child Held for Non-payment of Bill.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 19.—A writ of habeas corpus early today restored Eleanor Nodine, 14 months old, to her mother, after the baby had been held in a hospital on orders of the physician for a $215 bill, contracted during treatment for pneumonia. The mother, earning $20 a week, was unable to pay the bill at once and the physician refused to permit the child to leave before settlement was made.

SCHMOLL SHOWS NEED OF NEW COURTHOUSE

Old Building Inadequate for Rapidly Increasing Business, Circuit Clerk Reports.

Statistics to prove that the city needs a new courthouse, and also more Judges to handle the rapidly growing legal business were shown to the Circuit Judges in general session yesterday by Circuit Clerk John Schmoll. In the presentment Schmoll took issue with Mayor Kiel in stating that there was no immediate need for a new building. With the Mayor's approval, the Board of Aldermen recently rescinded its action selecting the plaza as the site for the proposed $4,000,000 courthouse, it being argued there was no hurry about selecting a site.

12,607 Civil Suits Filed.

The figures compiled by Schmoll revealed that for the first two terms of this year 12,607 civil suits have been filed, while during the entire previous year the total was 12,107. He compared the present volume of business with that of other years, going back to 1877. From that year until 1894 there was little difference, the suits averaging 3500 a year, with five civil Judges to try them. In the ensuing six years a falling off in litigation seems to have taken place as filing of suits averaged only 3100 yearly.

Thereafter business began to pick up for lawyers and by 1918 the suits were averaging 7071 a year. At that time it was necessary to add two more Judges and three years later the number of Judges was again increased by two, the business having grown to 10,487 filings a year, according to Schmoll's report. At present there are 13 Judges to try civil cases, including divorce suits, which are tried in the Court of Domestic Relations.

Judge Miller Favors More.

Presiding Judge Franklin Miller announced that he was in favor of some immediate action to relieve the present crowded condition of the courthouse, and its dockets. He appointed a committee, consisting of Judges Calhoun, Killoren and Hogan, to urge the erection of a new courthouse somewhere and the granting of additional Judges, which latter matter will have to be taken up with the Legislature.

Judge Calhoun, chairman of the committee, told the Post-Dispatch that most of the civil cases pending are about four terms behind before they get to trial, and that unless the Legislature grants relief in more Judges the dockets will become alarmingly congested. Further, he said, the city needs a new court building as soon as possible to adequately handle the vast number of cases. If new judgeships were created there is no space in the present building to provide them with court room, Judge Calhoun said.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION

County Gathering to Be Held Thursday and Friday.

The seventeenth annual Sunday School convention of St. Louis County will be held in Webster Groves Thursday and Friday. The association is an interdenominational one.

General and conference sessions will be held at the Webster Groves Presbyterian Church, Lockwood and Gore avenues, except those held Friday evening, when the sessions will be held at the Webster Groves High School and armory. Among the speakers will be Dr. P. G. Coffin, president of Palmer College, Albany, Mo., who will speak on "The Church School—A Co-Operative Enterprise," Thursday morning, and Charles Darsie, field worker for the Disciples of Christ, who will speak on "The Home in a Program of Religions Education" the same evening.

Zach Tinker, Picturesque St. Louisan, Dies at 70

Once Millionaire and Prominent in Many Activities, in Recent Years, He Was Employed Here in U. S. Collector's Office.

A survivor of the days when the tally-ho was in style, passed early yesterday with the death of Zachariah Wainwright Tinker at the age of 70. A native St. Louisan, he was prominent in more ways than one.

Once a millionaire, paying his private chauffeur the then princely salary of $125 a month, Tinker in recent years had been employed at not much more than that in the local offices of the United States Collector of Internal Revenue. But he never complained about his monetary misfortunes, and insisted to the last on working, according to his son, George Tinker, with whom he resided at 814 Hamilton avenue.

Tinker, although in poor health for some time, was active and was at the Federal Building as late as Thursday. Early Friday he was removed to the Missouri Baptist Sanitarium. Ten minutes before he died he sat up in bed and spoke about returning to work.

Organized Brewery Company.

As a young man, Tinker joined his father in the Tinker & Smith Malting Co. The company prospered and in the late 90's the son organized the Columbia Brewery Co., the first of the independent St. Louis breweries. The Columbia later was absorbed by the Independent Breweries Co., and Tinker became a vice president of the latter. At one time or another Tinker also was organizer of the Parker Distilling Co. of St. Louis and president of the Security Brewing Co. of New Orleans. He financed, in whole or part, the erection of the following theater buildings: Havlin's, Gem, Imperial, Grand Opera House, Columbia and Bijou in St. Louis, and the Great Northern in Chicago.

Tinker and Frank R. Tate were credited with inaugurating "big time" vaudeville in St. Louis when they opened the Columbia Theater. The Bijou Theater also was unique in that it had a glass stairway under which water and gold fishes passed.

With all his business enterprises, Zach, as he was widely known, found time in 1901 to seek the Democratic nomination for Mayor of St. Louis. He was defeated by Rolla Wells.

Had Stable of Fine Horses.

Tinker was a rich man in those days and he lived up to the traditions. He had a stable of fine horses, and, of course, a tally-ho. A famous race horse was named Tinker after him. He had friends in numbers and his friends were glad to be included with Zach as being among those present at social and sport events. He was fond of horses, baseball and golf, in the order named. He resided for a while on Longfellow boulevard and, again, at the St. Regis Apartments.

ONCE PROMINENT CITIZEN, WHO IS DEAD

—Strauss Photo.
ZACHARIAH WAINWRIGHT TINKER.

A bank failure in New Orleans in 1908 was the beginning of Tinker's financial troubles. The bank affected the Security Brewery and receivership followed. The receiver later offered Tinker a $40-a-week job as solicitor for the brewery, which Tinker indignantly spurned, terming it a "gratuitious insult." At this time Tinker was said to still have stock holdings estimated to be worth $700,000 in the Independent Breweries Co., as well as personal and realty holdings amounting to several hundred thousand more. Later he lost heavily in coal and railroad investments in the Southwest.

George Tinker, the son, would not estimate the amount of his father's estate, but admitted it was not large. At the time of his death Tinker had no connection with his former enterprises.

"He was a man of many friends and always doing something for them," the son said. "He 'made' many millionaires, but his friends did not always return his favors, and that may explain his financial misfortunes."

With his fortune vanished, Tinker announced he was not going to "lose any sleep" over it, and after unsuccessful attempts to recoup, he entered the Federal service in 1918. His fellow workers found him democratic and a good story-teller, it being conceded he was the greatest joker in the department. An apoplectic stroke a year ago failed to quench his humor.

Tinker is survived by the one son, George Tinker, and a daughter, Mrs. Manuel Garcia Lugo, widow of a wealthy Mexican general who was executed during the 1914 revolution. She is en route to St. Louis from Albany, N. Y. Funeral services will be held from an undertaker's chapel at 5240 Delmar boulevard, probably on Tuesday afternoon, with interment in Bellefontaine Cemetery.

Man Held on Bad Check Charge.

A man giving his name as Joseph Carrigien, and who says he operated a concession at the World's Fair here, was arrested yesterday at request of Chicago police, who want him on a bad check charge.

REVELLE APPEARS FOR PRATHER IN BEER SCANDAL

Attorney Representing Former State Official Occupies Suite of Offices With Gus O. Nations.

BOTH NAMES ON DOOR OF OFFICE

Jacob L. Babler One of Three Sureties on $5000 Bond in Connection With Indictment.

Charles G. Revelle, formerly a Judge of the Missouri Supreme Court, appeared yesterday as attorney for Charles S. Prather, former State Food and Drug Commissioner, when Prather gave bond for $5000 under the indictment, returned by the Federal grand jury a week before, charging him with conspiracy to violate the prohibition law.

Revelle has his law office in room 1502 International Life Building. Gus O. Nations, chief of the Missouri Federal prohibition enforcement group, has his office in the same suite, and the door bears the names of Revelle and Nations.

Nations was in the law office when, a short time after the visit of Revelle and Prather to the Federal building, a Post-Dispatch reporter called up on a matter of information. Nations answered the telephone but would say nothing to the reporter. Revelle, when called to the telephone, said:

"Mr. Nations has never been associated with me in the practice of law, but he has the privilege of using this office. He is not in any way associated with me in the Prather case, and I know of no other attorney who is interested in that case. Mr. Nations has not been actively practicing law since he went into the enforcement work."

Several weeks ago, when Prather's name was first brought into the charges of "protection" of the illegal manufacture and sale of real beer by the Griesedieck brewery, it was announced that he had engaged Raymond E. La Driere as his counsel. La Driere has his law office in the suite with Spencer & Donnell, the law firm of which Senator Spencer is senior partner.

Nations' office at the Federal building adjoins the office of United States Commissioner Atkins, and Nations was there when Prather and Revelle first appeared before Atkins. The bondsmen who signed Prather's bond were Jacob L. Babler, Republican National Committeeman; George H. Hohmann, member of the Republican City Committee and an inspector of the Food and Drug Department; and Pickens M. Harper.

Nations raided the Griesedieck brewery Feb. 21, when a special force of investigators, looking into the "protected beer" reports, were about to raid the brewery. Following the raid, Raymond B. Griesedieck, an officer of the brewery, made a confession stating that he had paid Prather about $15,000 for protection. Griesedieck was indicted jointly with Prather.

ROCKEFELLER FOUNDATION AIDS GERMAN SCIENTISTS

Granted 194 Resident Fellowships to Young Medical Workers Last Year.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 19.—Dangers attendant upon the alarming decrease in the number of young medical scientists in Germany and other Central European countries, led the Rockefeller Foundation to grant 194 resident fellowships in medicine in Germany last year, George E. Vincent, president of the foundation, reported today.

"The plight of young medical scientists in Germany, especially, has become so critical," he declared, "that it has aroused the anxiety of the scientific world. German medicine has contributed so much to the common fund of knowledge and technique that the turning of large numbers of young medical investigators to other pursuits would sooner or later affect medical progress as a whole. Trustees have authorized the extension of this fellowship plan to other countries where similar conditions may be found."

The foundation spent $8,421,075 in 1923, Vincent said, of which more than $2,000,000 was used for combatting yellow fever, malaria and hookworm disease in 20 countries, principally those of Central and South America. Through the International Health Board, the campaign has become so effective, the report asserted, that no case of yellow fever was known last year in Mexico, Central America, Ecuador or Peru.

Fellowships were provided in 29 countries for 626 men and women who are preparing for teaching or administration work in public health, biology, chemistry and nursing. The foundation's contributions to institutions throughout the world aggregated more than $4,000,000.

GERRIT H. TEN BROEK.

FUNERAL OF G. H. TEN BROEK

Services for Former Dutch Vice Consul to Be Held Tomorrow.

Funeral services for Gerrit H. Ten Broek, attorney and former Vice Consul for the Netherlands, who was found dead at his home at 1104 Jackson place Friday morning, will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow with burial in St. Peter's Cemetery. Ten Broek, who was 65 years old, had been in ill health for some time suffering with heart disease.

Born in St. Louis and educated in St. Louis schools, he was active in many civic organizations and a widely-known social and church worker. He took an intense interest in Episcopalian home missions and other welfare work. Surviving him are his widow, Mrs. Ruby Gunther Ten Broek, a sister, Mrs. F. J. Langenberg, and a brother, Baarent Ten Broek, a candy manufacturer.

SLAYER OF NEGRO WORKMAN SURRENDERS AT CLAYTON

Ends 24-Hour Search by Police Since He Shot Fellow Laborer Friday at Clayburne.

John L. Gilman, 40 years old, who has been sought since early Friday for the fatal shooting of Zachariah Williams, a negro, in the yard of the Alton Brick Works at Clayburne Station on the Creve Coeur line, walked into the Sheriff's office at Clayton early yesterday and surrendered. He had evaded deputy sheriffs for almost 24 hours and when he surrendered Mrs. Pearl Jacaty, a deputy sheriff, was alone in the office. She booked him and placed him in a cell.

Gilman and the negro, both laborers at the brick works, were discussing signs reading, "No Negroes Wanted," which have been erected in certain Illinois towns. Witnesses said Gilman remarked, "They ought to have them here," and fired when Williams sought to end the conversation.

Gilman declared he fired in self-defense when the negro drew a knife. He is held without bond pending the issuance of a warrant.

$1783 PAYROLL THEFT IN COUNTY REPORTED

Three Men in Touring Car Escape After Holdup in Lay Road.

Three men in a large black touring car, without a rear license plate, fled with the $1783 payroll of the Rock Hill Crushed Stone Co., at 4 p. m., yesterday after holding up the paymaster, John Cox, on Lay road, a mile and one-quarter from Clayton, according to a report by Cox to the Sheriff's office.

He said he was driving south, after obtaining the money at a bank, toward the Manchester road. The plant is just off Manchester road, near the Rock Hill road.

The touring car crowded him to the side of the road, a mile and one-quarter from Clayton, and he stopped his automobile. There were no other machines on the road at the time, he said, and he was unaccompanied.

One man, with a handkerchief tied around his face and a revolver in his hand, was on the running board of the black car.

"Hand over that black bag and be quick about it," he said to Cox. He pointed the revolver at Cox's head as he spoke. Cox handed over the bag and the highwaymen drove south toward Manchester road. Cox went to a nearby telephone and called the Sheriff's office.

POKER PLAYER IS SLAIN IN FIGHT OVER GAME

Son of St. Louisan, Who Tried to Make Peace, Shot in Leg.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

IRONTON, Mo., April 19.—F. W. Bonnard was shot and killed in a fight over a poker game in his home, two miles from here, last night. He was playing with County Assessor W. H. Blue of Ironton and Clyde Forbis, 21 years old, who came here from the St. Francois County lead belt recently, according to reports.

Bonnard was said to have been bested in the game and drew a revolver, whereupon there was a scramble. Forbes drew a revolver, it is alleged, and fired several shots, one of which penetrated Bonnard's abdomen. He said he fired in self-defense. Blue, trying to make peace, was shot in the leg and was taken to a hospital at Bonne Terre.

Forbis was arrested on the scene and lodged in the Iron County jail. Blue is a son of William Blue of 1952A Clara avenue, St. Louis.

ASSAILS "UPLIFT" AS MENACE TO DRAMA

Former St. Louis Educator Urges Movement to Offset Attacks on the Theater.

"Down with the uplift" sounds like a good slogan to Clarence Stratton, formerly of Central High School and now director of English in the Cleveland public schools, he remarked in the course of a few "dramatic comments" yesterday at the Town club.

Stratton referred to the seemingly increasing tendency of "the uplift" to dictate that "if certain things go on the stage, then certain things must go off the stage." His injunction to an audience composed largely of school teachers was, "Unless we who are interested in the theater take a definite stand, it is possible for the authorities in the United States to choke this greatest of the arts."

His "comments" were on current dramatic literature and theatrical art in France, England, Russia and Central Europe, with a view to examining the sources of the "foreign invasion" of the American stage. He spoke of the Grand Guignol in Paris, where, he solemnly declared, women fainted and strong men hid their eyes. That incisive tone was softened for New York consumption, with, Stratton judged, no less shocking an effect upon audiences of "The Cat and the Canary" caliber.

England Strong for Jazz.

Although we may think this is the "jazz age" in the United States, we don't dance at all compared to the young things of England, he remarked, in considering "The Dancers," now in New York. This play, he said, was the effort of an Englishman to picture the "sink of iniquity" he believed England's youth was headed for, and was quite moving by virtue of a leading man who was accepted as a lover without looking, like a moron.

Notwithstanding that "The Outsider," another English play, is somewhat more serious, Stratton continued, it is meeting with success in New York. He remarked that the "outsider" was represented in England as a burlesque American, "probably from Chicago," and wondered what barbaric land he hails from in the New York production.

Milne as Barrie's Successor.

Stratton believed A. A. Milne might be the successor to Shaw and Barrie. In Milne's "Success," with a title suggestive of Galsworthy, a "dream" act like some of Barrie's, and ideas slightly Shavian, he thought he saw an indication that Milne might partake of the keenness of Shaw, the fanciful humor of Barrie and the critical perspective of Galsworthy.

The "foreign invasion," he believed, hardly could harm the American stage and might even help it. He concluded: "Just so long as the best plays have the longest run will people be willing to write and others to act them, and just so long will you be able to see them."

MAX GORDON ARRESTED AFTER TIP ON JEWELRY SHIPMENT

Friend of Greenburg Must Explain Possession of Gems Valued at $4200.

Max Gordon, friend of Max Greenburg of New York and St. Louis, was arrested at a Market street hotel yesterday afternoon in possession of $4200 worth of diamond jewelry which police believe he did not come by honestly.

Police had a tip that a package containing two diamond earrings and a diamond shirt stud had been sent to Gordon from Hot Springs, Ark. The information was correct. Gordon is held suspected of acting as a "fence" in the transaction.

It will be recalled that Gordon and Greenburg were fired upon by Egan gangsters when they and the gangsters were riding in different automobiles at Jefferson avenue and Locust street two years ago. Gordon was badly wounded, losing the sight of his right eye. Greenburg escaped. The Egan ites were accused of the attempt to murder Gordon and Greenburg because the latter was credited with having paid gunmen to kill their leader, Constable William Egan.

After Gordon's recovery he joined Greenburg under cover. Detectives have wired Hot Springs authorities to make a search for Greenburg there on the theory that Gordon's pal might have sent the diamonds.

D. A. R. CONGRESS ADJOURNED

Meeting Called Most Successful in History of Organization.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—The Thirty-Third Continental Congress of the Daughters of the American Revolution, characterized by its officers as one of the most successful for constructive work in the history of the society, closed today.

The immigration bill in Congress, with its provision for excluding Japanese, was indorsed in a resolution which was adopted without a dissenting voice, while other resolutions approved called for forest preservation and support of the Yorktown battlefield legislation in Congress and of the policy of Secretary Hughes with references to Soviet Russia. The society also voted to support President Coolidge's stand on the Permanent Court of International Justice. Easter greetings and flowers were sent to Mrs. Woodrow Wilson and Mrs. Warren G. Harding by action of the congress.

PINCHOT KICKED OFF G. O. P. SLATE IN PENNSYLVANIA

TOO FRIENDLY ALSO WITH HIRAM JOHNSON

His Only Chance Now of Going to Convention as Delegate Is to Run Independently.

Post-Dispatch Bureau
2033 Wyatt Building.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—President Coolidge has taken full revenge. Gov. Pinchot of Pennsylvania has been kicked off the G. O. P. organization slate for delegate to the Republican National Convention from the Keystone State. Ralph Beaver Strasburger of "Singer Millions" fame, and late convert from the camp of Hiram Johnson, has been substituted.

This dictum came after dark parleyings of Pennsylvania bosses, Senators Pepper and Reed and Representative William S. Vare, recognized G. O. P. commandant in Pennsylvania, being the principals. It not only means that Pinchot is to be ditched for delegate but that his political career in ended. When he leaves the Governor's chair, he becomes a free lance. The organization is through with him. Such is the sentence mated out, its made known—without direct quotation by the Pepper-Reed-Vare triumvirate today.

Causes of the Feud.

This is the outcome of the warfare that came to public notice first at the time of the coal strike last fall. The greatest flareup in the Coolidge-Pinchot feud was over prohibition, and the Governor's vehement charges of deliberate laxity on the part of the aministration, including Secretary Mellon.

Then there came a lull when Pinchot was silent. A truce had been arranged whereby Pinchot was to be put on the slate of delegates in return for his continued good behavior in so far as national politics is concerned.

The first organization frowns came when Pinchot rushed down here to see Hiram Johnson after the Californian announced his candidacy against Coolidge. There was an hour's talk. Pinchot and Johnson emerged with arms about each other's shoulders. "Merely a friendly visit," was the innocent explanation of what had taken place.

Reports of Understanding.

But thereafter came reports that an understanding had been reached whereby neither was to do anything to hurt the other's presidential ambitions. Johnson was not to go into Pennsylvania. Pinchot was not to campaign at all. When convention time came Pinchot was to support Johnson as long as Johnson had a chance. Then Johnson was to return the compliment by supporting Pinchot

TOO FRIENDLY ALSO WITH HIRAM JOHNSON

His Only Chance Now of Going to Convention as Delegate Is to Run Independently.

Post-Dispatch Bureau
2033 Wyatt Building.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—President Coolidge has taken full revenge. Gov. Pinchot of Pennsylvania has been kicked off the G. O. P. organization slate for delegate to the Republican National Convention from the Keystone State. Ralph Beaver Strassburger of "Singer Millions" fame, and late convert from the camp of Hiram Johnson, has been substituted.

This dictum came after dark parleyings of Pennsylvania bosses, Senators Pepper and Reed and Representative William S. Vare, recognized G. O. P. commandant in Pennsylvania, being the principals. It not only means that Pinchot is to be ditched for delegate but that his political career in ended. When he leaves the Governor's chair, he becomes a free lance. The organization is through with him. Such is the sentence meted out, as made known—without direct quotation by the Pepper-Reed-Vare triumvirate today.

Causes of the Feud.

This is the outcome of the warfare that came to public notice first at the time of the coal strike last fall. The greatest flareup in the Coolidge-Pinchot feud was over prohibition, and the Governor's vehement charges of deliberate laxity on the part of the aministration, including Secretary Mellon.

Then there came a lull when Pinchot was silent. A truce had been arranged whereby Pinchot was to be put on the slate of delegates in return for his continued good behavior in so far as national politics is concerned.

The first organization frowns came when Pinchot rushed down here to see Hiram Johnson after the Californian announced his candidacy against Coolidge. There was an hour's talk. Pinchot and Johnson emerged with arms about each other's shoulders. "Merely a friendly visit," was the innocent explanation of what had taken place.

Reports of Understanding.

But thereafter came reports that an understanding had been reached whereby neither was to do anything to hurt the other's presidential ambitions. Johnson was not to go into Pennsylvania. Pinchot was not to campaign at all. When convention time came Pinchot was to support Johnson as long as Johnson had a chance. Then Johnson was to return the compliment by supporting Pinchot to see if he could be put across.

No denials of that "understanding" were made. The Pepper-Reed-Vare arbiters considered it political treason by Pinchot. It was their supposed agreement with him that he was not only to keep his fingers out of the national pie but that he was to support Coolidge at the convention in case Coolidge looked like the candidate.

But no break with Pinchot was precipitated because the organization wanted to keep the outward semblance of Republican solidarity, and moreover, was loath to enter a fight with the Governor at the primaries.

And then came the overt act that brought war. Pinchot, it was discovered, was the one who had suggested that Senator Couzens employ Francis J. Heney as special ferreter out of the truth about conditions in the Internal Revenue Bureau. The G. O. P. diagnosticians instantly saw in this a plot to make untold political capital out of the prohibition unit's affairs. The Coolidge-Mellon messages warmly rebuking the Senate's "lawless" ways followed. The Pepper-Reer-Vare triumvirate called an executive session, and today came the verdict.

The Pennsylvania Slate.

Thus the G. O. P. slate will consist of these seven: Mellon, Reed, Pepper, Vare, Strassburger, W. Harry Baker, chairman of the State Committee, and Mrs. J. Willis Martin, who heads the women's organization. They are to be elected as "uninstructed delegates at large."

Vare's grip on the Pennsylvania machine is reputed to be as strong as the late Senator Boise Pearose's ever was. Hence Pinchot's chances of election, running independently in the primaries next Tuesday if he stays in the fight, are reported slim, if not actually negligible.

Listless Primary Enlivened by Break of Leaders With Pinchot.

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, April 19.—Gov. Pinchot's suggestion to Senator Couzens of Michigan that Francis J. Heney of California be appointed attorney in the Senate committee investigation of Treasury Department bureaus caused a break today in his support for Republican delegate-at-large to the Cleveland convention.

The listless primary campaign was enlivened by Congressman William S. Vare, one of the Republican leaders of Philadelphia, announcing his opposition to the Governor's candidacy and his support of Ralph Beaven Strassburger, wealthy publisher of Norristown. Strassburger four years ago supported Senator Johnson of California for the presidential nomination but is running for delegate-at-large as a Coolidge man.

Tonight it was said that Gov. Pinchot had nothing to say, but that he may issue a statement tomorrow.

The Governor is one of the seven slated candidates of the Republican State organization, his name being accepted by State leaders after a number of conferences in one of which the Governor took part. When State leaders pledged their support of Pinchot, Strassburger announced his candidacy against that of the Governor.

Congressman Vare, who has supported the Governor in many of his undertakings in the State administration, announced that "the action of the Governor in the Treasury investigation is "regarded by regular Republicans as an attack on Secretary Mellon and the Coolidge administration."

You lose money needlessly if your savings earn less than 6%

Can I always get my money back? Will I get as much as I paid? Will my dividends be regular? My savings cost too much in denial and work to be placed in any peril. They must earn as much as possible, but, above all, they must be safe. These are the meditations of every saver when he considers where to place his savings. How does Cahokia answer? Safe—super safe—for savings and a 6 per cent return. The reasons? Very strong, unusually strong reasons:

1 State regulation. There is no "water" in Cahokia. Water dilutes principal. There never can be any water in Cahokia, because its financing is under supervision of the Illinois Commerce Commission. Every dollar of Cahokia Preferred Stock is issued only by authority of that Commission. Every dollar of stock is backed by a dollar of income-producing property in Cahokia. The state lends safety to money invested in Cahokia.

2 Good Management. If management is good, it enhances the safety of both principal and return. The management of Cahokia is Union Electric Light and Power Co. That management has reduced rates for electricity in St. Louis to the lowest average among the 15 large cities of the country, while paying dividends to shareholders uninterruptedly for 17 years. Operating expenses are as low or lower than any other company in any large city, whose record is published. The men who operate Cahokia are St. Louisans. It is a management at work for you before your eyes every day.

3 Source of dividends. Cahokia will have a fixed, regular income from which dividends on Cahokia Preferred Stock will be paid. That fixed income is an annual rental paid by Union Electric Light and Power Co. It is a rental which Union Electric must pay before it pays interest on its own bonds or any return to its own shareholders. Perhaps the greatest element of the super safety of Cahokia Preferred Stock lies in this rental which must come as regularly as you must pay your house rent.

4 Can I get my money back? Few shareholders in Union Electric surrender their stock. They yield only to press of great emergency.

No one of 10,000 stockholders ever has been compelled to accept one cent less for his stock than he paid. Resale of it has been made without charge by this company's resale department. The same service without charge is being maintained for Cahokia Preferred Stock. Principal has maximum safety.

Cahokia offers all these advantages—you are losing money needlessly if your savings earn less than 6%.

PUT REPARATION REPORT IN EFFECT, M'DONALD URGES

British Premier Says Allies Should Accept Germany's Word and Admit Her to League.

VIEWS NATIONALISM WAVE AS MENACE

Declares Entente Policy Is Largely to Blame for Recent Rise of Movement in the Reich.

By the Associated Press.

YORK, England, April 19.—Take the reparation experts' report as a whole and put it into operation all at once with everybody back of it, was the course advocated by Prime Minister MacDonald in addressing a crowded labor meeting in the Theater Royal here today.

He urged that the allies accept Germany's word and he advocated her admission to the League of Nations as another step for bringing peace to the continent.

In urging unity among the allies in applying the plan outlined by the experts, MacDonald said it was clear from that document that if they went on for another two years carrying out the policy that had been practiced for two or three years, there would be no hope of relief, no hope of reparation and none for security or peace. To take the chance that now was offerred and put the plan into operation as a whole and then "go on and finish the job and bring peace and security to the continent" was what he cared about and what he was going to work for.

Views on Nationalism.

By letting Germany join the League of Nations they could complete the organization upon which probably would be founded the future peace of Europe. He regarded the rise of an extreme nationalism in Germany as a great menace—dangerous to Europe and deplorable for Germany. The policy of the allies, he said, was largely responsible for this rise of the Germdn nationalist movement.

He urged that the allied attitude be to accept Germany's word and he pointed out that the greatest danger Germany offered to Europe now was not the danger of arms but the danger of industrial deterioration.

MacDonald described his Government as a "human Government, a Government that has made mistakes, and is going to make mistakes."

"But," he went on, "it is a Government that considers first and foremost, how it can help undistinguished, orderly, hoping, striving men, women and children with human souls and with an appreciation of human duty and human rights."

Reference to "Socialist."

The Premier said the chairman of the meeting had frequently used the word "Socialist."

"He is a very rash man," commented the Prime Minister. "Does he not know that one of the few remaining hobgobblins of our youth is the word 'Socialist'? We have departed, nearly all of us now, from those delightful faiths that made us afraid to go out at night, and Mr. Churchill alone is striving to adapt Hans Andersen's stories to the intelligence and requirements of gray-haired or bald-headed men."

The Premier said he believed it was his duty to keep off general elections which nobody wanted. He saw no reason why there should be a general election for two or three years. It would take at least that time, he added, to put Europe on a peaceful footing and to get industrial relations established in anything like a normal way.

MEMORIAL TO VICTIMS OF MASSACRE PLANNED BY JAPAN

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

TOKIO, March 16.—A monument, to serve as a reminder to the Japanese people of the Nikolaievsk massacre of March 12, 1920, is to be erected in the compound of the Yasukuni Shrine in Tokio, the principal military shrine of the national cult, Shinto. It will be dedicated to soldiers and sailors of the Emperor who have lost their lives in action against a foreign foe.

More than 700 Japanese, half of them soldiers, and including the Japanese Consul, his family and his staff, lost their lives in the Siberian port of Nikolaievsk at the mouth of the Amur when Russian partisan bands claiming alliance with the Moscow soviet descended upon the town and masacred all who opposed them.

The Nikolaievsk monument will cost approximately $25,000. Its principal feature will be a bronze statue 13 feet high of a goddess of peace, at whose feet will kneel figures of a man and woman weeping. A monument typifying the perfect Japanese woman has been sought. The choice has fallen on Madam Takeko Kujo, accounted one of Japan's most beautiful women.

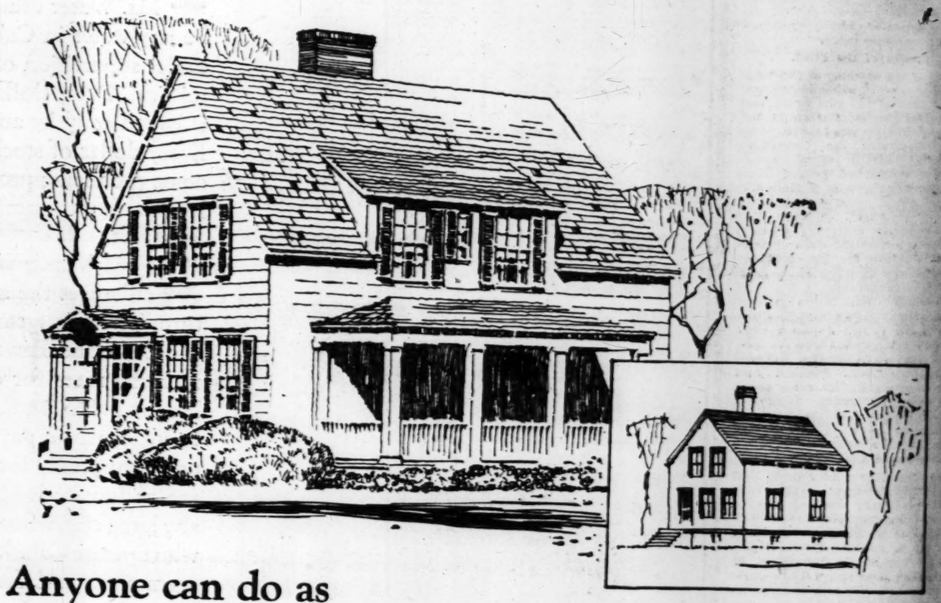
What my wife did with our old house—



Anyone can do as much—or more with the Barrett Book

OUR old house was anything but attractive. Well built of honest materials, it was in good condition—but completely out of date. We were discouraged too, because our funds were not sufficient to justify building a new house.

Then my wife sent for the Barrett Book

"Better Homes from Old Houses" solved our problem. We found in it a house almost identically like ours — with many illustrations showing just how it could be improved—easily and economically.

Our local builder did all the work

We called in the local builder and went over our plans with him. He started work right away. Almost before we knew it—and with very little inconvenience—our old house had been transformed into a modern, attractive home.

Get the Barrett Book yourself

DEMAR AG...

36-Year-Old Victor Sets New Record

His Time for Full Course of 26 Miles, 385 Yards, Betters Olympic Mark by 3 Minutes.

VETERAN ATHLETE HAS WON FOUR TIMES

First Five to Finish in Classic Event Will Be Named Members of the Olympic Team.

By Bert Whitman,
Sports Editor Boston Herald.

BOSTON, Mass., April 19.—Clarence H. Demar of Melrose, won today's American Marathon race from Hopkinton to Boston, the twenty-eighth annual run conducted by the Boston Athletic Association. His time, taken at the finish of the course of 26 miles 385 yards, opposite the B. A. A. Clubhouse, was 2h. 29m. 40 1-5s.

This performance set up a record for the course, which was lengthened nearly two miles this year in order to make the distance conform to that of the Olympic standard.

Demar's time broke the world's record for the accepted Marathon distance of 26 miles 385 yards. The best previous time for this distance was made in the Olympic run at Antwerp in 1920, 2h. 32m. 35 4-5s. The best previous American record was made by Zuna this year, 2h. 41m. 39 2-5s.

Wins Event for Fourth Time.

This year's victory makes Demar's record in the Boston Marathon one of the most astonishing in all athletic history. He won the event in 1911, breaking the record for the existing course. Eleven years later in 1922, he came back from retirement and won the event a second time, again breaking the record, which Zuna, meanwhile, had snatched from him.

Last year Demar repeated his victory in excellent time, and this year's performance, at the age of 36, is easily on a par with his record effort of 1921, when the distance was nearly two miles shorter.

Second place was won by Charles "Chuck" Mellor of the Illinois A. C., Chicago. Although he made a splendid bid for victory when the race was three-quarters over, Demar's pace was too strong for him and he was forced to finish nearly a mile behind the winner. Mellor's time was 2h. 35m. 4 3-5s.

Third place went to Frank E. Wendling of Buffalo, a young lad 19 years old, who last year won the Junior 5-mile cross-country championship. Wendling ran a well-judged race throughout the distance and was always among the leaders or within striking distance.

Frisco Runner Finishes Fourth.

Fourth place was won by William J. Churchill of the Olympic Club, San Francisco, who journeyed all the way across the continent to compete in this race and fight for a place on the American Olympic team. Wendling and Churchill finished a few yards apart.

Carl Linder of the Boston A. A. was fifth-place winner. Victor MacAuley of Windsor, N. B., took sixth place.

Inasmuch as the Olympic Committee planned to select the first six eligible men for the long distance team to compete abroad, all of these men, excepting MacAuley, the Canadian, are likely to be selected.

Frank Zuna, last year's second-place winner, who has won two other marathons within six weeks, quit the race while coming up the long hill near Boston College.

There was 140 runners facing the starting line at Hopkinton.

Summary of the first ten to finish:

Carpentier Signs To Meet Gibbons In 10-Round Bout

Articles Call for Fight to Take Place "Near Chicago" Late in May.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, April 19.—All controversies concerning Georges Carpentier's 1924 ring activities in the United States were definitely settled here this afternoon when articles were signed for a bout between Carpentier and Tommy Gibbons "near Chicago," on May 30 or 31.

The articles were signed by Jack Curley, New York promoter and American representative of Carpentier and Francois Descamps, the Frenchman's manager.

The agreement calls for a 10-round match. Other details were not revealed.

Providing the result of his match with Gibbons warrants, Carpentier may fight Gene Tunney, American light-heavyweight champion, in New York on July 4, according to Descamps.

Paul Fritsch, 1920 Olympic featherweight champion, will meet Sammy Handell of Rockford, Ill., in a preliminary to the Gibbons-Carpentier fight, according to plans made today. If victorious, Fritsch, who now does his batfiling in the lightweight class, may be matched with Benny Leonard in New York in July. Charley Ledoux, former European bantamweight champion, also will accompany Carpentier to America.

Curley, who arrived this morning on the Leviathan, said he would sail for the United States next Tuesday. Descamps left tonight to join Carpentier at Vienna where Georges meets Townley, an Englishman, on April 27.

Tigers Rout Shocker and Beat Browns

Two Homers by McManus and One by Jacobson Feature 7-to-4 Defeat—Sisler Fails to Hit Safely.

By Dent McSkimming,
Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.

DETROIT, Mich., April 19.—Urban Shocker failed completely in his efforts to mystify the hard-hitting Detroit Tigers here today, and before Manager Sisler could rush in a relief pitcher the Browns were so far behind that their task seemed hopeless. The Tigers won the first game of the series, 7 to 4.

Shocker, the only Brownie pitcher who had been able to defeat the Chicago White Sox, was slammed for a double by the first Detroit batter who faced him. In his brief tenure of 4 1-3 innings, he permitted seven hits and was responsible for seven runs. He had two good innings, the second and the fourth, just enough to raise a doubt as to whether he was "right" or not.

An optimist, by looking about most diligently, could discover a few things to enthuse over, even in defeat. Olen Voigt and George Lyons, the rookie pitcher who worked for the Browns after Shocker had retired, were very effective. They permitted a total of six hits in 3 2-3 innings, but were not scored upon.

Two Homers for McManus.

Furthermore, Marty McManus showed the first signs of recovering his batting eye. He was the hitting sensation of the day, for he drove the ball over the high left field wall for two home runs, and also obtained a double. Severeid, too, hit harder than he has in any game to date. He drove two line singles to left.

It was the failure of McManus, Severeid and Williams to hit that caused the Browns to drop three straight to the White Sox.

Kenneth Williams' absence from the line-up forced Manager Sisler to alter the batting order. He used Bennett in left field and made him the lead-off batter. He got on base only once.

Williams was out under orders of a doctor, who treated his back. The physician found a ligament in the left hip out of place and strapped the big fellow up and prescribed rest. It is expected that he will remain out of the game tomorrow also.

Tiger Infield Checks Rallies.

The fast fielding of the Detroit infield checked three Brown rallies and had a tremendous bearing on the final outcome of the game. It was not the superlative pitching of Lil Stoner that kept the Browns from scoring, for they hit him to all corners for 11 safe hits, including six extra-base wallops.

George Sisler, who went hitless for the first time since the season's opening, drove hard-hit balls into two double plays. This was especially disastrous in view of the terrific hitting streak McManus was in. Had Sisler's blow gone safe, McManus probably would have driven in several runs.

In the very first inning, Tobin beat out a slow roller to Del Pratt. Sisler sent a fast hopper to Rigney and the two Brownie runners were swept away in a double play.

Sisler Hits Into Double Play.

In the second, Jacobson, who is pounding the ball at a furious clip, slashed a double to left. Severeid then pulled a sharp grounder into Jones' mitts and a double play followed.

Sisler was again the victim of a double killing when, in the sixth, he gave Lu Blue a chance to execute a great defensive play. Tobin reached first on a walk. Sisler hit the first ball pitched toward first. Blue was coming in for a sacrifice bunt and he ran right into the fast bounder. He tossed to second, retiring Tobin, and hustled back to first in time to get Rigney's throw for a double play.

Detroiters think Lu Blue is the greatest first baseman in the business, and he comes pretty close to being that.

The Browns died with their boots on. They nibbled away at Detroit's lead by grace of two homers by McManus and then they took a man-sized bite out of it in the ninth. Sisler, opening the final inning, cut a hot grounder at Blue and was out at first. McManus got a great reception from the 21,000 spectators as he stepped to the plate. They wanted to see him hit another home run but the

Sox Leader Out Through Illness; His Successor

Frank Chance, named manager of the Sox this year, has just been ordered to California by his doctor. Evers will take his place, at least for a time. It is the second time Evers has succeeded Chance in the management of a team.

Ill Health Forces Chance to Retire; Evers Named White Sox Manager

Physician Orders Former "Peerless Leader" to Return to California to Recuperate From Attack of Bronchial Asthma—May Rejoin Club After He Recovers.

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 19.—By a strange twist of fate, Johnny Evers, famous as a player in the bygone days of the great four-time pennant-winning Chicago National machine, today succeeded Frank Chance as manager for the second time in his career, when appointed leader of the Chicago Americans.

Evers assumed charge of the Sox after Chance, who had been unable to join the club because of illness, was ordered to return to California to effect a cure of the bronchial asthma, which has bothered him since an attack of influenza last winter. Chance left for the coast tonight, going to Palm Springs, on the edge of the desert, where the dry atmosphere is expected to restore his health.

Place to Be Held Open.

He left with the assurance from Charles Comiskey, owner of the club, that the management of the White Sox will be held open for him; that he had been granted a leave of absence and could assume the direction of the club as soon as his health permitted. Chance said he would return when he could.

The order for Chance to return to California was given by Dr. Philip Kreuscher, Comiskey's personal physician. While the physician indicated that Chance was in no immediate danger, he said the climate in Chicago was not conducive to improvement of his condition.

Evers Again Succeeds to Throne.

The fiery Evers, called the "Crab of baseball," succeeded Chance once before, assuming the management of the Cubs after "Hank O'Day," the veteran umpire, had failed to fill Chance's shoes satisfactorily.

When Chance was appointed manager of the White Sox, a position he had coveted for years, his first act was to sign Evers as his assistant. Evers has been in charge of the club since the spring training began in February. Chance was unable to report, due to an attack of influenza, and when he arrived here a week ago he contracted a severe cold. He failed to respond to treatment and went to a hospital for two operations for sinus infection.

Chance regarded the White Sox as the most promising team he had been identified with since the days when he was manager of the old Chicago Cubs.

CUBS DEFEAT REDS, 2—1, IN SERIES OPENER

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CINCINNATI, April 19.—The Cubs defeated the Cincinnati Reds, 2 to 1, in the opening game of the series here today. Jacobs and Donohue hurled great ball and each was accorded splendid support.

Chicago was able to garner but four hits off the offerings of Donohue, but two of them were triples and in each case the runner finally scored.

Caveney's two-bagger in the eighth inning drove in the Reds' only tally.

HUBBARD BROAD JUMPS OVER 25 FEET IN OHIO STATE RELAY CARNIVAL

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., April 19.—Michigan, Ohio Wesleyan, Otterbein, Michigan State Normal and Lakewood (O.) High took down the major honors in their respective divisions in the inaugural of the Ohio relays today in the Ohio Stadium. The meet, sponsored by the Ohio State University, was marked by high class team and individual performances, despite rather unfavorable weather conditions.

Individual honors were shared by Capt. Snyder of Ohio State, Frieda of Chicago and Hubbard, Michigan's sensational jumper. Snyder won first honors in the pentathlon, while Frieda finished first in a field of 13 weight men who competed in the triathlon. Hubbard took first in the hop, step and jump. In an exhibition broad jump he leaped 25 feet 2⅝ inches.

Michigan State Normal won all three of the college open relays—the 880-yard, four-mile and two-mile events. Ohio Wesleyan runners copped the sprint relay and the mile and distance medley relays for the larger Ohio colleges and universities. Oberlin won the two-mile event for the larger Ohio Conference schools and was runner-up in the mile and distance medley.

Otterbein won three of the four relays for the smaller Ohio Conference colleges. Lakewood High won the mile and medley relays for the larger high schools of the State.

ALONZO BROTHERS BEAT WILLIAMS-WASHBURN

Maranville's Triple Is Deciding Punch in Great Fielding Game

Rickeymen Turn First Triple Play of Season in Fifth Inning, in Addition to Making Four Two-Ply Killings.

By Herman Wecke,

Walter Maranville's three-base wallop to the center field fence, which came with two men on the bases and two out in the ninth inning, broke up a sensational fielding duel between the Pirates of Pittsburg and Cardinals at Sportsman's Park yesterday. The final score was Pittsburg 4, Cardinals 2.

The 6000 persons who turned out to see the Cardinals suffer their fourth successive defeat were treated to one fielding thrill after another. It was the brilliant work on the defense by both clubs and not tight pitching that held the score down.

While the Cardinals lost, they turned the real fielding thriller of the afternoon. It came in the form of a triple play, the first of the season, in the fifth inning. In addition to this, there were six two-ply killings, four by the Cardnals, as well as several brilliant individual performances.

Bell Starts Triple Play.

That triple play for the Rickeymen came when the club was expecting a bunt. Meadows opened the fifth with a single and Maranville was safe on his intended sacrifice when Hornsby dropped Bottomley's throw. The Cardinals played Carey for a bunt and it was this alone that enabled them to turn the three-ply killing, as Bell, who started the play, was close to second base, ready to take a throw.

Carey crossed the Cardinals. He did not bunt. He belted away at the first one and the result was a liner over second base. Lester Bell grabbed the ball, stepped on second and easily doubled Meadows, who had started for third. Maranville was on his way to second and Bell's throw to Bottomley easily turned him back. Thus was a play for a sacrifice broken up with a three-ply killing.

It was just an inning before this that a similar play was turned into a two-ply death by the same Bell. The Corsairs had two on and none out with Barnhart up. A bunt seemed the logical thing and that's what the Rickeymen expected. As a result, when Barnhart belted one, the young shortstop had to move only a few feet to pick up the hard rap, step on second to force Traynor and toss to Bottomley to double Barnhart. The other three double plays for the Cardinals came in regular manner.

Maranville and Bigbee Star.

There were at least three plays that stood out on defense as regards the Pirates. Two of these were turned by Rabbit Maranville, the man who finally broke up the game and the other by Carson Bigbee in left field.

Maranville's first star play came in the third, when with Jack Smith on second, Hornsby started one for right field. Maranville went over back of first, scooped up the ball with his gloved hand and Hornsby beat the throw only by inches. Had the ball gotten through, Smith easily would have scored.

Bigbee came into the limelight in the fifth. After two were out, Smith singled and Hornsby walked. Bottomley picked on the first one and started a liner to left center. Bigbee tore over with all his speed, and he is one of the fastest outfielders in the league, and grabbed the ball while on the full run. Had it gotten away it would have gone for at least three bases and two runs would have tallied.

Then came Maranville again in the role of the villain. This time it was Max Flack who suffered. The Rabbit took his drive near first base in the seventh with one hand and tossed him out by inches. That play saved a lot of trouble as a double and two singles followed. Glenn Wright, the new shortstop for the Pirates also made several good plays. In fact, it was Wright who started both of the Corsairs' double killings.

Pitchers Are Batted Hard.

As a result of this sensational fielding both Lee Meadows and Jeff Pfeffer were able to go the route. This in spite of the fact that the former Cardinal right-hander allowed 11 hits, while 13 were made off Pfeffer.

The Rickeymen got off in front. Flack started with a single, but was forced by Smith. Jack stole

GREB HITS NORFOLK AFTER BELL IN SIXTH AND LOSES ON FOUL

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, April 19.—Kid Norfolk of New York, negro light heavyweight, won from Harry Greb, middleweight champion, on a foul in the sixth round of their scheduled 10-round bout here tonight. The boxers engaged in an unofficial fight when Greb struck Norfolk after the bell had rung, ending the round.

No championship was involved in the bout, which was at catchweights. Norfolk outweighed Greb by about 10 pounds.

From the outset Greb and Norfolk fought viciously, hitting and clinching, but doing little boxing. From time to time each held the other's head and delivered savage punches with the free hand. In the second round, Norfolk pushed the middleweight champion through the ropes.

Just after the bell sounded ending the sixth round, Greb landed a wild swing to the head and the two boxers flew at each other, swinging furiously. The referee vainly tried to separate them, the seconds joined in the fray and the scene in the ring resembled a battle royal. A pop bottle contributed by a spectator landed harmlessly on the canvas as the boxers were forced to their corners, and the bout was awarded to the negro.

VIERHELLER ROLLS TO LEAD IN ALL EVENTS OF CITY PIN TOURNEY

"Hap" Vierheller went into first place in the city handicap bowling team on the Washington alleys last night with a total of 1909 for the nine games. Vierheller counted 693 in the five-man, 608 in the doubles and 608 in the singles.

F. Graessle and A. Rothwell, with a handicap of 63 pins, went into fifth place in the doubles with a 1254 score. It was the only 1200 score of the evening. Vierheller and Meyer, the scratch team, totalled 1162.

In the singles, P. Ewald took second place with a total of 685. This included a 60-pin handicap. A. C. Stine, 665, went into sixth position. A. Heitrich and F. Graessle totalled 656 and F. Martin 652.

Exercising an Option Is Easier for Baseball Managers Than Exercising the Brains

Records Fall in All but Three Events, at Kansas Relay Games; Pikers Figure in the Scoring

Blanchard, Mitchell, Hagemàn and the Relay Team Count Points for Washington—Celebrated Indian Athlete Fails to Compete Because of Injury.

By Associated Press.

LAWRENCE, Kan., April 19.—Records fell fast and thick at the second annual University of Kansas relays here today. Starting with the finals in the first event, records went all the way along the line, in both track and field events.

One intercollegitae record was broken when Texas University in the medley relay won the event in 7m. 36 2-10s. The old record was 7m. 45 5-10s.

The track was exceptionally fast and the day warm. No team or individual points were scored.

Occidental College of Los Angeles made a clean sweep of the college class relays and established new meet records in all. The Pacific Coast team, running spectacular races, also broke into the University class races, winning the 440-yard University relay.

Another team from the far West broke into the winning column when the Oregon Aggies won the four-mile University relay in 18m. 46 3-10s., establishing a new meet record for the event.

Iowa Noses Out Dartmouth.

Dartmouth, the only Eastern team, was nosed out in the one-mile University relay by the fast-stepping team of the University of Iowa. Only three meet records escaped fracture and one of these was equaled.

Jones of Depauw University added more than 2½ feet to the meet record for the broad jump when he won with a leap of 24 feet 6¾ inches. Graham of Kansas held the meet record of 22 feet.

Crawford of Iowa won the 120-yard high hurdles and placed second in the 220-yard low hurdles in which Stanford of Burleson College established a new record for the meet. Stanford placed third in the 120-yard high hurdles event.

Tom Poor of the University of Kansas added 3¾ inches to his record of last year by leaping 6 feet, 4 inches, just an inch higher than Turner of Nebraska.

Indian Star Fails to Compete.

John Levi of Haskell Institute, declared to be the greatest Indian athlete since Thorpe, and who was expected to show well in the meet, was suffering an injured ankle and was unable to compete.

The only records of the meet not broken were for the 440-yard relay and the one-mile university relay and the 120-yard high hurdles. The latter record was equaled, however, by Crawford of Iowa.

The attendance was estimated at 5000.

second. Hornsby lined to Barnhart. Bottomley started one for right field that looked foul by many feet. However, the wind carried the ball safe and it fell in right for a single and Smith tallied.

After Traynor, first up for the Pirates, walked in the second, a dust storm put an end to activities for 15 minutes. When play resumed Barnhart singled to right on the hit and run, and Traynor tallied when Wright was forcing Barnhart.

The teams went that way until the fourth. Then Bigbee with a 3—1 count bunted safely and Traynor coaxed his second pass. Barnhart hit into a double play, but Wright's double tallied Bigbee.

Bottomley Drives Smith Over.

The Cardinals tied it in the seventh. After Maranville had turned his circus play against Flack, Smith doubled. Hornsby struck out, but Bottomley singled Smith across.

That way the teams went into the final round. Wright opened with a single and stole. Grimm lined deep to Mueller, but Schmidt hit one that landed on the left chalk line for a safety. Meadows struck out. Up walked Maranville. He worked the call to 3 and 2 and then hit over Mueller's head in center for three bases. Two runs were over and the Cardinals had dropped their fourth straight.

Flack opened the home half with a triple, but he never scored. Smith and Hornsby popped to the infield. Bottomley walked, but the ever ready Maranville, who looks just as good at second as he ever did at short, picked up Freigau's grounder and threw him out to end the game.

Stuart and Morrison Today.

During the nine rounds, the Pirates put 20 men on the sacks and scored four runs, while for the Knot Holers, 18 reached first and only two tallied. All of which makes it look like tight pitching prevailed. But in reality it was the tighest kind of defensive play that has been witnessed in man ya day.

Johnny Stuart and Johnny Morrison, a pair of right-handers, are scheduled to work in the second game of the series this afternoon. Play at 3 o'clock.

Jacobson Hits Home Run.

Jacobson followed with a colossal wallop over the left center field fence for a home run. The fans quit begging for home runs. Severeid kept up the attack with a single to left. Sisler sent McMillan in to run for Severeid and Gerber tried hard to bring him around. He failed on a foul to Bassler. Gene Robertson, who relieved Ellerbe at third base, brought the rally to a close when he forced McMillan at second.

It is barely possible that a bit of strategy by Tyrus Cobb may have saved the situation for Detroit in that hectic ninth. Stoner was evidently weakening. When three hits in a row made the Browns look dangerous, Cobb trotted in from center field and held up the game for several minutes before permitting Stoner to pitch to Gerber. He pretended to be debating whether he should remove the pitcher from the box but there is a suspicion that his object was merely to give Stoner a brief rest in order that he might settle down. At any rate, Stoner did settle down and he made Gerber foul out. Tyrus Raymond will do a lot of things to win a ball game.

Dave Danforth will probably pitch for the Browns tomorrow. Preparations are being made to care for a capacity crowd at Navin Field. Baseball interest is running high in Tygertown this year.

KANSAS NET TEAM WINS MATCH FROM ILLINOIS

By the Associated Press.

LAWRENCE, Kan., April 19.—The University of Kansas tennis team won two of three tennis matches in a dual meet with the University of Illinois here today.

Singles — Rogers of Kansas won from Capt. Goodwillie of Illinois, 6-3, 3-6, 6-2. Capt. Glaskin of Kansas defeated Dubach of Illinois, 7-5, 1-6, 6-2.

Doubles—Goodwillie and Dubach defeated Rogers and Glaskin, 7-5, 6-2.

No Wonder He Looks Anxious With His Team Slipping

GEORGE SISLER

Up to yesterday's game Sisler was leading his team in batting with an average of .444. Yesterday the effect of three straight defeats apparently got on his nerves and he failed to get a safety in four tries, cutting his batting average for the season to .364.

Firpo Gives Reasons for Never Having Real Manager to Handle Ring Affairs

Suspicion Against Them Was Deep Rooted Even Before He Arrived in the United States.

THIS is the fifth article of the Firpo series. In it the wild Bull of the Pampas tells why he has never signed a contract to have a regular manager handle his affairs. From the article, it would appear that Firpo disliked managers even before he came to the United States.

By Luis Angel Firpo.
(As Told to Alfred Mayer.)

(Copyright, 1924.)

CHAPTER V.

THE sudden acquisition of wealth did not change Firpo to any great extent. With the exception of buying an automobile, Firpo practically led the same life as he did when he did not know where his next meal was coming from. If anything, he became shrewder. He realized what his name was worth to a promoter and he acted accordingly.

Firpo has attracted almost as much attention as a business man as he has as a boxer. That he was a remarkable business man there is no doubt, but he has frequently demonstrated that he was not the great business expert that he has been given credit for.

For instance, it was not until he fought Willard that Firpo would consider a percentage basis. He preferred to fight for a flat guarantee. It took months to convince him that he would receive a far larger sum of money by fighting on a percentage basis than receiving a flat guarantee.

Firpo cannot be entirely blamed for this. Other men have shown similar lack of foresight. The best illustration in this respect is when Jack Kearns took a guarantee of $300,000 for Dempsey to fight Carpentier and refused to fight on a percentage basis. Had Kearns accepted the percentage offered him for that match he would have received nearly double his guarantee.

Firpo Quick to Learn.

WHEN Firpo learned the value of percentage, and he was quick to learn, he endeavored to obtain both a guarantee and a percentage. In many cases he was able to do this. Is it to be wondered at that Firpo today looks on offers of $200,000 with indifference and wonders whether a percentage wouldn't bring him twice that amount?

Have prize-fighters a sense of humor? Many of them have, but Firpo's is as unique as is he himself. I do not know whether it could really be called a sense of humor. Certain it is that many would fail to appreciate the humor. I have explained in these articles how many of Firpo's opponents finished in the hospital after encountering the "Wild Bull of the Pampas" in the ring. Somehow, this seemed to have amused Firpo. It is a well-known fact that boxers frequently talk to one another while in the ring. And some of the remarks they hurl at each other during the progress of a bout are very often anything but complimentary.

One day Firpo gave me a Spanish sentence which, translated into English, read: "I am going to send you to the hospital." For hours Firpo repeated this sentence until he thoroughly mastered it.

"Why do you want to learn that particularly?" I asked him. Firpo smiled, then replied. "Many boxers talk to me when we are in the ring. I don't know what they are talking about, of course, but I was thinking that the next time a boxer talks to me while we are in the ring, I am just going to repeat that sentence. I think that will stop all further conversation during the bout."

Always His Own Manager.

FIRPO is the only famous boxer who actually managed all his own affairs. He has been criticised time and again because he didn't take a manager. Business men of repute have approached him and offered to look after his affairs, pointing out to him the enormous amount of money they could earn for him.

To all of these offers Firpo's reply invariably has been NO. Why? There are several reasons.

First, Firpo has really never placed his entire confidence in anyone. He remembers the days, not so far off, when he was no one in particular and the many times so-called friends have taken advantage of him. Firpo obtained his business knowledge tramping throughout South America, when he sold drugs and boxing gloves, rushing from one country to another making a living in exchange rates. The suspicion of managers was deep rooted long before he came to America. Besides he took particular pride in his business ability, which was second only to that of his great strength.

Would-be managers became enthusiastic when they explained to Firpo the vast fortunes they had made for other boxers. They pointed with pride to the fact that all great boxers had managers; Bob Fitzsimmons, Jack Johnson, Jim Jeffries, Jim Corbett, in fact, all of them. Firpo listened. It is one of the things he does best. At the end of these discourses, Firpo, neither impressed nor otherwise, and the managers would depart. They returned and persisted in their endeavors, but Firpo remained his own manager. Frequently he would discuss the question of managers with his friends.

Talks About Boxing.

"DO not want a manager," Firpo said. "They tell me about Fitzsimmons, Johnson, Corbett, Jeffries and others but none of these men have fortunes today because of the efforts of their managers. Fitzsimmons died practically penniless. Johnson is the leader of a jazz band. Corbett is on the stage and Jeffries is a bankrupt. When Luis Angel Firpo retires he will never have to dance the tango for a living. There will be plenty in the bank to keep him in comfort for the rest of his days."

When not in training Firpo likes to spend his time at home. He enjoys talking about boxers and their work, not only in the heavyweight class, but in all classes. His apartment is filled with photographs of boxers and clippings describing some of their best fights. He likes his friends to drop in and talk to him. He never tires of reading the papers from his own country. He discusses everything in them, all the leading political questions in which he is interested and points with great pride to pictures of notables in the papers whom he has personally met.

Outside of these things, Firpo takes no other amusement. He never goes to the theater, not because he doesn't understand English, but not even when he is in Buenos Aires. He never cares for moving pictures, but enjoys talking about the moving picture industry because he believes that a day is coming, not far distant, when he will be as well known as an actor as he is as a pugilist. Like many of us Firpo believes he shines in practically every profession but the one in which he really does shine—pugilism.

RUTH BANISHED AFTER FANNING; YANKEES LOSE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—Miller Huggins' star pitching staff had a tough time today aaginst the Senators. Pennock, Sam Jones and Waite Hoyt all looked alike to the Griffmen. The Senators romped in rather easily wit ha 7-to-2 victory.

Joe Martina, the recruit from the New Orleans club, held the Yanks safe throughout. Maid fanned Ruth on three pitched balls in the fifth inning and, after walking a batter, also fanned Pip and Ward.

The last strike was called on Ruth who threw his bat in the air and was banished from the park by Umpire Evans.

Fengler Enters Auto Derby

By the Associated Press.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 19.—the entry of Harlan Fengler, youngest driver in the A. A. A., in the annual 500-mile automobile race to be held at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway May 30, was announced today. Fengler won his first fame in California several months ago when he established a world's record for 250 miles, his average being 116 miles an hour. He originally came from Chicago, but has lived in California for some time.

Rally in Ninth Enables Pikers To Defeat Ames

Levy, Beaten in Friday's Game, Comes Back and Gains 4—3 Victory.

A two-run rally in the ninth inning enabled the Pikers to win the second Conference game from Iowa State College here yesterday afternoon by a 4-to-3 score. Charley Levy, Piker pitcher who was beaten by Ames in Friday's contest, went to the hill again yesterday and held the Iowans to four hits, all of them singles.

Leavy had only one bad inning, the fourth, when three hits, a walk and a couple of errors gave Ames three runs. Levy was complete master of the situation in the other eight innings. He walked five men, but redeemed himself with eight strike-outs. He also got the only extra base hit of the game, a hard drive to center field for two bases.

The Pikers looked like a beaten ball team when they went to bat in the last half of the ninth with the score 3 to 2 against them. Clausen, Ames hurler, had been pitching effective ball and had permitted Coach Davis' players only four hits. Gragg opened the inning with a single to left. Thym saerificed and Walsh walked.

Cox Comes Through With Hit.

Cox, who bats last in the Piker batting order, was the next man up. The little shortstop had been to bat six times in the two games and had not hit the ball out of the infield, so the second-guessers figured that a pinch-hitter would take his place. But Coach Davis made no change, and after fouling off the first pitch, Cox singled to center, scoring Gragg with the tieing run. Centerfielder George, who fielded the ball, tried to catch Walsh going to third, but his throw was bad and Walsh came in with the winning run.

The Pikers scored their first run in the first inning without getting a hit. Cheatham walked and went to second on a wild pitch. He went to third when Roberts' roller was fumbled, and scored when Levy reached first on another error.

Cyclones Score Three Runs.

The visitors had their big inning in the third. Successive singles by Fisher, Jacobson and C. Towne, a base on balls and two infield errors gave the Cyclones three runs before the side was retired.

The Pikers scored their other run in the seventh. Thym singled and stole second. Walsh walked, and both runers advanced when the double steal worked. Thym then scored as Cox was being thrown out at first.

The fielding feature of the game was a double play executed by Ames in the third inning. Cheatham was on third by virtue of an error and Roberts' single. Mudd then filed to George, whose return caught Cheatham trying to score after the catch.

Fall River Defeats Abbot Worsted in American Cup Game

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

FALL RIVER, Mass., April 19.

FALL RIVER F. C., national soccer champion, defeated the Abbot Worsted F. C., of Forge Village, Mass., in the semi-final of the American Cup competition at Coats Field, Pawtucket, R. I., today by the score of 4-1. The wind interfered with the play from start to finish.

Fall River scored on a penalty kick in the first half and Abbots evened in the second half with a goal scored when the wind caused the ball to take a course that baffled Goalie Kerr of the champions.

The teams played an overtime session of 30 minutes, Fall River scoring three goals in the second 15-minute period. Brittain tallied two goals in this session and Morley counted the third. The penalty kick was scored by McPherson in the first half. Dundas scoring for the Abbots in the second half.

CAPTAIN OF CHINESE DAVIS CUP TEAM WAS WITH COLLEGE SQUAD

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BOSTON, April 19.—W. Lock Wei, captain of the Chinese Davis Cup team, is in Boston. He is an American Oriental. He has played on the Massachusetts Institut eof Technology tennis team and on that of Cambridge, England. Wei will have for his partners in the Davis Cup play Ng Sze Kwong, Hooi Hye and S. C. Wu. Kwong is the champion of Hongkong; Hye is the champion of Singapore, and Wu has been a resident of England for some time. Wei has just arrived in this country from Shanghai.

Wei says that the members of the team will meet in England early next month. They are planning an immediate opening of their campaign, the players to enter any of the English tournaments previous to Wimbledon. They are also planning on playing in the English classic and then crossing to France and the Olympic games. They hope to become quickly acclimated, more particularly because of the fact that tennis is played on turf in China. The quartet will come to America after the Olympics for their first round match with the Australians.

St. Louis Soccer Team Wins Over Kansas City 4-2

Schumachers Play Brilliant Intercity Game—McGuire Scores Twice.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 19.—That part of Kansas City which found its way to Tramway Park yesterday saw all the action that can be hoped for in 90 minutes. They saw soccer football in all its glory, and saw the St. Louis Schumachers defeat the Kansas City Stars, 4 goals to 1.

Onlookers at the start of the contest were transformed into rabid fans of the popular European game before the final whistle sounded.

The St. Louis team, a well-trained machine, proved more than superior to the All Stars. The forward line of the visiting eleven time and again brought a crescendo of applause from the sidelines. The lack of teamwork was noticeable in the Kansas City eleven, players of which have played together but little. Bayer, Gross and McGann of St. Louis played brilliantly, defensively, as well as offensively, while J. Jeffries, Gillespie, Talt and Bruce were the "shining lights" of the Kansas City team.

In the preliminary game Franklin and Manchester schools played a scoreless tie.

Tomorrow the Karting Team, champions of Kansas City, will play the St. Louis team.

RED SOX PILE UP TEN RUNS IN ONE INNING

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BOSTON, Mass., April 19.—Wet grounds prevented the morning and afternoon games between the Red Sox and the Athletics, but this afternoon 27,000 fans braved chilling winds and saw the Hose Sox smash the Macks, 12 to 4, with "Ace" Howard Ehmke holding the visitors to five hits.

The issue was settled in the second when the Fohls fell on Ehmke. Hasty, erased him and then did a similar harking to Sam Gray, while Roy Meeker, a kid southpaw, finished the inning that netted Boston 10 runs.

The outfielding of Strand, Wilson, Flagstead and Boone were the defensive features of a game which saw the Sox hit 16 safeties for 20 bases.

Yeatman Defeats Soldan, 11 to 1; McKinley Noses Out Cleveland, 6-5 In First High School League Tilts

1923 Champions Settle Issue by Scoring Eight Runs in First Inning in Game With West Enders—Heil and Hobbs Engage in Hurling Duel.

The High School League baseball season opened yesterday afternoon at High School Field with Yeatman High, present champion, overwhelming Soldan, 11-1, and McKinley High nosing out Cleveland 6-5. These games were the first of the new schedule, drawn up by the League Athletic Board and in which Central High was not included. Because of Central's withdrawal from the league, all teams played yesterday, instead of one drawing the bye as was formerly the case.

In what was expected to be the feature game, Yeatman started by collecting eight runs in the first inning, assisted by Soldan errors. Coach Stanley Hill's champions hit hard and more than batted around. After this trying period Soldan tightened and held the North Siders scoreless for the next four innings. Yeatman counted two more runs in the sixth stanza and added another in the eighth inning. Christenson, Soldan shortstop, accounted for his team's lone tally, with a home run in the fourth inning.

Heil and Hobbs Hurl Well.

The curtain raiser between McKinley and Cleveland was featured by the stellar hurling of the rival pitchers, Heil and Hobbs. Both pitched well throughout, but were very poorly supported. McKinley got the jump on Fenenga's boys by scoring four runs in the second period, and adding a single tally in the third and eighth innings. Coach Carlson's men, however, missed several good chances to score.

Cleveland tied the score in the eighth, but was unable to hold the McKinley sluggers.

Cleveland outhit McKinley, but was unable to bunch the safeties at the right time. Fenenga's team showed up well in view of the fact that the team is composed almost entirely of unseasoned men.

Next Saturday, Cleveland opposes Soldan and McKinley meets Yeatman in the second round.

High Jump Stars To Try for New Record at Drake

Osborne and Brown Have Been Doing Well in Practice—Four Special Events.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DES MOINES, Ia., April 19.— Four special events, in which athletes of national reputation will compete, hold outstading positions on the progra mof the fifteent hannual Drake University relay meet which will bring approximately 1500 university, college and high school athletes from coast to coast here, April 25-26.

Charles Paddock, world's champion sprinter, will show in dash events on both days of the meet. On Friday afternoon, the California flash will race a special 100-yard dash against a picked field of rivals. On Saturday, Paddock will participate in a 125-yard dash.

On Friday, a special 440-yard low hurdle race will bring together a great galaxy of stars, including Brookins, Coulter and Crawford of Iowa, Taylor of Grinnell, Layton of Nebraska, Patterson of Drake, and others.

New Record Expected.

Harold Osborne of Illinois and Leroy Brown of Dartmouth will attempt to lower the world's record of 6 feet 7 5-16 inches in the high jump in a special event carded for Friday afternoon. Both have been clearing the bar at 6 feet, 7 inches in practice recently, and they stand an even chance of establishing a new world's mark at the Drake classic.

A special quarter-mile race in which Wolters of Ames, Wilson of Iowa, Fitch of Illinois and Hagen of Northwestern will compete, will be another stellar attraction. These athletes are considered the best in the West today at this distance, and they should stage a great race.

The hop-step-and-jump, which is a new event on the Drake program this year, will bring out a strong field of contenders, including Dehart Hubbard of Michigan, the national senior champion; Max Keeble of Missouri, the national junior champ, and Sam Orebaugh of Drake.

Work now being completed on the quarter-mile stadium track indicates it will be lightning fast for the meet, provided the weather is anywhere near right.

SCOTCH LEAGUE.

GLASGOW, April 19.—Results of games played in the Scottish Football Association today were:

Motherwell 2, Third Lanark 2; Patrick Thistle 3, Hearts 1; St. Mirren 4, Ayr United 0; Aberdeen 2, Kilmarnock 0; Clyde 3, Rangers 1; Clydebank 0, Dundee 0; Falkirk 1, Queenspark 3; Hamilton A. vs. Hibernians, unplayed; Morton 2, Raith 0.

Half of Entry Fee In Irish Tennis Events Used to Buy Prizes

IRELAND, for the past two years a competitor in the Davis Cup competition, has a lawn tennis association similar to the governing body in England. The objects of the Irish Lawn Tennis Association are "to control and advance the interests of lawn tennis in Ireland and to arrange international, inter-provincial and other matches."

A very commendable rule of the Irish L. T. A. reads as follows: "The money and/or the prizes shall not be less than 50 per cent of the gross entry fees and no first prize shall exceed $100 in singles and $50 in doubles."

With the exception of J. C. Parke, the veteran Davis Cup player, Ireland has not produced an international star within recent years. Nearly 30 years ago, however, Ireland was represented by such stars as Dr. Joshua Pim, F. O. Stocker, T. Chaytor and D. G. Chaytor, among the best in the British Isles. Dr. Pim was both English and Irish champion and visited the United States twice during his tournament career.

CHESS PLAYERS GET SPECIAL PRIZES

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, April 19.—Richard Reti of Czecho-Slovakia, exponent of the fianchetto, the newest idea in chess, tonight was awarded the first brilliancy prize for his game against Eldfin Bogoljubow of Ukrania, in the twelfth round of the international tournament which ended Thursday.

Frank Marshall of New York, United States champion, won the second brilliancy award for his game against Bogoljubow. Capablanca of Cuba, world's champion, received the third brilliancy prize for his game against Dr. Emanuel Lasker, winner of the tournament.

Special awards for well-played games by contestants who did not share in the five money prizes, were given to Dr. Savielly Tartakower, Austria, Bogoljubow, Ed Lasker of Chicago and Gesa Marroczy of Hungary.

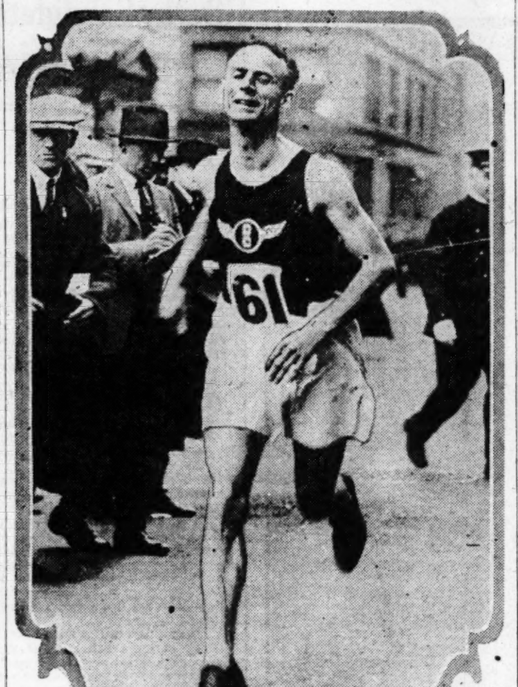
COLUMBIA WANTS TO FORM COLLEGE LEAGUE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, April 19.—Advocating that the present members of the Intercollegiate Basketball League—Columbia, Cornell, Dartmouth, Princeton, Penn and Yale —and Harvard organize a baseball league, the Columbia Spectator has launched in its editorial columns a campaign for the formation of the Eastern Intercollegiate Baseball League.

The paper points out that four minor sports—basketball, fencing, swimming and water polo—are thoroughly organized, making for financial success and greater interest in the contests, while baseball is not.

Four-Time Winner of Marathon



CLARENCE DEMAR

The 36-year old Melrose athlete who yesterday broke a world's record in winning the American Marathon for the third time.

Finnish Representative Concedes First Place in Olympics to U. S.

But Finland Will Increase Her Entry at Paris "To Clinch Second Place"—Nurmi and Ritola Will Aid Their Native Country — Kolehmainen Entered in Marathon.

By Associated Press.

PARIS, April 19.—Finland is out after second honors in the coming Olympic games, apparently quite confident of making that place but hardly hoping to beat out the United States for the premier position.

"We concede first place in the Olympic games to the United States; it is second place we are after," was the statement made today by Lieut. Waldimir De Letter, representative of the Finnish Olympic Committee in Paris. In the same breath, however, he announced that Finland had decided to increase her Olympic representation to 60 athletes instead of sending 45 as she originally intended.

"To make sure of that second place," was the lieutenant's explanation.

While final entries have not been definitely decided, it is virtually certain that Paavo Nurmi and Willie Ritola, American cross-country and 10-mile champion, who returned this year to aid his native land in the Olympics, both will start on July 6 in the 10,000 meter race, which Nurmi captured in 1920 at Antwerp. Should Finland fail to win this event, with the stars, assisted by Stenroos, who has a record of one hour, 48 minutes and 6 seconds for 30,000 meters, both Ritola and Nurmi will start again in the 5000 meters on July 10.

Nurmi May not Meet Ray.

Since the 1500-meter race, nearest to the mile run on the Olympic program, is also scheduled on July 10, this plan may prevent Nurmi, new world's record-holder for the mile, from engaging in his long-looked-for duel with Joie Ray, American mile champion. Experts, however, are inclined to predict a triumph for Finland in the 10,000 meter run, in which event Nurmi probably would be sent to the mark against Ray in the 1500 with Ritola devoting his attention to the 5000.

Hannes Kolehmainen, who won the marathon for Finland in 1920 in record time, again is his country's hope in the distance classic. His brother, Tatu, and Stenroos, will be Finland's other entrants in this race on July 13.

Nurmi is regarded as Finland's chief point scorer, but in the field events, the Finns will have three champions in 1920. They are Porhola, in the 16-pound shot put; Tuulos, in the hop, step and jump, and Myrrha in the javelin.

Despite Finland's apparent willingness to concede supremacy to the United States, experts here regard the Scandinavian team as a worthy rival of the United States. They are figured to have an excellent chance of gaining at least six or seven first places, besides scoring heavily otherwise particularly in the field events and the distance races. At Antwerp four years ago, the Finns captured nine first places.

Amount of Guarantee Holds Up Olympic Fund Swimming Meet

A SLIGHT disagreement in determining the amount of guarantee is all that is delaying negotiations for the appearance here of Johnny Weissmuller, world's champion swimmer, and other stars of the Illinois Athletic Club, in an exhibition for the benefit of the Olympic Fund, it was announced yesterday. The athletic department of Washington University is sponsoring the event, which will take place in the Piker pool.

A telegram was received yesterday from Coach Bachrach of the I. A. C. stating that Weissmuller, Kruger, a star medley swimmer; Ollie Horn, St. Louis crawl expert, and a fourth swimmer, to be selected, would appear here, provided the Piker authorities meet their terms.

Athletic Director George Rider of Washington, who has been out of the city, will return today, and he is expected to accept Bachrach's terms.

Athletics for All Is Stanford Plan

Nine Football Fields in Use, Two Baseball Diamonds and Steady Expansion Scheduled.

PALO ALTO, Cal., April 19.— Stanford University has adopted the motto "athletics for all."

Whether athletic teams win or lose, the fundamental purpose of Stanford's physical activities is to turn out a large number of men whose bodies are developed as well as their minds. Facilities are provided not merely for the few men who can "make" the varsity sport squads, but for every man in the university.

This plan was evolved by Paul Davis, graduate manager of the student body. He and his staff have laid plans for a gradual extension of athletic facilities extending over a period of 20 years, by which time the enrollment of men is expected to reach 4000. Means of physical welfare will keep pace with the growth of the student body.

At present nine football fields are in use. There are two baseball fields and it is planned to make three more. Ten tennis courts are in use, and eventually there will be 26. Another swimming pool will supplement the present one. Other equipment for outdoor sport now open to the students includes two tracks, two polo fields and two soccer fields.

Incorrect Grip A Common Fault Sarazen Writes

Club Must Be Held the Same Way for All Shots to Be Consistent.

By Gene Sarazen.
American Professional Champion.
(Copyright, 1924.)

The golf season is about to start. Within a couple of weeks a million or more players will be out on the fairways of the various clubs slashing away with the feeling they are in for a fine year. One or two bad rounds and they will be in a rut again wondering what ails their game. Then will come a period of research, with the subject seeking some very bad fault which he wants to correct immediately.

Now before you start your game this year I would advise you to check up on the fundamentals. And especially do I warn you to watch your grip and your balance. To obtain any kind of results in golf, it is essential you have a proper grip and a proper balance in swinging the club. These are two of the foremost fundamentals of the game to cultivate, and unless they are developed you cannot hope for good results.

Coming up from the South I became engaged in conversation with a golf enthusiast who was returning home with high hopes of having improved his game. "How did you play in the South this winter," I asked him.

Theory of the Swing.

"Well, I'm quite satisfied I have improved and I hope to get back some of my money this spring."

"How do you know you have improved?" I inquired.

"Well," he answered, "I scored better in most of my games, and I think I was hitting the ball much better than I did up North. At least I was getting a longer ball."

"You want to remember Southern courses are easier to play in many respects, and you get more roll on those links than you do in the North."

Then we began discussing the theory of the swing.

"You know," this man said, "I would have four or five good rounds and then a couple of very bad rounds in which nothing would go right. Why is that?"

"Well," answered, "you probably were not gripping the club in the same way. Perhaps you shifted your stance, or changed your swing. Good players, you know, play all of their shots in the same way, practically every time. In other words, they are consistent. By the way, let me see how you grip the club?"

"Is that the way you always hold the club?" I asked.

"Well, practically; sometimes I turn my left hand over more but generally I grip it like this," he explained.

"That partly accounts for your trouble," I said. "Just at present your left hand isn't turned over far enough. If you raise the club with your left arm, holding it as you are now, with only two knuckles showing, it would be practically impossible for you to keep your left arm straight and to hit the ball with any real power.

"Turn your hand over on the shaft more so that three knuckles at least are in full view. And for my part I favor all four knuckles showing. With the hand turned over in this manner it is much easier to maintain a straight left arm throughout the swing and to hit the ball with power and direction.

"Grip the club more with the fingers than with the palm of the hand, with the forefinger and thumb of each hand predominating. Have the Vs of the forefingers and thumbs in practically a straight line, and make sure to keep a firm grip on the club with the left hand from start to finish.

"With that kind of grip half of your troubles will be eradicated at the start and you will have gone far in obtaining a sound swing."

Concordia League Opens.

The Concordia Baseball League, made up of five clubs, will open the season at High School Field with a double-header tomorrow afternoon. In the first game, at 1:30 o'clock, the St. Matthews oppose Bethlehem. The second contest will be between Bethany, last season's pennant winner, and Zion.

Illinois Defeats California in Intersectional Dual Track Meet

Big Ten Team Scores 72 1-3 Points Against 58 2-3 for Coast Aggregation—Far Westerners Have Advantage Over Rivals in Field Events.

Special to Post-Dispatch.

BERKELEY, Cal., April 19.—The University of Illinois track team defeated the University of California in a dual track and field meet here this afternoon, 72 1-3 points to 58 2-3. The Illinois team ran up its margin in the track events, scoring 51 to but 26 for the Coast team. In the field events, California had the margin.

The Illinois team scored first place in nine events, while California landed top honors in five, including the relay race.

Dan Kinsey, the St. Louis boy, was the individual star for Illinois. He won both the hurdle races, while he gained a tie for third in the high jump. Capt. Johnson of the Illinois team, another St. Louis boy, finished second in the high hurdles and third in the low.

Evans Wins Both Sprints.

Evans, the main reliance for the Westerners in the sprints, came through in good style, winning both the 100 and 220 dashes in good times.

Brownell, the former Principia Academy of St. Louis pole vaulter, who is regarded as one of the best in the West, won his event with a vault of 12 feet 4 inches. Milton Angier, national champion, had to do just a bit better than 191 feet to win the javelin throw for Illinois.

Both teams made clean sweeps in two events.

100-YARD DASH—Won by Evans, Illinois; Barber, California, second; Shepperd, California, third. Time, 10s.
220-YARD RUN—Won by Evans, Illinois; Shepperd, California, second; Barber, California, third. Time, 21 6-10s.
440-YARD RUN—Won by Fessenden, Illinois; Koonz, Illinois, second; Carter, Illinois, third. Time, 50 7-10s.
880-YARD RUN—Won by Chase, California; Kirts, California, second; Brumington, Illinois, third. Time, 2m 1 8-10s. Graham, Illinois, finished second but was disqualified.
MILE RUN—Won by Hall, Illinois; Miehr, Illinois, second; Ross, California, third. Time, 4m. 29 8-10s.
TWO-MILE RUN—Won by Miehr, Illinois; Marzullo, Illinois, second; Makeever, Illinois, third. Time, 9m. 31s.
120-YARD HIGH HURDLES—Won by Kinsey, Illinois; Johnson, Illinois, second; Becker, California, third. Time, 15s.
220-YARD LOW HURDLES—Won by Kinsey, Illinois; Becker, California, second; Johnson, Illinois, third. Time, 24 5-10s.

Roller Title to Be Decided Here

Eight Stars of National Note to Compete in Palladium Events.

Rodney Peters, Ray Davis, Al Cookson and Richard Molenauer loom as the favorites in a squad of eight St. Louis roller skaters who will compete against well known professional racers from many sections of the United States in a seven-day series of championship races to be inaugurated tomorrow night at the Palladium. The races will be conducted in a series of two trial heats of one mile and a two-mile qualifying heat each night. The winners of qualifying heats will compete in the championship final on April 28.

The two-mile championship title is at present held by Peters, who captured the crown last year by nosing out Cliff Howard, the Pacific Coast champion, in the titular final. Roland Cloni, who held the crown for two years, before passing it to Peters, has been training at Cleveland for the coming races and is expected to report here to make another bid for his former laurels.

Among other prominent speed boys on the Palladium entry list are: Joe Laurey and Harry Palmer of Chicago, Henry Thomas and Al Kish of Cleveland, Eddie Krahn of Detroit, Midget Reiff of Reading, Pa.; Charley Friedel and Ross Wheatley of Washington, Pa.; Frank Johnson and Al Smith of Granite City, Ill.; Jack Woodworth of Atlantic City, and "Midge" Walker of Lorain, O., and Cliff Howard of Los Angeles. Art Launey and Jackie Clarke of Newark, Oliver Walters of Philadelphia and Rollie Berkheimer of Columbus, O., are expected to file post entries.

St. Louis Boy Wins Firsts in Hurdles in California Meet

DAN KINSEY, the Illinois University hurdle star, who won 10 1-3 points for his alma mater yesterday at Berkeley, in the dual meet with the University of California team, is a St. Louisan and a former McKinley High School athlete.

He has earned a high standing through his successes this year, both indoors and outdoors, and is likely to win a place on the Olympic team.

ANOTHER LOOMIS GOES IN FOR TRACK ATHLETICS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., April 19.— The brothers Loomis have established their name as one to conjure with in track athletics. Comes now a third Loomis, cousin of the famous Frank and Joe, who wants to establish his own reputation as a member of the Michigan varsity squad.

Halbert Loomis is the Loomis III. Halbert hails from Battle Creek. He is a candidate for the distance hurdles, and may be one of Michigan's entries in the 440-yard hurdles at the Drake relays, April 25-26.

The younger Loomis will have to step to maintain the pace set by his older cousins, Frank Loomis, a Chicago A. A. runner, was winner of the 400-meter hurdle race in the 1920 Olympics, and was holder of the National record for the 220-yard low hurdles.

Joseph Loomis, the other cousin, was also an Olympic athlete in 1920. He formerly was a national record holder in four events, the 100-yard dash, the 220-yard dash, the 60-yard dash indoors, and the high jump. His 50-yard dash record of 5 1-5 seconds still stands.

Senator Norris, Derby 'Good Thing, Has Only Fair Racing Record

LOUISVILLE, April 19.

SENATOR NORRIS, the Derby "good thing," who has been backed from 100 to 1 to 15 to 1 in the future book here, and who was beaten yesterday at Havre de Grace, has only an ordinary record thus far.

Senator Norris only started six times last season, won two of them, both at Pimlico. He won his last start as a 2-year-olds in a race, run in 1m. 39 2-5s., in which he defeated Lady Belle, Big Blaze and H. T. Waters, among others.

In the Pimlico Futurity, won by the Idle Hour Farm Stable's Beau Butler, he was unplaced. His previous race he won with 120 pounds up, running six furlongs in 1m. 12s. flat, and beating Pepp, Memento, Heir-at-Law and others.

At Laurel he failed to show on the boards in a 5½-furlong dash. He made his debut at Thorncliffe and ran coupled with his stable companion, Sarko, also a Derby candidate in the Bedwell string, and finished third on that occasion.

However, Senator Norris showed that he liked a long route.

The plunge was due to this fact and to his winter improvement.

Net Association Defends Rule on Player-Writers

Committee Report Cites Tilden's Case as Proof of Violation of Amateur Ruling.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 19.—Defending its course in adopting the player-writer rule, which has provoked a storm in tennis ranks throughout the country, the United States Lawn Tennis Association today made public the text of the Rule Committee's report on this regulation, which, after next January 1, would bar from amateur ranks all players who receive a "substantial emolument" for writing newspaper articles.

Dealing particularly with the case of William T. Tilden, II., national champion, who has been advised by the U. S. L. T. A. that he will be barred under the rule next year, if his present newspaper activities continue then, the text endeavors to show how Tilden violated the spirit as well as the letter of the amateur rule which provides that "an amateur is one who plays solely for the pleasure and physical benefits he derives therefrom, and to whom the playing of tennis is nothing more than a pastime."

Pastime or Business?

The report, signed by Holcombe Ward, chairman of the Amateur Rule Committee, asks whether the "playing of tennis be nothing more than a pastime, to a champion whose widely-advertised business is tennis writing," whether he hasn't "turned his tennis-pastime into a business" and whether "they are any more interesting and instructive because they are signed: 'William T. Tilden, II, World's Greatest Tennis Player.'

"Or is that done because of its money value?" the report interrogates, and then concludes:

High Cost of Subscribing.

"I think the answer to this question may be found in the last paragraph of the attached copy of a circular letter received by newspapers offering 'Tilden's Tennis Service' at a cost of $200 per subscriber. I do not know how many newspapers subscribed to this service, but if 100 newspapers subscribe, I assume they pay the syndicate $20,000 and largely for (I quote from the circular attached), 'The pulling power of the signature of the writer as tennis champion and the greatest player of all time,' and if our present champion is half as good a business man as he is a tennis player, his 'emolument' is most likely to be a very 'substantial' one."

MISS BAYARD VICTOR OVER MISS BANCROFT IN NORTH-SOUTH FINAL

By the Associated Press.

PINEHURST, N. C., April 19.— Miss Martha Bayard of Short Hills, N. J., furnished the surprise of the North and South championship tennis tournament here this afternoon when she defeated Miss Leslie Bancroft of Boston in the final round of the women's singles championship. Miss Bayard won by a score of 3-6, 6-2, 6-4, making a splendid winning rally after trailing in the early stages.

S. Howard Voshell, former national indoor champion and runner-up to Vincent Richards in 1919 and South last year, came through gallantly today and gained the men's singles and doubles titles. His opponent in the singles was Giriton Shafer of Philadelphia, whom he defeated, 6-3, 6-3, 6-3, and later in the day, paired with Fred C. Baggs of New York, he defeated Raymond D. Bidwell and Josiah H. Wheelwright, both of the Longwood Cricket Club, Boston, 3-6, 6-3, 6-1, 7-5.

The women's doubles championship was won by Miss Bancroft and Mrs. Benjamin F. Briggs of New York, who defeated Miss Bayard and Mrs. Theodora Sohst, 6-2, 6-1, in the finals today.

All the players left Pinehurst for White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., to play in an invitation tournament there next week.

Kentucky State Wins.

Derby Followers, Amazed by Fast Workout of St. James, Wondering If Colt Has Staying Qualities

Pedigree of Eastern Colt Leaves Doubt as to His Stamina—Sarazen's Endurance Also Under Fire — Appearance of Wise Counsellor in Preakness Interests East.

By S. F. T. Ryall.
Of the New York World Sport Staff.

NEW YORK, April 19.—Two seasons ago, when Morvich was stepping fast mornings under the watch for the edification of Ben Bloch and his friends, Tom Welsh, who trains the J. E. Widener horses, said:

"If I had a horse that I thought could win the Kentucky Derby, I'd take him out to Churchill Downs and train him there. I'd take a lot of three-year-olds out and I'd work 'em good and hard, for I know that if I sent 'em a mile in 1:40, the next morning the other trainers would try to shade 1:39. The one I wanted to win with I'd work by himself while the others were burning up the track."

Tom Welsh is wise in the ways of the race track and he knows trainers and owners and their craving for speed, always speed. Failing the test of competition, they match their horses under the watch. This year is no exception. The writer said after Wise Counsellor worked his first mile around 1:44, that this move would be reflected in the next workout of Sarazan, which promptly was set down for that distance in about that time and then a day or so later a half in 0:48 for Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt II. and her friends.

St. James Makes Fast Time.

It was not expected that such a hard-headed trainer as Jack Joyner would follow on or try to set the pace. But he did. On Wednesday morning he sent St. James from the half-mile pole down to the stand in 0:46 3-5—with an exercise boy up. Whether he had intended such a fast move he kept to himself. It really was an amazing trial, a faster one than Morvich ever did in these parts, and as fast as most horses run in races.

Now that St. James has shown that he has speed, there is the question whether he can stay. His pedigree does not show a preponderance of stayers—but in England up to a mile is a sprint.

Whether Sarazen can stay also is the thought uppermost in the mind of Max Hirsch, his trainer. The Vanderbilt candidate, however, is the first of the Derby eligibles to be sent over a distance of ground. The same morning that St. James had his first half, Sarazen went a nice mile and furlong in 2:03, the mile in 1:50. Sarazen will not be sent to Maryland for his first test under colors but will have it here during the Jamaica meeting.

May Be in Dixie Handicap.

There is a chance that he will run for the $25,000 Dixie Handicap at one mile and three-sixteenths at Pimlico, but in that race, in which he has been assigned 114 pounds, he would have to give one pound to Zev according to the scale. It is probable that his trainer will pick a softer spot, though his owner believes no horse alive can beat Sarazen. The day he does get beat—and this comes to all horses that do not have their spots picked for them—the writer would not care to be Sarazen's trainer.

Wise Counsellor will have his first big test in the East instead of at the Kentucky tracks as is the custom with Western horses. The son of Mentor is coming to Pimlico for the Preakness in which he will meet every good 3-year-old with the exception of Sarazen. This race, coming five days before the classic at Churchill Downs probably will have a greater bearing on the horses that will start in the latter event than ever before.

It is understood that Matt Winn requested the makers of future books not to lay prices against a horse to start as they did last year. This seems needless for a number of the Chicago books were stung badly laying against horses that only went out on the track to make those bets stand up.

Fall Spoiled a Good Story.

They say that but for the last tumble of the Prince of Wales in a point to point race a few weeks before, he would have ridden in the Grand National Steeplechase and what is more would have had the leg up on the horse that eventually was the winner. That Master Robert could have carried the Prince of Wales and won is doubtful—but Edward is nothing if not game.

Lord Airlie, a close friend of the Prince of Wales, was willing to give him the mount in the most sporting racing event in the whole world and in which no member of the royal family ever has taken part. As it was, a professional jockey by the name of Trugdill got the mount and gained lasting fame, as was fitting, though it spoiled a mighty good story.

FRANK ANDERSON IS PROMISING NET PLAYER

NEW YORK, April 19.—One of the most promising young tennis players in this country is Frank Anderson of Brooklyn. Even now he is close to the top flight of players.

"There is one thing he needs more than anything else," said an official at the recent national indoor championship, "that is steadiness. If he ever gets so that he can travel along at the top of his speed he will be a hard man for any one to beat."

It has been said that Anderson's physique would hold him back. He is extremely tall and quite slender. But he has filled out quite a bit of late. He seems heavier this year than at the close of last season.

Judge Says Oral Wager Is Not Violation of Illinois Betting Law

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 19.

THE oral betting system as practiced at race tracks in New York and Louisiana is not a violation of the Illinois antibetting laws, according to a decision by Judge William L. Lindsey in the criminal court today, disposing of a case involving the arrest of an alleged book maker at the Hawthorne track during the race meeting here last summer.

The decision, which officials of the Chicago Business Men's Racing Association regarded as favorable, was followed by the announcement that the association would conduct a 51-day meeting at the Hawthorne track, opening July 3 and closing Labor day.

Judge Lindsey held that the mere passing of a slip of paper from one individual to another on which certain notations were written, along with the name of the horse participating in a race on that particular day's program and on the same premises, was not sufficient evidence to warrant a conviction under the Illinois law.

Races Carded in Move to Revive Motor Boating

Cruisers, Runabouts and Speed Boats to Compete Here July 6.

Efforts to revive the sport of motor boating on the Mississippi River have taken form and a series of races has been arranged for the St. Louis harbor to be held July 6. Edwin C. Koenig announced last night. Koenig long has been a motor boat enthusiast and has announced that in the next year or two he will make strong efforts to win the national speed boat championship with a boat which he has designed.

Motor boat owners are asked to send their entries for the July 6 races to Koenig as soon as possible, addressing him at Osage and Marine streets. There will be contests for cruisers, runabouts and special speed boats. One purpose of the race program is to stimulate the organization of a motor boat association to foster motor boat races and activity in the St. Louis harbor, Koenig stated.

The race for cruisers will be over a 52-mile course, from St. Louis to Alton and return. The runabouts, which are semispeed boats, will race 20 miles, between th Eads and Municipal bridges, and the speed boat races will be over the same course and distance.

Koenig announced that efforts were being made to have the Meteor, the fastest single-engine boat in the country, give an exhibition here the day of the races, possibly racing with a dirigible from Scott Field. The Meteor has made 75 miles an hour.

There has not been any motor boat association here for 10 years, Koenig stated, but interest is being revived and this year about $50,000 is being spent in the local harbor for speed boats. There are five cruisers here, one of them having been brought here from Germany. It is owned by Benjamin Krause. One of the cruisers which has been in the St. Louis harbor for three years can do 27 miles an hour. Another is being constructed which promises to do 30. Others are being built by automobile companies which can do from 25 to 30 miles an hour.

SOLDAN TRACK MEN WIN OVER WEBSTER IN SENIOR AND JUNIOR DUAL MEET

Soldan High School defeated Webster High School in a dual track meet at Francis Field yesterday morning. In the senior events, Soldan took first place in the 100-yard dash, 220-yard dash, 440-yard dash, 220-yard low hurdles, broad jump, javelin throw, shot put and high jump. Webster men were first in the 880-yard run, 120-yard high hurdles, mile run, discus throw and Webster's relay team won the senior relay race.

In the junior events, Soldan won 35 to 33.

Ashley was the individual star for Soldan in the senior events, scoring 15 points for his team by winning the 100-yard dash, broad jump and javelin throw.

No official time was kept.

Navy Oarsmen Will Make Real Bid for Title in Olympics

NEW YORK, April 19.

THE Navy is planning to be a real factor in the Olympics this year. The Annapolis officials are gathering together their famous crew that beat the British at Brussels last time, and there will also be an attempt to do something in track and field. The cold weather has bothered the rowing coaches and it has been very difficult to get them down to real work.

There are six members of Navy's 1920 Olympic champion back in the graduate boat. The crew is made up of Gallagher, Graves, Harris, Higgins, Semborn, Bolles, Walsh and Frawley, stroke, with the veteran Clark in the coxswain's seat. The younger Glendon is coaching both the graduate and the varsity eight.

The Navy habitually uses the longest oars with the widest blades and the greatest inboard measurement of any crew in the country. The stroke is apt to be high. There has always been plenty of power in the Annapolis shells from the days when the famous Jonas Ingram stroked the boat at Poughkeepsie years ago.

Golf Champions to Meet in Return Match, Probably Over Washington Course.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, April 19.—Golfers in this district are lookinf forw ard in this district are loking forward to the next "battle of the giants" between Arthur Hayers and Gene Sarazen. When this pair met on the Pacific Coast one of the conditions made b ythe British open champion was that he should be given a return match in the spring as he did not consider it fair to judge his merits on a contest staged whe nhe had only been in this country a short time. Sarazen won handily in the California meeting.

Under present plans, Gene will take on his British rival in a 72-hole contest, the players to take a chance on the "gate" instead of having a purse put up for them. Although it is possible that the first 36 holes will be played over a course in the Boston section, it looks as though the Columbia Country Club in Washington, D. C., will be the scene of action. April 25 has been named as the date for the first half of the match, with the golfers coming to the Westchester-Biltmore Country Club at Rye two days later, April 27.

Sanola, Oaks and Derby Candidate Runs Fine Trial

Daughter of Famous St. Louis County Sire, Sain, Shows Speed in Workout.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 19.—Sanola, candidate for the Kentucky Derby and Oaks and also for the Ashland Oaks feature race of the opening day at Lexington, showed a creditable trial at Churchill Downs today, when she stepped three-quarters of a mile, with Jockey "Bill" Fronk aboard, in 1:14 4-5. Sanola reeled off the first quarter in :23, half in :47 1-5, when Trainer Lon Jones "hatted" Fronk to slow up on the filly, and she breezed on out the last quarter in :27 2-5.

That Sanola is a speedy filly there is no doubt, and she is ready for the race right now. The daughter of Sain was a wonderfully consistent 2-year-olds, having won numerous selling races. While she is not considered as classy a filly as her stable companion, Glide, it may be that she will beat Glide in sprinting afafirs wherever they run as an entry. Again, it may be possible that Sanola will have it on Glide at any distance, but her handlers do not think so. That remains to be seen.

May Start in the Oaks.

Glide, stable companion of Sanola, was worked in a slow half-mile this morning. She was hard held that distance in :52 2-5. Glide also seems to be all ready for the races. It is likely that these fillies will be shipped to Lexington about next Wednesday, with the stable of Harned Bros. & Jones to fill their engagements in the Ashland Oaks and others races at the old association track.

Trainer "Ham" Keene sent Alta Wood, C. Bruce Head's Derby candidate, a quarter of a mile in :26, This was in the nature of a blowout for a longer work.

John S. Ward's Preakness and Derby candidate, Worthmore, was given his first speed test today, since recovering from a physic. The big chestnut was crying to run, so "Wardie" let him step a half-mile in :49, the first quarter in :23 1-5. The winner of last fall's Breeders' Futurity at Lexington is in fine fettle right now and probably is ready to go a mile in 1:40.

Looks Like Wise Counsellor.

Worthmore will be used to set the pace for Wise Counsellor in the Preakness and Kentucky Derby, according to persons close to the stable. Both these colts are chestnuts and there is very little difference in their conformation. To laymen it is difficult to tell them apart. Wise Counsellor, however, has a white stripe running the full length of his head while the stripe on Worthmore extends but half way.

Kay Spence worked Frankman and Lord Martin a half mi ein 55s. Frankman exceed all the winter around New Orleans and showed little. Lord Martin is considered a bit better of the two, but this colt will not be ready to race before the Latonia meeting.

Trainer Peter Coyne breezed King Gorin II and Bourbon Boy, three-eighths of a mile in 38 1-5s.

It is quite likely that either of these colts will be taken to Lexington, although both have been named for stakes there.

In Memoriam Is Breezed.

In Memoriam's three-quarters in 1m 15 1-5s and Princess Doreen's three-quarters in 1m 15 2-5s were other trials which impressed work watchers at the Downs during the day.

GLASGOW, April 19. — Airdrie won the Scottish Association football cup today by defeating Hibernians in the final, 2 to 0.

TAYLOR KNOCKS OUT CUBAN CHAMPION

By the Associated Press.

HAVANA, April 19.—Jack Taylor of Omaha, Neb., knocked out Santiago Esparraguera, Cuban light heavyweight champion, tonight in the sixth round of what was to have been a 15-round bout. The Cuban had the better of the first two rounds and opened an old cut over Taylor's right eye, but Taylor's smashing blows began to tell and from the fourth round to the finish, Esparraguera was knocked down seven times. He was fighting face to face, however, when Taylor finally delivered the knockout punch.

OLYMPIC BOXING TRIALS SET FOR MAY 7 AND 8

Special to the Post-Dispatch

NEW YORK, April 19. — The Metropolitan Association, A. A. U. Boxing Committee has decided to hold the district Olympic try-outs at Madison Square Garden on Wednesday and Thursday evenings, May 7 and 8. Winners of each class will be sent to the national championships, which will be held at Boston on May 19, 20 and 21. Besides the winners, the metropolitan champions and others who demonstrate in this tournament their fitness will also be sent. The national championships will be the final Olympic try-outs.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., April 19.—William "Bill" Clark, coach of the Princeton University baseball team, has been engaged as instructor in baseball at the University of Michigan summer school, Fielding H. Yost announced Saturday. Clark formerly caught for the New York Giants.

Rugged enough for hiking
Light enough for tennis

Dig your toes into the hillside or scramble down the rocks, Ralph Jones Sport Shoes were made for rough wear.

And you can't slip. The moulded suction sole is slightly concave (not the ordinary rocker-type). This means that all the 16 suction cups, from the scuffer toe back to the heel, get a sure grip on the ground.

Long hikes won't tire you. The leather bound uppers fit snugly around your ankles. The scientifically designed lasts give the instep bones and muscles extra support and keep your toes from sliding forward and jamming into the end of the shoe. Shocks are absorbed and rubbing prevented by a specially cushioned, narrow heel.

Men, boys and women can get as perfect a fit from these as from the highest priced leather shoes made. Ask your dealer or write directly to

Mrs. S. K. L. asks: "Is there anything for backache, pains like rheumatism soreness in bladder region. Am all tired out, can't sleep, restless, nervous and blood in poor condition?" Ans.: Obtain Haimwort tablets. Take as per directions to improve kidney function and relieve acid condition and bladder irritation. Also take Cadomene tablets to enrich anemic blood and steady the nerves and you should soon feel like a new being.

Mrs. E. C. W. asks: "I am troubled with poor circulation, causing cramps in feet and limbs—very annoying. Indigestion, poor appetite and am pale, weak and chill with least exposure. Also nervous and don't sleep good. What may help me?" Answer: There being no organic trouble, the condition should quickly be overcome by the use of Cadomene tablets, which improve appetite, aid digestion and tend to thoroughly enrich the blood and strengthen the nerves and functions of the bodily organs generally.

Mrs. K. M. asks: "Would it be possible to reduce about 50 pounds? Do Arhold tablets have to be taken continuously after reducing? Where can I obtain?" Answer: Each case varies. Some have reduced harmlessly more than 50 pounds. After reduction is not necessary to continue taking Arholene. Where local druggists do not supply, you can order anything from Arhold's Harmony, Fifth and Western Ave., Dayton, Ohio.

Answer to E. D. N.: For itching skin, reduce diet, use less coffee. Apply Mentho-Laxene Salve freely. For constipation increase kidney-bowel elimination, take Sulpherb tablets (not sulphur tablets).

"Dixie" asks: "I have taken—iron tablets to gain weight—but no success. I want to gain about 20 pounds. Please advise." Answer: Make it a habit to breathe deeply each day and take Hypo-Nuclane tablets with your meals as a nutritional tonic and flesh builder for several months.

Mrs. H. S. asks: "Am troubled with nasal catarrh, causing ringing in the ears and often headache and the usual discharges and difficulty in fashion instead of free breathing. Please advise." Answer: Use Vilane Powder as per directions on the can as a nasal douche or spray. Also apply triple strength Mentho-Laxene Salve in nostrils and on forehead several times daily and quick relief should ensue.

FALL AND DAUGHERTY MENTIONED IN SUIT

Oklahoma Case Involves Charges That Influence of U. S. Departments Could Be Bought.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Ok.—The names of former Attorney-General Daugherty and his Columbus friend, Howard Manington, and former Secretary Fall of the Interior Department, are conspicuous in a case coming on appeal in the Oklahoma Supreme Court from Hughes County.

The case attracted unusual attention because of charges made last October that influence was purchasable in the Departments of the Interior and Justice.

J. F. McMurray of McAlester, whose case affecting the Choctaw and Chickasaw Indian claims a few years ago caused former Senator T. P. Gore to charge the late Jake Hamon with offering him a $50,000 bribe, sued George M. Swift, lawyer in the Barney Thlocco oil case, for a fee in Pittsburg County. Swift later was sued in Hughes County and his money in the American National Bank at McAlester was tied up.

The Hughes County case was appealed. The answer of Swift in the appeal charged that McMurray told Swift he had a desk in Secretary Fall's office, that he used Fall's stationery, that he was so close to the Fall family that once Fall requested him to accompany Mrs. Fall to Virginia to visit her daughter, and that he would assist W. R. Ramsey, Oklahoma City operator, to get from Fall a lease on a naval oil reserve in California in which McMurray was to have one-million-dollar interest. It was charged that he said it would be necessary to get the Department of Justice back of Fall, and that this could be done through Howard Mannington, a friend of Daugherty, by contracting to pay Mannington a percentage of the fee involved.

The fee, it was alleged, was to be based on approval by Secretary Fall of contracts whereby Sabre Jackson, an Indian, was to get $286,000 and Martha Jackson, also an Indian, was to get $375,000. Swift alleges that McMurray never was contracted with on the "influence basis and that Secretary Fall did not approve the contracts.

McMurray at various times during the last 20 years has represented Indian tribes or groups in Washington. His law firm once obtained a fee of three-quarters of a million dollars from the Chickasaw and Choctaw Indians.

Voice of Union Labor And the Radical Press

The Post-Dispatch herewith extracts from editorial or other articles in organs of labor unions and of the Communist and Socialist Parties showing the tendency of thought on public questions among those bodies of citizens and indicating causes of social unrest.

LINCOLN VS. THE COMPANY UNION.

The "company union" on the Santa Fe issues a "Bulletin," financed by the railroad, and of course edited under the same benign influence. In the current issue is an editorial under the caption, "Capital—Why It Is Misunderstood." We quote:

"Which comes first in establishing a business—capital or labor? Capital does, else there would be no factory, no equipment, no raw material to work up."

Abraham Lincoln —generally regarded by Americans as a pretty good authority—had something to say on that subject many years ago. In his annual message to Congress on Dec. 3, 1861, Lincoln wrote:

"Labor is prior to and independent of capital. Capital is only the fruit of labor and could never have existed if labor had not first existed. Labor is the superior of capital and deserves much the higher consideration."

You see, Lincoln had an idea that God Almighty created human beings before dollars were minted or bankers had invested "6 per cent, with a bonus for renewal of the loan."

Naturally, Atterbury and other gentlemen who are endeavoring to organize "company unions" do not agree with Lincoln. They want the worker to feel he was created a serf, and that everything he has came to him through the bounty of his boss.

Organized labor stands with Lincoln. It recognizes the rights of capital, but it also appreciates the dignity of labor. It can not subscribe to the "company union" doctrine that the dollar outranks the man.

RISE OF THE SERVILE STATE. (From the New Leader, Socialist.)

David M. Parry, William H. Mallock, Father Vaughan and others enjoyed putting fear into our souls by assuring us that a Socialist society would conscript and regulate the life and opinions of citizens. The three gentlemen mentioned above should have lived to observe the tendency in the United States today.

A committee of the American Bar Association recently reported on the alarming tendency of legislation to regulate us. Laws defining what kind of history we may have, what school teachers may believe, requiring aliens in business to display a card stating their nationality, attempting to conscript the labor of wage workers, are a few items indicating a tendency.

In industry time clocks, numbering of the workers, requiring applicants to submit a biography of their lives, and other regulations leave only the lock-step and suits of grey to make many industries comply with prison regulations. The card index and the blacklist even follow the workers out of the plants and are used to check up on their movements.

But legislation and industrial discipline are not alone in this matter of reducing these "free" and God-fearing Americans to a goose-stepped life. Private organizations add their power to the forces that make the servile American. The Koo Koo Koos take care of religion and the schools. The American Defense Society cultivates a worship of the state and its oil statesmen. The capitalist press scotches any idea that had its origin later than the eighteenth century.

Those who fear being reduced to one dead level of mediocrity, who fear state-enforced regulation of our lives, aided by organized coercion, need not await the coming of Socialism. We have liberal installments of the conscript citizen here and now.

BOILED HIS EGGS TOO HARD

Kansas Woman, 73, Divorced by Husband Who Wanted Them Soft.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

HIAWATHA, Kan.—Does a hard boiled egg that a man's wife insists he eat for breakfast, when he prefers it soft-boiled, constitute grounds for a divorce? Judge C. W. Ryan had to decide the question in District Court here when John Hegenderfer, 70 years old, sued his wife, Drucilla, 73, both of Horton. The Judge granted the divorce. The Hegenderfers were married in October, 1917, without discussing the egg question.

"I wanted my breakfast eggs boiled soft, but she forced me to eat them hard," Hegenderfer testified.

Baby Makes Bank of Stomach.

ANDERSON, Ind.—Parents of Buddie Kistler, 3 years old, took him to a physician to remove a penny which had lodged in his throat. When this was done, the doctor shook out four dimes that Buddie had swallowed.

MULE STOPS THEFT OF MILK

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHILLICOTHE, Mo.—A Chillicothe man discovered that some one had been milking his cow every night. Instead of loading up his shotgun and following the usual custom of lying in wait for the marauder to fill his hide with shot, he adopted a much easier and effective method and did not lose any sleep. He tied his mule in the cow's stall.

Next morning he found an old hat and a battered tin milk pail in the stall. A well-known man was walking with a perceptible limp the next day and bore other evidence of having had an exciting time.

Pays Loan After 30 Years.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SAPULPA, Ok.—W. G. Miller, 421 South Oak street, has received a check from Fletcher Fennel of Lykens, Pa., in payment of a loan 30 years ago. It was in 1892 that Miller lent Fennel $5. He had forgotten the incident. The borrower of 30 years ago inclosed two additional dollars for interest.

AGED PAIR REFUSED DIVORCE

Judge Dismisses Case of Wife, 73, Against Husband, 81.

MARSHALL, Ark.—When Judge Sam Williams was called upon to decide the divorce suit of Benjamin Franklin Knee, 81, and his wife, Kissiah, 73, he was unable to reach a conclusion and dismissed it. The couple were married in 1876 and have reared a large family. They were divorced in 1912, but were remarried a short time afterwards. Mrs. Knee charged that her husband hit her with his fists and threatened her. Knee denied all her charges and said he had sent her word he would live with her again.

Owner of Building Where Liquor Was Made Sentenced.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BROCKTON, Mass.—Something new in building leases was uncovered here by the arrest and arraignment of William Pushkis, owner of a building used by bootleggers for the manufacture of moonshine.

Pushkis was sentenced to two months in the House of Correction on a charge of maintaining a liquor nuisance. He told the Court he rented his place for $25 a month on a lease which included a phrase to the effect he was also to be given three drinks each day.

An Advertisement Telling How and When to Use Trustworthy Products and Reproducing Extracts of Patrons' Letters Relating to Cadomene, Balmwort, Sulpherb, Arbolone, Su-thol, Mentho-Laxene, Minyol, Hypo-Nuclane, Vilane, Etc.

Mrs. S. K. L. asks: "Is there anything for backache, pains like rheumatism, soreness in bladder region. Am all tired out, can't sleep, restless, nervous and blood in poor condition."

Ans.: Obtain Balmwort tablets. Take as per directions to improve kidney function and relieve acid condition and bladder irritation. Also take Cadomene tablets to enrich anemic blood and steady the nerves and you should soon feel like a new being.

Mrs. E. C. W. asks: "I am troubled with poor circulation, causing cramps in feet and limbs—very annoying. Indigestion, poor appetite and am pale, weak and chill last summer. Also nervous and don't sleep good. What may help me?"

Answer: There being no organic trouble, the condition should quickly be overcome by the use of Cadomene tablets, which improve appetite, aid digestion and tend to thoroughly enrich the blood and strengthen the nerves and functions of the bodily organs generally.

Mrs. K. M. asks: "Would it be possible to reduce about 60 pounds? Do Arbolone tablets have to be taken continuously after reducing? Where can I obtain?"

Answer: Each case varies. Some have reduced harmlessly more than 60 pounds. After reduction, it is not necessary to continue taking Arbolone. Where local druggists do not supply, you can order anything from Spoon's Pharmacy, Fifth and Western Aye., Dayton, Ohio.

Answer to E. D. N.: For itching skin, reduce diet, use less coffee. Apply Mentho-Laxene Salve lightly. Internally, to increase kidney-bowel elimination, take Sulpherb tablets (not sulphur tablets).

"Dixie" asks: "I have taken—iron tablets to gain weight—but no success. I want to gain about 15 pounds. Please advise."

Answer: Make it a habit to breathe deeply each day and take Hypo-Nuclane tablets with your meals as a nutritional tonic and flesh builder for several months.

Mrs. H. S. asks: "Am troubled with nasal catarrh, causing ringing in the ears and often headache and the usual discharges and stuffy sensation instead of free breathing. Please advise."

Answer: Use Vilane Powder as per directions on label as a nasal douche or spray. Also apply triple strength Mentho-Laxene Salve in nostrils and on forehead several times daily and quick relief should ensue.

Mrs. O. B. asks: "My three children first had measles, then whooping cough, followed by frequent colds and constant strangling night-coughing that almost wears all of us out. What will help them?"

Answer: Since you have tried "everything" in prepared cough syrups, I suggest you obtain the pure essence Mentho-Laxene, mix with sugar syrup into a pint and you will have the purest, best medicine for your children that money can buy. It is quick acting, costs little and contains no opiates, narcotics or chloroform to upset the little stomachs.

Answer to M. B. C.: Yellow Minyol never stains the hair. It is made with fresh ergs which give it the yellow color. For dandruff, oily hair and itching scalp it has no superior for quick, permanent results.

Answer to "Age Sixty": If you want a mild but generous laxative, that costs little and aids without harming the bowels, get Casca Royal Pills of druggist.

NOTE: For many years Dr. Lewis Baker, 312 College Bldg., Dayton, O., has been recommending trustworthy medicines to millions of people through the medium of the newspapers, and doubtless has helped in relieving the ailments and minor infirmities of the public more than any single individual in the world's history; and by an inexpensive method.

The medicines mentioned by him are pure and free from habit-forming drugs. They represent the combined wisdom and experience of physician and chemist.

By reading his answers to others you should find a case similar to your own. A copy of Dr. Baker's great guide book, "Health and Beauty," will be mailed to any one sending a 2c stamp.

Thousands have written him expressions similar to the following.

LETTERS TO DR. BAKER

M. T. Reynolds, 4441 N. Gratz st., Philadelphia, Pa., writes: "I am a Police Officer in Philadelphia. My three children had measles and had a very bad cough with them, so I tried several remedies for it and none of them helped. I also got medecine from my doctor, but it did them no good. I saw an advertisement of your Essence Mentho-Laxene and bought a bottle. After taking it a couple of days their coughs disappeared entirely, and I want to say for coughs and colds there is nothing to beat it. You can use my name any time to praise Mentho-Laxene."

Mrs. H. Eastern, 2212 East St., Pittsburg, Pa., writes: "Have had a severe cold for weeks—severe pains in my side as well as pains in my head. After many other medicines failed to relieve, Mentho-Laxene was recommended by a neighbor. I immediately purchased a bottle of the pure essence. After taking only a few doses, I obtained immediate relief and soon all cold, pains and cough inflammation were driven out of my system. It is the best medicine I've ever taken for bad coughs and colds. Very truly yours."

Mrs. M. T. Gutlovies, 48 Rand st., Buffalo, writes: "Just a few lines to thank your for the benefits procured through using Yellow Minyol. I had a very bad case of dandruff and used it with the greatest success. Have only used five applications and am no longer bothered with dandruff but will use occasionally and recommend to all my friends."

Miss Beatrice R. Needleman, 146 Franklin st., Portland, Me., writes: "A friend recommended Sulpherb tablets. I find them wonderful for clearing the skin —also a wonderful laxative to overcome stomach trouble. I am over all my ailments since taking Sulpherb 3 times daily, etc."

Mr. W. Sipple, 131 Gale st., Olney, Philadelphia, Pa., writes: "My age is 71. I have had a bladder trouble for years. Your Balmwort tablets is the only thing that I have ever found that reaches the spot. My case was a bad one. My sleep was disturbed five or six times during the night and there was a lack of control during the day. I am glad to recommend Balmwort tablets, etc."

Mrs. Wm. R. Sanderson, 310 E. Kansas av., Pittsburg, Kan., writes: "I am writing a few lines to thank you for the great relief Cadomene tablets have given me. I had a weak, nervous, run-down condition. I could hardly do my housework since baby came three months ago. I took two boxes of your medicine and I am a new woman—also feel fine and recommend Cadomene to my friends. Etc."

Mrs. O. P. Monroe, Plattsmouth, Neb., writes: "Find enclosed coupon for your free Health and Beauty book. I have been using your Arbolone tablets for excessive fat and I find them very satisfactory. Perhaps I may find some other health hints in your book. Etc."

Florence VonDey, 4314 Hammel street, Los Angeles, Cal., writes: "Several years ago I collapsed—caused—overwork and worry, also la grippe. Dr. R—— of Cincinnati, O., suggested that I try Hypo-Nuclane tablets as I was so thin and weak. I weighed only 80 pounds; could not eat well. After a few bites, I felt so miserable; I began to think I would die. In less than a week this was overcome. After taking three boxes was my old self again."

Mrs. John Lienhard, 528 Franklin av., Palmerton, Pa., writes: "I have just finished one-half box Balmwort and have found great relief. About nine years ago I was very thin. I learned of Hypo-Nuclane. I used them just three months, then I stopped. I gained in weight during that time 60 pounds. I have retained that weight steadily ever since without using any more tablets. Your various medicines have become family medicines to us. Etc."

DECISION HURTS CHANCES OF CITIES TO GET UNION STATIONS

U. S. Court Ruling That Companies Do Not Have to Build Them Affects Tulsa and Oklahoma City.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

TULSA, Ok.—The aspirations of Tulsa and Oklahoma City to compel the railroads entering the respective cities to erect union stations received a setback this week when the United States Supreme Court ruling, in an appeal from Los Angeles, held that State corporation commissions lack the power to compel railroads to furnish union station facilities in the cities where they operate. The decision took away one of the few remaining powers of State commissions.

While the decision affects both Tulsa and Oklahoma City, the disappointment is the keener to the Capital City in view of the fact that an order already had been obtained from the Oklahoma Corporation Commission compelling the railroads to erect a union station. The decision in the California case knocks out the order and relief must come from the Interstate Commerce Commission, or not at all.

Tulsa was about ready to apply to the state commission for an order. Both cities will ask for orders from the Federal commission.

WOMAN DROPS $250,000 SUIT

Had Charged Wealthy Oklahoma Oil Man With Breach of Promise.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WAURIKA, Okla.—Madie Halbrooks, of Henryetta, has agreed to dismissal of the suit for $250,000 damages which she filed in the District Court here a few weeks ago against Capt. Foote Dillard of Ringling, whom she charged with breach of promise. The petition for dismissal, which says that the prayer is made "with prejudice" against the bringing of any action in the future on this cause, was signed by Miss Halbrooks, Dillard and their attorneys.

Dillard, a wealthy oil man, was a captain in the Walton civilian army and as such was one of the leaders of those who prevented an election being held in Jefferson County last Oct. 2, after Gov. Walton had forbidden the election to be held.

STRONG EXCHANGE MARKET FEATURE OF WEEK'S TRADE

British and French Rates Reach Top Prices of Year —Dawes Report Reception Factor in Market—Short Covering in Stocks.

By Leased Wire from the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, April 19.—The Evening Post, in its weekly copyrighted financial review, says:

"Rapid progress toward acceptance of the Dawes report and firmness in the foreign exchanges have been the features of the past week. In the offer markets a general railying tendency, based largely on short covering, has been in evidence. The rallies have been moderate, and suggest that the change of heart by the bear interests has not been universal nor precipitate. Some traders have realized that the short position had become crowded and have not wished to remain within its bounds over the holidays. Their covering operations have brought mild recoveries and to that extent have weakened technical positions.

"Developments in the foreign situation unquestionably have been of the more fundamental importance. Five years of disappointments certainly counsel restrained optimism. Nevertheless, the unanimity with which the several governments have declared their strong adherence to the Dawes plan is most significant and encouraging. It is noticeable, too, that well-posted and cautious observers, abroad, who remained skeptical over previous conferences, are now talking in a distinctly hopeful vein. The need for a settlement is great; a careful plan has been prepared under the best possible auspices; there is nothing to be gained by further delay.

"Meanwhile there are fresh instances of individual countries taking their budgets in hand, while the financial reorganization of Hungary, which is imminent, will be another step toward the restoration of stable conditions in central Europe. Altogether it is clear that Europe is anxious to put its financial house in order and to settle down to work. The post-war period of demoralization, in other words, seems to be drawing to a close. The recovery in the foreign exchanges is, accordingly, quite natural."

"Of the markets which reopened for the short session following the Good Friday holiday, foreign exchange was the only one in which the volume of trading was sufficient, from the standpoint of an observer, to make such action worth while. The stock ticker clicked in fits and starts with long rest periods, and prive movements were wholly without significance. A firm opening was followed by slight recessions in the main body of the industrial list as professionals flitted around in search of weak spots. A few spots were found and attracted speculative interest, such as it was. A break of several points in Yellow Cab and a sudden drop in Atlantic Refining were features. As the market closed, the list as a whole was irregular. Bonds were inactive without much change in quotations.

Exchange Market Strong.

"In lieu of the customary stagnation in trading attendant upon the holidays, lively interest was taken in the foreign exchange market. The unanimity of the allies and Germany with regard to the Dawes plan and the celerity with which steps are being taken to put the proposals into execution has come rather as a surprise even to the most sanguine in this country. Demand for European currencies, which began to develop in the trading yesterday despite the closing of most markets, became urgent this morning. Large blocks were bid for, with offerings rather scarce. French francs and sterling as a consequence established new high levels for the year, the former at 6.32¼ cents and the latter at $4.38. These quotations represented overnight gains of 8 points and 2½ cents respectively. Virtually all the other European rates were several points higher, while the Far Eastern exchanges were firmer. Japanese yen, however, was inactive and unchanged.

"Excess reserve of $32,172,000 is reported by the Clearing House, as against a deficit in the previous week of $8,600,000. Demand deposits rose $80,000,000, while loans and discounts increased by $26,000,000, now standing at $4,706,000,000. Member banks cash held in their own vaults was lower by $1,748,000, while circulation increased slightly.

MPARATIVELY QUIET EEK'S COTTON TRADE

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 19.—The cotton market was comparatively quiet during the day and much of the business was done during the evening up of old accounts to make a clearer view of the new crop or a better line on end-season positions.

Efforts to take profits on long contracts on the bulges has been increased by the character of reports from the cotton belt. Earlier month buyers have been disconcerted by the failure of recent bulges in cotton markets to stimulate a genuine demand for cotton goods.

On the other hand, there have been further reports from Southern spot markets, but information in this respect has been offset by an increased demand from mills on the decline. The market has been fluctuating between these conflicting features and has yet the appearance of being far enough under for ordinary daily weather advices to have much influence on sentiment. Generally considered by local spinners that crop preparations have been delayed, but the tendency of mills to increase their distributions to increase their distributions on advancing markets, it is also felt will not react seriously against new crop prospects.

Figures of the Census Bureau on supply and distribution for the month of March showed rather a marked falling off in mill consumption than some statistical, but the figures as a whole appeared to have little significance. It was said the market appear to find much incentive in the half-yearly statement of the Associated Spinning organization which showed a world's consumption of American cotton amounting to 8,662,000 for the six months ended March 31, compared with 6,662,000 for the corresponding period last year. Further shipments are reported out of the local stock and the certified supply here has been reduced to 100,000 bales, although with additional withdrawals expected before the end of the month.

Cotton closed Friday and Saturday. Closing prices on Thursday were: May, 30.33c; July, 28.06c; October, 25c; December, 24.40c.

Cotton, Coffee and Sugar Exchanges Closed.

NEW YORK, April 19.—The stock exchanges will be closed today, but the cotton exchange and coffee and sugar exchanges will be open for the usual hours of Friday's holiday until 1 o'clock. Little business is expected from those until Tuesday's call for the Easter holiday extends from Good Friday over Easter Monday.

St. Louis Spot Cotton.

Wall Street News and Comment

—SPECIAL DAILY—

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, April 19.—In the short stock exchange session today, attention was devoted mainly to so-called specialities. Some of these were very weak, others were strong. In the main body of the list price changes were small and trading dull. Another bad break in taxicab issues was recorded.

Stocks under pressure included Cuyamel Fruit, Hartman Corp., Montgomery-Ward and Congoleum.

There were still other stocks belonging to the specialty group which developed considerable strength. United States Cast Iron Pipe was one of these, and Famous Players was another. Mercantile Marine preferred was up again. Word of the $65,000,000 movie merger, including Goldwyn Pictures, led to active buying of that stock at an advance of over a point.

Oil shares were unsettled and as a rule lost ground as a result of the report of Atlantic Refining and the consequent decline in the stock.

In view of the discouraging statement by the Interboro Rapid Transit president, the stocks held well. It broke to 21 as against the last previous sale of 22¾, but was strongly supported at the low figure and subsequently partly recovered the loss. Brooklyn and Manhattan Transist issues were notably strong, and so was Fifth Avenue Bus, which ran up over a point on large transactions.

Oil shares showed some further weakness in the last half hour, otherwise the market was little changed. The close was uncertain, with no general tendency one way or the other.

The Bond Market.

The most interesting incident in today's short session was the response by the Interboro bonds and notes to the official statement over the holiday that for the eight months ending Feb. 29 net earnings fell short of meeting fixed charges by more than $1,250,000. This statement, made by the president in a communication to the employes asking them to accept a cut in wages, caused a rather sharp break in the refunding 5s unstamped and smaller declines in the stamped bonds, 6 per cent notes and the 7s. The early losses were partly made up later.

Other tractions were not affected by the weakness in the Interborcs. Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit 6s were firm and Hudson & Manhattan refunding 5s and adjustments were higher. Earnings of the last-named company show steady improvement, it is said.

High-grade investment securities were all strong. Active buying continued in all the Liberty issues and the Treasury 4¼s made another new high. The week has been notable for the accumulation of Government bonds by the banks, it was said. The Treasury 4¼s and the Liberty third 4¼s are now both selling well above par, while the fourth 4¼s touched that price this week for the first time this year.

At the same time there today was further strength in the market for the high-grade rails and industrials. United States Steel sinking fund is sold at 103 and Indiana Steel 5s at 101. New York Central 6s were fractionally higher and there was unusual activity in the low coupon long term older railroad issues. This development did not, however, weaken the demand for good short-term securities. Speculative rails were more irregular. New Haven bonds were a little better, as were the St. Pauls.

Marine 6s made a show of strength and American Smelting and Refining 5s were up.

Generally speaking, the foreign group was strong. The new Japanese 6½s sold around the low of Thursday, but otherwise prices were mostly higher. French bonds were distinctly strong, the 7½s equaling their high. United Kingdom 5½s of 1929 went up with sterling exchange.

New bond offerings for the week totaled more than $38,000,000. The largest single issue was $12,000,000 Pacific Gas and Electric refunding 5½s.

WHEAT TONE BETTER ON LOCAL MARKET

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, April 19.—Strength of wheat featured the week-end session on the local market. Strength of exchange markets, a report on possible world surplus at crop year end, and the pending farm legislation were factors in the market. Corn shorts covered.

In the local cash grain market soft wheat was 1¼c higher, with good shipping demand. Hard was scarce and steady. Corn was steady to 1¼c lower. Demand was good. Oats were steady to ½c changed. Demand was slow.

The early surge of prices was not wide, but wheat futures advanced slightly after unchanged to higher opening. Corn was about unchanged, with September shaded some. Liverpool was closed. There was swinging-up business.

Wheat had opened at $1.02¾. July wheat $1.04⅛. September wheat $1.05⅝. Corn was steady. July corn 80¾c and September corn 78¾c.

The three Northwestern markets combined had 497 cars of wheat, compared with 501 a week ago, 668 last year. Minneapolis receiving 130 cars, Duluth 56 and Winnipeg 311.

Local wheat receipts, which were 94,000 bushels, compared with 40,300 a week ago and 172,000 a year ago, included 55 cars local and 18 through; corn receipts, 127,400 bushels, compared with 127,400 a week ago and 141,700 last year, included 113 cars local and 61 through; oats receipts were 186,000 bushels, compared with 78,000 week ago and 240,000 last year, included 46 cars local and 44 through; hay receipts were 43 cars local and 29 through, today two days and last year two days.

Stocks in St. Louis public elevators were 919,412 bushels of wheat, 678,847 bushels of corn, 141,118 bushels of oats, grain stocks comprised 82,163 bushels of No. 1 red winter wheat, 131,657 bushels of No. 2 red winter wheat, 77,411 bushels of No. 1 hard winter wheat, 320,985 bushels of No. 2 hard winter wheat, 107,000 bushels of No. 2 corn, 60,780 bushels of No. 2 yellow corn, 26,943 bushels of No. 4 white corn, 4856 bushels of No. 2 oats, 79,635 bushels of No. 2 white oats, 2611 bushels of No. 3 white oats and 10,285 bushels of rye.

Primary receipts of wheat were heavier than a week ago and lighter than a year ago, being 579,000 bushels, shipments were heavier than a week ago and heavy, being 1,027,000 bushels. Corn receipts were heavier than a week ago and heavier than a year ago, being 1,629,000 bushels.

Primary shipments of wheat were heavier than a week ago and heavier than a year ago, being 1,027,000 bushels. Corn shipments were heavier than a week ago, being 965,000 bushels. Oats shipments were heavier than a week ago and lighter than a year ago, being 1,000,000 bushels.

STRENGTH OF WHEAT IS FEATURE OF GRAIN TRADE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, April 19.—Wheat had a good upturn today. A lack of selling pressure was the big feature but there was some buying that looked suspiciously like bear-side trade. On the bulge there was enough pressure from local buyers who wanted profits to cause a reaction. There was nothing in the news to warrant the advance but as the trade put it "the market don't go down in face of a bearish situation, so it ought to go up." The fear of the passage of the McNary-Haugen bill putting a fixed or basic price on wheat well above the present level is checking short selling and hedging as well. Spreaders bought May and sold July at 2¼c difference, undoing spreads they already had. Milling demand was quiet and export trade was dull owing to the holiday abroad. International Institute of Agriculture said that there remained in exporting surplus countries on the first of March 513,000,000 bushels of wheat and estimated requirements to July 31 are 239,000,000 bushels. Market closed 1¼@1¾c higher, May $1.04⅝@⅞; July $1.06⅜@⅝; September $1.07⅝@⅞; December $1.10¼. Shipping sales were 28,000 bushels.

Corn was heavy in tone. A situation just the reverse of that in wheat developed in this market. A lack of demand was noticed. Selling was scattered and largely by longs. Cash corn basis was unchanged. Shipping demand was slow. Shipping sales were 34,000,000 bushels. Market rallied on local short covering and closed ⅛@⅜c up. May 78⅝@⅞c; July 79⅜@⅝c; September 79¼@¾c.

May oats were easier under realizing sales but deferred futures showed a slight upturn. Shipping sales were 52,000 bushels. Market closed ¼c lower to ⅛c up. May 47⅞@44¼c; July 44¼c; September 40¾c.

Provisions were dull and a lack of selling was a feature. Lard unchanged and ribs 2½c higher and bellies unchanged to 2½c off.

RELICS GIVEN TO MUSEUM TELL HISTORY OF INDIANS

Estate of Harry L. George Turns Over Valuable Collection to Missouri Institution.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 19.—The story of primitive Indian life is illustrated in the vast and widely diversified collection of Indian relics recently turned over to the Missouri Resources Museum by the Harry L. George estate, and which are now awaiting shipment.

Among the chief features of the collection is the wide assortment of Indian baskets, the woven basket having been, perhaps, the most useful of all the articles made by the aborigines. There are baskets which were used in transporting water, food and other household commodities. Some were used for carrying the Indian babies, while there were other more elaborate ones which were used in burying the dead. Baskets which were used by the medicine men are to be found in the collection, as are also two dozen tiny witch baskets, the largest of which is feather-lined and elaborately ornamented. The largest of this group of witch baskets is two and one-half inches in diameter, while the smallest is but five thirty-seconds of an inch in diameter. These small creations were made by the Pomo tribes of Northeastern California, and the medicine men were supposed to drive the evil spirits into these baskets, when summoned to minister to a sick member of the tribe.

Several hideous false faces, which were worn by the medicine men of the tribes, are in the exhibit, as well as ceremonial hats, of Western cedar bark, and toy cradles.

SONS OF AMERICAN REVOLUTION CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY

Missouri Society Told of Plans for Purchase of the Saratoga Battlefields.

The Missouri Society of the Sons of the American Revolution celebrated the one hundred and forty-ninth anniversary of the Battles of Lexington and Concord last night at the Fairmont Hotel. The Rev. Ivan Lee Holt spoke on "The Early Struggle for American Independence."

Linn Paine, president of the society, spoke on the activities of the Sons of the American Revolution and announced that plans had been made for a celebration of Flag Day, June 14, a general observance of Constitution Day, Sept. 17, and the annual banquet of the society, Oct. 19, to commemorate the Yorktown victory in the wars for American independence.

Referring to the movement in which all State organizations of the Sons of the American Revolution will join in purchasing the Saratoga battlefields for a permanent park, Paine said the project was now an assured success.

Resolutions were adopted in memory of I. Shrieve Carter, who at the time of his death had served the society as treasurer continuously for 27 years and in memory of the Rev. Willard W. Boyd, who for many years had served the organization as chaplain.

ALIBI OF ALLEGED SLAYER IN BAUER CASE COLLAPSES

Friend of Prisoner, After 5 Hours, Admits He Told False Story at Hoffman's Request.

LATTER IDENTIFIED AS MAN IN SEDAN

District Attorney Says Two Witnesses Will Swear Suspect Was at the Murder Scene.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, April 19.—Solution of the murder of Mrs. Maude Bauer on a lonely country road on Staten Island March 25, which had seemed far away, if not hopeless, came seemingly close, abruptly, today.

Harry Hoffman, in Richmond County Jail, charged with the murder, was identified as the man in the Ford sedan who gave Mrs. Bauer a lift a short time before her body was found, District Attorney Fach announced. A photograph of Hoffman published in the New York World today led to the identification. Two witnesses have been found, Fach said, who have identified Hoffman's Ford sedan, as one they saw in the vicinity of the murder a few minutes before Mrs. Bauer was picked up by the automobilist.

The alibi of Hoffman, by which he sought to prove he was in the movie projectile room of the Liberty Theater in Stapleton, S. I., miles from the murder, with a friend, Raymond Parker, at 4 o'clock the afternoon of March 25, the hour Mrs. Bauer was killed, apparently was knocked from under him.

Breaks Down After 5 Hours.

Parker, an inconspicuous, partly bald, young movie operator, carried friendship to the rim of his own calamity—and wilted. For five hours today he swung his legs in Fach's office, smiled and stuck to his story, which seemed an iron-bound alibi for Hoffman. Just as he was to be clapped into jail, Parker broke down. He confessed, the District Attorney said, that the story he told was fiction, and admitted Hoffman had asked him to tell it.

The break came at 6:30 tonight as he was to be taken to the West Side prison in Manhattan, held in $25,000 bail as a material witness.

District Attorney Fach and Detective Capt. Ernest L. Van Wagner, satisfied Parker's story stood between them and solution of the murder and believing him to be lying, took a last gamble. They entered the room where Parker sat.

"This is your last chance to tell the truth, Parker," they said. "Come across or we'll be moving over to Manhattan to lock you up."

Parker grew grave. He was faced not only with imprisonment, but with the probable loss of his job if he played Hoffman's game any longer. In Mr. Fach he was confronted not only with the District Attorney, able to put him in jail, but also with the counsel and part owner of the Liberty Theater in Stapleton where Parker made a living for himself and his mother. He blurted out his story in a gust. This, according to District Attorney Fach, was briefly as follows:

Parker and Hoffman had been close friends several years. They belonged to the same union—that of the motion picture operators. On his days off from the Liberty Theater Parker would visit Hoffman, who was the movie operator in the Palace Theater in Port Richmond. Parker often went to Hoffman's home and knew Hoffman's young wife and children well. Parker and Hoffman are members of the same Masonic Lodge.

Request From Hoffman.

March 29, four days after Mrs. Bauer was found murdered in the Chelsea Woods after being offered a lift by a man in a Ford sedan, Hoffman went to Parker, very much excited. He asked Parker, on the bonds of their friendship, to promise to tell police, if they questioned him, that Hoffman had been with him in the Liberty Theater operator's projection room at the time Mrs. Bauer was murdered, miles away. Parker agreed to tell this story if questioned.

The day Hoffman exacted this promise from Parker, according to Capt. Van Wagner, was the day on which he has confessed he sent a 25-calliber revolver—the kind of weapon that killed Mrs. Bauer—to his brother in Manhattan.

March 31 Hoffman was questioned by the police. He admitted having a Ford sedan, but said he had no 25-calliber revolver. He was questioned again on April 2, but stuck to his story. It was not until Thursday night, when he was arrested charged with the murder and shown the 25-caliber weapon he had sent his brother for safekeeping, that he admitted he had had such a weapon. He then told the police he sent it to his brother because, although innocent of the murder, he was afraid possession of such a pistol, combined with other circumstances, would make him appear guilty.

ROCKWOOD PULLEY SERVICE

for

USERS OF BELT POWER

2186 Popular Pulley Sizes

(From 2 to 14 inch Diameters)

Now in Stock in St. Louis

HERE is a remarkable development in pulley service by the oldest and largest manufacturers of Paper Pulleys in the world—a development of special interest to users of electric motors and belt driven machinery in St. Louis and surrounding territory. 2186 different sizes of Rockwood Paper Pulleys from 2 to 14-inch diameters are now carried in stock ready for immediate shipment from—

801 N. SECOND ST.

Phone: Olive 2971

Now you can get the pulley you want when you want it. 2186 different sizes to pick from—the biggest stock of Paper Pulley sizes ever carried by anyone, anywhere. In addition to immediate delivery, this means a substantial saving in cost.

These "stock" pulleys are made up in large quantities at the Rockwood factories at Indianapolis—and you get the advantage of the "big run" price on small lots. While we cannot change the dimensions of "stock" pulleys, we can supply special offset keys so that a pulley with one keyway can be used on a shaft having a different keyway.

When you need a pulley come to our store—or phone, write or wire. The table below gives the different diameters and face widths of Rockwood Paper Pulleys in our St. Louis stock, ready to ship the same day your order is received. Call or write for booklet giving complete dimensions and net prices.

BORES vary by 1/8" in sizes up to 3"; above 3" by 1/4". We do not rebore stock pulleys, but we can quickly make up special pulleys 72" diameters and under of any face width desired and to fit other shaft sizes.

KEYSEATS in the stock pulleys are as follows:

Bore	Keyseat	Bore	Keyseat
1/2" and 5/8"	1/8" x 1/16"	1 1/16" to 1 1/8"	1/4" x 1/8"
11/16" to 1 1/16"	3/16" x 3/32"	1 3/16" to 2 1/16"	3/8" x 1/8"
1 1/8" to 1 1/4"	1/4" x 1/8"	2 3/16" to 3 1/16"	3/4" x 1/4"

For shafts having wider or narrower keyseats than in the pulley we can supply offset keys.

HUB LENGTHS are made three times the bore, less 1/4" to 1/2" when construction will permit. Hub locations conform generally to the following table. However conditions of design frequently require other hubs and locations. If these dimensions are important, send for detailed list.

Poor Juries and 'Law's Delays' Serious Defects Admitted by ... ecutors and Leading Memb...

THE task of reforming American crimin... cedure cannot be left to the Judges of ... who administer the present archaic ... system. This is the conclusion reached by ... Hadley of Washington University from the at... late Judges, as disclosed by his inquiry into e...

Chancellor Hadley's indictment of the p... ral law and procedure, as being ineffective i... of England, and as being one of the causes ... crime bill estimated at $3,000,000,000, and ... loss of public confidence in the laws and the ... ticles printed in the Post-Dispatch on the las... of this matter will appear in the report of a ... is chairman, of the American Law Institute.

His long practical study of this subject, ... ney in Kansas City, Attorney-General and Gov... as a teacher of law, was supplemented last s... inquiry, in which he sent out a questionnair... received.

The questionnaire contained 12 inqu...ies as to procedure, and covered the chief points which are viewed as defects in the present rules of evidence and court organization. They were sent to Chief Justices and Attorney-Generals of states, presidents of State Bar Associations, State representatives on the council of the American Bar Association, and the public prosecutors of 50 large cities. Each was asked to say whether any of the matters mentioned was a reason for a defective administration of criminal justice in the jurisdictions with which he was familiar.

"In response to this inquiry," Chancellor Hadley relates, "109 answers were received, 39 being from Attorney-Generals and prosecutors, 28 from Chief Justices of the highest courts of appeal, and 35 from the presidents of State bar associations and members of the council of the American Bar Association, who were selected as representing the better class of lawyers in the different states. From the two classes last referred to, the answers disclosed a frank admission in most cases that they were not familiar with the administration of criminal justice, except in a general way, as their practice was not in the criminal courts and they had only had occasion to go there, when in some exceptional case some regular client became involved in some criminal proceeding out of the ordinary run of criminal offenses. Consequently, their opinions can be accepted as significant of the opinions entertained by the better class of lawyers engaged in civil practice, but not as opinions based upon actual experience or careful study.

Varied Defects Enumerated.

Pardons, Paroles and Criminal Court Procedure Defeat Justice, Hadley Questionnaire Discloses

Poor Juries and 'Law's Delays' Also Among Serious Defects Admitted by Jurists, Prosecutors and Leading Members of Bar.

THE task of reforming American criminal law and court procedure cannot be left to the Judges of the Appellate Courts, who administer the present archaic and technicality-ridden system. This is the conclusion reached by Chancellor Herbert S. Hadley of Washington University from the attitude taken by Appellate Judges, as disclosed by his inquiry into existing abuses.

Chancellor Hadley's indictment of the present system of criminal law and procedure, as being ineffective in comparison with that of England, and as being one of the causes of an annual national crime bill estimated at $3,000,000,000, and of an even more costly loss of public confidence in the laws and the courts, appeared in articles printed in the Post-Dispatch on the last two Sundays. Much of this matter will appear in the report of a committee, of which he is chairman, of the American Law Institute.

His long practical study of this subject, as Prosecuting Attorney in Kansas City, Attorney-General and Governor of Missouri, and as a teacher of law, was supplemented last summer by an intensive inquiry, in which he sent out a questionnaire, compiling the replies received.

The questionnaire contained 12 inquiries as to procedure, and covered the chief points which are viewed as defects in the present rules of evidence and court organization. They were sent to Chief Justices and Attorney-Generals of states, presidents of State Bar Associations, State representatives on the council of the American Bar Association, and the public prosecutors of 50 large cities. Each was asked to say whether any of the matters mentioned was a reason for a defective administration of criminal justice in the jurisdictions with which he was familiar.

"In response to this inquiry," Chancellor Hadley relates, "109 answers were received, 39 being from Attorney-Generals and prosecutors, 28 from Chief Justices of the highest courts of appeal, and 35 from the presidents of State bar associations and members of the council of the American Bar Association, who were selected as representing the better class of lawyers in the different states. From the two classes last referred to, the answers disclosed a frank admission in most cases that they were not familiar with the administration of criminal justice, except in a general way, as their practice was not in the criminal courts and they had only had occasion to go there, when in some exceptional case some regular client became involved in some criminal proceeding out of the ordinary run of criminal offenses. Consequently, their opinions can be accepted as significant of the opinions entertained by the better class of lawyers engaged in civil practice, but not as opinions based upon actual experience or careful study.

Varied Defects Enumerated.

"Of the 109 answering, 24 regarded the deficiencies in the police department, 19 regarded the deficiencies in the proceedings before examining magistrates in the preparation of cases, 40 regarded the abuse of the parole system by Judges and executives; 27 regarded the faults of police and court officials, and unethical practices of defense lawyers; 16 regarded inadequate number of courts and inefficient organization; 30 regarded the inability to secure the presence of witnesses; 32 regarded the archaic and uncertain provisions of our criminal procedure, and 13 regarded the uncertainty and indefiniteness of our substantive criminal law, as substantial defects.

"Of the 28 presiding Judges of the highest courts of appeal who answered the inquiry, only three thought that there was any confusion and uncertainty in the law of crimes of the criminal procedure, at least to such an extent as to constitute a defect in the administration of criminal justice, and only four considered our criminal procedure archaic and a hampering cause in the administration of criminal justice.

"Of the 39 Attorney-Generals and Prosecuting Attorneys answering the inquiry, eight thought the confusion and uncertainty of the law of crimes a defect, and 14 similarly regarded the archaic character of our criminal procedure. Of the 109 answering the questionnaire, 40 considered the exercise of the power to grant pardons and paroles a serious defect, a larger number agreeing upon this point than any other. The next point of importance, so far as the number agreeing upon it was concerned, was in the matter of procedure, as 32 listed this as a cause for the failure of justice; 30 agreed that inability to procure the presence of nonresident witnesses was injurious, while 27 answered in the affirmative the inquiry as to whether the methods of the criminal lawyers worked to defeat the ends of justice.

"In answer to the request for reasons additional to those suggested, 15 assigned poor juries, made so by the unwillingness of the better element to serve, the allowance of a large number of challenges to the defendants, and political influence in making up the jury list. Sixteen gave the 'law's delay' as the most serious defect, some stressing the delay incident to appeal, others the delay in bringing cases to trial by reason of the usual straw bonds; 12 thought the public indifference to the enforcement of the law, and a flabby public opinion which tolerated lawlessness, principal causes of defective enforcement of the law.

No Agreement as to Causes.

"Six assigned low salaries resulting in public officials of low ability; three mentioned political influence with public officials and juries, and the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Illinois gave as one of the reasons the unwillingness of Judges and other officials to give an honest day's work to the duties of their positions. The District Attorney of New York City mentioned the difficulty in obtaining the extradition of defendants, and two, one a lawyer in Illinois and the other in Indiana, complained of the laws of those states making the juries the judge of the law; one listed the automobile, which enabled the defendants to

8 ADVANTAGES LISTED BY HADLEY IN ENGLISH SYSTEM OVER AMERICAN

THINGS in which the United States, in reforming its system of criminal law and court procedure, might profitably copy England, are listed by Chancellor Hadley as follows:

1. Larger police departments and better police methods.
2. Simple forms of indictment.
3. More experienced prosecutors, and absence of methods of defense practiced here.
4. Better organization of courts for preliminary hearings, exacting bonds and enforcing prompt trials.
5. The Judges run the courts and conduct trials with a view to ascertaining the truth; they comment on defendant's failure to testify, and instruct the jury on the facts.
6. Different system of appeal, with different results.
7. Less confusion and uncertainty in the law itself.
8. Different and more effective methods of punishment.

A Shrinking British Socialist Who Cannot See Much Hope for American Civilization

Bertrand Russell Looks Hopefully to the Far and Quiet East

Radical Nobleman Confesses He Said He Would Rather See Europe Collapse Than Adopt Our "Mechanistic Civilization" — China Has Ethics, We Have None.

By CLARK McADAMS.

HAD Bertrand Russell been more interested in becoming the third Earl Russell of England, which is his birthright, and less interested in man as the proper study of mankind, which is his hobby, he would likely have spent this past week upon the ancestral estate wondering how he could pay his taxes and cursing the labor government instead of exhibiting himself in St. Louis as a humorous philosopher in respect to odd things about ourselves.

He might just as well have been the Hon. Bertrand Arthur William Russell, British Tory and mathematician, late lecturer and fellow of Trinity College, Cambridge, authority upon the atom and come to us upon some solemn political mission as the veriest beef eater in the King's set, as to have come here as plain Bertrand Russell, whom England had to put in jail because of the terrible things he kept saying during the World War, and as the world's most famous critic of that civilization which everybody in his own and 20 other countries worked so hard to save.

Anyway, there he was sitting before me—a meek little mouse of a man who had his choice and took the hard way to the discomfiture of his family and the annoyance of his caste. It did not seem possible that this shrinking wisp of humanity, who seemed apologetic for being alive, and who looked especially designed by nature to keep bridge scores and teach house parties how to play mah jongg, was that intellectual giant who can so easily bend the utopian bow of Ulysses.

The truth is that one must learn to look for this surprise in Englishmen, who almost never look the part they have played in the world. One has to get used to finding H. G. Wells, who is so voluminously outspoken, a thin-voiced and bashful little roly-poly who would much rather die than face an audience. One lives to find out that the more tremendous they are in their works the more they belie it in themselves. So that Bertrand Russell, whose mind habitually sails in a cool and rarified air far above the heat and confusion of this warring world, as some circling condor looking down curiously upon an Andean volcano, is or is not in himself a surprise according to your experience with the unbelievable British.

Some years ago Bertrand Russell was in the United States for three months as exchange professor at Harvard. He is over here now as a lecturer. One listening to him on the platform cannot escape the amusing reflection that almost any American audience would much prefer to hear Senator Willis of Ohio say nothing in a resounding American manner than hear this really fine thinker expound his philosophy as badly as only a Briton could do it. The English know this very well of themselves, and they do not have public lectures. It is a new experience to these people to come over here and talk publicly, as well as a sad one for us.

It was in an interval snatched from seeing the town and all the sort of thing which must be a dreadful ordeal to one who has seen the world and knows what it is made of that I got Bertrand Russell in a corner just where I wanted him and made him testify exactly as if he had been dragged before one of our senatorial committees.

"Didn't you say you would rather see Europe go to a complete collapse than adopt the mechanistic civilization of America?" I asked.

He gulped hard and cast about helplessly for a way of escape.

"Yes, I said it," he admitted weakly, as if hoping nothing was to come of it at the moment.

"What did you mean by it?"

"What I mean is the habit of regarding mankind as raw material to be molded by our scientific manipulation into whatever form may happen to suit our fancy. The worst thing that could happen Europe would be to find herself upon the Ford basis of turning out so many of this or that a minute. That is what the bolsheviks are trying to do to Russia. They are crazy about industrialization, and like the Japanese they hope to make their country rich and powerful by machinery. There is also life by doctrine. I mean something which exists equally in imperialism, bolshevism and the Y. M. C. A., something which distinguishes all these from the Oriental outlook and which I, for my part, consider very evil. The essence of the matter, from the point of view of the individual who has this point of view, is the cultivation of will at the expense of perception, the fervent moral belief that it is our duty to force other people to realize our conception of the world. It involves a contempt for mankind except as potential converts and the belief that progress consists in the spread of a doctrine. It involves a belief in government and a life against nature. This view, though I have called it mechanistic, is as old as religion, though mechanism has given it new and more virulent forms."

He smiled sweetly, his brown eyes glowing, as if nothing could be funnier than the kind of civilization we have in the United States. He hopes to make enough on this tour to educate his two sons to know better than to believe the things we believe.

"That is why I was so impressed by China when I went over there to teach," he said. "The Chinese are both inefficient and corrupt, probably the twin hopes of all civilization. They also have the remarkable quality of abiding the beliefs of others. To be a Buddhist in China does not mean that other religions are untrue. Nor do the Chinese make any distinction between old-fashioned brigandage outside of law and modern brigandage inside the law. The Brigand whose army holds Manchuria, for instance, is their Standard Oil Company. Another great brigand and his army is the prototype of your Sugar Trust or your Steel Trust or say our own Dutch-British oil company. There is bound to be brigandage of the one kind or the other, and the Chinese take theirs upon the inefficiency plan.

"All in all, the civilization of the East is better than that of the West. We think of China as a country in which there is turmoil and over which rival tuchuns and their armies march to combat, but what shall we say of our western civilization in Europe, where the armies are infinitely greater and better-armed and where the rivalries and jealousies between countries make those between the provinces and districts of China look like child play? Our western civilization will eventually consume itself. It goes on headlong from one catastrophe to another. It is like the meteor which travels at such terrific speed that it burns itself out. There was not much but smoke left of our civilization after the late war. It would have been hard to find the place where anything solid enough for us to build upon hit the ground after that spectacular performance."

"What is the comparative status of civilization?"

"I think it is most hopeful in the East. It may be that the Russians can disturb the calm and poise of the East, but I doubt it. Neither the British nor the Japanese have been able to do it. Did you ever realize that in China we have the only survivor of those ancient civilizations which flowered in Egypt, Babylonia, Persia, Greece and Rome? It has known and survived them all. I think I did not realize it until I lived in China. I learned then to respect the ancients. Probably this precious heritage would have been denied us had not China been guarded upon her exposed side by the great Gobi desert. All the enemies that ever crossed that desert China absorbed. They did not keep on coming like the waves of the seas as they did upon Rome.

"China has had for thousands of years a continuous evolution. She is a fluid now. She turns eagerly to us, for instance, in politics and in science. She is trying to have a republic, and her young men are in scientific schools all over the western world. China does not want what is bad in our civilization. She does not want to make Asia a vast battlefield such as we have made of Europe. The brutality of our civilization, its restlessness, its readiness to oppress the weak, its preoccupation with purely material aims and its sham Christianity are all abhorrent to China. It is her capacity for absorption without making herself over that has kept China going. When she adds to what we know what we have forgot she will have a civilization such as the world has never seen.

"What the East has that we are without in our western civilization is ethics. No such sure and lasting foundation underlies western civilization. What we have to teach the East is not morals or ethical maxims, but science and technical skill. The East needs to acquire western knowledge without acquiring the mechanistic outlook. I do not know whether it can do that or not. If it cannot, then there will not be any civilization anywhere worthy the name. I suppose it will be unlawful everywhere then to eat untinned meat.

"One of the most interesting things happening in civilization just now is the discovery in the Orient that without science the Orientals are at the mercy of the Occidentals. The Japanese were the first Easterners to adopt western science and make them-

Joseph Pulitzer's Genius Bright Under Restrictions Of Blindness and Isolation

Editor of the Evening World, Who Was His Secretary, Tells of Peculiar Conditions Under Which Founder of the Post-Dispatch Worked in His Restless Latter Years.

The following is the text of an address on the late Joseph Pulitzer, delivered by Harold S. Pollard, editor of The New York Evening World, who formerly was one of Mr. Pulitzer's secretaries. The address was made before the Pulitzer School of Journalism at Columbia University on the occasion of the annual exercises in memory of Mr. Pulitzer's birthday. The late owner of the Post-Dispatch and the New York World was born in Hungary, April 10, 1847.

I AM not going to talk of the big, outstanding things in Joseph Pulitzer's career. You have heard about those before, you will hear about them again. I am only going to tell you the sort of man he seemed to those who saw him day after day during the latter years of his life.

To understand those years, however, you must keep in mind a brief outline of the earlier ones—the immigrant boy swimming ashore in Boston Harbor from the ship that brought him, the Union cavalryman in the Civil War, months of poverty, struggle and self-education in St. Louis, slow beginnings in journalism—and then the swift growth that built two great and prosperous newspapers and made their owner a power in American public affairs.

Bedroom Like Vault.

Upon that enormous energy, ambition and unfinished endeavor a black curtain came down—slowly at first, then with tragic swiftness—until in the last years of his life sight was wholly gone. In that darkness there were bound to be nerve reactions of no trivial kind.

One such reaction was exaggerated sensitiveness to sound. Avoidance of irritating noises became an obsession. Many of us have said we'd like to be rich enough never to hear again a slamming blind, or clanking radiator. Mr. Pulitzer was rich enough to indulge such aversions to the limit. His bedroom in New York was a marvel. Built almost like a vault, separate from the main body of the house, it was entered from the latter by a short passage in which there were three doors, each four inches thick.

The floor of this passage rested on rollers to prevent the transmission of vibration. One could drop a cannon ball on the floor of the house without the shock being felt in the bedroom. This bedroom was lighted by a French window which was really three windows, closed one after the other, and the glass in each was specially made and nearly an inch thick. Even the most strident motor "klaxon" failed to penetrate these panes.

Ventilation was secured mainly from a large fireplace and chimney, and this came near spoiling the result. The first night Mr. Pulitzer occupied his new bedroom he pronounced it a complete failure because he was sure he had heard the whistles of a ferry boat faintly wafted down the chimney. Specialists were called in and the problem was finally solved by stretching silk threads across the inside of the chimney at a point where they seemed to break the sound waves.

Mr. Pulitzer's 1500-ton yacht, Liberty, the seventh largest private yacht in the world, carrying a crew of 52, was designed and built with the same special purpose of providing him with quiet. Heavy cork bulkheads shut off his quarters from even the throb of the engines. So that the crew need never walk on the deck above his head a long passage running the whole length of the ship below the water line provided a means of going fore and aft independently of the deck. No yacht was ever more carefully planned and constructed for the peculiar needs of one man.

Shunned Hotels.

Naturally, Mr. Pulitzer shunned hotels. If he were staying only two days in London he took a whole house. He would spend the night in a hotel only on condition that the suite above and the suite below his own could also be engaged and be kept empty and the rooms on either side of the one in which he slept would not be occupied even by members of his own party.

Despite all this, he was a tireless traveler. Restlessness was another of the reactions. For example. We went aboard the steamship Adriatic at New York one morning and sailed for England. Landing at Plymouth in the evening, six days later, we dined at the hotel, boarded a special train for Liverpool and at 12 o'clock next morning were on the Baltic on our way back to America. And this particular trip, which was only one of many, required the transfer along with us from the Adriatic to the Baltic of the enormous grass mats which were always spread on the decks above, below and adjoining the special suite used by Mr. Pulitzer on the four White Star liners on which he traveled—the Cedric and the Celtic being the other two.

For years it used to be said that hardly a steamer sailed from New York for Europe without carrying Joseph Pulitzer or somebody on his way to join Joseph Pulitzer. Bar Harbor, New York, Jekyll Island, London, Paris, Berlin, Vienna, Nice, Beaulieu, Cap Martin, Carlsbad, Hamburg, Wiesbaden, St. Moritz, Aix-les-Bains—there was hardly a year that did not find Mr. Pulitzer visiting at least half a dozen places on the familiar list. At each he had either his own house or a villa leased in advance.

Other Side of Picture.

In addition he enjoyed during the last four years of his life the extra freedom of the yacht, on which he traveled 130,000 miles, mainly in the Mediterranean, though she also crossed the Atlantic seven or eight times. He often planned to cruise to India and Japan. As we were coaling at Port Said one bright morning the winter before he died somebody said: "Well, why not India?" Mr. Pulitzer was instantly interested but feared the heat in the Red Sea.

Some one else suggested running the launch a little way into the Suez Canal to see how hot it seemed. The suggestion was humorously meant. But Mr. Pulitzer seized upon it with the utmost seriousness and at once ordered the launch. We chugged gravely into the Suez Canal for half a mile or so, and finding the sun exceedingly warm chugged gravely back again, Mr. Pulitzer delighted to have demonstrated to himself and everybody else by simple, direct test that it was too hot to go to India that morning.

But so far you have had but one side of the picture. Don't imagine that blindness turned Joseph Pulitzer into a self-indulgent, restless hypochondriac, spending his money to divert his mind and shield his shattered nerves. That would be a million miles from the truth.

He used to recall the early days of struggle and self-teaching in St. Louis, when he slept with a dictionary under his pillow. I have heard him try to describe how he must have looked striding along the sidewalk with an open book in one hand and an apple in the Denies Advantages of Birth Control.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

IT is reassuring to note in your editorial of Friday evening in answer to my letter on the question of birth control that, though your original article contained no explicit reference to the moral character of the doctrine of birth control, some conception of morality was at least implied.

"Broadly speaking, whatever contributes to the welfare of the race must be good." Thus the editor. But the welfare of the race can be viewed from several angles. So viewed it becomes apparent that some things are really good, others apparently good for the race. This, however, must be certain. Whatever is not in conformity with the natural law, which, be it remembered, is the expression of the law of God, cannot be a real good and therefore cannot be for the true welfare of the race. Applying this principle to our case we see, first, that birth control is the perversion of a natural function; second, it must therefore be opposed to the natural law and therefore to the law of God. Like murder and lying, then, it must be intrinsically evil. Hence it must follow that all the material prosperity of the world cannot justify either the practice or the preaching of birth control.

One almost suspects that the advocates of birth control are just a little beforehand in their acclamations of the benefits of this doctrine. Thus it is suggested that through the practice of artificial birth restriction, Holland and New Zealand have the lowest infant mortality of any civilized nation. This may be true, but if it is, it is another instance of "post hoc, non propter hoc." Recent statistics show that in two provinces of Holland where birth control is not practiced the proportion of births to deaths is about two to one. (For North Brabant 32.5 to 16.36; for Limburg 33.4 to 15.28.) In Friesland, where the practice of birth control is widespread the proportion is 24.3 to 13.15—certainly no astounding preponderance, if any, in favor of the supposed better-bred offspring. There is no available data for New Zealand. Again, a glance at conditions in France reveals no startling triumphs for the advocates of birth control in that country. The French Government has recently published a map indicating the districts where the death rate is exceeding that of the birth rate. In a few departments in Brittany alone is the birth rate higher than the death rate. According to latest figures, France will this year lose 200,000 of its population and that, the writer implies, through artificial sterility. Add to this France's loss in dead and disabled through the war and we are not then surprised to learn that the Government has offered a premium upon larger families. For France, at least, birth control is unpatriotic as well as immoral.

As far as this country is concerned, it might be stated that if the danger of overpopulating our land threatens us now or at any subsequent time the simple expedient of restricted immigration will eliminate the danger. This method may not meet with universal approbation, but it is at least not immoral.

Thus, taking them one by one, it can be shown that the supposed material advantages of the practice of birth control simply do not exist. This fact, taken together with the fact that birth control is immoral, repulsive and degrading to husband and wife alike should be proof sufficient to warrant our unqualified disapproval. R. F. BELLOCK.

St. Louis University.

Propagation of the Unfit.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

PLEASE allow me to say that when I read the letter from R. F. Bellock of St. Louis University in criticism of your editorial in regard to birth control, I resolved then to reply through your columns for the people, requesting him to enlighten us as to his source of knowledge to the effect that birth control was immoral and intrinsically evil.

I have seen families, poverty stricken and ignorant, who had not the mental and physical ability to make an ordinarily decent living, bringing unwanted children into the world, one right after the other, with no years between them—children undernourished and below normal. Such families have small chance to overcome such handicaps and it goes without saying that many thieves, gangsters and other criminals have had such home environment, and they "just growed," like Topsy, and reacted in a natural manner to the heredity and environment thrust upon them.

I believe in giving the children a chance to develop into healthy, upright citizens, and it is next to an utter impossibility where the mother is giving all her strength of mind and body to the bringing into the world of such poor imperfect bodies. The sooner mothers are instructed how to control this phase of nature in a common-sense way the better it will be for the nation as a whole. V. O.

MAKING EARTH A MOON.

On April 22, 1915, at the second battle of Ypres, the German army for the first time used asphyxiating gas as a weapon of war. No incident of the conflict was more roundly denounced as indicative of the utterly lawless character of the Germans, and particularly was the matter skillfully exploited in neutral United States. The London Times declared it an "atrocious method of warfare," and Sir John French characterized it as "a diabolical contrivance," forbidden by the laws of war.

A little later the Entente allies were themselves equipped with effective gas apparatus and even congratulated themselves on the production of a more horrible burning-oil projector. From that time on we heard nothing more of the so-called restraints of the laws of war. On the contrary, all the great Powers pressed chemical laboratories into the service of their armies and have been feverishly at work since to outstrip each other in deadly formulas for the next war. The United States Government recently held an exhibition of its "progress" and pridefully announced the discovery of a chemical combination a single drop of which touching the human body would cause death.

Within the last few days the world has been informed that all of the great Powers have taken the first steps in the secret development of an electrical "death ray" which may be projected over great distances, it is hoped, so as to blot out whole unseen armies; and, of course, it could as effectually destroy whole cities, with their men, women and children.

When the Governments of enlightened peoples go in for this sort of business, the question must inevitably arise in the minds of those peoples whether those Governments deserve longer to be tolerated. For, after all, though most of the Governments of the world are masters of their peoples, that is not the theory in the United States, Great Britain, France, Italy, or even in Germany. In the United States, particularly, a Government whose policies are subversive of the rights to life, liberty and happiness of the people has no title whatever to popular support. On the other hand, the right to alter or abolish it is proclaimed in our first great political document. And this principle is recognized as valid throughout the world.

No one will pretend that the peoples of the United States, Great Britain, France, Italy and other enlightened countries have instigated or even approved the prostitution of governmental power that threatens to exterminate the human species and leave the earth as lifeless as the moon. On the contrary, these diabolical preparations of their Governments fill them with horror. Yet their Governments go merrily on with the great criminal conspiracy.

Even the once peaceful-minded United States is to be subjected to conscription as a permanent policy if the entering wedge, House bill No. 8111, a War Department measure, can be put through Congress.

If war is ever to be abolished the peoples of the earth must do the job themselves; it is hopeless to expect their Governments to surrender this stirring and profitable privilege. In the United States we must get back to the wholesome Jeffersonian distrust of Government and view it as it really is: a very small minority enjoying power over the rest, who will constantly abuse that power unless kept strictly within definite limits. And only as those limits contract everywhere will man find peace and release from bedevilment by his uncontrolled political masters.

THE LAW AND THE BIBLE.

Whether or not the learned Circuit Judge of St. Charles County grants a new trial to Mrs. Angie Saali, convicted last week of attempting to murder her husband, there is aptness in the point raised by her lawyer that the voice of the Prosecuting Attorney is not the voice of God, and it may well be, as the lawyer says, that the prosecutor took too much upon himself in undertaking to say how God looks upon Angie Saali.

The prosecutor, after the manner of prosecutors, quoted from the Scriptures with the purpose of convincing the jurors that God was on his side of the case. It is not revealed to what extent the jurors were convinced of this, but it is conjectured from the severity of their verdict that they were impressed by the prosecutor's assumption of divine collaboration.

This much must be conceded: that if the Bible was to be invoked, in aid of the law and the evidence, in determining the guilt or innocence of the woman, its utterance should have been brought forth on both sides of the case, for the Bible is not lacking in lessons of compassion for the erring woman.

Everything considered, though, it would perhaps be as well if lawyers on both sides would confine themselves to the law and the evidence and let the theologians interpret the Bible.

Archeologists have discovered a buried Roman theater in Bulgaria with massive marble stairs worn smooth. Those were the good old days before the theater, trust and the amusement tax.

DEMOCRACY FOR THE VIRGINS.

The Virgin Islands are a group of three main islands and some 50 islets east of Porto Rico in the West Indies. They were purchased by the United States from Denmark in 1917. They command strategic control of the great gateway to the Caribbean Sea and the Panama Canal.

At the time of the transfer the islands had a population of 26,000, mostly negroes. Under Danish rule the inhabitants had been educated; they speak English and are said to be fully capable of self-government. They have languished, however, under military rule, intended to be only temporary, ever since they entered the American fold. A succession of collisions between the natives and the marines, says the Virgin Islands Committee, was entirely unnecessary and thoroughly discreditable to the United States. The population has dwindled to 10,000.

A bill has been drafted by the committee for congressional action establishing a permanent civil government and containing a bill of rights. It is designed to grant to the islands the liberties they have historically held, together with "the rights which American rule should give every American subject." Something should be done to give these islanders justice, free them from military dictatorship and permit the islands to resume the natural attractiveness to which their delightful climate and location entitle them.

AN AMERICAN RENAISSANCE.

In reply to a request from the editor of the Post-Dispatch, Dr. Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard, has outlined a Democratic platform for the coming presidential campaign. It is a brief, clear enunciation of principles which, apart from the controversial subject of "immediate entrance into the League of Nations," would, we believe, be received with satisfaction by the public—a satisfaction that would glow into enthusiasm the more its intrinsic force and vision were considered.

The Eliot pronouncement is a declaration of American verities. It is serenely above the low level of vote-catching devices to which platforms have degenerated under the evil genius of opportunism. Here is a statement that dangles no bait of preference to any special interest of any kind. It is an engagement sincerely to administer the public affairs honestly in the interest of all the people, keeping ever in mind the supreme purpose of justice to which this Government was originally dedicated.

It is an occasion for regret, however, that Dr. Eliot, in discussing the question of candidates, should limit availability to the West, Northwest or North. The Post-Dispatch believes it is high time that the sectional bar-sinister be removed from our politics. Let the great office of President seek the man and draft him where it finds him, regardless of legend or superstition.

For example, the South today has two men of accepted presidential caliber. One is Senator Underwood of Alabama. The other is Senator Robinson of Arkansas. It is not only irretrievably unfair to those men to declare them ineligible for our highest office for geographical reasons, but it is unfair to the country. Surely the American people are entitled to the best ability, experience and qualifications obtainable for the chief magistracy. So long as barriers are permitted to stand in the way of such realization our national unity is a rhetorical fiction and hollow sham.

But it would be a fine thing for the Democratic party, and the Republican party, too, to renounce the insidious vice of expediency with which our practical politics is now cursed and, acting on Dr. Eliot's advice, to pledge themselves only to the highest public service which integrity and capacity can render. Such a commitment undertaken and carried out in the patriarchal spirit of the Dean of the United States, as Dr. Eliot may be called, would witness governmental regeneration and usher in a real American renaissance.

UNSEEN GOVERNMENT'S GREATEST HOUR.

Enough intelligence of the national Republican convention of 1920 has been brought out formally and informally to award that memorable event first place in the history of invisible government. Evidence presents a variety of details, but all testimony to date agrees that the nomination on the floor of the convention was a sham. The convention's actual business was transacted in the private councils of the party bosses.

We hope some day to read the full authenticated history of the Chicago convention. Here is rare opportunity for the historian. What recital of battle or intrigue could quite rival in interest this performance of money and politics nominating a President while the millions of American voters went about their business in the pleasant misapprehension that theirs was at all times a Government of the people!

Big business, politics and corruption won their objective though humanity at home and abroad paid the cost. Some of the damage may never be repaired. The victims of starvation in Europe will not be restored to life. Exposure, however, has brought to the American people a lesson beyond price. Will the voters of either party hereafter supply the conditions that will make it possible for candidates to be nominated in hotel rooms and by telephone? Are the conscientious attempts of the people to express their will in preferential primaries to be tossed out of the window by a handful of bosses?

The lesson of the Chicago fiasco and its tragicomic consequences is for the voters of the nation to take or leave.

It seems vain now for Mayor Kiel to attempt to suppress the Research Bureau bulletin either by withdrawing his subscription or by contributing to its pages.

NO POLITICS ON THE BENCH.

The Post-Dispatch called attention recently to the admirable action of the Republican lawyers of the Second Supreme Judicial District in Illinois in declining to name a candidate to oppose Judge Farmer, who has served the people faithfully and efficiently on the Illinois Supreme bench for two terms. Despite the fact that the district is Republican and Judge Farmer is a Democrat, no nomination has been made by the Republicans.

The Democrats of the First Supreme Judicial District have not shown the same spirit. Judge Warren W. Duncan, who has served on the Supreme bench ably and faithfully for one term of nine years, following an excellent record of service of 12 years on the Circuit bench and of six years in the Appellate Court, is a candidate for re-election, but the Democrats of the First District have nominated Paul Farthing of East St. Louis to oppose him.

Politics has been taboo on the Supreme bench of Illinois as at present constituted. It has not been a factor in discussions on decisions. The record of the court in disposing of its docket and in handling the cases brought before it has been excellent.

Judge Duncan, who was the unanimous nominee of the Republican convention, is acknowledged to be one of the ablest and most efficient of the Supreme Judges. The opinion of the bar was expressed by a prominent Democratic lawyer who, calling attention to the conspicuous absence of political bias and the presence of sound legal principles and reasoning in Judge Duncan's opinions, said: "Measured by the standard of fitness for this high office, and judging by the service rendered in nine full years of devoted service in this court, the consensus of opinion of Illinois lawyers will be found concurring in the view that no other member of the bar in that district can so well and fittingly fill this position."

Keeping good Judges on the bench and keeping politics out of the judiciary is a sound rule which the people ought to follow.

BETHLEHEM.

"WHICH is the way to Bethlehem?
Is there no one to show it?"
So asked the three Kings from the Eastern land.
"Dear children, do you know it?"
Neither old nor young could tell them the road.
The Kings went on. Before them
There went a beautiful golden star,
Which gleamed in its glory o'er them.
The star stood still over Joseph's house.
They entered, their offerings bringing.
The oxen lowed, the Infant cried,
While the three wise Kings were singing.

Presumably the action of Congress on the immigration bill does not mean that anybody wants war between the United States and Japan, but if there is any doubt about it, suppose we read the following from Bertrand Russell's book on China:

A war between the United States and Japan would be a very terrible thing in itself and still more terrible in its consequences. It would destroy Japanese civilization, insure the subjugation of China to Western culture, and launch America upon a policy of world-wide militaristic imperialism. It is, therefore, at all costs to be avoided. If it is to be avoided, Japan must become more liberal; and Japan will only become more liberal if the present regime is discredited by failure. The British alliance with Japan, since the end of the Russo-Japanese war, has been an encouragement to Japan in all that she has done amiss. Not that Japan has been worse than we have, but that certain kinds of crime are only permitted to very great Powers and have been committed by the Japanese at an earlier stage in their career than prudence would warrant.

Perhaps by being a little more liberal ourselves than we seem to have been during the past week would be just as well. As far as we could see politicians made a little political capital for themselves down in Congress without any benefit to the country as a whole.

A woman was cashing a check at a St. Louis bank.

"I don't want these $2 bills—they are bad luck," she said, handing four $2 bills back to the teller.

The teller says few women will take a $2 bill.

"Women are terribly superstitious," he said.

TO. W——.
(From the Spanish Becquer.)

A tear was welling in her eye,
And to my lips a gracious pardon rose;
But Pride spoke, and her grief was hidden;
And on my lips the words of kindness froze.

Today our paths lie far apart,
Yet, thinking on love now long asleep,
I sigh, "Why were those words unspoken?"
And she, perhaps, "O, why did I not weep?"

In the Congressional Directory you "roll your own." It is an excellent index to congressional modesty, if any. Here is what Congressman Manlove of Missouri has to say for himself:

JOE J. MANLOVE, Republican, of Joplin, was born at Carthage, Mo., Oct. 1, 1876; lived in Lawrence County, Mo., many years; admitted to the bar when 21 years of age; closely associated with the farming, fruit and live stock industries and general development of Southwest Missouri; for three years executive secretary of the Ozarks Playground Association, a mutual advertising association formed for the general advancement of that part of the Ozarks known as "the land of a million smiles"; Republican nominee for Congress in campaigns of 1914, 1916 and 1922, each time leading his ticket, and elected in 1922 by a lead of 4042 over his Democratic opponent at a time when the district went heavily Democratic; married to Alma White of Pierce City, Mo., and has one son—Almon White Manlove."

Contrast this with the most modest entry in the book—that of Senator Caraway of Arkansas:

T. H. CARAWAY, Democrat, Jonesboro.

WHEN MEN WERE HONEST.

(Nodaway, Mo., Democrat-Forum.)

Gen. Robert E. Lee, the great Confederate leader, left a thought that would make mighty good reading for a lot of our public officials nowadays. At the close of the Civil War he was offered $50,000 a year to lend his name to an insurance company as president. He needed the money, but he replied, "Don't you think if my name is worth $50,000 I ought to be very careful about taking care of it?"

RESURRECTION.

KIND Nature has remembered on each year
Since that resplendent resurrection day
To clothe earth with new verdure, bright and gay,
That man might not forget when Christ was here.

The primrose, richly garmented in gold,
Brought by the sunbeams, messengers of love,
To cheer the sad world, lifts its cup above
The gray-brown blanket of the forest mold.

The bluebird and the robin once again,
As harbingers and heralds of the spring,
Return to budding orchard lands and sing
To drive dead winter's gloom from homes of men.

Brown torrents thunder down the rough ravine,
Long held in icy fetters on the height;
Their freedom now restored, by day by night,
They chatter as they race through pastures green.

Fair Nature never fails, but men forget
The resurrection morn when for us all
Was listed from the grave death's somber pall,
When rose truth's sun which nevermore shall set.

Oh! may the spirit of our risen Lord
Bring an eternal Easter to the heart,
And gratitude and reverence impart,
That all may worship Him with true accord.

ENGLAND'S SOCIAL REVOLUTION.

SIR PHILIP GIBBS in the World's Work.

THE prerogatives of wealth and birth have passed forever. The barriers between classes have broken down. The younger generation of England cannot count any more on getting good jobs and stepping into their fathers' shoes merely because they happen to be the sons of their fathers. One sees the change already in the spirit of the universities. In the old days, not so long ago, the Oxford and Cambridge Unions were the training schools of future statesmen, diplomats and lawyers. * * * The civil service, the diplomatic service, the law to some extent, and the church in its higher ranks, all were reserved for the high caste. This system gave a sense of security to the younger sons of noblemen and the old gentry. Now there is no such security, and university men of general talent but of no particular genius will have to compete for places with the sons of miners and millhands who generally study harder and know more of life in its realities. Because, strange as it may seem, the members of this Labor Government in England, even those who came from the working ranks, are not more ignorant demagogues who broke their way through by loud-mouthed violence and street-corner oratory, but are on the whole quite as well educated as their conservative opponents and, in many cases, more entitled to the term of "intellectual" than those who speak with the Oxford accent. Ramsay MacDonald himself has been a life-long student. Philip Snowden is a bookworm. John R. Clynes carries a pocket Shakspeare with him on every railway journey. And the sons of these men, or of some of them, are actually at Oxford "swatting" in a way that is rather distressing to their friends who belong to the old tradition. This social revolution will not seem so strange to American readers who do not realize the strength and endurance of the aristocratic structure of English life, but truly it is amazing to all English folk, and to the die-hards of the old regime it seems the beginning of bolshevism. It is certainly the beginning of a new era.

THREE GOOD PUBLICATIONS.

From the Joplin (Mo.) Democrat.

A CORRESPONDENT writes to the Democrat asking what publications to read to become posted on politics and public affairs.

Aside from the Democrat, there are three good ones—many more, possibly, but three excellent ones that we know about. For a daily paper, the St. Louis Post-Dispatch is far and away superior to any newspaper circulating in this section. It is the only real independent paper we know of. Besides, it has the news, both domestic and foreign, to compare with the best. Next is La Follette's Magazine, published by Senator La Follette at Madison, Wis. By many it is considered radical, but its comments are splendid and conclusions sound. While La Follette is a Republican Senator, he is more Democratic than Republican.

Then comes the "Searchlight on Congress." This is a very able publication issued at Washington. It is a well-edited magazine, and gives the best comments on Congress of any publication we knew of. There are, of course, many other good ones, but these three will post anyone on politics.

ether, reading, munching and bumping into other people.

That is an epitome of his life to the very end. He went on striding, absorbing, planning, directing whether in daylight, or darkness. Wherever we went great trunks full of books went with us. The mails were always heavy with bundles of clippings, newspapers, special reports from editors and business managers. Telegraph and cable offices worked overtime. To get through this huge mass of reading required relays of secretaries trained to select and condense.

His Relaxation.

"Give me only the point—the pith," was the blind man's constant cry, and he had an unerring instinct for plucking out the pith and throwing the rest away. Devouring a 300-page novel (carefully prepared, of course) in an hour and a half was his idea of complete relaxation.

You might have thought that even a man in Mr. Pulitzer's plight would be happy on the yacht, for example, to sit quietly for an hour now and then with the sun shining on him and the breeze blowing gently in his face, exchanging only a lazy remark, or two, with some one nearby. But never! From the moment he woke in the morning till he went to bed at night his mind must be constantly taking something in, or giving something out. His brain was like a tight drawn bow. His rushings to and fro between America and Europe, his restless journeyings from place to place were only minor outlets for his energy. It was like a nervous man who walks up and down the room while he thinks and dictates. Mr. Pulitzer walked up and down a couple of continents.

His mind was a five-decker. Or rather it was like a railway center where trains come and go in different directions at the same time. In the evening after dinner he "rested" by listening to reading, while the pianist who always traveled with him played his favorite selections in another room just far enough away not to drown the reader's voice.

And often in one breath Mr. Pulitzer would suddenly interrupt: "Read that paragraph again. No style like Jane Austen's! Tell him to play more of the Fourth Symphony. Take a pad and add this to the editorial I cabled this afternoon." Julius Caesar could dictate to his secretary, eat breakfast and give orders to three generals all at once. Mr. Pulitzer matched that daily.

Fond of Music.

selves equal to Westerners. The Turks learned science from the Germans. They are now quite able of taking care of themselves. Science is also the end of old-fashioned Government in the East. It is introducing democracy. It would be interesting to know if this is to mean that all the East is to become Westernized. I hope it means only that it is to become capable of defending itself.

"Bolshevism is not the factor in Eastern civilization that may be supposed. It implies communism, and the Orientals are not communistic. They are intensely individualistic. All Orientals love to trade. They would not exchange that passion for anything bolshevism has to offer. This is particularly true of the Chinese. Communism is lost upon them."

"Which of the European nations is the most civilized?"

"The French. They honor the artist, a sufficient test of civilization anywhere. The East honors all beautiful things, but only the French among westerners honor art. It is too bad they are so warlike."

"Do you know Ramsay MacDonald?"

"Yes. A very able and earnest man doing what any sensible man enjoying freedom would do in his place. It is an advantage to peace in Europe, not to speak of peace among ourselves in England, that we have a Labor Government. It has settled three strikes, all in favor of the workers, that probably would not have been settled except for the sympathetic interest of the Labor Government with working people."

"Do you think it did the United States any good to have all the money in the world dumped over here during the war?"

"It was the worst thing that could have happened any country, though enough terrible things can happen most countries upon much less provocation. I should say that the commercialism of the press here and in England, which has stripped it in so many cases of all political influence and greatly impaired its usefulness to the people, is a sufficiently terrible thing to happen. It is also too bad that you cannot have education in many of your great colleges and universities except in the shadow of authority imposed upon them by the fact that almost none but rich men who make them possible serve upon their boards of control."

Take a pad and add this to the editorial I cabled this afternoon." Julius Caesar could dictate to his secretary, eat breakfast and give orders to three generals all at once. Mr. Pulitzer matched that daily.

Fond of Music.

He was passionately fond of music—though without technical knowledge or training. But here again his constant demand for selection and condensation came into play. Beethoven, Wagner, Liszt—his pianist had skillfully culled and combined his favorite portions of each, so that he often grew impatient when hearing a symphony, or an opera performed at length. Hungarian music, played by the Tzigane orchestras that were a feature of the great restaurants of Europe before the war, always attracted and stirred him deeply. The "Liebestod" from Wagner's "Tristan and Isolde" was played every night of his life as the last number of his private evening concert.

Closest to his heart, claiming always the best of his mental effort was the editorial page of the New York World. He was never too far away to keep in touch with it. Even from remote corners of the Mediterranean the cables carried thousands of words of criticism, direction and editorial outline. To the writing of an editorial he gave the most intense consecration in his desire that each word should be absolutely just and fair. Having to weigh the sense with ear instead of eye made the task a hard one.

The painstaking effort that went into that task has never been better described than by Ralph Pulitzer in a speech at the celebration, May 10, 1908, of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the ownership of the World by Joseph Pulitzer—the latter then ill in Europe.

His Son's Testimony.

"I have in my mind's eye the picture seen many and many a time of a man in the throes of sightlessness and suffering insisting on a paragraph, or phrase, being read and reread to him over and over again, listening with painful tension to catch and correct any slightest suspicion of misstatement in a fact, any slightest shade of overemphasis in an adjective, any possibility of conveying an impression that was not altogether accurate and scrupulously just."

His memory was extraordinary. Unfortunately he expected other people's memories to be as good. But he also held that the next best thing to knowing facts is knowing how and where to find them quickly when wanted. A compact reference library was kept always close at hand. He delighted in dinner discussion that developed into great "fact hunts" and left the table piled high with books. A terse, concise style, meaty with fact and condensed comment, always aroused admiration. "I haven't time to be brief" was one of his characteristic ways of starting a letter or telegram. "Accuracy, terseness, accuracy," became the familiar wall motto of the Post-Dispatch and the World.

His great height, his notably impressive head and the almost fierce intensity of his expression made him personally not a little formidable. Even in his blindness, his look seemed to concentrate on you with a power that was singularly disconcerting if you had anything to conceal—and even if you hadn't. Being cross-examined by him was an experience no one ever forgot.

I remember once when we were staying in Berlin there was some question as to the exact routing of a train that was to take us to Marseilles. Mr. Pulitzer thought we were all wrong about it, so we summoned a railway official to explain. The official was a nice young man with red cheeks and he arrived dressed in his best with a cornflower in his buttonhole, quite jaunty and happy at the prospect of a chat with the famous American journalist.

Rodin's Experience.

We took him in and left them alone together. In about 15 minutes the young man came out white, wilted, trembling, speechless. We had to take him into the dining room, prop him on a chair and give him a glass of sherry, before he could start home. He said he had never been through anything like it in his life. Mr. Pulitzer was later heard to remark: "That young man seemed far from a fool. I am glad I was kind to him!"

The Rodin bust of Joseph Pulitzer came near not being made. Rodin insisted that he could model it only if Mr. Pulitzer bared his shoulders, and Mr. Pulitzer modestly but forcibly maintained that under no circumstances would he remove his shirt for Rodin or anybody else. It required patience and persuasion to get Mr. Pulitzer even to open his collar, and though he submitted to the sittings, he never felt the same again either toward Rodin or the bust.

While he needed no lessons in swearing, while he was anything but prudish in his literary tastes and while he was usually surrounded by men, he had no use whatever for the common type of smoking room story. The man who told such a story at his table never told a second.

Mr. Pulitzer sometimes complained of his feelings, but never of his fate. His favorite quotation was a passage from Goethe which he often repeated in the original and in translation:

"Gut verloren—etwas verloren!
Musst rasch dich besinnen
Und neues gewinnen.
Ehre verloren—viel verloren!
Musst Ruhm gewinnen,
Da werden die Leute sich anders besinnen.
Mut verloren—alles verloren!
Da war es besser; nicht geboren."

Money lost—something lost!
Must bestir thyself to get more.
Honor lost—much lost!
Must win fame so the world will forget.
Courage lost—everything lost!
Better thou hadst never been born.

A characteristic physical trait was deply indicative of the man. He never gave the impression of groping. Blind though he was, he always got up out of his chair and started straight forward. Somebody had to be there to catch and guide him—and because somebody had to be there, somebody was there.

No man ever set a stiffer mental pace for those about him than Joseph Pulitzer. He kept other minds going at a speed that ended by astonishing their owners. That was the way he got the most out of his lieutenants—a "most" always more than the utmost of which they had thought themselves capable. He was a master at getting men to undo themselves.

"I can hire a hundred men," he used to say, "to tell me a thing can't be done. What I want is the one man who will tell me it can be done—and do it."

When blindness came upon him he was like a giant checked in a swift journey by a darkened road. To push on he had to have guides. But push on he did at a rate that often left the guides winded. To the end of his life he read, through the eyes of others, everything worth reading—histories, biographies, novels, plays, newspapers, magazines—that was published on two continents.

He drank in news as a thirsty man drinks water, and his thirst for news was never slacked. American politics were the breath of life to him and there he needed no guide. Speeches, platforms, policies, campaigns, personalities—he seemed to absorb them by some mysterious sixth sense, while his mind rushed ahead to editorial analysis, guidance and prediction.

His impatience was often sorely trying—the impatience of a Titan whose brain nobody could feed fast enough. Yet there were three things in which his joy was as simple as that of a child: (1) The announcement of a new book; (2) Sending that book, after he had read and liked it, to the longest list of editors and friends he could draw up; (3) Finding ambition and promise in some young newspaper man and laying plans to push him ahead.

Out of this last grew the School of Journalism. He believed preparation for newspaper work could be taught. He believed that young men and women would eagerly avail themselves of such teaching. Here in this school, if anywhere, should be the broadest understanding of Joseph Pulitzer. You ought to be interested in knowing what manner of man he was. For his interest in young journalists was so great that it pushed beyond those he could know in his lifetime to surround you who study here today and the many who will study here in years to come.

"Do you think it did the United States any good to have all the money in the world dumped over here during the war?"

"It was the worst thing that could have happened any country, though enough terrible things can happen most countries upon much less provocation. I should say that the commercialism of the press here and in England, which has stripped it in so many cases of all political influence and greatly impaired its usefulness to the people, is a sufficiently terrible thing to happen. It is also too bad that you cannot have education in many of your great colleges and universities except in the shadow of authority imposed upon them by the fact that almost none but rich men who make them possible serve upon their boards of control."

"You think we should have liberal thought in education?"

"Of course. Otherwise you will have intellectual stagnation. How can you have education without inquiry, and how can you have inquiry without freedom?"

I haven't the least idea that either is possible, nor have I any illusions as to the number of people who think they are good things to encourage. So he was not talking to me.

"How is the prohibition question in England?"

"There isn't any."

"We thought there was."

"Well, after observing the consequences of prohibition over here for a bit we decided there isn't."

"Didn't Lloyd George and Ambassador Geddes say this was the best thing we got out of the war or something of the kind?"

"I believe they did, to be sure. You know in these days of the violent flirtation which England is conducting with the United States there is nothing too pretty for the British to say it."

He ran one thin hand over his white hair.

"It is strange you do not get at that problem as we do by regulation and restriction."

"But it is a moral cause with us, if you know how difficult those are in the United States."

"O yes, of course. That would be the sort of thing you would make a moral cause. You would not make a moral cause of your dollar diplomacy, which deprives all the little Latin-American countries of their sovereignty because they need

The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION

This column is designed to reproduce without bias the latest comment by the leading publicists, newspapers and periodicals on the questions of the day.

ENGLAND'S SOCIAL REVOLUTION

SIR PHILIP GIBBS in the World's Work.

THE prerogatives of wealth and birth have passed forever. The barriers between classes have broken down. The younger generation of England cannot count any more on getting good jobs and stepping into their fathers' shoes merely because they happen to be the sons of their fathers. One sees the change already in the spirit of the universities. In the old days, not so long ago, the Oxford and Cambridge Unions were the training schools of future statesmen, diplomats and lawyers. * * * The civil service, the diplomatic service, the law to some extent, and the church in its higher ranks, all were reserved for the high caste. This system gave a sense of security to the younger sons of noblemen and the old gentry. Now there is no such security, and university men of general talent but of no particular genius will have to compete for places with the sons of miners and millhands who generally study harder and know more of life in its realities. Because, strange as it may seem, the members of this Labor Government in England, even those who came from the working ranks, are not mere ignorant demagogues who broke their way through by loud-mouthed violence and street-corner oratory, but are on the whole quite as well educated as their conservative opponents and, in many cases, more entitled to the term of "intellectual" than those who speak with the Oxford accent. Ramsay MacDonald himself has been a life-long student. Philip Snowden is a bookworm. John R. Clynes carries a pocket Shakspeare with him on every railway journey. And the sons of these men, or of some of them, are actually at Oxford "swatting" in a way that is rather distressing to their friends who belong to the old tradition. This social revolution will not seem so strange to American readers who do not realize the strength and endurance of the aristocratic structure of English life, but truly it is amazing to all English folk, and to the die-hards of the old regime it seems the beginning of bolshevism. It is certainly the beginning of a new era.

THREE GOOD PUBLICATIONS.

From the Joplin (Mo.) Democrat.

A CORRESPONDENT writes to the Democrat asking what publications to read to become posted on politics and public affairs.

Aside from the Democrat, there are three good ones—many more, possibly, but three excellent ones that we know about. For a daily paper, the St. Louis Post-Dispatch is far and away superior to any newspaper circulating in this section. It is the only real independent paper we know of. Besides, it has the news, both domestic and foreign, to compare with the best. Next is La Follette's Magazine, published by Senator La Follette at Madison, Wis. By many it is considered radical, but its comments are splendid and conclusions sound. While La Follette is a Republican Senator, he is more Democratic than Republican.

Then comes the "Searchlight on Congress." This is a very able publication issued at Washington. It is a well-edited magazine, and gives the best comments on Congress of any publication we know of. There are, of course, many other good ones, but these three will post anyone on politics.

How Pardons, Paroles and Courts Defeat Justice

make effective their 'getaway,' and only two complained of the lack of scientific and psychopathic study of defendants for the purpose of fixing new rules for criminal responsibility and devising proper methods of punishment. Of the 109 answering, there were 48 who thought there was a satisfactory enforcement of the law in their respective states, and of this number 15 were Judges.

"The reasons assigned for the failure of our system of criminal procedure to properly function show the wide range of public opinion within the profession upon this question. With the lack of agreement as to the causes, the difficulty of correction is, of course, increased, as the first essential to a cure is an agreement upon the part of those in charge as to diagnosis. But the differences are not as marked as they may at first appear, or, rather, the existence of these differences of opinion is subject to the explanation that what is a defect in the administration of justice in one state or in one city may not be a defect in another state or in another city; and it is evident that defects assignable to the faults and weaknesses of the human agents who administer the law usually tend to correct themselves. When such offending stirs public opinion, public opinion demands a correction, and a correction is usually effected. This is not true as to defects in the law itself, due either to its archaic character or to its indefiniteness and uncertainty.

"Another explanation of the differences of opinion is that they are given by men who have, in a majority of cases, given the subject no special study or investigation. While this is less true of the Attorneys-General, the District Attorneys and the Judges than it is in the case of the lawyers to whom the questionnaire was sent, yet even in the case of these public officials they are disposed to deal with the criminal law as a part of the day's work without the time or opportunity for a careful study or analysis of its history and its defects.

"Further, the Judges are clearly disposed to give the full benefit of the doubt to the system they administer and which they help to create and maintain. Thus, a presiding Judge of the highest court of appeal in one of the states answered the inquiry as to whether the archaic and technical form of our criminal procedure constituted a defect, by a capital NO., followed Whether the exclamation mark Whether the exclaamtion marks were placed in anticipation of the surprise of the reader or for the purpose of emphasis is a matter of of conjecture. But it is interesting to note that in the State for which this learned Judge made answer there occur more homicides in proportion to population than in any state in the Union. Whether there is any connection between the high mortality rate through unlawful homicide and the enthusiasm of the Court over the present form of criminal procedure is a question not capable of any definite answer.

Views of a Judge.

The Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of one of the leading Eastern States, in answer to the question, 'Do archaic and inadequate forms and rules of procedure exist in your State, and, if so, to what extent?' said:

"'I dont' think that the old rules of criminal procedure materially interfere with the proper administration of the law in this State. While the ancient forms are largely adhered to by statutes or decisions, the actual administration of the law has been largely brought up to date.'

"In answer to the question as to indefiniteness and uncertainty in the law of crimes and criminal procedure resulting in mistrials, reversals, conflicts in decisions, different tests of criminality in different jurisdictions, and a resultant critical attitude on the part of appellate courts and the examination of records of convictions, the same Judge said:

"'Criminal convictions are seldom reversed in this State. The attitude of appellate courts referred to in this question does not exist with us.' Yet, examination of 209 decisions from convictions in criminal cases in the State in the years 1912 to 1916, showed that of this number 134 were affirmed, 9 were reversed outright, 36 were reversed on differences of opinion between the trial and appellate court upon matters of procedure and 30 were reversed on differences of opinion as to questions of substantive law, making a total of 35 per cent of the convictions that were set aside for one reason or another. (This is about the percentage throughout the United States.)

As the Chief Justice is an able, high-minded Judge, the inaccuracy of his conclusions, based upon impression rather than investigation, is of particular significance.

"The further answer that he makes in the questionnaire is the following pertinent and forcible statement in reference to this situation:

Law Enforcement Conditions.

"'I should also say that an overtechnical attitude in trying and reviewing such cases is an evil which courts should seek to overcome. While I personally believe that there can be much simplification through legislation to practice, on both the criminal and civil sides of the law, yet I also believe that the courts themselves, by using good judgment and common sense, can accomplish this simplification, at least to a very great extent without waiting for legislation.'

"The presiding Judge of the Alabama Supreme Court indicated his complete satisfaction with the conditions incident to the enforcement of the law there, by answering every question as to the suggested causes of a defective administration of justice in the negative. This opinion was entirely at variance with the opinions of others answering the inquiry from the same state. For instance, Judge William E. Fort, a prominent lawyer of Alabama, answered the questionnaire to the effect that every one of the suggested causes operated in that State to prevent the proper administration of the criminal law.

"Similar differences of opinion between the statements expressed by the judges and by the other officials and the lawyers answering the inquiry occur in several states and similar differences of opinion between lawyers and judges appear in the reports of committees that have made other similar investigations. In the recent investigation of conditions incident to law enforcement in this country by a special committee of the American Bar Association, of which former Gov. Charles S. Whitman of New York, Judge Marquis Kavanagh of Chicago and former Attorney-General Wade Ellis of Ohio were members, letters of inquiry were sent to public officials of each State asking for information relating to conditions of law enforcement therein.

Many Reversals Without Merit.

"Hon. John C. Anderson, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Alabama, in his communication, which is found in the report of the Special Law Enforcement Committee of the American Bar Association, stated:

"'I think that criminal law is quite plain and simple and there are few instances in which the trial courts commit reversible error and as a rule where there has been miscarriage of justice, this largely is due to the action of the jury which is the trier of the facts.

"'Indeed, I have known but few, if any innocent men, black or white, to be convicted, but have known of some guilty ones to be acquitted, but which was due to the action of the jury in disregarding the evidence because of sentiment and other improper causes, but this has been the exception and not the rule. The great trouble is that so many of the reformers selected the exception as a criterion for condemning law enforcement rather than the rule.'

"An interesting conflict with this opinion is presented by the following extract from an address made before the State Bar Association of Alabama by Mr. C. B. Verner of the Tuscaloosa bar:

"'I have examined about 75 murder cases that found their way to the Supreme Court, and reported in random, volumes 100 to 160, of the Alabama Reports. More than half of these cases were reversed, and not a single one of them on any matter that went to the merits of the case; and very few of them upon any matter that could have influenced the jury in reaching a verdict.'

"In the same address we are told that more homicides were committed last year in the single county of Jefferson, Ala., than were committed in all Scotland, Ireland and Wales combined, and that the men who committed these murders for the most part went unpunished largely because the courts failed to properly discharge their duties to society.

"I am informed by Hon. Oscar Hallam, former Judge of the Supreme Court of Minnesota, chairman of the Section on Criminal Law of the American Bar Association, that he had examined as to the correctness of Mr. Verner's statement and had found it correct.

Defendants' Rights Trampled On.

"It is interesting to note that Mr. Verner also called attention to the fact that Alabama had the highest homicide rate, according to the census of 1910, of any State in the Union, except Florida and Washington.

The Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Florida, in an address before the Bar Association of that State, delivered last spring, indicated his disagreement with those who had urged a restatement of the criminal law by asserting that the defective administration of criminal law in this country was due 'to careless and inefficient Prosecuting Attorneys,' and that the courts, particularly the trial Judges have a tendency to excuse such neglect and inefficiency and have been too ready to sustain objections of State's Attorneys and to overrule objections by the defendants,' and 'that there are too many affirmances where prosecuting officers have been guilty of improper conduct and where trial courts have ruled against the defendant.'

"By such methods, he asserted, 'the constitutional rights of the defendants have been nibbled away,' and he ascribed to those who were trying to bring about a more effective administration of the criminal law as 'an obsession,' the result of experience as prosecuting officers.

Perils Foundation of Society.

"Whether there exists any connection between the judicial attitude towards the enforcement of the law in these different states and their pre-eminence among the states that have a high record for crime is a proposition that can only be a matter of opinion. But it is deserving of comment, as constituting a factor in dealing with this problem, that in the answers made by the appellate court judges, both in this and other similar investigations, there is expressed by many of the appellate court judges not only a satisfaction with existing conditions but something of impatience with those 'reformers' who criticize our existing system and are trying to bring about a change. Against the complacency and satisfaction which we thus find with the existing system of criminal law and procedure, there is to be offered the opinions of men whose experience and standing give to their opinions special weight.

"It is hardly necessary to repeat the often quoted statement of Chief Justice Taft, that 'the administration of criminal justice in this country has practically broken down under it own burden of technicality and that in all except a few states it is a disgrace to civilization.'

"Moorefield Storey, one of the Nestors of the legal profession, in an address before the American Institute of Criminal Law and Criminology, said:

"'There is no part of its work in which the law fails so absolutely and so ludicrously as in the conviction of criminals and the failure in these respects endangers the whole foundation of society.'

"Similar expressions have come from such distinguished representatives of our profession as former United States District Judge Amidon, Judge Wanamaker of the Supreme Court of Ohio, Dean Wigmore of Northwestern University Law School, Dean John D. Lawson of Missouri University Law School, and others who have given this subject a careful investigation.

"Enough has been said to emphasize the fact that as a general rule the reform of a system is not likely to be made by those who administer it and consider themselves responsible for its existence. But when the actual facts showing the archaic character of our system of criminal procedure, the indefiniteness and uncertainty in the substantive law of crimes, and the ineffective manner in which our system is functioning, are considered, we must conclude that the complacency and satisfaction of the Appellate Court Judges are unwarranted, and that our system of apprehending and prosecuting criminals stands condemned by results, or rather, by the lack of results, incident to its administration."

Sunday Movie Ordinance Vetoed

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PANA, Ill., April 19.—Mayor G. Johnson today vetoed an ordinance providing for Sunday movies passed at last Wednesday's meeting of Council. The Mayor contends the ordinance did not receive a legal majority vote of the Aldermen. A further fight for the ordinance will be made by those favoring Sunday movies.

KENNARD'S

You Are Invited to Inspect Our Finest Showing of Home Furnishings

America, England, France, Italy, Belgium and the Orient have all contributed of their ablest craftsmanship to the beautiful furnishings which we have assembled for your review and selection. The prices will be found consistently moderate.

An attractive window treatment in Damask. The kidney-shaped desk is of mahogany; the chair is a lovely Heppelwhite.

This Cabinet of red lacquer with stand in gold finish furnishes the islet of color most Living Rooms need.

Beautiful Summer Rugs

A large variety of Rugs for interiors during the Summer and for use on porches is presented in the selections from American manufacturers and the importations from India, Japan and Belgium.

The refreshing sense of coolness imparted by these pleasingly colorful Rugs will be gladly welcomed during the heated term.

These Rugs are comparatively inexpensive, and as they wear very well, to purchase them for use throughout the house, as well as the porch, will prove money well spent.

Domestic and Oriental Rugs

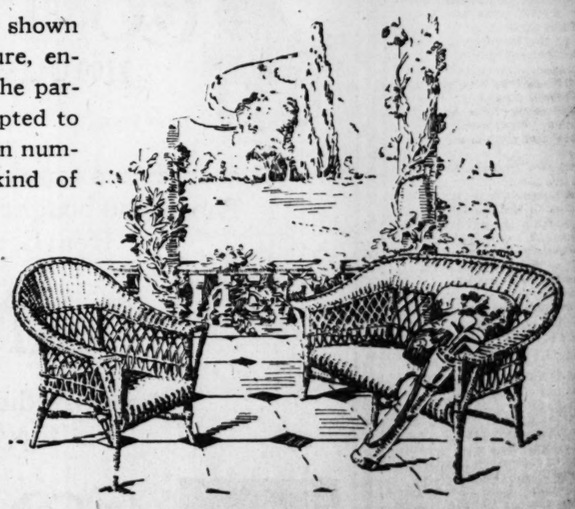
Because of the number of reliable qualities, designs, colorings and sizes embraced in our assortments for so many years, Kennard's is widely recognized as headquarters for Rugs of every description.

Thus it is easy to find any designs and colorings to harmonize with special decorative motifs in either Domestics or Oriental.

The prices are invariably low and much time will be saved by examing our selections.

Porch Furniture of Comfort and Character

Many new ideas are shown here in Porch Furniture, enabling one to choose the particular pieces best adapted to the particular porch—in number, size, color and kind of piece.



Vudor Ventilating Porch Shades, for which we are exclusive agents for St. Louis and vicinity, will add immeasurably to the comfort of porch-life days.

KSD TO AID AIRMEN IN BALLOON CONTEST

Post-Dispatch Station and Others to Broadcast Weather Reports for Aviators April 24.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—Every ballon taking off from Kelly Field, Tex., April 23, in the annual National Elimination Race, will be equipped with a lightweight, but powerful radio receiving set to keep the ballonists informed as to weather conditions, the Department of Agriculture Weather Bureau announced today.

Broadcasting stations over the country will start early that evening sending out information regarding weather conditions on the earth's surface, and in the upper atmosphere. This will continue as long as the balloonists are in the air.

K S D to Broadcast.

K S D, the St. Louis Post-Dispatch station, will send out its information at 12:30 p. m., April 24, the announcement stated. The balloons will take to the air at 4 p. m., central time. From the moment that the flight commences, the Weather Bureau will gather all necessary information, and incorporate it into a special bulletin, which will be telegraphed to the radio stations. The first station to broadcast will be W O A I, San Antonio, Tex., at 7:15 p. m., central time, and similar broadcasts will be made at half hour intervals from W E A Y, Houston, Tex., and W B A P, Fort Worth, Tex.

April 24, 1924, broadcasts will be made from W M C, Memphis, Tenn., at 12 noon, central time, followed by one from K S D, St. Louis, one-half hour later, 12:30 p. m.

Pittsburg Station to Help.

During the early part of the night of April 24, it is expected that the powerful station K D K A, at Pittsburg, will be within range of any ballons remaining in the air, and two broadcasts will be made, at 9 and 10 p. m., eastern time.

It is expected that the use of radio in obtaining the very latest weather forecasts and information will be of great value to all of the contestants in the race, the announcement concluded.

HOUSE VOTES $1,500,000 FOR FIGHT ON CATTLE DISEASE

This Is in Addition to $1,000,000 Previously Appropriated—Action Is Unanimous.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—An additional appropriation of $1,500,000 would be available to fight the foot and mouth disease among California livestock under a resolution adopted unanimously today by the House.

The resolution was hurried through at the request of the Agriculture Department which notified Congress that despite $1,000,000 already appropriated the epidemic was spreading. The bulk of the money goes to owners of infected cattle, hogs and sheep slaughtered in an effort to curb the disease.

Representative Blanton (Dem.) of Texas charged that the Republican majority was seeking to curry political favor in California.

"Don't forget that the Coolidge-Johnson primary in California comes off early in May," said Blanton.

Chairman Madden of the Appropriations Committee answered that there was no political significance to it whatever and was supported by Representative Byrnes of Tennessee, ranking Democrat on the committee, who said he was "surprised" at Blanton's charge.

money. I cannot think of anything I would rather do than help the rest of America assert its independence from just that sort of empire. Why do you put up with it?"

"I imagine for about the same reason you people put up with what you regard as the painful necessities of your own empire."

"Exactly. Those things go over our heads, just as international politics are controlled, quite without blame either to you people or ourselves, by the Standard Oil Co. and our own Royal Dutch Shell. The East cannot understand these things. The Oriental never thinks of concessions, but our Western civilization overruns the earth after them. The taxpayers maintain armies and navies to protect them, and when the concessionaires fall out there is a war having as its motto something quite foreign to the truth. It was this international oil feud that kept England from recognizing the Mexican Government for so many years.

"I only hope that with all this and our indecent scrambling for the natural wealth of Asia we are not going to make those people as avaricious and efficient as we are. It would be the end of us all if China decided that she wanted what the rest of us have and sent her millions of men out to bring home the bacon for her millionaires. You know she has one-fourth the population of the earth and used to when Jenghis Khan was Emperor overrun the world as far as Central Europe.

"The most encouraging thing I saw over there was the city of Fekin without a tram or a bus in it. I was told that once there was to have been a street car line, but when some of the money was put up the Chinese officials promptly stole it and the line was never built.

"The jig is up if efficiency ever gets a foothold in China, and from this I was encouraged to think it won't."

So, having had this talk with him and knowing he would have to see our street car lines and other proofs of efficiency, I let him slip out of his corner—and he was gone.

HYDE SPEAKING SOFTLY TO OLD RIVALS IN PARTY

Magnanimity Keynote of Governor's Policy as He Prepares for Convention He Will Control.

By CURTIS A. BETTS.

Arrangements for the Republican State Convention, which will convene in Springfield April 29 to elect delegates-at-large to the national convention in Cleveland June 10, are being worked out along practical political lines. The word "harmony" has not been mentioned in connection with the convention, but the party leaders are quietly fixing all the details, big and small, so there will be little, if any, discord resulting from the gathering.

Gov. Hyde will control the convention. Whatever he has in mind the convention will do. And when the Governor has a political situation entirely within his control and knows it can't get away from him, he can be magnanimous.

He is showing not the slightest disposition to do any rough riding in Springfield. In fact he is speaking softly and his every move is one calculated to placate the anti-Hyde faction. He even is willing to let some of it sit at the head table right alongside him.

Might as Well Be Forgotten.

Of course, in the House-Cleaners' campaign, of which the Governor was the beneficiary in 1920, the McJimsey-Babler-Dickey wing of the party was hardly considered fit to associate; that is, publicly, with the moral uplifters in the House-Cleaners' organization, which was engaged in nominating Hyde. But Hyde won them and since has captured complete control of the party organization, so for practical reasons, the House-Cleaners might as well be forgotten. They accomplished their purpose, which, of course, wasn't any party house cleaning at all, but was just a very clever little political scheme to elect somebody to office and to keep somebody else from being elected.

Now it is virtually certain Hyde will be perfectly willing for McJimsey to be chairman of the convention, and will be willing to give at least one of the places on the delegation-at-large to Dickey or Babler, or to somebody they agree upon.

Different Methods.

The Republicans have a different method of playing the political game than the Democrats. The latter were split in 1920 over Senator Reed and have remained split to this day. When the anti-Reed faction found itself in control at the Democratic State convention a week ago, its leaders quite openly said: "We're in the saddle, and, believe us, we're going to ride." And ride they did.

But not so with the Republicans. They were split in 1912, but not one of them remembered it in 1916. They were split in the primary and pre-convention days of 1916, but by the time the general election came along they were all fast in the bonds of political fellowship. They learned their lesson in practical politics in 1912 and henceforth kept close to putting into practice the theory that no quarrel should be so bitter as to keep Republicans, whatever kind of Republicans they might be, out of the jobs which come with success at the polls.

Even the Governor was not a Republican in 1912. He was the Progressive nominee for Attorney-General that year, but, notwithstanding all his indictments against the Republican party, he was back making speeches for the ticket in 1916.

Hyde Has a Longing.

Hyde's success in defeating McJimsey for the nomination for Governor in 1920, the year of the House Cleaners' movement, was heralded as a new era in Republican politics in Missouri. The "gang," as the House Cleaners called them, had been cleaned out and never would bob up again.

Hyde's victory was supposed to mean elimination of the old group of practical politicians, including Walter S. Dickey of Kansas City, National Committeeman Babler, E. L. Morse of Excelsior Springs, Joseph E. Black of Richmond and those who had trained with them.

The Governor took into his organization via the State job route a very considerable number of those who had been his opponents in the primary campaign. There is nothing like a political job to convince the average political hanger-on that he has been tied up with the wrong bunch and should change his factional allegiance.

In this way the Governor has perfected a smoothly-working personal political organization, but, with that accomplished there remains work to be done, the work of trying to win over the opposing factional leaders the Governor fought so bitterly in his campaign. That will be the job in Springfield, and from present indications it is working very well. All of which calls to mind that the Governor is looking quite longingly toward the Vice Presidential nomination.

No Rough Riding.

Largely as a result of judicious distribution of State jobs and activity of State job holders the anti-Hyde faction was outclassed in the election of delegates to the Springfield convention, so Hyde will be in complete charge of the situa-

A single teaspoonful of DR. CALDWELL'S SYRUP PEPSIN Will restore good humor

Mothers!! Apply Common Sense

THIS is the era of the prevention of disease and sensible people do not wait until sickness has actually come before remedying the trouble. The crowded hospitals everywhere are sad examples of the results of neglect. Be especially watchful of children. Restlessness, lack of normal appetite and feverishness usually indicate constipation. Stop it that instant with a spoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and you will have prevented real sickness. Mrs. Ida Williamson of 1637 Pine St., Long Beach, Cal., and Mrs. Lou Brawley of Self, Ark., never have illness in the family because of their prompt use of Syrup Pepsin.

A Great Family Laxative

It may be difficult to decide just which medicine to use out of the many that are offered, but it would not be if you knew the facts. There are laxatives, cathartics, purgatives and physics, and they vary in their reaction on the system. Naturally, the stronger the medicine the more it shocks the system, so wise parents never give anything but a laxative to children. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a mild laxative, a vegetable compound of Egyptian senna with pepsin and desirable aromatics, and so appreciated that it is now the largest selling preparation of its kind in the world, over 10 million bottles being used annually. The formula is on every package.

Three Rules of Health

Purchase a bottle of Syrup Pepsin at a drug store and always keep one in the family medicine chest. Give it to anyone from infant to grandparent, for it is safe, and the cost is less than a cent a dose. You can keep a family healthy with just this simple medicine. Give it for constipation, torpid liver, indigestion, biliousness, headaches, colds and other evidence of bowel obstruction. Dr. Caldwell, who was a practicing physician for 47 years and who originated this formula, had three rules of health that he found very effective among his patients and which you can follow with great benefit: Keep the head cool, the feet warm, the bowels open.

If You Want to Try It Free Before Buying

The Clean Line

Curves or Corners?

Imagine trying to wipe out that sharp corner with a cloth. Contrast how much easier it would be for your cloth to slip around the curve of that rounded corner. And there you have the big reason why the Kitchen Maid kitchen cabinet is so much better. It is built with inside rounded corners—they're just like the inside of a bowl. You can wipe your Kitchen Maid clean in an instant.

This construction is a symbol of the excellence which you find throughout the Kitchen Maid.

Who wants to dig out an old-fashioned corner, when the Kitchen Maid has all inside corners rounded, like the inside of a bowl?

No wonder you find so many fine homes equipped with Kitchen Maids. Women are won to these kitchen cabinets by their unusual cleanliness. But, once the cabinet is in the home, the owner discovers how wonderfully convenient it is, also. It makes work easier and more pleasant. Its arrangement is so perfect; there are so many details about its design and equipment which are truly appreciated, once it is in the kitchen. And it is beautiful with the beauty of simplicity. Women invariably comment on the attractiveness of its smooth doors, as well as its finish.

Have you ever examined a Kitchen Maid? Do so, by all means, at your first opportunity, by calling on your Kitchen Maid dealer.

New Treatment for Varicose or Swollen Veins

Swollen veins are dangerous and often burst. Sufferers are advised to get a two-ounce, original bottle of Emerald Oil (full strength), at any pharmacist and start to reduce the veins and bunches at once.

Physicians recommend Emerald Oil; it is used in hospital practice, and a small bottle will last a long time, because it is very concentrated and a little goes a long way. Apply night and morning with a soft brush as directed until the swelling is reduced to normal. It is guaranteed.

So marvelously powerful is Emerald Oil that enlarged glands, wens and even goitre disappear when used steadily.

tion. However, he is not going to be "rough." With the State organization in his own hands, he apparently sees no reason why he should not be magnanimous. With all the convention committees dominated by his faction, the Governor is not expected to see any reason why the chairmanship of the convention should not go to one of the opposition.

Also, what harm could result from putting one or two of the opposition on the delegation-at-large? This probably will be limited to one.

As plans are now working, the Governor will be temporary chairman of the convention and will deliver the "keynote" speech, and McJimsey, his erstwhile rival, will be permanent chairman. Care is taken by persons within the Governor's confidence to explain that McJimsey has not been decided upon finally, but that is the tentative plan.

More difficulty is to be encountered in picking the delegates-at-large. There will be seven. In addition to cultivating the women, the Republicans have a very large negro vote which they do not feel at liberty to ignore, particularly in a campaign in which the Ku Klux Klan probably will have an active part. At present the plan is to put men in three places, women in three places and give the seventh place to a negro.

Hyde, Spencer and Dickey.

The Governor will want to be a delegate, as also will Senator Spencer. It probably will be difficult for the Governor in makinfg the distribution to decide whether the Senator is with him or against him, one not being very certain where the Senator actually is to be found. Then there will be Dickey, and Babler, and R. R. Brewster of Kansas City, nominee for Senator in 1922; Dwight F. Davis Assistant Secretary of War, and Congressman L. C. Dyer. No definite slate has been made and probably will not be until the Governor hands out the orders in Springfield.

However, a guess which is being offered by local Republicans is that Hyde, Spencer and Dickey will be the ultimate decision.

Women Aspirants.

The only aspirants among the women discussed up to this time are Mrs. W. R. Haight of Bransville, director of women's work in Missouri for the Republicans; Mrs. Frank P. Hays, of St. Louis, and Mrs. Sylvester Wells, of Kansas City. There probably will be others by convention time.

Dr. E. B. Clements, chairman of the State Committee, will be elected National Committeeman without opposition. A sufficient number of congressional district conventions have instructed for him to make his election certain.

For National Committeewoman, the candidates are Mrs. Lon O. Hocker of St. Louis, who seeks reelection, and Mrs. Grace Semple Burlingham of St. Louis, woman manager for Coolidge in Missouri.

DEPORTATION AWAITS PRISONER, IF FREED

Immigration Men Ready if New York Society Gets Alien Released From Leavenworth.

Whether Joseph Baltrusaitis would rather be in Leavenworth Penitentiary or in his native Lithuania is not known, but if the efforts of the American Civil Liberties Union of New York to bring about his release are successful, the local immigration authorities propose to see that he is deported.

Has a Bad Record.

Baltrusatis, an alien and former saloonkeeper at 901 Market street, has a record of three Volstead act convictions, and the order for deportation had been issued before he was sent to Leavenworth March 11 for two years, for violation of the espionage act by circulation of communist literature. The New York organization contends it is gross injustice to hold him in prison "so long after the war and under a law long since suspended."

But espionage is the least of Baltrusaitis's offences, according to James Nash, immigration inspector in charge at St. Louis, who holds the deportation order. His contempt for the Volstead act, his bondjumping and other offences are declared to have exhausted the patience of Federal officials, who now are pledged to fight any proposal for his release.

May Get Coolidge's Pardon.

The Civil Liberties Union will ask for a pardon signed by President Coolidge. In this case the deportation order will be invalid, but should Baltrusaitis be paroled, or his sentence be commuted, which is more likely, it is proposed that immigration agents be at the prison gate to hustle him to a port of departure.

Immigration authorities think perhaps Baltrusaitis would rather serve a few remaining months of his sentence and run the chance that the deportation order would be forgotten.

BUSINESS MEN TO VISIT THREE STATES IN 'GOOD WILL' TOUR

To Travel in Special Train From May 11 to 17, "Invading" 40 Towns Before Return.

St. Louis business men will visit 39 towns in Mississippi, five in Tennessee and two in Louisiana in the third annual "good will" tour of the Sales Managers' Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce, May 11 to 17.

Traveling in a special train they will "invade" each town visited in parade formation, led by a brass band, which will accompany them, and the procession will break up in the business center, while the tourists scatter to visit business friends, distribute appropriate souvenirs and boost St. Louis and its products.

The travelers will have all their meals on the train and sleep on board, but the train will not move at night. Heads of the Advertising Club and Convention Bureau have approved the tour.

The first "good will" tour was in Texas as 1922, followed by one in Illinois last year.

Mann-Sidney Te... and Irene Bo... Head Week's

Comedians Appear in "Give and Take" Play—New Star Wears Costly Gowns in "Miss Bluebeard."

LOUIS MANN and George Sidney, who, as Hans Nix and Busy Izzy, began entertaining St. Louis audiences more than a quarter of a century ago, and Irene Bordoni, younger and much handsomer, but not a newcomer here, head the principal stage attractions of Easter week. Mann and Sidney open tonight at the Shubert-Jefferson Theater in "Give and Take," and Miss Bordoni, now starred for the first time, will be seen, also beginning tonight, in "Little Miss Bluebeard," a play with songs, at the American. At the Empress, the Woodward Players will make their first musical venture with "Forty-Five Minutes From Broadway."

"Give and Take" is a play about labor unions and employers. Mann appears as "Hardboiled" Bauer, an industrial pragmatist, and Sidney has the role of a factory foreman. The play is said to be enjoyable to men and women on both sides in the relations of capital and labor. The supporting company includes Nellie Burt, James Irving Mitchell, Neil Pratt and Corliss Giles. The play is by Aaron Hoffman, who wrote "Welcome Stranger" for Sidney, and who was one of the authors of "Friendly Enemies," in which Mann has appeared here.

A Hopwood Play.

Miss Bordoni's play was written for her by Avery Hopwood, being adapted from a Hungarian comedy by Gabriel Dregeley. The play is about little French Colette, who finds herself apparently married to two men at one time. Miss Bordoni sings a number of songs, and wears a collection of brilliant and beautiful gowns. Supporting players are Arthur Margetson, Stanley Logan, Eric Blore, William Eville, Arthur Barry, Eva Leonard-Boyle, Belle Daube and Jeanette Sherwin.

The vaudeville houses are asking the public to observe Easter Week as National Vaudeville Artists' Week. At the Orpheum, Elliott Dexter, a star of the screen, will headline the program today, in "A Good Provider." Jay Brennan and Stanley Rogers will appear in "You Must Come Over;" Helene Coyne and Henri French in "The Music of Motion," and the Sharrocks, Mary and Emma, in "Behind the Grandstand," with other numbers down to trained roosters.

"Forty-five Minutes From Broadway" has been seen here as a Cohan show. Its musical requirements are modest, but include some taking songs, one of them telling what a "grand old name" Mary is. The heroine of the play is Mary, a housemaid, and this aproned part is taken by Hazel Whitmore. Bobby Reed appears as Kid Burns, the pugilist. There is a chorus of 12 girls, an innovation in the stock-organization.

Barrymore-Brady Week.

Two New York successes are to be seen here next week, after which not much of the theatrical season will remain. Ethel Barrymore will be at the Jefferson, beginning Monday night, April 23, in "The Laughing Lady," a comedy by Sir Alfred Sutro. Alice Brady, in "Zander the Great," comedy of cowboys and

What They Are DOING IN Movie Studios

Delay in the filming of Rodolph Valentino's "Monsieur Beaucaire" has caused Helen Chadwick to withdraw from the cast, in order to begin work on her own starring productions for Hodkinson Pictures. Scheduled to begin work on the Valentino picture more than a month ago, Miss Chadwick has repeatedly postponed the beginning of the series of pictures in which she is to be starred. When she was told recently that unexpected delay in filming other scenes would make it necessary that she wait several weeks more before beginning work she asked to be released from her contract.

Pauline Frederick and Lew Cody have been signed by Ernst Lubitsch for two of the prominent parts in his next production for Warner Brothers. The screen play, as yet untitled, is an original written by Ernst Lubitsch and Hans Krely, his staff writer. The locale is New York.

Florence Vidor has been selected by John M. Stahl to play one of the stellar roles in his next picture for Louis B. Mayer—First National release. The story is a domestic comedy-drama of the type of such other Stahl successes as "Why Men Leave Home" and "The Dangerous Age." Miss Vidor will be seen as the patient wife of a well meaning but rather negligent man. Lewis S. Stone has been signed for this role.

"Miami," starring Betty Compson, is a story of millionaires with a millionaire atmosphere, made in

Symbolism Overdone in A Transplanted Drama

By HEYWOOD BROUN.
Drama Critic of the New York World.

NEW YORK, April 19.

I Am going to flop back into the ranks of the conservatives. Radicalism has gone too far. It isn't bobbed hair or cigarettes for women which disturb me. No, my longing for the good old-fashioned days has been brought about entirely by the expressionist drama. Mostly I don't get it. Sometimes when I do get it I don't like it. The next time I see a play in which the actors and actresses wear masks, I shall flee the theater. What is the matter with the human countenance, anyway?

And all this is inspired by the production of "Man and the Masses" from the German.

The Theater Guild program explains that Ernst Toller, author of "Man and the Masses" is "an ardent Communist," but the production of his play at the Garrick also proved him an indifferent playwright.

Has Lost Meaning.

This tragedy of the social-revolution suffers enormously from transplantation. "Masse Mensch" must have meant far more to German audiences who had manned barricades and stormed them and had heard the clatter of guns in the streets. The emotional recognition of a problem close at hand would carry such an audience over many stretches in which the intent of the play is murky.

To be sure, the choice of pacifism or of force is not a local issue. Toller deals with questions of mass psychology which are obviously universal, but by the very nature of the treatment he banks with abstractions. A devious expressionism manages to make much of "Man and the Masses" all but incomprehensible.

We were filled with foreboding from the moment that we read the brief synopsis of the first act and found "The husband symbolizing the State." From then on we sought symbols in everything. We puzzled as to which character would represent "That shade of liberal opinion which cries 'Peace! Peace!' but only until war has actually been declared." And which would stand for "Economic determinism" and which for "The depreciation of the mark during the first two weeks of February," and so on. It was not at all clear.

Pictorially Fine.

Lee Simonson has designed the production and staged the play, and his pictorial sense is never at fault. Again and again there are marvelous pictures. In lighting and grouping excitement comes now and again into being, but for the most part we found the essential thrill of drama lacking. Blanche Yurka, who plays the role of the protagonist, gives a performance of no little eloquence and dignity, but we were not stirred. Nor did Ben Ami find our pulse.

Only once were we buffeted by a surge of emotion and that came when an actress, whom we cannot identify by the program, suddenly struck up the "Marseillaise" in a curious cracked voice which had in it some note more moving than beauty and more searching than symbolism.

"Sitting Pretty."

THE old reliable firm of musical comedy manufacturers, Bolton, Wodehouse and Kern, is back in the business. Their spring line consists of "Sitting Pretty." The new entertainment lives up to the traditions of the house. Mr. Kern has written an unusually tuneful score. The lyrics of Mr. Wodehouse are ingenious. And the book by Mr. Bolton, although not actually aflame with wit, is workmanlike.

One of the customs of the firm is to assemble a good cast. This has been done for "Sitting Pretty." Queenie Smith is the outstanding hit of the show. She is perhaps the best dancer among all the soubrettes of the American theater, and she has a distinct comedy scene. In the present venture we think we note a rather regrettable tendency on her part to introduce stunt dancing—things which are admirable more because they are arduous than because they are beautiful. Such devices do not set audiences into a tumult, but Miss Smith is too good a dancer to become even for a moment merely a gymnast.

Dwight Frye, snatched from the legitimate stage, gives an unusual and delightful performance and Frank McIntyre is highly amusing as a sincere crook. Myra Hampton attends to the bulk of the sex appeal in the entertainment and throws in some comedy for good measure. Rudolph Cameron and Gertrude Bryan are other engaging entertainers of the evening.

Unless we are much mistaken even so many of Kern's tunes will eventually be flung at the public from dance orchestra, phonograph and radio but at the present moment they are still charming.

Robert Ellis and Marie Prevost in "The Wanters"—West End Lyric.

Thomas Meighan and Virginia Valli in "The Confidence Man"—Missouri.

"A Boy of Flanders" With Jackie Coogan At Three Theaters

Other Local Photoplay Features of Easter Week Are "The Confidence Man," "The Wanters," "No More Women," and "The White Sin."

JACKIE COOGAN'S latest success, "A Boy of Flanders," opens this week at the Grand Central, Delmonte and Capitol Theaters. It is a story in which Jackie returns to the rags that made him famous and in which he shares honors with Mack Sennett's famous dog, Teddy. The picture is an adaptation of Ouida's story, "A Dog of Flanders."

Josef Swickard, Nigel de Brulier, Lionel Belmore and Jean Carpenter are in the cast. Jean Carpenter is the little girl adopted by Mr. and Mrs. Jack Coogan Sr. She already has been moulded into a finished performer and is seen as the leading lady. The story is laid in suburb of Antwerp.

Jackie plays the role of Nello, a poor boy whose grandfather dies shortly after the story begins, leaving him alone in the world. He has one friend, however, in Patrasche, a dog, whose life he has saved, and another in Alois Coges, his girl playmate. The latter's father, though, hates Nello and does his best to have him sent from the town.

A prize is offered by an artist for the best drawing by a child of the village and Alois poses as Nello makes his sketch. In the contest Nello's drawing accidentally goes unnoticed and he believes he has lost. In a blinding storm and with no place to go he falls down in the snow, presumably to die. Meanwhile, however, his drawing has been discovered and he is announced as the winner. Patrasche, the dog, assisted by the entire village, leads the search for his master.

An added attraction at the Grand Central Theater will be the appearance of the Oriole Orchestra, a musical organization which appeared last season under the name of Oriole Terrace. Ted Fiorito and Dan Russo, composers of popular songs, are with the band. Frank Papila, St. Louis accordion player, also is featured.

Thomas Meighan in "The Confidence Man" is the Easter week photoplay offering at the Missouri Theater. The opening scenes take place in a typical small town. Meighan, a confidence man, arrives in the village to pluck some easy change. His efforts settle on a miserly old fellow to whom he sells fake oil stock. He falls in with other people of the town and gives them all a good fleecing. He prepares to skip the town, but the "man higher up" arrives from New York. From this point the story keeps the spectators guessing what is going to happen next, whether Tom will be exposed or if he will reform and marry the pretty girl with whom he has fallen in love. George Ade, author of several of Meighan's past successes, wrote the titles for "The Confidence Man." Virginia Valli has the leading feminine role.

A Will Rogers comedy and songs by Mills and Kimbell and by John Maher, tenor, are also on the program.

The West End Lyric Theater has two attractions. The first is John M. Stahl's production, "The Wanters," and the second is revival of the first picture in which Rodolph Valentino ever appeared. It is a two-reel film of ancient vintage in which the now famous "Sheik" appears with Carmel Myers. The picture is said to be both amusing and interesting; amusing because it is old-fashioned and interesting because it shows Valentino when he was an unknown.

"The Wanters" is a society drama of folks who "want what they haven't got." The cast includes Marie Prevost, Tully Marshall, Virginia Browne Faire, Sylvia Breamer, Robert Ellis and Robert McKim.

"Saint Joan" as London Views Shaw Play

LONDON, April 19.

How London reacts to George Bernard Shaw's "Saint Joan," previously produced in New York, is a matter of interest, partly because the English, equally with the French, are the people whom the drama is about. Said the Times:

"At the close of the penultimate scene, when Joan had been led off to the stake, we breathed again. We thought that our fears about the 'Shavianization' of the story had proved unfounded, or, at any rate, excessive. There had been regrettable lapses into the slang of today—'howler,' 'military dug-outs,' 'deliver the goods'—there had been some cheap jokes, e. g., the King's complaint that the sacred oil at the Reims coronation was rancid, and Joan's habit of addressing him as 'Charlie'; there had been one rather too long debate in the Earl of Warwick's tent on the precise character of Joan's offence against the church and the nobility, respectively; there had been too many gibes against the Anglicanism of the English as exhibited in the Chaplain de Stogumber—all these were typical but minor 'Shavianisms,' blemishes rather than gaping wounds on the fair face of the story.

"But never halloo till you are out of the wood! Mr. Shaw, having kept himself in hand for six scenes, let himself go in the last—a sort of epilogue, where the ghosts of all the characters visit Charles VII in his bedroom a quarter of a century later, all saying their little 'tag' like the personages at the end of a Christmas pantomime, and are followed by a frock-coated cleric of today who announces Joan's latest promotion in the Roman Calendar. This epilogue—which seems a dramatic analogue to the orthodox final chapter of a literary biography, headed 'Influence'—is an artistic error, because it lets the play down, robs it of its naivety, and imports (in the frock-coated cleric) an incongruity, not only to the ear, but, what is more serious on the stage, to the eye. Frock coats seem to have a morbid attraction for Mr. Shaw. There was the old gentleman in 'Back to Methuselah' whose clothes struck the Long Livers as so funny. Here is the same joke repeated with the quattrocentists. A stale joke, then, which never was a good one.

"Apart from that, the play is one of Mr. Shaw's finest achievements. It is a nuisance that he is so obsessed with the present moment as to drag it into every period, however remote, that he dramatizes. Nevertheless, he does dramatize pretty faithfully this Joan of Arc period. Indeed, we are inclined to think that he has stuck too rigorously to his documents."

Same Old Englishman.

The Daily Telegraph also calls attention to the epilogue as one of Mr. Shaw's "old games," and finds in the Chaplain de Stogumber the stupid Briton who has been seen in "Caesar and Cleopatra," "John Bull's Other Island," and last in "Back to Methuselah."

"The drama of Joan, as Mr. Shaw sees it," said the Telegraph, "is a drama without a villain. Peter Cauchon, Bishop of Beauvais, who condemned Joan, is no villain but a good churchman bent on saving a soul and stamping out heresy. Richard de Beauchamp, Earl of Warwick, is no villain, but an early diehard convinced that in Joan's ideas of kingship lies mortal danger to the feudal system. Mr. Shaw states that there is no historical evidence that Joan's judges were corrupt; he believes, indeed, the exact opposite, and points out as an anomaly that at her trial, when the merciful men by whom she was tried did everything to help her that they could reconcile it with their beliefs and their consciences to do, Joan was adjudged guilty of deadly sin, and was handed over to the secular arm to be burnt; while, 25 years later, when the trial was repeated by a thoroughly corrupt and dishonest court, Joan's memory was cleared and she appeared in her true colors. So much, says Mr. Shaw, for the short-lived human being doing his best according to his lights."

COMEDY, TWO TRAGEDIES, IN DEVEREUX REPERTOIRE

Players Seen at Artists' Guild Little Theater Last Year Return.

The Devereux Players, seen last year in the Little Theater of the Artists' Guild, will open their return engagement there Friday night with "The Mummy's Ear Ring," a tragedy by Spain's great playwright, Jose Echegaray. The story is that of a coquette, hesitating between two lovers, who chooses one, only to find that he is the son of the man who betrayed her mother. He shows her an antique earring, telling her it belonged to his father, and it is a duplicate of the one found on her mother at her death. She then marries the other man, only to court death because of her disappointment in her husband.

At the Saturday matinee Ibsen's "Ghosts" will be given, and Saturday night the comedy, "Barber of Seville," by Beaumarchais. Clifford Devereux and Zanita Graf head the Players again this season. Because of the interest in their productions by students and school teachers, popular prices are to prevail for the three performances.

WHAT THEY ARE DOING IN THE MOVIE STUDIOS

Florida under the direction of Alan Crosland, and shows the high jinks of the festive resorters in the "playground of the rich." The story starts right off with a smashing thrill, in which Betty Compson flirts with death on an aquaplane.

"The Siren of Seville," the Priscilla Dean production for release through Hodkinson, is in work at the Thomas H. Ince Studio in Culver City, under Hunt Stromberg's supervision. The story is an original written by H. H. Van Loan, the author of "The Virgin of Stamboul," in which Miss Dean scored a big hit several years ago. Jerome Storm is the director.

Vitagraph has selected for the forthcoming J. Stuart Blackton production a story dealing with "movie" life in Hollywood. It is called "A Woman of Hollywood." Irene Rich and Marguerite de la Motte have been engaged for leading roles.

In his career as a motion picture star Thomas Meighan has been as successful in crook dramas as in any other form of screen plays. His fans will not let him stay away from such roles very long, and it was because of the insistent popular demand that Meighan chose "The Confidence Man" for his next Paramount picture.

Ramon Novarro has completed the longest journey ever made to appear in a motion picture production. He was engaged in the star role in the Rex Ingram production "The Arab," being filmed in Tunis. A cablegram came to Novarro from the Fred Niblo unit of the Louis B. Mayer productions asking the star if he could be in Hollywood in time to play the leading male role in the newest Niblo production "The Red Lily." By cable Novarro accepted and promised to come directly to Hollywood. He only tarried in Paris waiting for the boat and in New York between the boat's docking and the departure of the next train for the West coast. He traveled more than 6000 miles to reach the Mayer studios in time to don makeup for the role of Jean Leonnec.

KNIGHT TEMPLAR SERVICES

Easter services will be conducted by the four Knights Templar commanderies of St. Louis at 2 p. m. today, in Moolah Temple. The four commanderies will meet at the Odeon and will march over Grand and Lindell boulevards to the temple. The Rev. Harold L. Reader will be the preacher. The former custom of holding the Easter celebration in a church has been abandoned, because of lack of seating space for the Knights and their guests, who include the children of the Masonic Home, Order of De Molay, Order of Beauseant and Order of Job's Daughters.

The Scottish Rite Masons will hold a public Easter service at 3:30 p. m. in the old Scottish Rite Cathedral, Seventeenth and Locust streets. A program of Easter music will be rendered.

'FOREST PROTECTION' AND 'GARDEN' WEEK

Planting of Trees and Cultivation of Plants Urged by President and Hoover.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—The biggest "back-to-the-soil" and "dig-in" week the United States has seen since war-garden days opens tomorrow with Forest Protection week and Second National Garden week coming on the same dates, says a statement from the American Tree Association.

Next Friday is "Tree day" of "Garden week," conducted by the General Federation of Women's Clubs, and thousands of women will join the American Tree Association by planting a tree.

The American Tree Association, through its president, Charles Lathrop Pack, directs attention to the importance of the McNary-Clarke forestry bill. In his proclamation setting the date for Forest Protection week, President Coolidge said: "We are drawing upon our supplies of timber four times as fast as they are renewed through growth."

One of the outstanding programs of tree planting reported to the American Tree Association is that of the Erie County Conservation Society of Buffalo. Mayor Schwab has set May 7 as tree-planting day for the entire city, and 60,000 trees will be planted. Another big feature is the completion of the work of the American Legion in planting a 5000-acre forest in Herkimer County, New York.

In Ohio, through the Federated Clubs, 800 committees are putting on the national tree-voting campaign in the schools in connection with the week. Thousands of trees will be planted. In Indiana, Kansas, Iowa, Minnesota, Mississippi, Illinois and many other states programs are being worked out in the schools.

As to the importance of getting the people back to the soil, the following statements are made for the week:

President Coolidge: "National Garden Week seems now to be well on the way to establishment as a fixed national affair, and I hope this year's observance will strengthen its position in public interest."

Herbert Hoover: "The intelligent cultivation of plants around our homes is to be encouraged. The home cannot be considered apart from its setting in nature."

Mrs. Thomas G. Winter, president General Federation of Women's Clubs: "The garden movement means contact with the vitality, reliability and serenity of nature in human life."

Mrs. Mary K. Shemran, National Federation of Women's Clubs: "A house does not suggest a home unless it has a garden and growing things around it."

3600 Beers Brewed on Ship.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

PLYMOUTH, England, April 15.—The North German Lloyd liner Stuttgart was able to manufacture 1800 quarts of beer in the ship's brewery during its recent voyage from New York. The beer was all consumed on the trip.

O, HOW BITTERLY G. B. S. HATES HIMSELF!

MODESTY and self-effacement are virtues not too common among stage folk and playwrights. But is there anyone else who "hates himself" with quite such an unquenchable hatred as George Bernard Shaw? This question is suggested by expressions in a letter which Shaw has written regarding French attacks on his play, "Saint Joan."

"An appreciation of my plays," Shaw writes, "has in a way become a proof of civilization, and up to the present France is almost at the bottom of the form. Nothing, however, can be done. I have educated London. I have educated New York, Berlin and Vienna; Moscow and Stockholm are at my feet, but I am too old to educate Paris; it is too far behind and I am too far ahead. Besides this, my method of education is to teach people how to laugh at themselves, and the pride of Paris is so prodigious that it has beaten all its professors from Moliere to Anatole France and might even beat me.

"After all, why should I trouble Paris? I am not Alexander; I do not dream of conquering more worlds. If Paris perishes in ignorance of my works, the loss will be for Paris and not for me. I do not say that the loss would not be serious; for I am as indispensable as Bergson for a complete modern culture; but France will accept me at second hand if not at first hand. And thus all is for the best in the best of all worlds possible."

SKYSCRAPER FOR VIENNA

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

VIENNA, March 30.—Plans to build what is termed Vienna's first skyscraper have been completed. The building will be 12 stories high and is to be erected in a working class section.

Proposals to build the skyscraper met with much resentment at first, but was defended by city planners as a simple necessity of post-war times. High buildings are now being advocated as one means of solving the acute housing problem. No dwelling houses were built during the war and for several years afterward and, as ground is scarce, the municipality is working on plans which call for some 25,000 flats, many of which will be included in buildings from five to 10 stories high.

"Y" GETS JOBS FOR 1116 APPLICANTS

Report Says Association Bureau Saved Men Employment Fees of $51,000.

The employment department of the St. Louis Y. M. C. A. placed 1116 men in positions during 1923, at an estimated saving to the men in employment fees of $51,000. The total expense of interviewing men, finding jobs and placing applicants was $5553. A total of 12,214 men were interviewed about work, 2962 applications received, and 1821 positions found open.

These figures have been compiled by R. W. Wenzlick, employment secretary, Railway Exchange Building, for use in the $3,000,000 "Y" development program campaign, May 6-16.

One of the most important things Secretary Wenzlick has learned from his department's work is that a man may be more or less than he appears to be, and, therefore, applicants should be tested, and not hired or turned down on sight alone. One man of no great impressiveness was placed through the department and has since accumulated $100,000 in three years, whereas one of the most personable men ever placed made a flat failure. Both were salesmen.

The men placed were office, sales and technical men, 25 per cent of whom were college graduates, 22 high school graduates, 36 per cent with at least one year of high school work, and only 1½ per cent with less than an eighth grade education. Eighty-four per cent of the men were under 23 years old.

During periods of prosperity as well as times of depression, about the same number of applicants apply for work, Wenzlick says. During the first months of this year more men have applied than ever before in the same period of time, which is due, he thinks, to educational talks the department has provided for various gatherings of men.

The Y. M. C. A. is the only employment office in St. Louis using scientific tests to determine the fitness of applicants, according to Wenzlick, who states that there are 150 varieties of standard tests in use, all of which are in the possession of his department.

Confidential information is secured about each man from former employers and others who know him. Letters containing such confidential information were obtained last year from 7362 persons.

No fees are charged for the service rendered either men or employers, but each applicant must either be a member of the Y. M. C. A. or pay $1 toward a membership card.

NEW BOOKS FOR THE WEEK AT THE PUBLIC LIBRARY

Any of these books will be sent by parcel post to card-holdest on receipt of postage, in order of application.

"BOOK OF CANADIAN PROSE AND VERSE," compiled by E. K. and E. H. Broadus. Contains only writings by Canadian authors, relating to Canadian life and scenery.

"CONFESSIONS OF A PRIMA DONNA." An entertaining narrative of the rise of an opera singer, who, however, does not disclose her identity.

"HOW TO TEACH HANDWRITING," by F. M. Freeman and M. L. Dougherty. The aim of this manual is to enable the grade teacher to get the pedagogical equipment she needs and to furnish exercises for her use.

"EXPERIMENTS IN PLAY WRITING IN VERSE AND PROSE," by J. L. Lambe. In a prefatory note, the author states that poetic drama still appeals to the public, then follows up the statement with six plays of his own.

"MANUAL OF CORRECTIVE GYMNASTICS," by L. C. Lippitt. A text and reference book for instructors, by the director of corrective gymnastics for girls in the University of Wisconsin.

"WITH CONGRESS AND CABINET," by William C. Redfield. Mr. Redfield was Secretary of Commerce during Wilson's administration.

"THE GOSLINGS, by Upton Sinclair. A study of American schools, as "The Goose-Step" was a study of the colleges.

AGAINST U. S. USING CITY JAIL

Resolved, That the Federal Government be required to take its prisoners out of the St. Louis city jail and that city authorities reserve the city jail for the exclusive use of prisoners charged with violating State and city laws.

This resolution, adopted by the South St. Louis Business Men's League, has been submitted to the Governor, the Mayor and the Police Board. Such action, it states, will prevent the releasing of prisoners on ridiculously small bonds owing to the crowded condition of the jail. At present Federal prisoners are boarded there.

The story is that of a maid in a wealthy home who dreams of having everything she wants. One evening when her mistress is out she dresses up in some of that lady's smartest gowns and has the time of her life. The mistress surprises her by returning and the girl hides on a roofless porch. A deluge a few moments later ruins the gown she has on and she is dismissed. The son of the house, however, disgusted with the society game, finds the girl and they are married.

"No More Women," a comedy drama featuring Madge Bellamy, Matt Moore and Kathleen Clifford is the offering at the Kings this week. It deals with the efforts of a young man, whose fiancee jilts him on the even of their wedding and who vows never to interest himself in women again. A pretty young girl being robbed by two ruffians screams and he finds that response to a duty awakens his romantic soul and his pledge gradually evaporates. Matt Moore is cast as Peter Maddox, the young woman hater. Madge Bellamy has the role of Peggy Van Dyke, wealthy young miss in search of adventure. Kathleen Clifford takes the part of a fickle young butterfly who breaks poor Peter's heart, and then finding he has a new fiancee, repents too late. Clarence Burton plays "Beef" Hogan, a flashy crook who has more sources of income than the gasoline station he operates; George Cooper is seen as Tex, a dog catcher. H. Reeves Smith is Mr. Van Dyke, wealthy oil operator, and Stanhope Wheatcroft plays the part of the shy condescending Randolph Parker. Another feature of the Kings bill this week is the second of the Chronicles of America called "Wolfe and Montcalm," which depicts as accurately as historical data permits the bitter struggle between France and England for possession of territory in America, culminating in the fall of Quebec in 1759.

The Terrace Garden Orchestra of Chicago remains over another week.

The Rivoli's feature for the week is "Modern Marriage," with Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne in the leading roles. This marks their return to the screen after a long absence.

MISSOURI GOOD PLACE TO CURE TUBERCULOSIS

Sufferers Urged to Stay in State Instead of Migrating to Southwest.

"Get Well in Missouri!" The advice will be embodied in the literature of the Tuberculosis Society of St. Louis, to be distributed broadcast through the State to the attention of tuberculosis sufferers. It is based on the report of the society's advisory medical staff, which, after an exhaustive study concluded that tuberculosis can be cured in Missouri just as well as in Colorado, New Mexico, California or any other state.

"The mistaken idea that climate alone will effect a cure induces many patients to uproot themselves and migrate to the West and Southwest without sufficient funds to adequate care and treatment," the report states. "Many of them have to maintain themselves by work of a light character.

"They are disillusioned in the great majority of cases, and they find the demand for such work far greater than the supply. Tuberculosis needs good food, rest, fresh air, sunshine and cheerfulness. Change of climate is not always essential. Good food, rest and peace of mind, without climate, are much more important than climate without these essentials.

"Institutions in St. Louis show just as beneficial results in tuberculosis treatment as do the institutions of the far West and Southwest. Every well-conducted sanatorium, no matter where situated, will produce good results."

Catholic Club Dinner Saturday.

The second semi-annual dinner of the Catholic Club of St. Louis will be held Saturday evening at St. Louis Club. Among the honored guests will be the clergy of the Protestant churches, the Judges of the city, State and Federal courts, Gov. Hyde and Mayor Kiel. Festus J. Wade will be toastmaster and John S. Leahy, president, will outline the club's work. Archbishop Glennon and James A. Emery of Washington, general counsel of the National Industrial Council, will speak.

APRIL SHOWERS

(Copyright, 1924.)

Drawn by W. E. Hill for the Sunday Post-Dispatch

April is a bad month for landladies who have been feeling those maternal instincts all winter long. They begin all of a sudden to feel much more than maternal. "Really," Mrs. Amorphus is saying to Mr. Wrigley, her star lodger, "I don't know WHAT people must think of me talking to you so much." "The iceman told me people were talking, but of COURSE I said we were JUST GOOD FRIENDS." (Business of fluttering eyelids and a girlish "tee hee.")

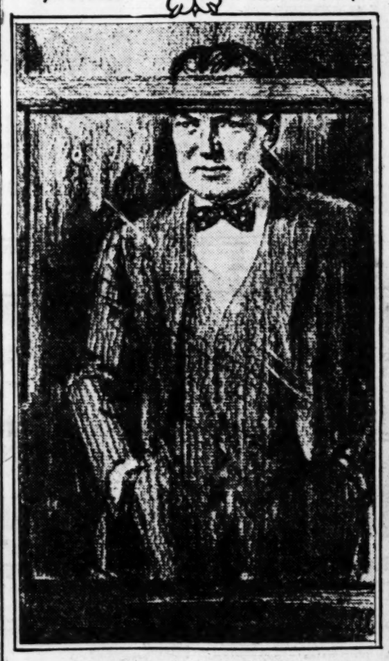
The bride to be is working hard these April days, sewing and planning, and addressing invitations.

The month of April ushers in the first flock of city people who decide to look for a nice little house (not too far away from town), to spend the summer in. Armed with a slip of introduction from the real estate man, they make the rounds, screaming with delight and promising to go right home and sign a lease. Then they go home and decide on Europe for the summer.

April showers may be great for the crops and the wide open spaces, but they're not doing Bessie May's new hat a bit of good.

"Now Ida, DON'T say you like it if you don't!" The April shopper makes ready to burst forth in a blaze of summer glory.

Here's a commuter all fixed up for April weather—raincoat, umbrella and rubbers. Ten to one the sun will be shining brightly when he arrives in town.



Isn't your heart torn with pity at the sight of this poor man cooped up in his office, when he ought to be out on the links? Oh, well, it may clear up.

Cooks get restless in April. Friends call up and tell them about death and destruction and doings in the Eastern Star chapter.

"I want a perfume that will WAFT as I walk along." Should the April showers fail to usher in the well known May flowers, the customer at the perfume counter will do her bit toward perfuming the spring air with "Whiff de Posey" at $7.50 per bottle.

:: In Studio and Gallery ::

FOR the first time in the history of the Artists' Guild the sculptor members have combined their work to form an exhibit exclusive of the painter members. The result is a showing of the ability of these artists of whose work the public sees little aside from their occasional public monuments and casual entries into the Guild painters' show.

Each contributor's entries are grouped together as nearly as possible to permit of comparison since the exhibit includes work done during the past several years. It is interesting to note the changes some of the work has undergone.

Against the back wall of the large gallery, Caroline Risque's array of babies occupies prominence. All four figures are designs for fountains. To the extreme left, a lusty infant atop the world is designed to guard some garden pool. The position of the head, turned coyly to one side and upward, makes the attitude fleeting and difficult. Its modeling has been done well, the formation of tiny bones beneath the surface of flesh being subtly suggested. The fountain figure for Mrs. A. L. Perkins is also well modelled. It is quite different in character, being more serious and of little wistful. The figure of the little girl bending above her bowl of water is soft yet firmly constructed and blends good use of form with artistic loveliness.

An extravagance of rolling flesh folds makes "The Fish Baby" appear overworked. Among the sketches in the case in the small gallery, Miss Risque's "Variations on Old Themes" possess charming humor. These caricatures, aside from the attraction of their wit, are interesting little studies individually.

Joseph Horchert's contributions to the exhibit are mainly animal studies. His "Rebellious" Indian pony and rider show the sculptor's understanding of strong muscles in high action. "Sweethearts" and the "Roaring Lion" reveal Horchert's appreciation of the sentimental and dramatic appeal of great animals of the jungle.

Nancy Coonsman Hahn's "Frog Girls" are splendidly constructed and beautifully finished figures. Not only in form but in sentiment and expression the figures are a deep pleasure. "Maidenhood," a small head near the entrance to the main gallery, is an exercise in suppression. The handling of features not yet confirmed by the development of character requires delicate care and a fine control to omit the force that maturity will later lend to the same face. Unlike the customary "Bird Bath," inanely sweet and with vapid sentimentality, Nancy Coonsman Hahn's design for this purpose has a clean-cut simplicity and directness that lifts its dignity. Its modelling, certain enough, is unobtrusive. "Rodney and Puss" and the "Polar Bears" among the sketches in the small gallery show the artist's differing moods.

Outstanding in Victor Holm's group is his bronze "Etude." Its conformity to academic rule, its use of fundamental principles of construction, its careful modeling and texture make it one of the artist's best objects. Holm's exhibit covers a wide range in subject and feeling, from "Jeremiah" to a "Flapper" and from "The Spirit of France" to a modern portrait medallion. Excursions in difficult construction have fascinated the sculptor and also expressions of poetic tenderness have made themselves apparent.

Robert Bringhurst's Reedy Memorial Tablet and his bronze "Study" of lithe, ecstatic maidenhood are among this sculptor's most interesting exhibits in this show. The portrait study of Mrs. Bringhurst is highly admirable, although impassive in comparison with the zest of some of his other work.

Striving more for effect than for perfection of detail, Adele Schulenburg has made a fountain design of a mother and child that is strong in its power of subject. Her small portrait placques in the small gallery have interest without much technique, showing possibility of future progress.

Sheila Burlingame, probably St. Louis' most versatile craftsworker, shows for the first time in St. Louis some of her efforts at modeling. Several of her sketches have been shown in the East, indicating the possibilities that are seen in her first attempts. Simply displaying an innate sense of form, the little figures, devoid of technique, yet with inner feeling and a rhythmic attraction, do not presume to be finished masterpieces. Mrs. Burlingame's magnificent batiks, many of which have been lent by their private owners in the city, form the majority of the "backgrounding" for the entire sculpture exhibit and are an extraordinary display of the craft for which the artist is best known.

ST. LOUIS art followers will be glad to hear of the continuation of "The Nucleus." St. Louis' new art magazine, which threatened to cease upon the recent death of its editor. Despite Scheremetyeff's unusual career, his unselfish and sympathetic friendship for St. Louis art and artists accomplished more for them in one year than has any other one individual. Harry Burke, local writer and newspaper man, will be editorial director of the magazine, and George Perutz, the previous business manager, will attend to the advertising and financial interests.

A "SPEAKERS' BUREAU" maintained by the Community Council to provide lecturers on educational subjects for club meetings or public gatherings, has listed two speakers on art subjects. Miss Antointette Douglas, chief of the art department of the Public Library, is entered to speak on "Art in the Library." Miss Mary Powell, head of the educational department of the City Art Museum, may be secured to talk on either "Art in the Community" or "The City Art Museum."

FAHIM KOUCHAKJI, the renowned Persian antique dealer of New York, has been visiting St. Louis the last week during the exhibition of a collection of his Persian, Syrian and Arabian treasures at the City Art Museum.

In connection with his art objects, Kouchakji spoke yesterday about the Great Chalice of Antioch, the most important excavation of recent years, of which he is the owner. From the ecclesiastical standpoint as well as from the viewpoints of art and archaeology, the chalice has been proveg a precious relic of earliest Christian times, the only known Christian object earlier than the Roman catacombs, and of highest artistic perfection.

Containing portraits of Christ, the Apostles and the Evangelists, its value to the Christian church is inestimable. The finesse of the workmanship and design make it a priceless treasure from the standpoint of art. Its splendid condition, the crystallization of the matrix and its general preservation places it foremost among archaeological excavations.

The source of the Chalice, now known to all scholars of art and theology, was, originally, Syria. Two brothers, Salim and Constantin Kouchakji in Aleppo, procured the Chalice from two Arabs who excavated the object from ruins in Antioch. From the two brothers, the fragments of the Chalice were sent to a third brother, George, in Paris, a famous dealer in Persian antiques, who took great interest in its restoration, having it cleaned of its heavy oxidation. At the outbreak of the World War, the Chalice was forwarded to Fahim Kouchakji in New York for safekeeping. During the intervening years, Kouchakji in New York for safekeeping, tabishing the unquestionable identity and authenticity of his treasure.

At the time of the excavation of the Chalice, heavy oxidation obscured a great many of the details of decoration that, when cleaned, formed identifying marks which helped establish its history. The cup, some six inches in height, is composed of two parts, an inner cup and an outer holder. Both sections are hammered from solid sheets of silver. The inner cup, or actual Chalice, was never finished, and bits of the rim which overlapped the holder had been cut away for personal relics. The outer holder is handsomely carved with spaces cut away showing the inner cup as a background. The decoration consists of 12 grape vines, symbolic of life and activity, which twine in loops about the figures grouped in two separate divisions. In each group the central figure has been identified as that of Christ, shown once as a youth and again wearing a toga. Around the Savior are arranged the Apostles and Evangelists according to their importance.

$10,000 IS CHAPERON'S PRICE

American Debutante, Seeking Prestige in Europe, Offered Aid.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, April 19.—The cost for American debutantes to place themselves on the European social map seems to be about $10,000, plus the expenses of traveling, judging from an advertisement appearing in the classified columns of an English language newspaper. The particular advertisement in question reads as follows:

"A lady of title wishes to chaperon an American girl for the season or longer in most exclusive circles. Two balsi will be given for her. The highest references will be given. Terms £2000."

TAX BODY TO MEET HERE

JEFFERSON CITY, April 19.—Methods of establishing uniform taxation—local, State and Federal—will be discussed at the annual conference of the National Tax Association in St. Louis, at Hotel Chase, on Sept. 15. The association comprises representatives of State tax commissions, boards of equalization and similar official tax regulatory bodies in the United States and Canada.

Governors of the various states will be asked to appoint representatives to attend the conference, and delegates also will be recognized from universities and State associations of accountants.

COAL OVERPRODUCTION CLOSES MANY MINES

Thousands of Miners Will Turn to Other Work in Next 3 Years, Says Journal.

By the Associated Press.

INDIANAPOLIS, April 19.—Numerous coal mines will be closed permanently and many miners will resort to other work during the next three years, is the opinion of the United Mine Workers Journal, official publication of the United Mine Workers of America.

These two actions will have a stabilizing effect on the coal business, for it will relieve the existing condition of too many miners and too many mines, according to the Journal. With the wage question settled for three years, each coal company knows just what its labor cost will be. Those which can operate and make money will continue in business, while the others will close, the Journal says.

"It has been apparent for a long time that there are too many bituminous mines," the article continues. "There is a normal demand for approximately 500,000,000 tons of bituminous coal annually, while the mines now in operation or in existence and ready for operation, could easily produce nearly 1,000,000,000 tons of coal each year. Thus, there is a capacity to produce twice as much coal as the market could absorb. This means, also, that there are more people engaged in mining than are required to produce a sufficient quantity of coal to meet the demand."

There is a demand for labor in other industries and men who are unable to retain permanent employment in the mines can get work in other lines. The Journal adds that Secretary of Labor Davis has informed it the entire resources of that department will help place the men. Secretary Davis said the director of the Federal Employment Bureau of the Department of Labor has arranged to receive applications for employment and to assist applicants throughout the country.

CHURCH'S 75TH ANNIVERSARY

St. Paul's Evangelical to Move After Next Sunday.

The seventy-fifth anniversary of St. Paul's Evangelical Church, Ninth street and Lafayette avenue, will be celebrated next Sunday morning and evening. The program includes special music and speakers.

The celebration will end the services at the present location, as the church building has been sold. A new chapel has been erected at Potomac street and Giles avenue and services will be conducted there in the future. Plans are under way for construction of a new church edifice and parsonage there.

Naval Reserve Cruises May 1.

The Naval Reserve cruises on the Mississippi River will begin May 1, and as in past years, the young men of the St. Louis reserve will be given the opportunity of a pleasant vacation on navy pay. The cruise, according to Commander G. F. Schwartz of the Fourth Regiment, will probably be up the Ohio and Cumberland rivers. Two submarine chasers will be assigned to the cruise for the first time this year.

MISSOURI GOOD PLACE TO CURE TUBERCULOSIS

"Get Well in Missouri!" This advice will be embodied in the literature of the Tuberculosis Society of St. Louis, to be distributed broadcast through the State for the attention of tuberculosis sufferers. It is based on the report of the society's advisory medical staff which, after an exhaustive study, concluded that tuberculosis can be cured in Missouri just as well as in Colorado, New Mexico, California or any other state.

"The mistaken idea that climate alone will effect a cure induces many patients to uproot themselves and migrate to the West and Southwest without sufficient funds for adequate care and treatment," the report states. "Many of them hope to maintain themselves by work of a light character.

"They are disillusioned in the great majority of cases, and they find the demand for such work far greater than the supply. Tuberculosis needs good food, rest, fresh air, sunshine and cheerfulness. Change of climate is not always essential. Good food, rest and peace of mind, without climate, are much more important than climate without these essentials.

"Institutions in St. Louis show just as beneficial results in tuberculosis treatment as do the institutions of the far West and Southwest. Every well-conducted sanatorium, no matter where situated, will produce good results."

Catholic Club Dinner Saturday.

The second semi-annual dinner of the Catholic Club of St. Louis will be held Saturday evening at St. Louis Club. Among the honored guests will be the clergy of the Protestant churches, the Judges of the city, State and Federal courts, Gov. Hyde and Mayor Kiel. Festus J. Wade will be toastmaster and John S. Leahy, president, will outline the club's work. Archbishop Glennon and James A. Emery, of Washington, general counsel of the National Industrial Council, will speak.

2 minutes for a clear skin!

A new, youthful flush in your cheeks! Think what that means. Sallowness gone, with the embedded dust, grime, and oil which dull and deaden the complexion!

KANTOL does it! Not a clay-pack, but a plant-and-flower cream—a skin laxative that makes your face alive!

Just rub KANTOL in for 2 minutes with moistened finger-tips. Note the new glow of your complexion. A few treatments lighten dark, muddy faces three to five shades.

Prove it! Work this facial miracle yourself. Get KANTOL today. Tube, 50c; jar, $1.00. Or send coupon and 10c for sample jar.

The William P. Kahn Corp.
204 E. 4th St.
St. Louis, Mo. A 420

I enclose 10c to cover cost of packing and mailing a generous sample jar of KANTOL.

BRITISH WOMEN HOTLY DEBATE MODERN GIRL

Lady Balfour Assails Her and Is Answered by Many Prominent in London Society.

Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch.

LONDON, April 11.—The flapper has split conversational London into two opposing camps.

The older and conservative generation is hurling generalities and condemning the flapper with the intense adjectives of accumulated disapproval.

The friends of the flapper, as a British institution, are replying with paradoxes and trumpeting their 1924 standards.

Debate Started Agitation.

The row was started by a serious academic debate at the London School of Economics. Lady Frances Balfour, daughter of the eighth Duke of Argyl and president of the London Society for Woman Suffrage, maintained that "the young woman of today is worse than she ever was."

"On the contrary, the young woman is better than ever," argued Viola Tree, actress and daughter of Sir Beerbohm Tree.

Then Miss Tree fired off such observations as the following, point-blank:

"Short skirts are the embodiment of open air, hurry and unashamedness.

"The girl of today has not much to hide, but if she had she would not hide it.

"It is not morality which is the trouble. The young woman of today might take greater care, not of her morals or manners, but of her heart."

Attacks Henna-Dipped Girl.

Lady Balfour looks at the modern girl this way:

"What do we see today? We see the young woman doing everything to imitate the courtesan. Her face is a mass of powder; her red lips are gashed out of human resemblance, and the reek of her in passing makes one long for a breath of air off the heather."

By way of contrast with this "henna-dipped generation," Lady Balfour declared that it was a blemish when she was a young woman even to have red hair naturally. Red hair was then considered a sign of the courtesan, and Lady Balfour says that she was often embarrassed by her own natural red hair.

Women of Past Knew Less of Men.

The observation which seemed to dispose of the flapper finally, in Lady Balfour's mind, to judge from the way she delivered it, was:

"I heard one young woman remark to another in Bond street—'Let's go somewhere and have a real bilious lunch.'"

In conclusion, Lady Balfour said:

"In the past, women led more sheltered lives. They knew less of men and thought them paragons of virtue—to the inevitable improvement of men.

"Surely the young women of the past had more romantic lives, more romantic possibilities in their paths, from their being so much sheltered.

"Today all things are lawful. Whether they are expedient or not, is left to the young woman's newborn sense of responsibility."

Lady Terrington Defends Girls.

The spread of the debate in conversation and in the press has drawn opinions from such prominent women as Lady Terrington, Member of Parliament. She said:

"For a very brilliant woman as Lady Frances Balfour is I think she has made a serious mistake in her condemnation of the young women of today. Girls of today are much more sensible than they were in the time with which Lady Frances is acquainted.

"Today there is much more freedom of choice for 'life partners.' This is a good thing. So, too, is the shorter engagement which prevails today.

"The girls who overdo their paint and powder are in a negligible minority."

"The day of the flapper is over. The girl of 21 has become serious since the war, and I resent men saying that we should not give votes to 'flappers.'

"I was very disappointed that women voted against women entering Parliament," she continued. "That was hardly playing the game. I don't think the woe-begone males need worry about a petticoat government yet. Sufficient women are not returned to bother the poor, dear men. I do hope, though, that at the next election at least a hundred women will be returned."

Admires Modern Young Women.

Dame Meriel Talbot, who has held many official posts, including that of Woman Adviser to the Ministry of Agriculture, said she had a great admiration for the modern young women. She added:

"I am all for her. I think she is a big improvement on the young woman of my day. She is indefinitely more self-confident. She can express her own opinions and she knows how to use her greater liberty. As for the short skirts she wears, I think they are extremely sensible, and if she has pretty ankles, there is, to my mind, no harm in showing them. The modern girl is rapidly making her way in the business world, and in the world of sport. I must say, however, that she has a tendency to stress whatever she is enthusiastic about. She has need to go a little more slowly in her pursuits and eat good meals."

Paid Fancy Prices
"I paid an international authority on diseases of the stomach $1500 and he didn't do me five cents' worth of good. I have been to various Spas in Europe, as well as this country and have spent fully $30,000 fruitlessly in search of a cure for my stomach trouble. Naturally I lost faith in any remedy for my case. My wife's brother had taken Mayr's Wonderful Remedy and praised it so highly that I tried it and am now entirely rid of that trouble." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. Simple Way to Get Rid of Backheads
There is one simple, safe and sure way that never fails to get rid of blackheads, that is to dissolve them. To do this get two ounces of calonite powder from any drug store—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet cloth—rub over the blackheads briskly—wash the parts and you will be surprised how the blackheads have disappeared. Big blackheads, little blackheads, no matter where they are, simply dissolve and disappear. Blackheads are simply a mixture of dust and dirt and secretions that form in the pores of the skin. The calonite powder and the water dissolve the blackheads so they wash right out, leaving the pores free and clean and in their natural condition.

Northwest Hiring U. S. Labor.

OLYMPIA, Wash.—American labor is in the majority now in Northwest industry, according to State records just made. Seventy per cent of the people employed in industry in Washington and Oregon are native born and the Department of Labor shows an increase annually. In 1912 the percentage was but 50 per cent. Of the 40,000 workers in the sawmills of this State, it is closely estimated that 27,000 are native born.

Japanese Beauty in U. S.

SAN FRANCISCO.—Mrs. Thaig O'Conroy, accompanied by her husband, a former Lieutenant in the British Navy, is here from the Orient. She was formerly Miss Kiku Terao, winner in a recent popular beauty contest in Japan. "I came to America to help me forget my grief," she said. Her father and five others of her family were killed in the Japanese earthquake.

RUMANIAN RULERS TO TRAVEL INCOGNITO

Financial and Matrimonial Questions May Embarrass Pair in Belgium.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, April 19.—King Ferdinand and Queen Marie of Rumania expect to spend the next fortnight traveling incognito to various parts of France. Queen Marie went alone to the Riviera, leaving Ferdinand as an ordinary private citizen in one if the most fashionable hotels in Paris.

There has been considerable comment as to why the Balkan sovereigns thus stepped out of their royal roles. The explanation generally given is that they desire time to renew their wardrobes at French establishments before paying their expected visit of state to Brussels, but another reason, according to reliable information from Brussels, is to effect that certain difficulties which threatened to mar their reception in Belgium had to be ironed out before the state visit could begin.

It has now been definitely established that there were more than perfunctory obstacles in the way of arranging for a visit to Belgium, although when the sovereigns left Bucharest it was vigorously denied that there had been any friction.

Fear Matrimonial Complex.

One of the main difficulties, it has been learned, was the apprehension in certain Belgian society circles regarding Queen Marie's alleged matrimonial aspirations on behalf of Princess Ileana, her only unmarried daughter. It is understood plans are well along for a match between Crown Prince Leopold and Princess Mafalda, daughter of King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Helena of Italy, and that such a match being popular in Belgium, the leaders in Belgian royal circles did not desire to run any risk of unduly subjecting the Belgian Crown Prince to what these people characterize as Queen Marie's "subtle matchmaking propensities."

The marriage of the Belgian Prince to the Rumanian Princess would, it is claimed, be particularly unpopular in Belgium at present, owing to the financial difficulties of long standing between the two nations. The leaders in the Belgian financial world are extremely disgruntled over Rumania's attitude toward Belgian holders of Rumanian bonds subscribed before the war. This question is said to have come within an ace of bringing about a cancellation of the proposed visit of the Rumanian monarchs to Brussels.

Cannot Coupons.

It is estimated that Belgians bought nearly $00,000,000 francs worth of Rumanian bonds before the war. They have been trying vainly ever since to cash their coupons. When the bonds were floated it was stipulated that they should be repaid either in Belgian francs or Rumanian lei, at the discretion of the bondholders, but the Rumanian Government, until very recently, insisted on payments only in the lei, which, through depreciation, would reduce the bonds to only a fraction of their original value.

More vexing to the Belgian bondholders, however, was the alleged refusal of the Rumanian Government to cash coupons presented by Belgian banks in Rumania, contending that since Brussels, during the German occupation, became a great trading center for Rumanian bonds of German origin, Rumania could cash only coupons bearing a special stamp showing that they were actually possessed by Belgians before the war.

The Belgians claim that, owing to the close scrutiny by the Rumanian Legation in Brussels, it has been impossible to furnish such proof for more than 10 per cent of the bonds actually purchased by Belgians.

In some quarters in Belgium the hope is being expressed that the royal visit may serve as the occasion to straighten out these financial difficulties, but it is declared the Belgian population is not in a mood to give the sovereigns a tremendously warm welcome.

Two Funerals in 23 Years.

DE GRAFF, Kan.—The first funeral service in the Presbyterian Church here in 23 years was held Wednesday and a second funeral ceremony was held six hours later. Few deaths have occurred in the community and services were held in homes. The two services were for John H. Butler County pioneer, and [illegible] Krider.

NAVY FLYING UNIT NEEDS 30 RECRUITS

Men Will Be Given Training In Aviation and Receive Commissions When Qualified.

About 20 capable young men without previous naval experience are being sought as recruits for the aviation unit of the Fourth Regiment of the United States Navy Reserve, with headquarters at the naval armory, foot of Ferry street.

The minimum age for recruits is 18. Men with high school or college education are preferred, but this requirement is not an essential. No knowledge of aviation is required. Those accepted must pass the usual naval physical examination.

Application for enlistment should be made to the commander, Ensign John Frederick Fisher, at the armory, on a Thursday evening, when the regular "drill," or instruction period, is held.

There are about 30 men now in the unit, which is limited to 50 men. Ten flyers are to be qualified yearly. A picked group is to go to Great Lakes Naval Station this summer for a 15-day period of flying, for which they will receive full duty pay, plus 50 per cent extra for flying, and expenses.

Men enter the unit as seamen, second class. Non-commissioned grades go up to chief rigger and all those meeting educational requirements are expected to receive commissions eventually. All members of the unit are to receive flying pilots' ratings, when qualified, whether commissioned or not.

The unit is a recognized part of the naval reserve force, but lack of funds has prevented the Navy Department from supplying equipment other than uniforms and certain other articles. Rear Admiral Moffett, chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics, has indorsed the idea of the unit, which hopes to operate seaplanes on the Mississippi eventually. At present the members are going to Lambert-St. Louis Field on Saturday afternoons and Sundays and hiring a plane from the Flying Club at $6 an hour, for practice.

Permission has been granted the unit to salvage the wrecked racing plane of Lieut. Sanderson, which fell near Lambert-St. Louis Field in the Pulitzer trophy race last October. The plane fell in a haystack and the parts have remained there.

There is a small pay allowance for attendance at the unit "drills," but no compulsion to attend. About once a month there are sessions of real drilling, with rifles. Members belong to the Naval Reserve Flying Club, which has been holding social meetings at members' homes and elsewhere Tuesday evenings.

Ralph Hall, an architect and member of the unit, is blue-printing a lecture course from notes he made as a student naval flyer during the war.

Ensign Fisher, who organized the unit a year ago, starting with four other men, is a mechanical engineer with the American Car and Foundry Co. and lives at 4325A De Tonty street. He became a student flyer in the navy during the war, at the ground school at Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Later he was an instructor in flying at Miami, Fla., for a year. He left active service in 1919.

MISSIONARY SAYS ESKIMO IS DESCENDED FROM EGYPTIANS

SAN FRANCISCO.—Alaska's tribes of Eskimos are not related to the American Indians, as many persons suppose, but are descendants of the early Egyptians, asserts Arthur Eldie, Alaska missionary, who has spent years studying their manners and customs.

"My studies among the Alaska natives convinced me of their Egyptian origin," he said. "They were one of the active but peaceful tribes, and migrated from Egypt probably because of their dislike of war. From Egypt they touched on the coast of France and reached Alaska eventually by way of Denmark, Norway and Iceland.

"The carvings on their totems, their symbol of the generative principle, and many other evidences exist to show the relation between the Eskimos and the early Egyptians."

Dull Spotted Teeth Bleached White Quick—Safe Way

To whiten dull, yellowish, stained teeth all you need now do is brush teeth with a few drops of mild, harmless liquid—then see a special smile—and watch stains disappear. This new method is called Bleachodent Combination. The liquid softens the stains—the paste not only gently removes them, but prevents formation of new stains. Prized for removing green stains from children's teeth. No effect on enamel—the mild ingredients are intended to get only on surface stains. Bleachodent Combination is the formula of a group of prominent dentists who used Bleachodent on their own teeth for four years with highly beneficial results before offering it to the public. Millions of teeth have been whitened this new safe way.

EVERY BRITISH RESOURCE SHOWN AT WEMBLEY

World's Largest Exposition Will Portray the History of Each Colony in Far-Flung Empire.

By WILLIAM BOLITHO,
Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

LONDON, April 9.—The largest pacific undertaking of the British race, their Empire Exposition at Wembley, London, is almost ready for the inspection of the world. It will be opened by King George V. on St. George's Day, April 23. Great exhibitions are rare and memorable spectacles for the mass and humanity—this is the largest and most costly in history.

An ingenuous advertising department, which, according to the London Press, has done little to bring them, considers that 25,000,000 million persons will visit this show of the products and possessions of the British. To most of these visitors, it is certain to be a capital date of interest as long as they live. Sometimes it has come about that exhibitions mark and begin periods in the social life of mankind, in which new tastes and new inventions are found and popularized, as the automobile engine of Daimler at Paris in 1900, and Victorianism that began in the Crystal Palace in the fifties.

Whatever this latest and largest of them all reserves, it is likely to be more important than many wars. In convenient space it is a compendium of a world empire at the height of its power and extent, set out for the curiosity, admiration, judgment of mankind.

Admirable Wembley.

Even at this stage, when its contents are still unpacked, and its empty buildings are receiving last coats of paint, Wembley Exhibition is admirable. It is built in a large park on the northwest of the city. A premature view from the train window first finds a contrast between gilded minarets and the dense stack of red-roofed suburban cottages of Wembley, that step up a long hill outside the exhibition. Before the station, both vanish and the train runs beside hundreds of yards of spar mountains, like collapsing scaffolding, that are the framework of the scenic railways, the wimbly-wobs, the Jack and Jills, and all the other contrivances of the amusement district of the exhibition, which are to be of unheard-of size. Slopes of these structures and wooden precipices are already painted in primary colors.

The entrance in a high corrugated fence is a confusion of branch railway lines, opened barrels of cement, and muddy motor lorries. Over planks and ditches you enter the Palace of Industry, the second of the two main buildings of the show. It is a plain rectangular hall of vast area, but inconsiderable height, said to be the largest building in the world, whose size is concealed by its low roof, and, in the interior, by the countless streets of shops and stalls which the exhibitors are now completing.

City of Amazing Streets.

Through a long vista of triangular glass roof, down a pair of railway lines, you see the entrance of another hall of equal size, the Palace of Industry. In this cold immensity the view is less encumbered; on this gray day it is a silent, low cathedral where hammers echo and gaunt packing cases and shrouded machinery are all the altars. Between these two palaces, little Rialtos jump across the canal, or "Ornamental Lake." The buildings will contain in a fortnight the achievements of the British Isles in manufacture and art; their contribution and offer to humanity. Outside, the damp colored cement walls, broken by regular lion-headed corbals, have a freezing dignity fitted to their use.

But other buildings shine and glitter in the neighborhood, for each colony or possession has set up a pavilion in the style of its people and history. There are the long blank colonnades of Australia and Canada, South Africa and the self-governing states; the exquisite ornate whiteness of the Indian Palace, whose serene towers in significant grace dominate the other roofs; the green that juts into white on the Arab facade of East Africa; the heavy mud walls of a

PIMPLES ON FACE AND NECK

Scales Formed. Itched and Burned. Cuticura Healed.

"My trouble began with a number of pimples on my face and neck. They were in blotches on my face and were quite large. When the pimples broke scales formed which itched and burned. The trouble lasted for several months and was quite a disfigurement.

"I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and decided to try them, and after using one cake of Soap and part of my second box of Ointment I was healed." (Signed) Miss Katharine Schwartz, Rt. 2, Pepin, Wis.

Sure Way to Get Rid of Dandruff

You Can't Comb it Out

Girls—if you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to comb or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it; then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. Four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you may have. This simple remedy never fails.

EVERY BRITISH RESORCE SHOWN AT EXPOSITION

Nigerian town, the sandalwood and teak gables of a Burmese temple, in front of which flaming folk-tale dogs stand on guard.

Each building in turn is a marvel of accurate and solid copying; they are neither pasteboard nor miniatures, but concrete solid as stone. In summer time later, when these noble buildings are filled with the choicest and most beautiful of the world's merchandise, it will be a city of amazing streets. For good and ill, for the first time in history, possibly the last, it will be possible to seek a comprehensive idea of this empire of the Britons within the compass of these acres.

The Search for Unity.

Indeed the search is not simple, even now, when there are only the flowery prows, that float among clumps of uplifted arms of idols, in the carved Burmese gables, with the smug white pillars of Australia House, the gold of minarets with the iron arches of the Palace of Engineering. In this giant miscellany, which faithfully epitomizes the empire, it seems useless to seek for a unity that the British themselves ignore.

What can there be in common between the inscribed quadrangle of a Chinese provincial town like Hongkong and the curved seventeenth century Colonial Dutch eaves of South Africa? There is no easily discoverable key motive in this exhibition; no evidence of a dominating architecture or art of the English. The very tea shop has Cretan pillars and staring, antique friezes, the columns incline to a Greek style, pretentious and anonymous; the cigaret kiosks at the corners of the boulevards are Moroccan, and the stern lions everywhere, that grin out under the main palaces, hold out their tongues on the Canadian frontage or lie down sleepily near Malta, might belong to any race or any decadent time.

The organizers themselves, either by blind instinct or premeditation, seem to have felt this want of a symbol of their race's influence and culture. Overhanging the whole exhibition, on an eminence, is a vast, ponderous monument, larger than all the rest, whose huge mounded towers and unbroken wals are copied from Nineveh. This, by its magnitude and place, should be the temple of England, to force combination on all the differences below. But it is only the stadium, erected to seat the cup tie crowds for the great football match of the year, and has no connection with the exhibition proper.

The Empire's Center.

Inside is an arena of iron seats for 150,000 spectators, set in nests and tiers around a bright green field smudged with chalk markings for the game. The broadest roads lead to it, the most jealous organization surrounds it; in absence of another this instrument of serious sport looks like the center of empire. The Greeks might have placed there a theater of equal size, the Hindoos would put up a temple to their gods. It broods today gray and reverend over the motley city, like a fort.

But down below thousands of skilled men are working extra shifts. Braziers of coke gleam and smoke. There is a metallic orchestra of hammers. Great wagons, piled with cases of the world's most prized treasures rumble and back; on the high point of a minaret a cotton clothed Hindoo is regilding a spear tip which the air has already blackened. Burmeme artificers, half priests, half acrobats, are setting up in its lofty place the branching chimes, golden Imperial rattles, on their temple; the wind blows them and the little bells sound like chissels against stone.

The far spreading exhibition, a world in a park, is working overtime. Its interest and importance are assured; its meaning and that of the empire it worthily represents may want to puzzle historian

Cannot Praise Great Joint Remedy Too Highly, Says W. J. ROY

Read his grateful letter and then if you can think of any reason why you shouldn't use Joint-Ease for stiff, swollen, inflamed or stiff, creaky, sore joints you must be a pessimist.

Gentlemen: I am sure glad to say to the public I have not been able to get around only to just creep along for five years, until I got hold of Joint-Ease and I now can just walk where I please. I had the Flu and it fell in my legs. My knees were swollen and my legs all the time. Now the pain has all left my legs and the swollen legs are normal and I cannot recommend Joint-Ease too high. I have just used two tubes of Joint-Ease only and will not be without it at all times.

Truly yours, W. J. Roy, Morgantown, W. Va. Feb. 26, 1924.

A tube cost but 60 cents at Wolff-Wilson Drug Co., 7th and Washington, or any druggist, anywhere.

Cocoanut Oil Fine for Washing Hair
If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.
Many soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much free alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo is pure and entirely greaseless; is much better than anything you can use for shampooing, as it cannot possibly injure the hair. Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. Two or three teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather and cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to manage.
You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and a few ounces will last everyone in the family for months.

RHEUMATISM LEAVES YOU FOREVER
Deep Seated Uric Acid Deposits Are Dissolved and the Rheumatic Poison Starts to Leave the System Within Twenty-four Hours.
Every druggist in this county is authorized to say to every rheumatic sufferer that if a full pint bottle of Allenrhu, the sure conqueror of rheumatism, does not show the way to stop the agony, reduce swollen joints and do away with even the slightest twinge of rheumatic pain, he will gladly return your money without comment.
Allenrhu has been tried and tested for years, and really marvelous results have been accomplished in the most severe cases where the suffering and agony was intense and piteous and where the patient was helpless.
Mr. James H. Allen, of Rochester, N. Y., the discoverer of Allenrhu, who for many years suffered the torments of acute rheumatism, desires all sufferers to know that he does not want a cent of anyone's money unless Allenrhu declarively conquers this worst of all diseases, and he has instructed druggists to guarantee it as above in every instance. Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. Two or three teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather and cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly.

The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and a few ounces will last everyone in the family for months.

RHEUMATISM LEAVES YOU FOREVER

Deep Seated Uric Acid Deposits Are Dissolved and the Rheumatic Poison Starts to Leave the System Within Twenty-four Hours.

Every druggist in this county is authorized to say to every rheumatic sufferer that if a full pint bottle of Allenrhu, the sure conqueror of rheumatism, does not show the way to stop the agony, reduce swollen joints and do away with even the slightest twinge of rheumatic pain, he will gladly return your money without comment.

Allenrhu has been tried and tested for years, and really marvelous results have been accomplished in the most severe cases where the suffering and agony was intense and piteous and where the patient was helpless.

Mr. James H. Allen, of Rochester, N. Y., the discoverer of Allenrhu, who for many years suffered the torments of acute rheumatism, desires all sufferers to know that he does not want a cent of anyone's money unless Allenrhu decisively conquers this worst of all diseases, and he has instructed druggists to guarantee it as above in every instance. Wolff-Wilson Drug Co. can supply you.

ARISTOCRAT JOINS RANKS OF LONDON MANNEQUINS

Elizabeth Ponsonby, Daughter of Foreign Affairs Official, Causes Second Sensation.

Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch.

LONDON, April 11.—Those Ponsonbys! London has held up its hands at their doings so long and so often that they have grown weary, but they had to be elevated again this week when it became known that Miss Elizabeth Ponsonby, daughter of Arthur Ponsonby, Undersecretary of State for Foreign Affairs, has been appearing as a mannequin in fashionable dress parades here, and proposes to continue doing so.

Arthur A. W. H. Ponsonby, a kinsman of the Earl of Bessborough, was once a page to Queen Victoria, and was at one time in the diplomatic service. Now he is known as one of the ablest men in the Labor contingent in Parliament. It was he who electrified his friends la year by introducing a bill to abolish hereditary titles in Great Britain.

His daughter, Elizabeth, is a granddaughter of the late Sir Hubert Parry, Brt., and of Lady Maud Parry, sister of the fourteenth Earl of Pembroke. In 1892 she startled her friends in exclusive social circles by joining the Compton Comedy Company at the Nottingham Repertory Theater, and further surprised them by sticking to her chosen career and winning a modest success in it.

Recently it was learned that Miss Ponsonby acted as a mannequin in a fashion shop last October and has been appearing in the same capacity frequently since then at fashion shows of the West End.

"I am not doing it regularly," she explained, "but at intervals, to oblige a friend. My success has been so gratifying that I have been asked to be a mannequin for some dresses for Ascot, which will be brought here from Paris about the middle of May."

METHODIST PREACHER ALSO SPORTS CARTOONIST

"Chuck" Wells of Wichita, Kan., Divides Time Between Pulpit and Newspaper Office.

WICHITA, Kan.—Charles A. Wells, familiarly known as "Chuck," is both a Methodist preacher and a sports cartoonist. Two years ago he started to serve the Methodist Church at Haysville, Kan., near here. He filled the church every Sunday, for he illustrated his sermons with "chalk talks."

At the recent Kansas Conference of Methodist Churches, the First Methodist Episcopal Church here, one of the largest in the Southwest, asked for an assistant pastor. Bishop E. L. Waldorf, knowing of "Chuck," placed his name before the board. His appointment followed. He will be used to create more interest in church work among the younger church goers by illustrating Biblical stories with cartoons.

Wells will not give up his newspaper work, however, but will continue to spend much of his time during the week cartooning.

The historic ride of Paul Revere from Charleston to Lexington, April, 1775

When TIME means Everything

Time counts. This country might not be the United States today had Paul Revere been late. New history was written because he was on time.

Time counts—when you need a physic. Overnight cathartics are too slow, too unreliable. Get quick action. Get the entire intestinal tract cleared out—the poisonous waste matter eliminated without delay. Take PLUTO.

PLUTO WATER acts in 30 minutes to two hours.

It acts positively—without griping. It washes the intestines—flushes away the disease-breeding waste—leaves no unpleasant after effect.

'COUNTY FAIR' TO BE HELD BY Y. W. C. A. ON APRIL 24

First and Second Floors of Building to Be Used for Entertainment.

The Young Women's Christian Association will hold a carnival April 24, from 6 to 10 p. m. at the Association House, 1411 Locust boulevard. The Hickville Pike, as the affair is officially known, is to be a replica of a county fair with an indoor circus thrown in. There will be no admission charged and the public is invited to attend.

The first and second floors of the building will be turned over to the Federation of Industrial Clubs of the Y. W. C. A., under whose auspices the party is to be given. The girls are making the costumes, decorations and most of the scenery. In addition to a free pike along the balcony and clowns who will do stunts, there are several main features. These include the Japanese tea room, "The Family Album," Cabbage Patch with Mrs. Wiggs and all her children, the Chamber of Horrors, a vaudeville show and an indoor circus. The large gymnasium will be filled booths of various kinds, as will the main foyer.

"Millionth Bale" Shipped.

BROCK MOTOR CAR CO. HAS DUCO FRANCHISE

R. H. Brock of the Brock Motor Car Co. announces a contract for St. Louis and vicinity to maintain an authorized Duco service station. The Brock Motor Car Co. has installed all the latest equipment to finish cars with the new Duco paint. Brock has made a careful investigation during the past 60 days and declares that under this method all work is guaranteed and cars will be turned out in one-half the time previously required. He also states that the Duco method gives the car a finish that will withstand excessive vibrations and the destructive elements that the car is subject to.

Such Power and Strength—at $1065!

ENTERING its third year of stupendous success Jewett Six, in the opinion of many, is the greatest buy obtainable at $1065. It out-performs far more expensive sixes. (Most power for weight!)

All notions as to power in a moderate priced car were upset by Jewett. Its full 50-h.p., Paige-built motor—high-pressure oiled, quiet and "peppy"—wrote new motoring history.

Jewett Six owners gaily get away first in traffic; pick up from 5 to 25 miles an hour in 7 seconds, in high; inch along at 2 miles an hour in traffic, in high; speed up quickly to 60 miles an hour, or more, in high; take most every hill in high!

Look Into the Motor

Here's the best way to judge a car's power. Find out the bore and stroke of its cylinders—the total cubic inch piston displacement. Jewett's cylinders are 3¼ x 5 inches—giving a total of 249 cubic inches. This means from 17 to 47 per cent more power than "light" sixes. Yes, more power even than a dozen higher priced sixes!

"But can the Jewett handle this power?" That's what competitors, on the defensive, asked. It was but natural, for Jewett's moderate price, judged by usual standards, indicated a light, flimsy car. It still seems incredible to many that $1065 can buy a sturdy, husky car, more than amply strong—in absolute proportion to its fifty horse power.

But it's a fact! Jewett owners, through millions of miles of service, have proved Jewett's strength, dependability, freedom from repair bills!

2805 lbs. Strong

Jewett—2805 pounds strong—weighs from 200 to 400 pounds more than "light" sixes. It weighs more than some larger cars. It has a 6-inch-deep frame; Paige-Timken axles front and rear; Paige-type clutch and transmission; all-steel universal joints.

Many people content themselves with lighter cars than Jewett—cars less powerful, less able—but costing nearly as much. They do this only because they do not drive Jewett before buying. Remember, Jewett, for only $1065, brings you mechanical superiorities—weight for length—249 cubic inch motor—power for weight—and other advantages not obtainable in any other car.

Compare!

That's why we say "in all the world no car like this!" You may duplicate some of Jewett's features for from seven hundred to thousands of dollars more, but then at the sacrifice of convenience and economy.

Drive Jewett. Let your wife drive it. Then ask yourself whether any lesser car can possibly satisfy you. Call us—today!

(617-S)

Get-Away

Ever see an ordinary horse struggling to start a load? Then watch the stronger horse walk away with it smartly? Jewett's amazing pick-up is seen every day when the traffic officer blows his whistle. [Most power for weight, that's why!

VELIE OFFICIAL WOULD ASSIST TOURISTS

With the summer touring season at hand and nearly every state, city and town preparing to boost summer trade by catering to the tourist, it is time that some logical program was followed to keep the tourist posted as to the laws in effect in certain territories, according to F. E. Bradfield, vice president of the Velie Motors Corporation, Moline, Ill.

Bradfield suggests a few simple things that automobile dealers, state officials and municipal officials can do to make the "road easier" for tourists. In a letter just received by the Benjamin Motor Co., Velie distributers, he suggests that—

1. The State should erect a signboard at the State boundary line on every main highway, giving a brief digest of state laws tourists should know.

2. Every town should post a brief survey as to right-of-way rules and speed limits several miles out of each community and again on entering the town.

3. Automobile dealers should also quote the laws in effect in their communities by means of signboards, printed slips in their salesrooms and at gasoline stations.

JITNEYS THRIVE IN HAVANA, CUBA

A. S. Frampton Gives Experience on Trip to Island and to Panama.

"When one steps off the dock at Havana, Cuba, he is met at the gates by the Cuban jitneys," says A. S. Frampton, vice president of the Hudson-Frampton Company, who recently returned from a trip there, and to Panama. "After using them, he is very much impressed with their efficiency. The drivers are required by police regulations to carry the prices on the front windshield and are not allowed to call to you but must sit in their cars and can only beckon. Most of the jitneys in Havana are Fords and the charge for a haul is 20 cents. Larger cars are allowed 30 cents. The streets are narrow, but the drivers take you through with remarkable speed and safety. They take great delight in decorating their cars with Spanish leather coverings extending over the seats and around the top of the body. Some of these coverings are very elaborate, but I could see nothing attractive in them. They do not have a standard taxicab system, depending upon the individual jitneys, although there are regular sightseeing automobiles.

"I noticed very few closed cars on the Island, continued the Hudson-Essex distributer. Our representative in Havana told me the Cuban buys his car for appearance, as they have no roads across the Island on which they can tour. The driving is confined to Havana proper and the immediate suburbs. The country is comparatively level so they care very little about the high-powered car. As the duty is 25 per cent, plus a rather high transportation rate from the States, most of the cars are medium priced small cars.

"I never saw more efficient traffic policemen in any part of the United States or Canada than they have in Cuba. The men are mostly very young, fine-looking chaps dressed in a pretty blue uniform, and are exceptionally active and brainy. On account of the lack of business opportunities for young men, the position of traffic officer attracts a very high-grade class. They are very strict in enforcing the rules and regulations and especially severe on speeders. They have wonderful drives open along the ocean out toward the Country Club, Casino, etc., and one is apt to "let loose and step on her," but is almost sure to be picked up by police and dealt with severely.

"On our arrival at the isthmus, we found to our surprise there is not an automobile road from the Atlantic Ocean to the Pacific. They have very fine roads from Colon to the Gatun Dam and again from the west end of Gatun Dam Lake to Panama, but in building the Gatun Dam they backed up the water so that it expanded back over the Panamanian territory, and one engineer told me it would cost $1,000,000 per mile to fill in and put the automobile road across the lake, which would be about 29 miles. At the present time they are figuring on connecting the two roads by going around the lake. They follow the European system and drive on the left side. To an American this is very exciting, because when you come around the curve the other fellow will be coming rightat you, and you certainly lok for a smash-up, which never occurs.

"In both Colon and Panama there are many automobiles, but still hundreds of one-horse Landaulets, which are more reasonable in price than the automoblie, and as a visitor has nothing but time, our crowd found more pleasure in riding back of the old horse jogging along the streets than we did in the swifter moving cars.

"Americans visiting the Canal Zone are told by the United Fruit representatives that they are guests of all the clubs, and that they shbuld make themselves at home. We found the Panamanian an exceptionally courteous and obliging gentleman. The President even invited us down to the presidental residence, served champagne and personally escorted us all over the house. The successful merchants have very beautiful homes.

ESSEX WITH GENERAL BALLOONS, ATTRACTIVE

A new Essex six coach equipped with general cord balloon tires was driven around St. Louis streets last week and attracted a great deal of attention. The wheel equipment was changed, to allow for the balloon equipment, from the regular wood wheels to 20-inch Hauck wire wheels. Then 4.40-20 size General balloons were installed, in common language, 29x4½.

This new Essex with the balloon tires belongs to M. E. Majors, who has just come here from Indianapolis to take charge of the general cord division of the Frampton company's business.

Majors was mid-Western manager for the Yale Tile and Rubber Co. of New Haven, Conn., prior to coming to St. Louis. Previously he was assistant sales manager of the Standard Four Tire Corporation of Keokuk, Ia., and is one of the best-known tire men in the Middle West.

A ride in Majors' Essex over curbs and rough streets proved that there is scarcely any shock experienced, no matter what the condition of the roadbed, in riding in such a car with General balloons.

CUT RATE TIRE CO. NOW IN NEW STORE

The Cut Rate Tire and Supply Co. have moved into their new home at 1115 Chestnut street. The company carries a complete line of automobile accessories, oils, tires, etc. The firm is a partnership, those interested being Max Recht and Harry Machtinger. Buick Value—The Measure of Automobile Values

People now-a-days measure automobile values on the basis of Buick value. How often you hear such remarks as: "It's not nearly as good as Buick". People make these remarks both consciously and unconsciously. Consciously, because they actually know Buick value either from their own experience or that of their friends; unconsciously, because for twenty years Buick has been the accepted standard of the industry. Good reasons, both, why you should own a Buick.

DODGE BROTHERS MAKES NEW WEEKLY RECORD

Dodge Brothers have established a new record for retail deliveries, according to word just received by Dodge Bros. Motor Co., Inc.

For the week ending April 5, cars were placed in the hands of buyers by Dodge Brothers dealers, which exceeded the best previous week's deliveries by more than 1,000. The former record was made the week of May 7, 1923. Originally was the week of April 21 a record breaker, according to the factory's official figures, but in the period dating from Dec. 1, when the production of the new types of Dodge Brothers cars began reaching large proportions, shows a tremendous gain in retail deliveries over the corresponding period of the previous year. The first quarter of 1924 was 50 per cent greater than the first quarter of 1923. Every week of the first quarter was far ahead of the corresponding week of the year before.

STANDARD OIL IS HANDLING ETHYL GAS

An announcement has just been made that the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana will distribute from its service stations the new automotive fuel developed by the General Motors Corporation and called ethyl gas.

"This," states Allen Jackson, vice president in charge of sales for Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, "is one of the most important announcements ever made to the motoring public. The Standard Oil Co., after careful study and tests in its own laboratories, has recognized the merits of this new product of General Motors. We are equipping all of our service stations as rapidly as possible to distribute ethyl gas."

"This product is made by the addition of what is known as ethyl fluid to regular Red Crown gasoline. Therefore it will be marketed through our filling stations under the name of Red Crown ethyl gas."

TOURS "IMPASSABLE" ROUTE IN A HUPP

DETROIT, Mich., April 19—Over a route no human being has ever before traveled, Francis K. Davison, automobile manager of Joao Jorge, Figueiredo & Cia., Hupmobile distributers in Sao Paulo, Brazil, left that city recently in a daring effort to travel by motor to Buenos Aires, Argentina. The trip is being made to demonstrate to South Americans the capabilities of an automobile. The car used is a stock 1924 Hupmobile touring.

Though the air line distance between the two cities is less than 2000 miles, Mr. Davison estimates he must pick his way over nearly twice that distance. He has already covered hundreds of miles through territory where there is no road, over mountain passes both high and tortuous, through dense swamps and forests of underbrush, across streams where bridges must be constructed and through other sections impassable even to native ox carts.

In the Brazilian State of Rio Grande do Sul, Mr. Davison, according to cables to the Hupp Motor Car Corporation, reports traversing jungles impassable even to many animals. To secure passage through one spot he engaged a gang of 40 men and kept them working four days building bridges. With the primitive tools and materials—all that could be gathered near by—10 were built, three of which broke down in crossing, nearly costing the intrepid driver and his two assistants their lives.

After the successful negotiation of this tortuous spot, Mr. Davison reports keeping another gang of 15 natives working day and night to remove enormous rocks, between or over which it was impossible for a motor car to be driven.

PAIGE-DETROIT MAKES NEW SHIPPING RECORD

DETROIT, Mich., April 19.—Paige-Detroit Motor Car Co. set another record for sales during the month of March by shipping 5683 Paiges and Jewetts, according to figures just announced by the factory and just received by the Newell Motor Car Co., Paige and Jewett distributers.

March figures compare with 5589 shipped in February, 5451 in January and 4759 in March of last year, according to the sales records of the company.

The new record set in March is entirely in accord with the enthusiasm that leaders in the automobile industry have exhibited when talking of prospects for 1924, states Mr. Harry M. Jewett, president of the company.

"AMERICAN AUTOS SELL IN EUROPE"

—F. W. A. VESPER.

St. Louis Buick Distributor Declares More Cars Manufactured Here Are Being Sold in European Than Ever Before.

According to F. W. A. Vesper, president of the Vesper-Buick company, who has just returned from a European tour, the American automobile is steadily gaining in favor there, in spite of the great horsepower and larger size of the motors.

"In the past," says Vesper, "the increased horsepower has been somewhat of a handicap because European cars have been and still are built with the idea of small horsepower and, therefore, low gasoline consumption. The popular price European models are rated from five to nine horsepower, as against a relative power of 18 to 24 horsepower on this side. This factor in the past has been responsible for the restricted business on American cars in some localities. However, it was my observation that European drivers have become very partial to the American car, especially for touring purposes.

"The automobile dealer of the Continent handling American cars has had quite a little difficulty because of the difference of exchange," continued Vesper, "which has made his price more or less uncertain.

"Outside of the cities, where splendid salesrooms and shops are maintained, the automobile dealer is practically unknown, most of the sales being made on practically a retail basis through some local representative who is on a strictly sales commission basis.

The repair shop and garage, as we know it here, does not exist.

"The speed laws are rigidly enforced. In the cities and in the suburbs the violators are not only fined but are deprived of their licenses. As an instance, while we were in London, Lord Curson, M. P., was fined and lost his license for six months for the third offense of driving 33 miles per hour over a certain highway.

"The congestion in the cities is acute, especially in those with the narrow streets and also on some of the main highways. They are not of sufficient width for traffic. In certain localities the congestion is due to the bicycle, which, in my opinion, will in the next four or five years, develop into a very serious competitor for the automobile in congested districts. I was advised that the bicycle in continental Europe has been on the gradual increase in spite of general conditions affecting other lines. Bicycle stores and repair shops are found in every little town and the country highways are full of bicycles used not only for ordinary purposes, but for all needs of transportation. In a great many localities, the public highways provide for a special bicycle path which is kept up and maintained in exactly the same way as the highway for vehicular traffic.

"Except in one or two instances, automobiles are not manufactured in quantities, os as it is caled mass production, by any of the European factories. One, however, the Citreon, in Paris, very recently installed American methods and machinery, equipping their plant with American-made automobile machinery. They have also installed the American system of accumulative assembly and have established piece work in their plant. This factory is building 170 cars per day and expects to reach a production of 300 when all of their new equipment becomes operative.

"Sooner or later, other European factories will get into quantity production, which will probably make competition harder for American cars.

"In spite of the high cost of gas, motor travel is comparatively cheap on the Continent and one may easily arrange for a tour with a competent driver, who, in some cases, speaks several different languages, at a remarkably low cost. The taxicab rates in the cities, especially in Paris are the cheapest commodity of any sort to be found."

REO DESIGNS BUS FOR AVERAGE LOAD

Announcement of the new Reo bus, with its six-cylinder engine, sturdy chassis construction and low-hanging body, is now being made by the Reo Motor Car Co., through its distributers, and in St. Louis through the Kardell Motor Car Co.

Before designing the new bus, Reo engineers made an extensive survey of bus transportation in cities of all sizes. By means of this survey they determined what might be considered the average number of passengers that a bus would be called upon to carry. They also found that it is cheaper for an operator to run busses "sized to the average load" during the hours in which the number of passengers is normal and add extra busses for the rush hours.

Accordingly the new Reo bus was designed to carry 21 passengers in addition to the driver. The chassis, which was designed especially for passenger transportation, is an entirely new member of the Reo line. Features which mark it especially are its wheelbase, which is 176 inches, four-wheel brakes, its spring suspension, its rear axle, designed especially for passenger bus work, and the unique disposition of the spare tire carrier.

BUS TRANSPORTATION EXPANDS RAPIDLY

Recognition of the motor bus as a permanent factor in transportation has been made clear in 29 states by their enactment of regulations relating to busses as common carriers; such legislation was passed in six of these states during 1923.

The tremendous growth of travel by bus in every state is shown by 1923 figures in every case where reports have been received. New bus lines have been established in larg numbers, routes have been extended and fleets have been increased. More than 40,000 busses are now operated in the United States by the bus and railway companies.

Yet with all this rapid expansion of the bus field, the position of the electric railways in general greatly improved during the past year. All records of passengers carried by the tractions were broken. Thus it is shown that busses have by no means "ruined" the business of the electric carriers, but on the contrary have served as auxiliary and supplementary units, often creating new traffic. The proof of bus usefulness in this connection is demonstrated by the fact that more than 100 electric lines own and operate approximately 1000 busses, of which 500 are Whites.

Packard-Six 5-Passenger Touring Car

$2910 St. Louis—Equipped and Delivered

BERRY MOTOR CAR COMPANY.
Saint Louis.

Gentlemen:

I have driven a Packard Six for approximately 30,000 miles. This car has been so satisfactory that I have just purchased another new one from you.

I have had very wide experience with motor cars of different makes. The Packard Six excels every one of these other makes in the qualities most desirable to me—power, speed, acceleration, ease of control, riding qualities, and, above all, reliability and low maintenance cost.

Whenever there has been need for any service, I have always been efficiently and satisfactorily taken care of. It gives me a great deal of pleasure, therefore, to make this statement.

Yours very truly.
(Name furnished upon request)

All that anyone can possibly desire in performance, the Packard Six gives in generous measure. In speed, in acceleration, in sustained power, in amazing ease of control, in smoothness of operation, and in buoyancy of riding, it is far and away the finest six cylinder car in America today. That such dominant performance is enjoyed at the very minimum of operating cost is simply added proof of the extraordinary investment value of the Packard-Six.

DORT SIX

Quieter at High Speed Than Other Motors

The clicking sound of steel against steel caused by push rods slapping the cam, which is common to other motors at high speeds—even those claiming to have force-feed lubrication—is entirely absent in the Dort Six-Cylinder Motor. Here's why! Oil is forced through the patented hollow push rods of the Dort at great pressure, so that there is always a cushion of oil between push rods and cam. Result: Silent operation at all speeds. This is the only motor in which every working part is continually bathed in oil.

RED CROWN ETHYL GASOLINE

Possesses these distinct advantages:

1 It eliminates fuel knocks in your engine—with the resulting waste of fuel, lack of power and the harmful effects of carbon that these knocks indicate.

2 It reduces gear shifting to a minimum.

3 It actually improves the condition of the engine.

4 It increases the engine's smoothness and power—insures a quicker speeding-up of the engine—and greater economy.

Try it once and you'll use it always!

"CIVILIZATION OWES EXISTENCE TO WHEEL"

C. Harold Wills, president of the Wills-Sainte Claire Co., tells of value of wheel to humanity.

"Civilization owes its existence to the wheel," says C. Harold Wills, president of Wills-Sainte Claire, in a letter to the McNiece Motor Co., Inc., Wills-Sainte Clair distributers.

"A wheel on its pivot is easier to move than any other mechanical contrivance," continues Wills. "It provides an economy of motion which has been developed to its peak in recent years in the fine automobile. But some people still walk when they ought not to—or use the wrong kind of 'wheel.'

"Caesar went over the Alps with a lot of elephants and horses, but mighty few chariots. Most of his friends walked and had a mighty rocky time of it.

"Fulton offered the latest thing in wheels to Napoleon but a steamboat on the channel was too revolutionary for the Little Corporal, and ultimately he got licked.

"The American Indian used a drag to transport his household goods, and even today you will see the cave-man's car—a 'stoneboat'—being hauled around on some American farms.

"But the man who intends to get somewhere is doing it with less friction and less cost, per accomplishment, by means of the wheel. Even if the automobile is economically beyond him (and it must be a good one to prove its ultimate economy) he will buy it 'on time' and the subsequent 'payments' will provide an incentive to hustle which will make him a better man. There are some elements of human dynamics which cannot be figured in terms of social economics.

"Chemistry and physics have put the wheel at the pinnacle of the marvelous mechanical world of today.

"The wheel is breeding a superrace, right here on this continent. Two obligations loom: One, the obligation of the manufacturer to provide economy through perfect fabrication; two, the obligation of the individual to utilize that economy for the advancement of the race."

PRODUCTION RECORDS BROKEN BY OVERLAND

Willys-Overland Shows Large Percentage of Increase in First Quarter of 1924 Over 1923—54 Pct.

Besides surpassing all previous monthly production records with a production of 24,091 cars for March, the Willys-Overland company also exceeded any previous quarter with a total of 68,481 cars for the first quarter of this year.

Willys-Overland production for the first quarter of 1923 was 44,470 cards. This year's production is an increase of 54 per cent over the same period last year. Shipments reached their high point over the same pedod last year. Shipments reached their high point on March 31, when the total was 1535 cars.

John N. Willys, president of the Willys-Overland Co., who has just returned from a 10,000-mile trip, reaching from Boston to Seattle, down the Pacific Coast and across the southern part of the United States, in which he has talked personally to approximately 3000 Willys-Overland dealers, is very enthusiastic over the Willys-Overland position and prospects.

"During the past year we have almost doubled our dealer organization and the profits made by Willys-Overland dealers the past year have greatly strengthened their position at every point in the territory," he said. At every point he found dealers optimistic over Willys-Overland business, "not merely optimistic with hopes but optimistic as result of large numbers of retail orders on file which will be delivered as soon as the spring business season opens up the roads."

Willys states that the bad weather of the past few weeks has delayed deliveries in many quarters, but has not materially retarded Willys-Overland sales.

"We note from the reports of credit companies who finance dealers during the winter, that a very active retail demand started in many sections late in March. Retail sales, according to our field reports, are equal in March to those of last year, and this past week has shown a very great increase."

CLEAN THE OILING SYSTEM REGULARLY

"The average car owner is prone to follow the instructions which he finds in the book which accompanies his car, and he is careful to do nothing, unless he finds a suggestion in a magazine or in that same book of instructions," says Erwin Greer, president, Greer College of Automotive Engineering of Chisago.

"He fills the base of his engine with lubricant when oil is necessary, as indicated by the gauge, and he is careful to see that the oil flows through the gauge, and he is careful to see that the pressure remains at a certain figure while the engine is running. The instruction book does not always advise the owner further regarding the oiling system.

"You may have liquid in the base of your engine, but is it a lubricant? Many times this liquid is a combination of cylinder oil and water. Its lubricating properties are poor and should the bearings burn through lack of oil the owner is very apt to blame the oil for the trouble. He immediately buys oil of another grade or oil that is made by another manufacturer, without, however, knowing the reason for his trouble.

"Depending upon the type of engine, oil in the base should be changed regularly. Old lubricating oil should be drained out from the base and thrown away and new put in, for at least every thousand miles of riding. In some cases it is advisable to renew the oil much oftener.

"Make a point of cleaning it with light oil every time the lubricating oil is renewed. Put in about one quart of light oil and turn the engine over by hand, with the petcocks open, a dozen turns or so. The light oil will loosen the particles of grease and have a tendency to drive out the dirt. It is not advisable to run the engine while the light oil is in the base. It may do no harm. On the other hand, there is a possibility that it will damage the engine.

"After the engine has been cleaned in this way, draw off the light oil, and while the drain cocks are still open turn the engine over two or three times in order to drive the light oil from the system. Clean the pump strainer, if there is one, then put in a good grade of oil.

NEW PAIGE BROUGHAM HAS ADVANCED LINES

The trend in body design is distinctly toward the lines initiated by the new Paige four-door brougham shown now by the Newell Motor Car Co., the Paige-Detroit Motor Car Co., has informed its local dealers.

Confirming its statements regarding the advanced style of the new brougham, the Paige company cites the lead article appearing in the current issue of "Autobody," a publication devoted to the branch of the automobile industry which the name suggests.

The heading of the article calls attention to the "new body designs" worked out by some of the leading makers of custom-built bodies. It further adds that these "may" soon be worked out in production because of a host of advantages found in them by the custom-built body producers.

The Truth

About this Light-Six—plus proof on proof

THIS Studebaker Light-Six is the supreme value in the "thousand-dollar" class.

It offers, not a few, but scores of advantages. In its chassis it represents the best that modern engineering knows. In its steels and quality of construction it is identical with the costliest cars we build.

This is to offer you proofs. Then urge that you see it before paying $1,000 or more for a car.

Some evidence

The extra values which this car typifies have made Studebaker the largest builder of quality cars.

They have made these cars a sensation. Sales have almost trebled in three years. Last year 145,167 people paid $201,000,000 for Studebaker cars.

The multiplying demand has forced an investment of $50,000,000 in model plants and equipment. Of this, $38,000,000 has been spent in the past five years, so the plants are up-to-date.

The engineering department which designs and superintends this Light-Six costs $500,000 per year.

The machines which build it are modern and exact. 517 operations on this car are exact to 1/1000th of an inch. 122 operations are exact to one-half 1/1000th of an inch.

1,200 inspectors are employed to submit each car in the making to 32,000 inspections.

Infinite care

The steels are selected from 35 formulas, each one proved best by years of test for its purpose. On some we pay the makers 15% premium to get them exactly right.

The crankshafts are machined on all surfaces, as was done in the Liberty Airplane Motors. This to give perfect motor balance, at an extra cost to us of $600,000 yearly.

It has more Timken bearings than any other competitive car within $1,500 of its price.

$1045

Studebaker Light-Six
Scores of extra values

Built by the leader in the fine-car class. One of the cars for which people last year paid $201,000,000.

Built in a model $50,000,000 plant, producing 150,000 cars yearly. And saving you by quantity production from $200 to $400.

Built of the same steels, with the same care, as the costliest cars we make.

The car that saved 11.4% in operating cost under rivals. The car with 14 Timken bearings.

Mail coupon for book about it

The equipment is unusual. The cushions are of genuine leather, and are ten inches deep.

Every part and detail accords with Studebaker traditions. And the name Studebaker has for 72 years stood for quality and class.

Mark this result

Some men who operate fleets of cars in this class called in auditors to compare the operating costs. They made comparisons on 329 cars, running up to 25,000 miles.

It was found that this Studebaker Light-Six cost for operation 11.4% less than the average of its rivals. This figure included depreciation. That meant $207.50 saved on [illegible] miles. All because of this quality construction.

What it saves you

We build 150,000 cars yearly. All such major costs as engineering, dies, overhead, etc., are divided by 150,000.

We build in model plants, with modern machinery, which have immensely reduced the manufacturing costs.

A car like this, built under ordinary conditions, would cost you from $200 to $400 more.

Learn, for your own sake, what that means to you.

Goodrich also offers Balloon Cords in a full range of sizes for 20 and 21 inch wheels.

Goodrich Balloon Cords

Whatever problem your car presents, Goodrich can equip it with Balloon Cords. . . . We can add to your car, new or old, the super service, the smooth riding motoring of low-air pressure tires.

This is why: Goodrich manufactures Balloon Cords for 20 and 21 inch wheels (the new equipment), and also for existing wheels and rims. Thus, Goodrich Balloon Cord sizes cover the entire range of wheels.

The advantage of Balloon Cords is one of a degree of enjoyment, safety and efficiency. Just as riding in a parlor car is more enjoyable than riding in a day coach, riding on Balloon Cords is more comfortable than riding on high-air pressure tires.

All sizes of Goodrich Balloon Cords possess this added smooth-running comfort, and anti-skid safety.

What is more, the name, Goodrich, on a tire assures quality; and quality is the one uncertain factor in Balloon Cords. It adds to your confidence to know that your Balloon Cords are the product of the same manufacturer that fathered cord tires.

To ride on Balloon Cords is the up-to-date way to motor. The ordinary bump and jolt of rough road and pavement are absorbed in the yielding cushions of air on the wheels.

The source of expert and reliable advice on Balloon Cords is the Goodrich Dealer. Call on him. He will inform you of the proper size for your car. Ask him to go over with you our Balloon Cord Information Chart, and secure from him our latest Bulletin "Goodrich Balloon Cords".

TWO MEDIUM-PRICED CARS IN MANY HOMES

"The practicability of operating two cars in the medium price class has been thoroughly demonstrated," writes Fred E. Wilson, vice president and director of sales and advertising of the Columbia Motors Co., to the Advance Motor Car Co., Columbia distributers. "To a greater extent each year we have found this idea taking hold with the motoring public.

"That this idea is to enjoy even greater popularity during coming years is evidenced by the fact that most of the residences now being erected are provided with two-car garages, even in neighborhoods where there seems no chance of renting space in the unfilled garage. This clearly indicates that home builders are thinking of the time when they will need the extra garage space for a second car.

"It is perfectly natural that the time is here when business men have become thoroughly sold on the idea of operating one car for their own use and another for family use. They have come to feel it is the height of selfishness to drive off each morning with the car and keep it all day. In many cases the car stands in front of the man's office and is never used until he drives home at night.

"All day his wife and family have been deprived of the use of a car. He is unable to afford two high-priced automobiles and so he turns to the medium priced field and buys two cars of the same make."

POSTOFFICE KNOWS THE PACKARD SLOGAN

Almost with the completion of the first Packard car 25 years ago the slogan "Ask the man who owns one" was born and still is used by the Packard Motor Car Co. Recently students in the Delta Tau Delta fraternity house at Lexington, Va., made a test to determine how well known the slogan is in America.

A. Milling Bernstein wrote a letter to the Packard company in which he said he was conducting an experiment to determine the power of trade slogans for advertising a product. He addressed the letter simply, "Ask the man who owns one, U. S. A." It was received in the general offices of the Packard company at Detroit in exactly the same time as a letter properly addressed.

NEW STEWART-WARNER SHOCK ABSORBER HERE

The first shipment of a new product of the Stewart-Warner Speedometer Corporation of Chicago, the Stewart-Warner shock absorber, has reached the Stewart-Warner Products Service Station.

Dan F. Hyland, manager, reports that large numbers of installations of the shock absorbers are being made.

The new shock absorber has a fabric strap that, by acting on a coil spring within a drum, greatly reduces the jolts and rebounds resulting from the spring action that follows contacts of the wheel of the automobile with road irregularities, according to Hyland.

HOW MUCH FREIGHT DOES PLANT RECEIVE

Few persons realize the amount of freight that comes into and goes out of a modern motor car factory. The Oakland Motor Car Co., Pontiac, Mich., for instance, received 60,976,200 pounds of freight during 1923, and in the same time sent out 4,309,400 pounds of freight. The great difference between the incoming and outgoing freight is due to the tremendous amount of coal brought into the factory.

The total number of carloads inbound check 3680, while the outbound totaled 7360. Figuring 25 cars to a train, approximately 290 trains left the factories from Pontiac, Mich., during the last year. The foregoing figures, of course, do not include the 2395 motor cars shipped by boat and those delivered to nearby points in drive-aways.

BENJAMIN SELLING COLES AND VELIES

According to Jerome J. Benjamin, manager of the Benjamin Motor Co., Velie and Cole distributers, sales of both lines are good. Benjamin reports deliveries to many prominent St. Louisans. A Washington avenue business man who has lately taken delivery of a Cole is Joseph B. Kleinhauser, sales manager of the Bettmann-Kleinhauser Clothing Co., who has been using his seven-passenger Cole sedan since the middle of last week. The car is finished in gray and is equipped with balloon tires.

"SINCERE SERVICE" IS AN AUTOMOBILE NEED

In a timely discussion of automobile selling methods, H. C. Merry of the Wilson Motor Car Co., the Haynes distributor, outlines a great need of 1924 automobile merchandising.

"While the business of selling automobiles has made wonderful progress," he says, "it has one more step to go. The good dealer no longer regards service as a 'necessary evil.' He recognizes the importance of satisfying his customers.

"But the average dealer has not gone far enough. Today he simply looks at service as a stepping stone to replacement sales. He has no sooner sold a car than he begins to figure how soon he can sell the same owner a new model.

"Service, however, should be looked upon as an obligation placed upon the dealer by the sale of the car. The owner should be entitled to long service from his car—and the dealer should feel it his honest duty to help the owner get that service. Sincere service—not for sales' sake, but for its own sake—is the first requirement of a good dealer."

The plant of the H. H. Franklin Manufacturing Co. at Syracuse, N. Y., where the Franklin car is made, uses 100,000 gallons of gasoline annually, most of it in the paint shop and in the testing department.

CHRYSLER PRODUCING OVER 100 CARS DAILY

Production reports from the Chrysler Motor Corporation just received by the Ward Motor Co., Chrysler distributors, indicate that the company has not only been able to maintain its recent rate of 100 cars a day, but has bettered this mark in the past week, with every sign pointing to capacity production by the end of April.

For the last several weeks of March the Chrysler plant was turning out 100 cars every day. In the past six working days the average has been 110 a day. J. E. Fields, general sales manager of the company, said in a recent statement that capacity production of 150 cars daily will undoubtedly be reached before April 30. Orders on hand fully indicate that it will be necessary to maintain this peak production for months to come.

Although the production gains have to some extent taken care of back orders, new orders have also been received in increasing proportions. Cars are now being delivered to buyers.

Newman Announces Nash Increase

Harry Newman of Harry Newman Nash., Inc., announces that on April 5, his company received word from the factory of a price increase in three Nash open models, effective on that date.

Twice each day large size carts visit every department of the H. H. Franklin Manufacturing Co.'s plant at Syracuse, where the Franklin car is made. The carts are loaded with sandwiches, ice cream, fruit, tobacco, gum, soft drinks, milk, etc., which are sold to the men while they are at work. These carts are operated by the Franklin Musical Association, an employe organization.

Consider This Oakland Sedan at $1445

THERE is genuine satisfaction in owning this Oakland Six Sedan. It actually incorporates more advanced construction and worth-while features than you will find in any other Sedan selling at a similar price. Here are just a few of the facts you can verify for yourself.

Oakland's new six-cylinder engine is compact and powerful. Its full pressure lubrication to all bearings, automatic spark control, patented bronze-backed bearings and all-round advanced design give it the smoothness so desirable in a closed car.

Oakland's four-wheel brakes are sound and practical. In the Sedan, a family car, don't overlook this very real safety feature. If you doubt their desirability just drive an Oakland.

The body is distinctive. It is Fisher-built—beautiful and complete. Comparisons with other sedans will increase your desire for it.

Oakland's new Duco finish will be a revelation to you. More beautiful than ordinary finishes, it is also many times more durable. In no other car, similarly priced, can you obtain this finish.

The control system is exclusively Oakland. Horn, throttle, ignition switch, choke and light controls—all are on the steering wheel, right under your hand. There is nothing on the dash, except the neat, indirectly lighted instrument board.

Disc steel wheels are standard on the Sedan. They are safer, better looking, more desirable in every way.

These are the facts, and the Sedan price is only $1445 at the factory. To insure complete satisfaction you cannot afford to pay less, and you need not pay more. Consider the Oakland—see it, ride in it, drive it—then decide for yourself.

WHAT BALLOON CORDS MEAN TO MOTORING

Solution of Low and High Pressure Tires Defined by Goodrich Expert.

AKRON, O., April 19.—Car owners should have clearly understood that they have a right to expect from Balloon Cords, is the gist of a statement I ssued by a Goodrich tire expert.

He points out that high pressure tires have given excellent service to motorists, and that Balloon Cords, so to speak, merely extend the excellence. But it is a real contribution to the motor car.

"The perfection of the motor car is written in the greater safety, efficiency and comfort of motoring," he says. "It is a far cry from the excited thrill of bouncing along in the 'horseless carriage' to the contented relaxation of sitting back in a quiet, smooth-running automobile and letting the world glide by.

Yet the distance motoring has traveled is a mater of improvement and refinement of motor cars —and tires. Motoring enjoyed yesterday is not tolerated today. Motorists reach ahead for a new margin of efficiency and comfort —a new something.

"Automotive engineers, car makers and tire makers, experiment, design and build to give it to him. It was the pneumatic tire which made the automobile practical. It is the pneumatic tire —the Balloon Cord—which adds the new something to the motor car—a new comfort and safety—a new pleasure—to motoring.

"It moves the motorist forward a mighty stride into that excess margin of betterment he seeks. The advantages are real, and so are the beneficial results. Once Balloon Cords are on a car, the driver and the passenger know an increased comfort in riding and a general improvement of the car itself. It shows everywhere: in driving, maintaining, and enjoying the car.

"Why this is so, is plain to see: the car is literally riding on more cushioning air—air under lower pressure. With balloon cords, a car has four bigger, more yielding air buffers under it to absorb bumps and shocks.

"But the difference is one of degree of comfort. Balloon cords furnish an extra margin of the fine service which good high-pressure tires have long delivered. They

It is the pneumatic tire —the Balloon Cord—which adds the new something to the motor car—a new comfort and safety—a new pleasure—to motoring.

"It moves the motorist forward a mighty stride into that excess margin of betterment he seeks. The advantages are real, and so are the beneficial results. Once Balloon Cords are on a car, the driver and the passenger know an increased comfort in riding and a general improvement of the car itself. It shows everywhere: in driving, maintaining, and enjoying the car.

"Why this is so, is plain to see; the car is literally riding on more cushioning air—air under lower pressure. With balloon cords, a car has four bigger, more yielding air buffers under it to absorb bumps and shocks.

"But the difference is one of degree of comfort. Balloon cords furnish an extra margin of the fine service which good high-pressure tires have long delivered. They add a special de luxe improvement to an automobile in a super-service in tires.

"Take an example: Riding in a parlor car is more comfortable than riding in a day coach. Either gets you there in the same time over the same track, but you prefer the parlor car. Just as the parlor car has a plus comfort and satisfaction over the day coach, so balloon cords have a plus comfort and satisfaction over high-pressure tires. They represent the parlor car riding of motoring.

WATCH COMPRESSION— CAR WILL RUN BETTER

"An important detail to watch, and that which keeps the engine running efficiently is compression," says Erwin Greer, president Greer College of Automotive Engineering, of Chicago. "An engine with faulty compression may appear to run fairly well when the car is rolling and at a reasonable speed or when it is working hard. Lost compression shows up when the car is being driven at comparatively low speed.

"Under either condition the engine will run with an irregularity that makes the car jerk or jump instead of running steadily, as it should. This condition indicates that there is considerable loss of power and that much more gasoline is being burned than when the engine is developing its full power.

"Thousands of gallons of gasoline are wasted every day by motorists because of the inefficient operation of their engines. In fact, gasoline mileage may be cut in half through compression loss and still the engine may continue to run fairly well, according to the ideas of the amateur driver.

"If the engine is not running well and a compression loss is suspected, the easiest way to detect it is to use the crank and turn the engine over by hand, thus feeling the compression in each cylinder. You will nearly always find that some pistons will go over compression much easier than others, and this means that somewhere there is a leak in this cylinder.

"With the average car under normal conditions it is probably wise to have the valves ground at least once every 5000 to 7000 miles, depending upon the running condition of the engine.

Fifty-seven per cent of all new Franklins sold in 1923 went to former Franklin owners, according to figures compiled by S. E. Ackerman, sales manager of the Franklin Automobile Co.

The Franklin car is sold in 448 cities and towns in the United States and Canada and in 10 foreign countries.

"KEEP CAR CLEAN" SAYS DORT OFFICIAL

Elijah G. Poxson, newly appointed general sales manager for the Dort organization, has a word of advice that will be valuable to any car owner.

"Keep your car clean," says Mr. Poxson, "because it will pay you in real money to do so. Of course you like the paint and nickel and glass to shine when you are driving. It increased your enjoyment to know your automobile looks well on the road. It's the same feeling that comes when you get all dressed up in new, handsome clothes. As the psychologists say, it 'adds to your psychic income.' But it does more than that. It adds to your real, hard-earned, dollar-and-cents income, too. How? Because it enables you to get a better resale price for your car when it comes to getting your new one. People don't remember, sometimes, to figure the resale dollars as coming off the price of their next car, but that's exactly what they do. That is why when we design Dort cars, one of the things we keep in the front of our minds is to build them so that they will have a high resale value. We put out a motor that will remain silent and efficient, a chassis that won't develop squeaks, bodies that will be in good taste and comfortable when some other body styles will be obsolete, and paint and finish jobs that with normal attention will stay bright and shiny. We do all we can but we can't do it all. The car owner must do his share. Particularly he must keep his car clean if he wants to realize the full value on it later. Mud or rain spots left standing will mar any painted finish in the world. Neglect dust gets ground in. It's really a simple job to keep a car clean, and a job well worth doing."

BIG PRODUCTION OF PAIGE CARS IN MARCH

Production of the new Paige during the month of March equaled 50 per cent of the total production for the entire year 1923, according to information received from the Paige-Detroit Motor Car Co. this week by the Newell Motor Car Co.

The factory announces that the Paige is furnished in many different models additional to those of last year. James E. Newell of the Newell concern, says that he has nine different stock models of Paiges on display at the salesroom. The Paige this year is furnished in standard and de luxe models and many variations from these two stock classes arrived at through the addition of optional tire and wheel equipment offered by the manufacturer.

C. C. PECK JR., JOINS VICTOR MOTORS INC.

Charles C. Peck Jr., for many years identified with sales of passenger cars and trucks in St. Louis, has been appointed assistant to the president of Victor Motors, Inc., local truck manufacturers, according to announcement of the president, Guy Wilson, yesterday.

Peck was formerly general sales manager of the Traffic Motor Truck Corporation and later general manager of the Diesing Motor Sales Co., Rickenbacker distributors for this territory. Peck is well known to hundreds of truck dealers throughout the United States and Canada and brings to the Victor company a host of dealer friends.

Phillips Joins Overland Branch.

A. C. Phillips, one of the best known automobile men in St. Louis has been appointed used car manager by the Willys-Overland, Inc. Branch, 2310 Locust boulevard.

PREDICTS ADVANCES IN MOTOR CAR DESIGN

"The motor car of the future will be air-cooled—direct air-cooled," said Vice President F. E. Moskovics of the Franklin Automobile Co. in a recent address to Franklin dealers at the annual spring convention at Syracuse.

"I am going to make this prediction. The next five years will show more technical advancement in the art of motor car design than the past seven years have shown and this advancement will be largely along lines of introducing air-cooling."

On Nov. 10, 1913, the Franklin Automobile Co. shipped its first sedan. During the 10 years which followed, that is down to November, 1923, the Franklin Co. shipped a total of 20,209 sedans. The sedan today is the most popular car in the Franklin line and constitutes half of the factory output.

Physician Explains Who Should Take Nuxated Iron

Practical Advice on How to Help Build Up Great Strength, Energy and Endurance

"Lack of iron in the blood not only makes a man a physical and mental weakling, nervous, irritable, easily fatigued, but it utterly robs him of that virile force, that stamina and strength of will which are so necessary to success and power in every walk of life," says Dr. Emile Sauer, well-known New England physician.

"It may also transform a beautiful, sweet-tempered woman into one who is cross, nervous and irritable. I have strongly emphasized the great necessity of physicians making blood examinations of their weak, anaemic, run-down patients. Thousands of persons go on year after year suffering from physical weakness and a highly nervous condition due to lack of sufficient iron in their red blood corpuscles without ever realizing the real cause of their trouble. Without iron in your blood your food merely passes through the body something like corn through an old mill with rollers so wide apart that the mill can't grind.

"For want of iron you may be an old man at thirty, dull of intellect, poor in memory, nervous, irritable and all 'run down,' while at 50 or 60 with plenty of iron in your blood you may still be young in feeling, full of life, your whole being brimming over with vim and energy.

"But be sure the iron you take is organic iron—Nuxated Iron—and not metallic iron, which people usually take. Organic iron—Nuxated Iron—is like the iron in your blood and like the iron in spinach, lentils and apples, while metallic iron is iron just as it comes from the action of strong acids on small pieces of iron fillings and is therefore an entirely different thing from Nuxated Iron. Nuxated Iron represents organic iron in such a highly concentrated form that one dose is estimated to be approximately equivalent (in organic iron content) to eating one-half quart of spinach, one quart of green vegetables or half a dozen baked apples. It is like taking extracts of beef instead of eating pounds of meat."

Over 4,000,000 people annually are using Nuxated Iron. It quickly helps make rich red blood, revitalize worn-out, exhausted nerves and give increased strength and energy. Your money will be refunded by the manufacturers if it does not produce satisfactory results.

Woman Lost Faith in All Medicine

But After Many Years Finally Does Find Permanent Relief From Gas on Stomach

"I had taken medicine for years without permanent relief, so I had no faith. But I am wonderfully glad I tried Adlerika for I have taken only one-half bottle and can eat anything now without causing gas. Before I could eat nothing but bread and milk, everything else soured and formed gas. Since taking Adlerika I enjoy eating." (Signed) Mrs. J. B. Manning.

Intestinal Antiseptic.

There is now offered to the public a preparation having the DOUBLE action of an intestinal antiseptic and a COMPLETE system cleanser. This preparation, known as Adlerika, acts as follows: It tends to eliminate or destroy harmful germs and colon bacilli in the intestinal canal, thus guarding against appendicitis and other diseases having their start here.

It is the most complete system cleanser ever offered to the public, acting on BOTH upper and lower bowel and removing foul matter which poisoned the system for months and which nothing else can dislodge. It brings out all gases, thus immediately relieving pressure on the heart. It is astonishing the great amount of poisonous matter Adlerika draws from the alimentary canal —matter you never thought was in your system. Try it right after a natural movement and notice how much more foul matter it brings out which was poisoning you. In slight disorders, such as occasional constipation, sour stomach, gas on the stomach and skin headache, one spoonful Adlerika ALWAYS brings relief. A longer treatment, however, is necessary in cases of obstinate constipation and long standing stomach trouble, preferably under direction of your physician.

Reports from Physicians.

"I found Adlerika the best in my entire 37 years' experience." (Signed) Dr. G. Ferrera.

"I use Adlerika in all bowel cases. Some require only one dose." (Signed) Dr. F. M. P. (Name given on request.)

"I have found nothing in my 30 years' practice to excel Adlerika." (Signed) Dr. James Weaver

"After taking Adlerika feel better than for 20 years. Haven't language to express the AWFUL IMPURITIES eliminated from my system. (Signed) J. E. Puckett.

Adlerika is a constant surprise to people who have used only ordinary bowel and stomach medicines, on account of its rapid, pleasant and COMPLETE action. It is sold by leading druggists everywhere.

Sold in St. Louis by Wolff-Wilson Drug Co., 7th and Washington, and Enderle Drug Co. and other leading druggists.

To Avoid Leakage.

When buying a composition panel of any kind, be sure to clean it well before assembling the parts. These panels sometimes have a deposit on the outside which acts as a conductor, and unless cleaned thoroughly there may be more or less electrical leakage over the surface.

A Tube Tip.

Never increase the filament voltage of a tube above the value recommended by the manufacturer. Keep it below that point if possible. It is a matter of economy as well as efficiency. If in doubt, use a voltmeter across the terminals of the tube socket.

HEARINGS ON MONOPOLY SOON

Attorneys Now Going Through Seven Reports Filed.

Within about 10 days the Federal Trade Commission will issue a call for hearings on the alleged radio monopoly, and summon witnesses to testify in connection with the answers filed recently.

Attorneys of the commission are now going through the seven voluminous reports filed recently, setting forth denials to the charges that the Radio Corporation of America and its affiliated companies had used unfair methods in competition and that a monopoly in radio communication had been created. The answers, practically all alike, deny the charges of the commission, claiming that their agreements were not set forth fairly in the complaint. In one reply it is stated that the Radio Corporation was created at the request of the Government to develop communication in America. Replies were filed by the General Electric Co., A. T. & T. Co., Radio Corporation of America, Western Electric Co., International Radio Telegraph Co., Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Co., United Fruit Co. and Wireless Specialty Apparatus Co.

PHUSIFORMERS USED IN TUNED "R. F." SET

Unusually Quiet Operation Is Result of Using These New Devices.

The circuit shown today is one employing five tubes—two for radio frequency, one detector, and two providing amplification at audio frequency. This combination makes for simplicity, selectivity and long range, when used with an efficient ground and outdoor aerial.

No neutralizing condensers are used, as oscillations are eliminated by the patented winding of the coils.

Where nonoscillating tuned radio frequency amplification has been attained in the past, it has been accomplished through the use of a considerable amount of special and complicated apparatus which has been found necessary in order to overcome the tendency of circuits of this type to break into oscillation or "squeal." These precautions against regeneration or the tendency to "squeal" naturally complicate the wiring and raise the cost of construction. When phusiformers are employed, the howls and "squeals" are absent, but the volume is not quite so loud as when other forms of coupling devices are used.

One 7 by 24 by 3-16 inch panel, of high-grade insulating composition.

One 7 by 23 by ¾ inch wood baseboard, well dried and shellacked.

Three phusiformers.
Three 6-ohm rheostats.
One filament switch.
One open circuit jack.
Five sockets.
Two mica fixed condensers, .006 mfd. capacity.
One mica grid condenser, .00025 mfd. capacity, with grid leak clips.
One 2 megohm tubular grid leak.
Two audio frequency amplifying transformers of standard make.

All wiring should be done in as neat a manner as possible, and it is advisable that the multiple connections of "A" and "B" batteries be made as shown in the schematic wiring diagram.

About Dry Cells.

A dry cell is at the end of its useful life when it bulges out on its side or when the zinc is "eaten" through the bulge. The acid will penetrate the zinc in spots and a white corrosion will form about the tiny holes. This usually takes place near the bottom of the battery because the acid gradually works its way down to the bottom.

The International Limited, running between Montreal and Chicago, is the latest train of the Canadian National railways to be equipped with a radio receiving set. In addition to a loud speaker, eight pairs of headphones are used.

King George of England has joined the army of radio fans and has a receiving set installed in his palace. The set embodies two stages of radio frequency amplification before the detector tube and three stages of audio amplification

For the Notebook.

Dials should not be twisted rapidly. They should be moved slowly and carefully.

It is highly important that the grid and plate wires be kept separate in a radio frequency set.

Do not change any wiring inside a cabinet while the batteries are connected and the tubes are in the sockets.

Never place batteries on top of a radiator to get them out of the way. The heat dries them out and ruins them very rapidly.

Four small rubber feet placed on the bottom of the set are a good addition. They help to absorb vibration and reduce tube noises.

When connecting batteries to the set, trouble may be avoided by connecting the wires to the set first and to the battery last.

Never mount a tube socket with the grid and plate leads next to the panel. Place this side of the socket to the rear, having the two filament leads next to the panel.

Go Slow When Building Set.

Building a set in a hurry will not always prove a success. Take plenty of time, plan the set and panel layout, and check the wiring a number of times during its construction. Take a month if necessary, but go slow, and when the set is finished, there is a possibility that it will not have to be taken apart and re-wired.

All Government hospitals are to be radio equipped with connections direct to the bed of every World War patient.

MUSICAL NOTES SUGGESTED INSTEAD OF CALL LETTERS

Cleveland Man Points Out Improvement in Method Designating Broadcast Stations.

As a substitute for the call letters of different broadcasting stations, which are sometimes confusing and unintelligible, the use of musical notes sung by the announcer has been suggested to Secretary of Commerce Hoover.

Dr. Charles M. Swingle of Cleveland, O., who recommends this practice as an improved method of designating radio stations, says: "These notes should be sung by the broadcasters thus: "Do, me, sol, do, sol, me do,' might designate WJAX." The call of this station in announcements would then be: "WJAX, do me, sol, do, sol, me, do," he explains, suggesting that later, only the notes be used.

More than one value would accrue by this method, he believes; more certainty of being understood; training of the broadcasters' voices, and encouragement of vocal music. "It is a psychological fact that one who hears only a few notes, is almost impelled by the musical instinct to sound them over, whereas this is not true of a complete song," he writes. This old instinct, according to Dr. Swingle, can be encouraged and again made to function for all.

In his reply to Dr. Swingle, the Commissioner of Navigation explained that the Government is forced to follow the rules of the International Bureau at Berne in assigning call letters to radio stations, and numerical designations for amateurs according to their districts. All of which makes the suggested change practically impossible.

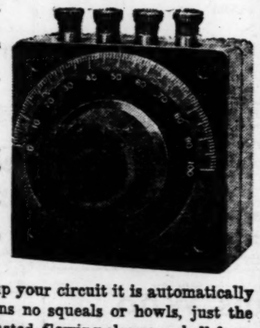
A Plan for Engraving Panel.

While the engraving of a panel requires the work of an expert, an amateur can label the panel easily by using heavy white writing paper, black ink, and some white collodion. The writing paper is cut into pieces one-half by one-quarter inch and the symbols printed neatly on the paper. The paper is then glued to the panel and the ink left to dry. After the ink is dry apply a thin coat of collodion over the paper. This dries quickly and gives a glossy finish to the marker.

PATHE PHUSIFORMER

The Latest Radio Wonder

This superior instrument is entirely enclosed and sealed in bakelite, is interchangeable and can be used to build radio receivers comprising combinations heretofore considered relatively impossible. Following is a partial list of its uses:



Inductively coupled crystal circuit.
Tuned plate Ultra Audion circuit.
Single control regenerative circuit.
Wave filter.
Tuned radio frequency.
Radio frequency ahead of standard regenerative set.
Neutralized 5-tube radio frequency.
Does not require separate instrument for neutralizing the circuit.

The moment you hook up your circuit it is automatically neutralized, which means no squeals or howls, just the natural music as broadcasted, flowing clear as a bell from your loud speaker.

AND THE CROWNING FEATURE of the Pathe Phusiformer is that your circuit can be accurately LOGGED. Every station has a definite dial setting.

IMPROVE the circuit you are using now with one or more of these superior instruments. Write for literature "How to Build the Pathe Minute Man," a five-tube radio frequency set, or come in and ask questions.

Type "P" Phusiformer, sealed in bakelite, complete with bakelite dial, binding posts, mounting screws, drilling template and complete instructions. Each, $8.50.

NEW ARRIVALS ON THE RADIO MART

Considerable interest has been aroused by the new Freshman double-adjustable crystal detector, which has been found ideal for reflex and crystal circuits. The unit has many new features never before utilized in any previous type. The Freshman detector unit differs radically from all other units in having a knob which can be brought through to the panel and, when turned, varies the crystal contact with the loop whisker, thus permitting the operator to find sensitive spots quickly without disturbing the tension of the whisker spring. More original than this, however, is the use of an insulated housing for the crystal, so that no matter how the crystal is turned, there can be no possible short-circuiting with consequent loud scratches and clicks in the head-phones. The lever at the base unit adjusts the contact tension, the whisker being of special loop design which operates in concentric evolutions about the face of the crystal, thus covering every point on the crystal as it is adjusted by a little knob on the panel.

In designing this new crystal detector, a special crystal was selected of pure natural ore of a special type, which will withstand voltages as high as 130 without burning out, which is highly important in reflex work. It is almost impossible to shake the contact away from the sensitive spot, after it has once been set.

The crystal is glass-enclosed and is supported by insulated ends giving ample strength and mechanical protection to the unit, at the same time permitting base mounting instead of panel mounting if desired. The crystals themselves are replaceable by fresh units which are sold mounted in the non-metallic housing.

A new type of radio headset which has just been placed on the market is made by the Moss-Schury Manufacturing Co., Inc. This new headset is of the single pole type and was released only after the engineers of the concern had made a minute study of diaphram problems. In other phones the method of applying the magnetic force to the diaphragm did not seem consistent with the theory of harmonics. It is impossible, they reasoned, to exert two distinct magnetic forces at two separate points upon a diaphragm, as in the two-pole phone, and still work in such perfect harmony or synchronism as not to produce an opposing or inharmonious attraction or repulsion upon the diaphragm. The headset has a resistance of 2400 ohms. The case is made of special steel, nickeled and highly polished. The diaphragm is made of the highest grade lacquered steel. The ear caps are of polished hard rubber composition and of special design.

The Mac Kontrol is a new device designed to prevent the burning out of vacuum tubes through accidental short circuits, and it will be a welcome addition to the radio equipment of many fans who have had the experience of burning out from one to eight tubes in the twinkling of an eye. The Mac Kontrol consists of a special resistance filament wound on a mica form and placed in an evacuated tube with proper terminals. It is connected in the negative plate battery lead and as long as the receiver is not "shorted" the device simply "floats" on the line with no effect whatever on the battery. When a short circuit occurs, which ordinarily would burn out the tubes, the device flashes a warning signal, and absorbs the additional energy placed in the filament (or tubes) without harm to the tube (or tubes). A similar effect may be obtained by placing an ordinary electric light lamp in series with the "B" battery, but this form of protection draws some current from the batteries and thus reduces the voltage to a slight degree. The device will withstand voltages as high as 120 volts without damage to either it or the tubes in the circuit. It will protect tubes which have a current consumption of a quarter ampere or more, but is not effective for UV-199 or C-299 tubes.

A new arrival on the local market is the Red Seal phonograph attachment, manufactured and sold by the Manhattan Electrical Supply Co. The chief characteristic of the Red Seal phonograph attachment is said to be the faithful reproduction of the broadcasting programs, this being accomplished with an absence of overtones, "chattering or distortion. The magnetic system is extremely strong and sensitive—the magnets are of Tungsten steel with pole pieces of silicon steel. The case is of genuine bakelite. Its efficiency is claimed to be due to the special Red Seal receiver attached to a heavy non-resonant metal horn with air chamber and diaphragm especially designed to operate the large air column of a reproducing horn. Attachment is made to the tone arm of the phonograph by means of a soft rubber tube.

KSD TO BROADCAST COOLIDGE ADDRESS

President's Speech in New York to Be Put on the Air Here.

A speech to be made by President Coolidge in New York will be broadcast by Station KSD, the Louis Post-Dispatch, next Tuesday. The President will deliver the address at the annual luncheon of the Associated Press at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, and his words will be carried to St. Louis by telephone wires and here put upon the air so that they may be heard by many thousands of listeners in the Middle West.

The speech is scheduled to begin at 12:45 p. m., St. Louis time.

Station KSD was the first broadcasting station to send out a report on an important public question by a President of the United States. This was President Harding's St. Louis address on the World Court, June 21, 1923. This station will broadcast President Coolidge's reading of his message to Congress, Dec. 6, last. This was the first time a President's message was ever put on the air.

The President's speech also will be broadcast by WEAF, New York; WCAP, Washington; WFI, Philadelphia; WCAE, Pittsburg; WMAQ, Chicago; WDAF, Kansas City; WBAP, Fort Worth; WWJ, Detroit, and WNAC, Boston.

Foreign Items.

The British Broadcasting Co. plans to open a district radio in Ireland, by the 1st of June, advices from Belfast state. The new station will be similar to the B. B. C.'s station in London, and will operate a full program and be directed by its own officials.

The establishment of a broadcasting service at Nagoya, Japan, is being contemplated by local capitalists and business men, who anticipate the approval of the Japanese Government.

The Methodist Ministers' Association of Philadelphia, Pa., urges a censorship of radio programs, and suggests that one half hour of some form of religious devotion should be made compulsory on the programs each day.

dental short circuits, and it will be a welcome addition to the radio equipment of many fans who have had the experience of burning out from one to eight tubes in the twinkling of an eye. The Mac Kontrol consists of a special resistance filament wound on a mica form and placed in an evacuated tube with proper terminals. It is connected in the negative plate battery lead and as long as the receiver is not "shorted" the device simply "floats" on the line with no effect whatever on the battery. When a short circuit occurs, which ordinarily would burn out the tubes, the device flashes a warning signal, and absorbs the additional energy placed in the filament line without harm to the tube (or tubes). A similar effect may be obtained by placing an ordinary electric light lamp in series with the "B" battery, but this form of protection draws some current from the batteries and thus reduces the voltage to a slight degree. The device will withstand voltages as high as 120 volts without damage to either it or the tubes in the circuit. It will protect tubes which have a current consumption of a quarter ampere or more, but it is not effective for UV-199 or C-299 tubes.

A new arrival on the local market is the Red Seal phonograph attachment, manufactured and sold by the Manhattan Electrical Supply Co. The chief characteristic of the Red Seal phonograph attachment is said to be the faithful reproduction of the broadcasting programs, this being accomplished with an absence of overtones, "chattering or distortion. The magnetic system is extremely strong and sensitive—the magnets are of Tungsten steel with pole pieces of silicon steel. The case is of genuine bakelite. Its efficiency is claimed to be due to the special Red Seal receiver attached to a heavy non-resonant metal base with air chamber and diaphragm especially designed to operate the large air column of a reproducing horn. Attachment is made to the tone arm of the phonograph by means of a soft rubber tube.

RADIO FOR THE AMATEUR AND EXPERT

POSSIBILITY OF A TAX ON RECEIVERS

Senate Finance Committee Declares Tax on Sets and Parts in New Revenue Bill.

If Secretary Hoover is to patrol the ether for fans and commercial and other interests, he may have to make a plea to the Senate Appropriations Committee.

Appropriations for radio inspection, supervision and experimentation for the fiscal year 1924-25, were cut by over $25,000 by the House Appropriation Committee, even after the figures submitted had successfully run the "gauntlet" of the budget.

Secretary Hoover had the approval of the Budget Committee for a total appropriation of $180,278 for radio administration, but this amount was reduced to $155,778 by the House. The sum allotted is $19,573 over the amount authorized for the current year, but this includes $17,340 as pay for the naval personnel handling radio accounts, which it is proposed to transfer to Mr. Hoover's department. The only additional money granted for field work, which has increased greatly during the past year, is $2000 instead of $14,200 asked. Six extra assistant inspectors and three or four clerks were requested. No allotment for much-needed apparatus for inspectors is made, although it is known that field workers have to purchase much of their own equipment in order to efficiently police the ether lanes, now congested badly with thousands of transmitters and approximately 20,000,000 fans filing complaints regarding interference. The radio laboratory of the Bureau of Standards suffered also in a cut of $4220.

Finance Committee Imposes Radio Taxes.

On top of reduced appropriations for radio administration, the Senate Finance Committee added insult to injury, as far as "fans" are concerned, by declaring a tax of 10 per cent on radio sets and parts in the new revenue bill. At first the plan was to tax only sets which cost more than $15; this was later amended to include those costing $50 or more, but finally reported out by the committee as follows:

"Radio receiving sets, 10 per centum. Parts and accessories for radio receiving sets, sold or leased to any person other than a manufacturer or producer of such sets, 10 per centum."

Neither the President, who is opposed to all new or additional taxes, nor Secretary Hoover is in favor of such a tax, but both appreciate that legislation is in the hands of Congress. The Secretary of Commerce has always declared himself against license fees for receiving set owners, but is not in a position to oppose a revenue tax of this sort as it is outside his jurisdiction.

ORIGIN OF DISTRESS SIGNALS EXPLAINED

"SOS" Arbitrarily Used as Call for Aid and Has No Other Significance.

(Copyright, 1924.)

The origin of the distress call of ships at sea, familiar to all operators and many fans, has caused considerable curiosity, and in order that a complete report could be made, the Bureau of Navigation of the Department of Commerce asked the International Bureau of the Telegraph Union at Berne for a resume of the origin and history of "SOS."

According to advices just received from M. Etienne, director, the first suggestion of a distress call for ships was made by the Italian delegates to the preliminary conference on wireless telegraphy at Berlin in 1903. They urged the adoption of a universal signal "SSSDDD," to be sent by ships in distress, explaining that all stations and ships should be obliged to receive the following messages, suspending their other communications and passing immediately to reception. The other delegates agreed to the need for such a signal but left the final decision to a special conference.

Soon after this suggestion, the Marconi Co. recognized the need for a distress call, and on Feb. 1, 1904, the famous call "CQD" was instituted on all their ships by a general order. This signal was a combination of the general call "CQ" coupled with the letter "D," to signify distress. It was used only at the order of the Captain of a ship in distress, or a station retransmitting the signal. All stations were to recognize the urgency of the call and make every effort to establish satisfactory communication without delay. The dismissal of operators was to follow the misuse of the call. Several countries, including the United States, adopted "CQD" and used it until the Berlin regulations were ratified.

At the Radio Telegraphic Conference in Berlin in 1906, the German Government submitted the following suggestion relative to a standard distress call: "Ships in distress will make use of the following special danger signal: ...----... (SOS)."

Previously German ships desiring to communicate with all vessels in their proximity without knowing their names of calls would send an inquiry signal "SOE." Germany planned to suggest this signal as the international signal, but as the last letter "E," represented by a single dot, was not believed sufficiently characteristic, being easily susceptible to loss, especially during atmospheric disturbances or in heavy traffic, or when carelessly transmitted, the delegates in 1906 suggested the final letter as "S," thereby having the honor to define what became the universal signal "...---..." "SOS."

Interpretations such as "save our souls," "save our ships" given the call, the Berne bureau points out should be accepted with reserve. The Italian proverb: "If it is not true, it is well invented," they suggest is applicable to the literal translations offered. In a similar manner, Berne reports, the Marconi signal "CQD" has been interpreted to mean "come quick danger."

The distress signal "SOS" was adopted officially and put into effect by the International Radiotelegraphic Convention of Berlin in July, 1908. It was a matter of keen regret to the Marconi operators that their old signal "CQD" was not adopted, and many continued to send "CQD" as well as "SOS" when accidents occurred. "CQD," however, was gradually forgotten. In 1912 the United States adopted "SOS" when the international agreement was accepted.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

All Queries Must Be Accompanied by the Name and Address of the Writer.

Q. (1) I have a two-tube regenerative set with an aerial 100 feet long, but I cannot get stations broadcasting on 400 meters or over. I can hear distant stations using from 300 to 360 meters quite clearly, but those above this wave length are very weak. This trouble might be due to the aerial which runs in a "V" shape, the ends being about 20 feet apart. It is possible that an aerial erected in this manner is only equivalent to a two-wire aerial 50 feet long? Neither Kansas City nor St. Louis stations can be heard. Could this be due to the fact that the aerial runs north and south? (2) Considerable trouble is experienced also with whistling and popping which, I am told, is caused by another set within the block. Could this be eliminated by the use of a wave-trap? J. O. P.

A. (1) Part of your trouble can no doubt be corrected by erecting an aerial having an overall length of between 90 and 115 feet (which includes the lead-in). Two 50-foot wires do not make what is ordinarily known as a 100-foot aerial, nor will it tune to wave lengths as high as the longer one. The reason you cannot hear St. Louis and Kansas City stations is no doubt due to the fact that your 50-foot aerial does not respond to wave lengths 411 meters and higher. (2) The effectiveness of a wave-trap in eliminating radiated "howling" from a regenerative receiver will depend entirely on the proximity of the set causing the interference to your receiving aerial. It certainly would be worth trying.

Q. A friend of mine built a neutrodyne set and was surprised to hear clear signals without headphones or loud speaker attached. Is this customary with neutrodyne receivers? Where does the sound come from? H. D. T.

A. This can happen with any kind of a receiver which has one or more audio frequency transformers. The sound comes from the audio transformer, one of the laminations of which is sufficiently loose to vibrate. The action is precisely the same as that which takes place in a telephone receiver.

Q. (1) The following details concern my 5-tube neutrodyne receiver which, up until the present time, has failed to give satisfactory results. I am using a fiber panel. Aerial consists of two wires, 100 feet long—35 feet high and 20-foot lead-in connected to the center. I have all my batteries in the basement, about ten feet distance from the receiver. (2) What is the advantage in neutralizing a set? (3) Are wet "B" batteries any better than dry batteries? (4) Would a differently constructed antenna give better results? J. B.

A. (1) In the first place, it would be advisable to substitute a bakelite or insulating composition panel for the one of fiber. Reducing the length of your aerial to approximately 70 or 80 feet (including the lead-in) might give better results. Make sure that your insulators are of a high-grade type. "B" batteries should be located as close to the receiver as possible. The "A" battery may be placed some distance away, if a heavy conductor is used. (2) Neutrodyne sets are "neutralized" to eliminate the usual squealing and howling which results when radio frequency is employed. Proper neutralization results in an unusually quiet receiver. (3) If you mean storage batteries, they are "better" than dry cells, in that they can be recharged when run down, and the noises common to dry cell batteries are not present when they are employed. (4) Yes, it probably would.

Q. How many broadcasting stations are there in the U. S. A.? J. P.

A. The latest figures show that there are 569 broadcasting stations in the United States.

Q. (1) Where is station KFKD? (2) What is the airline distance to Northfield, Minn.? R. McN.

A. (1) We have no record of station KFKD. (2) Approximately 425 miles.

Q. Can radio frequency transformers be used in one stage of amplification without tuning devices of any kind—similar to audio frequency amplification? If not, what are the least tuning controls that are necessary? D. J. S.

A. Yes. This method is often employed. Tuning is then accomplished by inductances preceding the detector.

Q. Please let me know what time the baseball scores will be broadcast by Station K S D.—R. B.

A. Baseball scores will be broadcast each night preceding the 8 o'clock program.

SEVERAL SETS MAY USE SAME AERIAL

The "coupling-tube unit," by means of which several receiving sets may use a single antenna will be made available to the public soon after June 1, according to naval radio experts. This device was invented and perfected by Dr. A. H. Taylor and Mr. L. C. Young of the Naval Radio Laboratory at Bellevue, Md., and has been demonstrated on board the U. S. Battleship Colorado. By connecting a coupling tube-unit between each receiving set and the single antenna suspended from the masts, several incoming messages on different wave lengths were received simultaneously, while three messages on other wave lengths were transmitted from the vessel.

Patents on this new radio device, which makes the operation of several sets independent of each other, even when receiving on a common aerial, are pending and consequently the inventors do not care to reveal the exact hook-up nor details of the apparatus. In general, it is said to include a coupling resistance, so high that the strength of the incoming signals are reduced materially, requiring at least a three or four tube set. A radio frequency step in the form of a radio frequency trap, which eliminates any regeneration, is required and, of course, a receiving set with a detector tube. Reception is improved with two tubes of audio frequency amplification.

The military value of the coupling unit to the navy is very high, since it enables a vessel or station to carry on several times as much business or trafic as has heretofore been possible without interference and the navy holds the rights for military use. It has become a part of battleship standard equipment. To the general public, its chief interest will be that it will permit the use of a single aerial on a large apartment house or hotel, wherein each tenant wants to operate his own set independently of others. A lead-in can be run into each apartment or suite, the owner specifying that each tenant must use a coupler unit and connect his receiving set directly with the plug in his suite. Many unsightly aerials on housetops can thus be eliminated. Big radio manufacturers are said to have made overtures to Dr. Taylor for permission to manufacture his units, but to date the name of the future manufacturer has not been announced.

REFLEX SETS NEED A FIXED DETECTOR

Catwhisker Type of Rectifier Has Proven Unsatisfactory in Reflex Sets.

The old saying "as clear as a crystal" certainly applies to radio reception and especially in reflex sets the crystal rectifier is of vital importance, according to the engineers of the Electrical Research Laboratories.

It is well known that purer reproduction is possible with a crystal that any other known means when used as a detector in any radio receiver. A three electrode tube detector will always cause more or less distortion, due to its operating at a point on its characteristic where the decrease in plate current is not directly proportionate to the increase in signal voltage, i. e. that it is not possible to adjust a three element tube to secure maximum sensitiveness with maximum rectification. There must of necessity be inductance and capacity in the input of the detector tube and there will be some instances in the plate circuit of the tube. Because of this the tendency of the detector tube to oscillate and unbalance the rectifying action is very pronounced. The crystal rectifier is not subject to this action.

The rectifier employed for successful reflex work, like the radio frequency transformers, must possess certain characteristics if they are to function properly in these circuits.

Rectification in crystals is based on what might be called unilateral resistance, or unilateral conductivity in that the device must offer a high resistance to a current of electricity in one direction and a comparatively low resistance to a current in the opposite direction. The higher the ratio between these two resistances the greater the rectifying action. A certain minimum in one of these valdes must be obtained in a crystal rectifier for reflex work. As comparatively large currents are handled by the rectifier, any crystal detector which employs the granular, or light catwhisker contact feature is prohibitive because of the frying and microphonic effect produced by such construction. These strong currents also tend to cause oxidization of the contact point. By proper selection of catwhisker and crystal material this is entirely eliminated. The fixed crystal of the proper design is therefore absolutely necessary for successful rectification in the reflex circuits.

Radiograms.

Porcelain is one of the best insulators for the aerial, but there are good and bad grades.

Square, tinned copper bus wire is very convenient for wiring sets, as it looks well and is easily worked.

It is said that a radio set is especially valuable to hospitals in the treatment of persons suffering with nervous diseases.

Radio energy waves travel farther at night than during the day. The range of a station also is greater during the winter, as a rule, than during the summer.

If adjusting the filaments of an amplifier does not stop it from howling, try attaching a wire from the negative terminal of the A battery to the ground post of the set.

The radio-telegraphone, one of the newest inventions in Germany, registers on a prepared wax cylinder sounds broadcast by radio stations.

RADIO FOR THE AMATEUR AND EXPERT

BELIEVES COMMON LAW COULD HANDLE RADIO

Solicitor for Department of Commerce Expresses Views on Interference.

Legal questions arising out of interference between users of radio could probably be settled by common law, in the opinion of Hon. Stephen B. Davis, Solicitor for the Department of Commerce. In speaking on this subject before a recent meeting of the Federal Club at the Bureau of Standards in Washington he called attention to the fact that, while common law is based almost wholly on precedent, it is often modified by court decision to meet new conditions, such as have been created by radio and aircraft. Thus in the case of aircraft the old rule that the land owner owned all the air above him has been modified by a recent decision. An airplane had crashed on private property and done some damage. It made a difference whether it was trespassing or doing something lawful before it fell, and the Judge ruled that the land-owner owned the air above him only insofar as he was able to make use of it.

Under the Constitution, Judge Davis stated, the control of radio apparatus with regard to structural and safety features properly belongs to the individual states, but the Federal Government would control the interstate commerce features, and could regulate any broadcasting station whose signals could be picked up outside the boundaries of the State in which it is located.

There has been some fear of a radio monopoly, the Judge said, but if this monopoly came about through the suppression of competition and unfair trade practices the present antitrust laws could handle it. A monopoly arising from patent ownership, however, could not be broken, for reasons that are inherent in the patent law.

Radio Saved Troops From U-Boats.

Following Judge Davis, Dr. Dellinger, Chief of the Bureau of Standards Radio Section, gave a talk on the general principles of radio and demonstrated several types of radio apparatus which the Bureau of Standards has developed. These included the radio relay, the direction finder, and the suitcase type of radio set. He was followed by Commander D. C. Bingham, assistant director of the Naval Communication Division. The radio direction finder, according to Commander Bingham, was largely responsible for the ineffectiveness of the German U-boats in preventing the movement of American troops to France. The U-boats had radio and they talked Allied shore stations equipped with direct finders could thus locate them and would follow them throughout their journeys. The approximate location of the U-boats, being thus known, the troop ships were routed around them.

There are four factors to be considered in a naval force, the commander said. They are: 1. Communications. 2. Mobility. 3 Armament. 4. Protection. Victory, he said, might well go to the side that has the best communications, as that side could dispose its force more effectively and it is the force that takes part in the battle that counts. The latest American dreadnaught, the Colorado, is very well equipped with radio, he said.

No More Lost Battalions.

The most difficult communication problem in the army, according to Maj. J. O. Mauborgne, the next speaker, has heretofore been that of keeping in contact with advanced troops in battle. All forms of communication in use in the past war proved inadequate, he stated. He then told of a portable radio set developed toward the end of the war which is expected to solve this problem.

There are a great many radio sets on the battle front, he said, and the problem of assigning wave lengths to them all is a very complicated one. The wave lengths and call letters must be changed every day or so, in order to avoid giving the enemy a clew to the nature of the sending station Radio sets are carried by tanks, airplanes, and advanced infantry units, and form part of the equipment of all grades of headquarters and of artillery brigades.

All the talks were illustrated with diagrams, and several pieces of radio apparatus were on exhibition, including the direction finder, the standard radio wave meter, and several other types of sets.

Place Battery in Tray.

A storage battery should be kept in a leak-proof box large enough to accommodate the amount of liquid contained in the cells. Storage batteries contain acid which will damage fabrics and furniture. The battery may leak and the solution run out on the floor, ruining everything in its path.

"THE SUPER HETERODYNE" SUBJECT OF TALK, TUESDAY

Harry J. Marx of Chicago Will Deliver Address Before Goodfellows' Club.

Harry J. Marx, technical editor of the Radio Digest, will deliver an address on "The Supper Heterodyne" before the Goodfellows' Club in the Colonial room of the Chase Hotel, Tuesday evening, April 22.

Harry Marx has had wide experience with super heterodyne receivers and his talk promises to be both interesting and educational. He is the co-auditor of a book entitle "Radio Reception," and is at the present time chairman of the radio section of the Electric Club of Chicago.

Tickets may be obtained at any of the following radio stores, at $2 per plate: Manhattan Electrical Supply Co., Benson Radio Co., the Aeolican Co., Schweig Engel Corporation, and A. S. Aloe Co.

Good Socket Is Essential.

In radio frequency amplifiers, a poor socket has a very detrimental effect upon the result obtained. Fiber sockets of any description are entirely unsuited for this use. Sockets made from composition are frequently satisfactory, and sockets insulated with a good grade of porcelain or hard rubber are excellent.

An Efficiency Tip.

Working a set too close to the regenerative point causes distortion and does not aid in increasing signal strength. The best thing to do is to add another step of amplification, then it will not be necessary to crowd the tubes into oscillation.

BATTLE ON FOR FREE RADIOING OF MUSIC

Representatives of Both Sides Scheduled to Appear Before Senate Committee.

The second phase of the battle of the air was scheduled to take place before the Senate Patent Committee April 17. Representatives of the Society of Authors, Composers and Publishers were to appear, and opponents to the Dill bill, amending the copyright law so that broadcasters need not pay for music and compositions transmitted, were to be present.

During the opening skirmish recently proponents of the bill, including representatives of the National Association of Broadcasters, testified in favor of Senator C. C. Dill's amendment to the United States copyright laws enacted in 1919, before the days of broadcasting. The amendment reads as follows:

"And provided further, that the copyright control shall not extend to public performances, whether for profit or without profit, of musical compositions where such performance is made from printed or written sheets or by reproducing devices issued under the authority of the owner of the copyright, or by use of the radio or telephone or both."

Defending his bill, Senator Dill stated that many broadcasters, including newspapers, operating at great expense without financial return, had filed complaints against the heavy fees imposed upon the transmission of music to the public. Music publishers are actively prosecuting claims in connection with alleged copyright infringements, while in the only case passed upon, the issue was not clearly defined, he stated. He admitted that the amendment might have to differentiate between broadcasting solely for good will and for profit.

The hearing was one-sided, in that only proponents were heard on the first day. Those appearing included E. F. McDonald Jr. of Chicago, president of the National Association of Broadcasters; Paul B. Klugh of New York, chairman of the same association; Charles H. Tuttle, counsel of the association; Frank Sheridan of New York, an independent publisher, and Maj. J. W. Sherwood, U. S. A., of Walter Reed Hospital, Washington, D. C.

Speaking in the interest of broadcasters, Mr. McDonald told the committee that only 14, of more than 550 broadcasters, today were manufacturers of radio apparatus, while 55 were newspapers and 127 religious and educational institutions. An estimate of the listeners in on a single Chicago station was placed at 8,500,000, based upon the assumption that replies from 170,000 individuals indicated one out of 50 listeners. Broadcasters, he asserted, do not favor the collection of fees from these listeners to pay expenses. Mr. McDonald outlined the activities of the American Society of Authors, Composers and Publishers, and said that up to a year ago any songs or compositions might be broadcast free.

In laying out the panel, always make a template of paper before drilling the panel. This may save the cost of the panel if a mistake is made in the receiver layout.

Beginners in radio should attempt the complicated hook-ups; learn the simple first.

SERVICE IMPORTANT TO GROWTH OF RADIO

Novelty Is Passing, and Public Is Demanding Better Results.

Service is as important to radio as service stations have been in the development of the automobile industry, and in time will have as important an effect on the radio industry.

The extent of research and service work now done by leading manufacturers of radio apparatus is not generally realized. Progressive radio manufacturers who have established their business on a permanent basis, realize that to keep abreast with developments in radio, and to make a product which will give service and satisfaction, they must maintain efficient engineering and research departments.

One well-known manufacturer of amplifying transformers has built up his business by a service guarantee which means exactly what it says. In all of his advertising material, and in correspondence with customers, he states that his company does not consider a transaction complete until the ultimate user of parts or sets is satisfied with them and with th eresults.

When the big slump in the radio industry came, following the boom a few summers ago, this particular manufacturer continued his advertising campaign and his service facilities during the dullest summer which the radio industry has ever seen and at a time when the costs of the advertising were actually greater than his gross sales. When unscrupulous distributors and dealers were "getting out from under" quantities of poor apparatus as best they could, this manufacturer courageously carried on a campaign direct to the public through newspaper advertising which emphasized that his company would not lower its standards, and that its engineering and research department was interested in every customer and in protecting him from poor goods and poor service.

Home and Investment Week
Buy Now—Build Now

A wise man said—An Estate worth while is Real Estate. And there is no better time than now to seek happiness through home ownership, and security through well-selected investment property —Now—during "Home and Investment Week."

Millions of dollars have been appropriated for St. Louis municipal development, new terminal facilities and expansion of public utilities. This means increased prosperity and swiftly on the heels of prosperity comes greater demand for good real estate and homes. Money which Thrift and Industry enable people to save should seek safety in the most substantial of all investments—Real Estate.

This is your Week of Opportunity — your opportunity to seize what others merely see. If you have money to Invest, now is the time. If you are accumulating an estate investigate the safety and the returns on your investment in well-selected Real Estate. From a business standpoint there is only one thing more important and that is the proper answer to the following question:

Are you a Man without a Home? The man without a home is almost as badly off as a man without a country.

Not to own some place all his own, a place where there is no one to raise the rent, to refuse to keep the steam up, to refuse to freshen the paint and paper, to refuse, in some instances, the presence of his own kiddie, is to narrow a man's liberty, to shorten his growth and joys and desire to be a full-sized, red-blooded citizen.

On the other hand, to have a backyard, to have a tree, to have a swing, to have a bench and a hammock, to have growing things, flowers, vegetables, and to take care of them yourself at odd times, is to own a Kingdom—to be an absolute monarch in that Kingdom.

When you buy a bit of land you have taken a step toward being a real American, and every citizen or prospective citizen owes it to himself and society to be the best American he can be.

There's no time like now to begin when special Home and Investment properties are being featured.

The "Real Estate" columns of the Post-Dispatch will be an incomparable help. Read them carefully and go and see the dealers and owners who are offering some unusually attractive properties this week at special prices and terms.

Get your wife and kiddies into their own home. Turn your earnings into Real Estate. The way to start is to start today.

BAD BREATH

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Get at the Cause and Remove It.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, act gently on the bowels and positively do the work.

People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

All the benefits of nasty, sickening, griping cathartics are derived from Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets without griping, pain or any disagreeable effects.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Take one or two every night for a week and note the effect. 15c and 30c.

Kills Catarrh Germs In Three Minutes

Chronic catarrh, no matter how bad, and cases of bronchial asthma now yield instantly to the amazing discovery of a French scientist. This drugless method called Lavex kills the germ in three minutes, yet is positively harmless to the most delicate tissues. Your head and lungs are cleared like magic. Sufferers are relieved in a single night.

To prove it and to introduce Lavex to a million sufferers in one month, I offer to send a treatment free and postpaid, to any one who will write for it. No obligation. No cost. If it cures you, you can repay the favor by telling your friends—if not, the loss is mine. No matter what you have tried, just send me your name and address for this generous free treatment and prove that you can be rid of catarrh.

TRADITION OF HOLY WEEK QUIET IN LONDON BROKEN

All But Two Theaters Hold Regular Performances—Night Clubs Marked by Gayety.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, April 19.—Holy week, formerly observed with religious quiet in London, has this year been as gay and brimful of amusements as any ordinary week in the year. All but two theaters held their usual Thursday and Saturday matinee performances and one went so far as to advertise an afternoon performance on Good Friday, but this was not carried out.

The only theater which continued the old custom of closing its doors for the entire period of holy week was Drury Lane Theater, which is as conservative and devoted to tradition as Buckingham Palace or Westminster Abbey. His Majesty's, another theater that has seen generations come and go, had no performances either Holy Thursday or Holy Saturday.

Elsewhere in the theater district the primrose path that used to be closed for spiritual repairs at the end of Lent, has been wide open all week. In the cabarets and night clubs the popping of champagne corks, the blaring of saxophones, the rythmic gliding of light-slippered feet and the laughter of merry-making men and women went on without pause.

Some of the old customs survived, but they were mostly such as to enrich few, and to bring a moderate pleasure to many. Good Friday, for example, witnessed the usual performance of "Parsifal" at Queen's Hall, and the singing of "The Messiah" at Albert Hall. At the Crystal Palace, the poor man's Coney Island, a sacred concert was held.

All the theaters, despite their holy week matinees, have advertised afternoon performances for Easter Monday, a custom which began in the days when no theaters were open during the last week of Lent.

BRITISH PLAN ROUND TRIP TO NORTH POLE IN 4 DAYS

Say Risk for Big Dirigible Would Be Less Than Transatlantic Flight.

Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch.

LONDON, April 10.—It was reported recently that a scheme was being prepared, at the suggestion of Commander F. M. Boothby, a well-known airship expert, for a projected flight to the North Pole by the British dirigible R-36. The proposal is that she should start in May from Pulham, in Norfolk, and it is expected the journey could be accomplished in four days—two days out and two home. The distance to the pole, in a direct line, is about 2700 miles. The risk is regarded as less than that of a flight across the Atlantic.

The R-36 was built by Messrs. Beardmore on the Clyde, and the only alterations necessary would be the fitting of four Napier Lion engines, and an adjustment for using a mixture of paraffin and hydrogen. The object of the scheme is to demonstrate the quality of British airship construction with a view to obtaining orders, as the Americans did for their seaplanes, from South American republics and other buyers, by winning the Schneider Cup.

The projected trip of the United States airship Shenandoah to the North Pole, it may be mentioned in this connection, has been abandoned. The flight was estimated to cost £70,000, but the cost of the British scheme, it is said, would be only £5000.

To Keep Hair in Wave on Damp or Windy Days

This is a secret that will be appreciated by my lady who dislikes the "nervous" task of twisting her locks around a heated iron, perhaps singeing the hair, burning off the ends, and blistering fingers or scalp. From any druggist procure a few ounces of pure liquid silmerine, pour a little onto a clean tooth brush and draw this down the full length of the hair just before doing it up. The hair will have a wonderfully soft, pretty curliness, much more natural looking, glossier and livelier in appearance than where a waving iron has been used, and the effect will last much longer. Silmerine is neither sticky nor greasy, and there will be no trouble doing up the hair in any style. It will hold its curl even in damp, foggy or windy weather.

"Did He Keep Promises?" Is Issue

And as Pat Marr listens, and the lawyers drone and the jurors droop and the patient judge rules and overrules, the question is whether Pat Marr kept the promises he made when he flooded the country, through the United States mails, with flamboyant flubdub which brought from all over the land an answering flood of cash to his coffers.

Pat Marr says he did, or would have if he had been let alone, but the Government says he did not and sets out the particulars in the twenty counts of the indictment against him and several of his associates.

Would you know who Pat Marr is and what sort of a man he is? Listen—

...w the Sweet Singer of Smackover Took Millions From Oil Suckers

...IGH-POWERED SALESMANSHIP LANDS PAT MARR (BORN MARGOLYES) BEFORE THE BAR OF JUSTICE

On Trial for His Liberty, Promoter Is Forced to Listen to the Flamboyant Flubdub That Coaxed the Money From His Victims and Now Threatens to Convict Him of False and Fraudulent Pretenses, Representations and Promises—Confronted With Probable Fulfillment of His Declaration That Whatsoever a Man Soweth That Shall He Also Reap—The Ring-Tailed Tooter That Failed to Toot.

By F. A. BEHYMER,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

TEXARKANA, Ark., April 19.

SPRING has some again to Arkansas. Pat Marr, the sweet singer of Smackover, whose siren songs have brought him millions, sits in the Federal Court and listens to unromantic lawyers chant the lays he chanted another spring in Arkansas—

"Down in the valleys wild cherries are blooming.

"Clustered around the cabins on the hills are riotous groups of color.

"Pine buds are bursting.

"Spring—with its wonderful promise—has come again to Arkansas.

"The earth is fair today.

"Fortune is fairer still—not only for today, but for tomorrow and all the todays and tomorrows that may come.

"Down here among the blossoms and the gushers and the pines I have unleashed the floodgates of fortune."

Which said song of spring and many like songs were sent through the mails with the intent, it is alleged, of obtaining money and property by means of false and fraudulent pretenses, representations and promises, contrary to the form of the statute in such cases made and provided and against the peace and dignity of the United States of America.

Wherefore this Pat Marr, otherwise Morton Howard Marr, born Margolyes, sits in court these spring days, while outside the other birds are singing and the magnolias are burgeoning, and hears again the lilts that have turned to laments, and even the prophecies which may soon find fulfillment For once, in exalted mood, he sang Scripture's solemn truth that what a man soweth that shall he also reap—

"There is a law of nature that is as immutable as death itself.

"It is the law of compensation.

"Whatsoever a man soweth, so shall he also reap.

"There are men who have made thousands and thousands of dollars by sucking the life blood of fellow men.

"Those men are rich. Frequently they occupy high places in the social and business world.

"BUT THEY MUST PAY.

"Every man who has done wrong lives always under the shadow of a sharp-edged sword.

"THAT SWORD WILL FALL.

"THAT MAN WILL PAY.

"It is nature's immutable LAW."

As for him, Pat Marr, he would keep his promises or he would go to the United States prison. He was that kind of a hairpin.

"Did He Keep Promises?" Is Issue

And as Pat Marr listens, and the lawyers drone and the jurors droop and the patient judge rules and overrules, the question is whether Pat Marr kept the promises he made when he flooded the country, through the United States mails, with flamboyant flubdub which brought from all over the land an answering flood of cash to his coffers.

Pat Marr says he did, or would have if he had been let alone, but the Government says he did not and sets out the particulars in the twenty counts of the indictment against him and several of his associates.

Let no one suppose that Pat Marr, song singer, belongs to the falsetto sisterhood. He sings bass. He has always made it clear, in his paeans of praise for Pat Marr, published not so much a paean, that Pat Marr is a he-man with hair on his chest.

Would you know who Pat Marr is and what sort of a man he is? Listen—

"Grizzled veteran of many oil fields.

"The man who selected for his companies leases which made millions of barrels of oil and millions of dollars of money—who put out terrible oil well fires, capped wild, mad, monster, gushing and flaming wells.

"Men of affairs, bankers, doctors, lawyers, merchants, other drillers and real oil men, swear by his honesty, fairness, squareness and gameness and his wonderful ability to bring in gushing oil wells.

"Every inch of his 6 feet of rugged frame, every pound of his mighty bulk and every line in his sun-browned Irish face tell the story of a man who does what he starts out to do.

"He doesn't know there's any other way of doing business than on the square.

"Tanned to a crisp by 15 summer suns in the great Southwest, every hard muscle in his gigantic frame working smoothly and co-ordinating perfectly with that keen brain—with hair on his chest, a gleam in his blue eye and a hunk of Climax in his mouth, he's ready for anything, work, fight or fun.

"Honest Old Pat Marr"

"That's Pat Marr. Honest old Pat. As honest and straight as the day is long."

And oil-wise? Far be it from him to boast, but there was not a man in the world better qualified by training and experience to bring in gusher wells. Why, there were hundreds of old-time oil men, grizzled veterans of the field and of the wells, who would back up to the utmost the statement that there was not a man in the world better qualified by training and experience to bring in gusher wells than he, Pat Marr.

And as to what he did for the people who sent their money to him, "around oil camps in the still watches of the night they tell the story of how I made and paid 50 for 1 in my North Louisiana Syndicate—5000 per cent in cash."

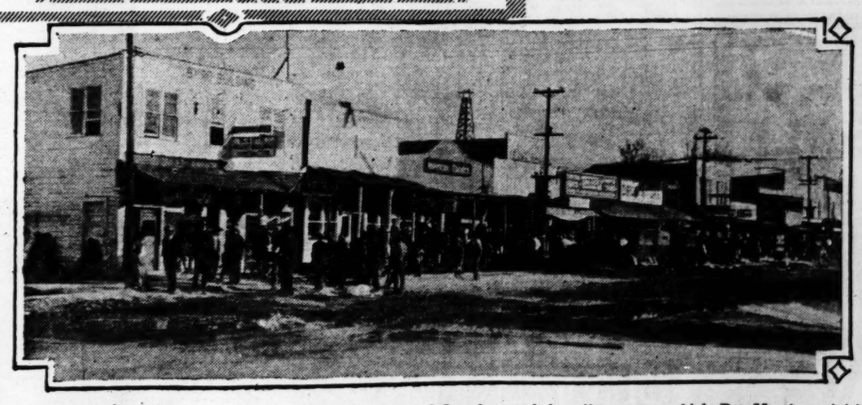
So ran the felicitations he sent out from Eldorado, Ark., in page and double-page advertisements, circulars, personal letters and telegrams, asking everybody to send their money and send it quick to Postoffice Box 1328.

It was early in 1921 that the first oil well came in at Eldorado, Ark., with a crash. Pat Marr came in soon after with another crash. The field spread to Smackover and Camden and so did Pat Marr. He claims, in fact, to have spread, with his wildcat rigs, faster than the field, but that came later.

Behold again "honest old Pat, grizzled veteran of many oil fields, who put out terrible oil well fires and capped wild, mad, monster gushers." And listen to this, also from Pat: "Every inch of his 6 feet of rugged frame, every pound of his mighty bulk and every line of his sun-browned Irish face tell the story of a man who does what he starts out to do." As a matter of fact, he is about 5 feet 5 inches tall, his "mighty bulk" is about 160 pounds and he looks like one of the poolroom boys.

Photographs by S. C. Wilson.

PAT MARR,
The songbird and "king" of Smackover whose siren chants of gushing oil and flowing millions beguiled investors by the hundreds and finally landed him in Federal court on charges of using the mails to defraud. Above, he appears behind what he extolled as his "honest Irish grin."



Scene on the main street of Smackover, Ark., oil town to which Pat Marr's activities spread with the boom from the Eldorado field.

Where this Pat Marr came from and who he is and how old he is and what he did before he became the king of Smackover, are points of dispute which the present trial may clear up.

It is of record at Dallas, where in 1919 he had his name changed to Marr, that he was born Margolyes. He says he was born in New York May 21, 1891, and grew up in California. That would make him 32. But when he had his name changed, Government agents say, he gave his age as 24, which would make him 29 now. And, according to the army records, he was born in 1898, which would make him 26.

He says he started as a "roughneck," as the common laborer of the oil fields is called, and climbed up through the grades to driller and field superintendent, constituting the 12 years of experience which he claimed when he launched himself as a promoter in the Arkansas field.

Whatever experience he has had, it sufficed to acquaint him with the methods of promoters and the details of development, for he not only promoted successfully but operated with equal success, drilling 39 wells, 34 of which were oil producers, three were gassers and only two dusters. His wells for three months led the Arkansas production, with 11,000 barrels a day.

He started with next to nothing and in two years he took in between $2,000,000 and $4,000,000, depending upon whose word you take for it, and assembled assets of the estimated value of $6,000,000, subject, of course, to the precarious element inherent to all oil assets.

When he began at Eldorado his chief asset was his name. Not that it was a name known in the marts of men, as he took pains to state, although around the campfires in the oil fields it was a name whispered with awe because of the prodigious production he was supposed to have accomplished. But it was the kind of name that is needed to win the confidence of the people who buy oil stocks.

Maybe when he had the Margolyes changed to Marr he was thinking of making his debut. As Morton Howard Margolyes he would never have been a success as a promoter. Even as Morton Howard Marr he would have been at a disadvantage. But Pat Marr! That was a name worth millions. The "Pat" of it is obviously of casual origin. The man says it has long been his nickname, although it is difficult to understand why he should have been given such a nickname, for he doesn't look the part.

But it was as Pat Marr that he launched himself and it was a name to conjure with, short and breezy and easy to remember and carrying a suggestion of heartiness and honesty which was emphasized in his advertising.

He organized the Double Barrel Gusher Syndicate with himself as sole trustee. His proposition was startling. He guaranteed that with the $32,400 which he asked investors to send to him he would drill two 5000-barrel wells which would be "raging, roaring gushers," spouting oil over the crown block, and guaranteeing to pay 400 per cent or "your money back," and "expecting" to make the dividends 4000 per cent.

To make it clear that he knew what he was doing and understood the risk he was running he added that "when I make a positive guarantee of two 5000-barrel gushers or your money back, and send that message through the United States mails, I do so with full and complete realization that if I fail to comply to the letter with that guarantee, then I will be sent to the Federal prison."

The money poured in but it did not pour in fast enough to suit Pat Marr. He was drilling all right but he hadn't struck anything yet. He needed to strike something so that the "folks," as he lovingly called them in his heart-to-heart talks with them, would send in more money. So he struck oil—on paper.

He called upon his high-powered publicity man to fix up a story that would be a knockout, about how they had brought in their first well, with a production of 2400 barrels a day. Maybe by the time the yarn reached the contributing public the well would have been brought in. In the oil business a man has to be an optimist. Or, if it didn't come in, he would take the money brought in by the story, and go out and buy one.

His Story of the First Strike

The story of the first strike went out Sept. 7, 1922, in the form of a circular letter, addressed to "Dear Friend." It started off like this:

"Our No. 1 well just blew in, and just take it from one who knows—she's a ring-tailed tooter from the forks of the creek.

"Gosh, what a daisy! She flowed a solid 6-inch stream of oil high over the top of the derrick, covering the field for acres with the precious fluid. She's one of the finest wells ever drilled in Eldorado. In a lifetime spent on derrick floors I have never seen purer, cleaner oil.

"The well filled two 250-barrel storage tanks in five hours—500 barrels in five hours. Get your old pencil out and figure it yourself, and remember there are 24 hours in each oil day. And, partner, you'll see you've gone and got yourself an interest in a real sure-enough gusher. This bearcat has filled all storage tanks right now, and I'm letting her flow into a big earthen pit I have dug, just enough to keep her from sanding up. I am keeping the well partly shut in, until I can get more storage—and believe me, folks, I am rushing it to the lease as fast as men and horses can haul and drag.

"Thirty days from the time I hook up the well with the pipe line I will mail out my first dividend, and Lord love you, children, it's going to be a dandy."

And would the dear folks please send him $9,850, so that he could complete the second well without dipping into the dividend money from No. 1?

"When in truth and in fact," as the indictment reads, "said well was not drilled in on Sept. 7, 1922," and there was no ring-tailed tooter from the forks of the creek.

But it was a thrilling tale and it brought in the money, which was the main thing.

When, at last, the first well was brought in it did not measure up at all to the ring-tailed tooter stuff that Marr had sent out before-

MOTHER OF 18 CHILDREN TURNS TO ADVENTURE AT 45; BIGAMOUSLY WEDS A BANKER

CARPENTER'S WIFE, AFTER EACH DAY'S WORK, TOOK TAXI TO HER OTHER HUSBAND'S HOME

Mrs. Anna Beswick, Posing as Woman of Wealth, Obtained $50,000 to Silence Alleged Blackmailers; She Hired Chauffeurs by the Day to Travel Back and Forth Between Her Husbands and Now, Under Arrest, She Says She Had to Pay Them to Keep Her Secret—Told Father of Her Children That Absences at Night Were Necessary to Establish Her Claim to Mythical Estate—Forgery of Judge's Name, Which She Confesses, Led to Her Arrest.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

PHILADELPHIA, April 19.

MRS. ANNA BESWICK, at 45 years of age, was the wife of Samuel E. Beswick, carpenter, and had given birth to 18 children, and she lived with her husband and children in a pleasant home, and it might have been supposed that contentment was hers.

But possession of a kind but commonplace husband and a lot of children did not make Mrs. Beswick happy. She craved romance. So she created a mythical estate and called herself an heiress and consulted William C. Martin, a banker, about it.

This banker, a widower, was still susceptible to the charms of a plump, middle-aged heiress, who said she was a widow, and he asked her to marry him, and Mrs. Beswick found the romance that she craved.

They were married last February, and with two husbands and a lot of children to look after, not to mention the mythical estate, the woman had her hands full. She had told her real husband about the estate, and he was credulous. He even consented for her to spend most of her nights away from home, on her representation that this was necessary in order for her to get the estate. These nights she spent with her banker-husband at his somewhat pretentious residence on Elberon avenue, Fox Chase.

There was a lot of flitting to be done, back and forth, and in the role of presumptive heiress she did her flitting in taxicabs, which she hired by the day and neglected to pay for. But taxi drivers are observant fellows and they soon learned the woman's secret, and, she says, they blackmailed her and she had to wheedle money from her new husband and borrow from his brothers to meet their demands, until she had obtained something like $50,000 by misrepresentations.

She needed more money and she borrowed $2600 from Ralph Hawthorne, one of the chauffeurs. She already owed him $4125 for the use of his taxi 18 or 19 hours a day, he says. But she showed him letters purporting to have been signed by Judge J. Willis Martin, pertaining to the estate, and Hawthorne let her have the money and continued to chauffeur for her on trust. She also, by the use of letters, obtained money from William Shuman, a clerk in the office of the Receiver of Taxes.

Then She Confessed Ic All

After a while these two put their heads together and decided that all was not right. So they had her arrested, and then she confessed everything—how she had married the banker while having a carpenter-husband and how she had obtained $15,000 from him and borrowed $6500 from one of his brothers and $24,000 from another, all of which, she says, she turned over to the blackmailing chauffeurs. Three of these have been arrested. They deny everything.

She was only 14 when she married Beswick. He was a mild man of temperate tastes whose pleasures lay solely in his family. He gave her all that it was in his modest power to give and was good to her. She was unstable, but his stability steadied her and only once, so far as known, did she get into trouble. That was in 1917, when she passed some bad checks. She was arrested for that and served six months in jail.

It seems to have been only in the past year that she posed as an heiress and obtained considerable sums of money, the disappearance of which is unexplained except on her allegation that she was blackmailed by men who knew of her pretensions.

Now Mrs. Beswick, 45 and spectacled, sits in her Central Court cell and smiles placidly, smiles with just a hint of boredom as if that which she has done was the commonplace and something bound to come out all right in the end. She talks occasionally, but in her speech, which is marked by a German accent, there is no trace of remorse.

Her husband, a gray-haired, prematurely aged man, whose face shows sorrow and strain in every line, dwells silently and as best he can with the children at a house in Mantua street, brokenly mumbling to reporters and the more curious neighbors that "I don't want to hear any more talk of my wife; I'm sick of the whole sordid business."

Samuel E. Beswick is a stricken man and as he pushes back into the dark interior of his home the two children who try to peek at the caller, the tear in his eye shows that for him life will never be quite the same again.

Martin a Man of Another Type

Quite another type is William C. Martin, president of the Pennsylvania Cold Storage Co. and vice president of a suburban bank.

He refuses to discuss the matter, or starts out by saying so, before his tongue loosens and he vents his opinions.

"I don't care what is said about the case," is the way he commence, "I have nothing to say." Then: "I voluntarily gave her the money she received from me, about fifteen thousand," he answers to the next question, before he thinks.

Martin is a man of dignified appearance. He is, in fact, the banker or magnate of fiction. His bearing is quiet and sedate, he talks low and evenly and gives the impression of dependability by his every movement. He is about 50 years old.

According to the neighbors, it was not known that he was married, especially as he lived with his brother, J. T. Martin, for some time.

Yet it was her love for him, according to Mrs. Beswick, that allowed her to be blackmailed into taking more than $50,000 from him. There, as in several other points, the tale differs. Sums of money are tossed about recklessly, although there is no shadow of doubt that, quoting an observer in the courtroom, "Martin was taken over pretty."

She is fighting her fight alone. Neither Beswick nor Martin apparently deems it his duty to call upon her or communicate with her in any way.

Accuses Men of "Framing" Her

She accuses the two men who caused her arrest of "framing" her, and the three others whose arrest she caused accuse her of "framing" them. Charges and counter charges fly on all sides.

Hawthorne and Shuman, the men who caused her arrest, charge she obtained money from them by representing herself as an heiress and she admits she did so represent herself. She accomplished the deception largely by spending much of her time around the offices of Judge Martin and giving the impression that he was her attorney.

Hawthorne expresses the belief that Mrs. Beswick really was blackmailed, although the two men whom she so accuses deny it vehemently.

"I don't see how else she got rid of all the money she got," says Hawthorne, who is a practical individual. "She certainly didn't spend it on her family. You would give her a lot of money and a few minutes later she would be broke. I know, for I got Shuman to make his loan to her. One time he put $1500 in cold cash right in her lap, and in a few hours she didn't have a red cent of it left.

"I thought she was an heiress, all right," continued Hawthorne. "Who wouldn't, the way she traveled? I'm sorry to see her in this scrape, though, for she was a good skate, all things considered. She was a spender and I am the loser. I was hired to be her chauffeur and furnish the car for about 18 or 19 hours every day. I was to be paid for that time whether I was driving her around or parked and waiting.

"After being driven downtown in the morning with Mr. Martin from Fox Chase, she would stay in the city hall until almost lunch time, and then have me drive her to her other husband. The next order would be back to the city hall, where she would loaf around the corridors most of the time until dark, when we would pick up Mr. Martin at the Liberty Building and drive back to his home.

"Frequently I brought her and Mr. Martin downtown again at nights. She would drop off at the city hall and he would go to his office. Mrs. Beswick stayed in the city hall sometimes until at late as 11 o'clock."

The men Mrs. Beswick accuses of extorting money from her on threats of exposure are Herbert Russi, Irwin Hamilton and John McCoy. At the mere mention of her name they rave.

"She is not telling the truth," said one of them. "She is a taxicab fiend, and the fact is she borrowed money from us. The money we got from her was the return of loans she got from us and her automobile hire bills."

The plump, spectacled Mrs. Beswick, with her German accent, provided those present with a peculiar sight when she faced the men she accuses and those who accuse her.

First she turned on Hawthorne.

"Why didn't you tell the truth?" she demanded. "I never got a penny from you. I never got $700 from you at any time. I'm not going to let you frame me."

Mrs. Beswick is the center of a large crowd whenever she makes her appearance in court. She is not an unfamiliar figure to the many frequenters and hangers-on who have passed her by for weeks and wondered who she was and why she was there. They never dreamed she was using her presence as a bluff in her claims to the nonexistent and mysterious estate, which, she convinced Beswick, required her to spend her nights at Martin's big home in Fox Chase.

Attracts Much Attention in Court

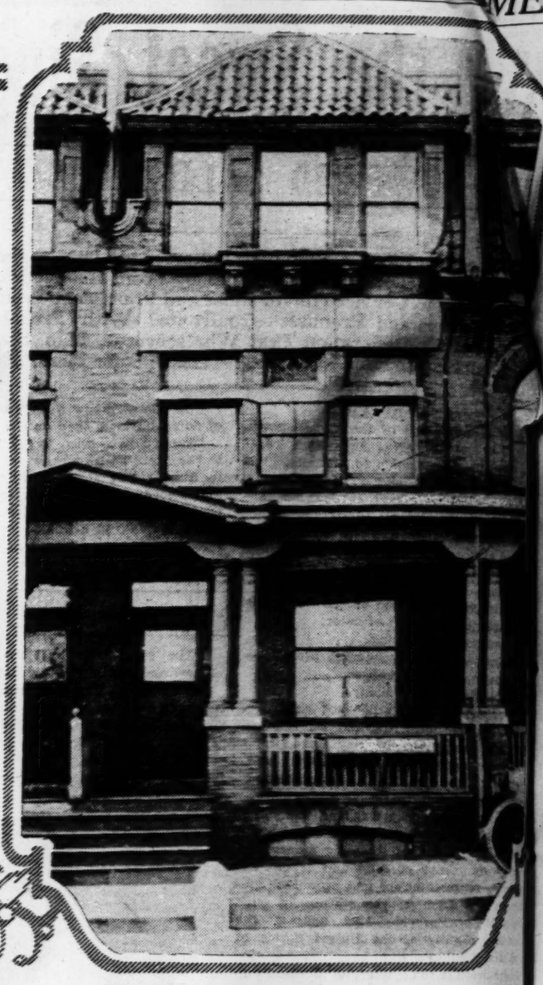
The records at city hall show that when she and Martin obtained the license to marry, on Feb. 26, 1924, she reported herself to be a widow and him to be a widower. On the application she stated that her husband had died a year ago, while Martin said he had been a widower 18 years. Both gave their address as Elberon avenue, Fox Chase, where Martin's residence is situated. The dates of their birth were given as 1879 for Mrs. Beswick and 1869 for Martin.



Mrs. Anna Beswick, the matronly adventurer who, at 45, found time to stray away from her husband and house full of children at night to live in a mansion as the wife of another man, and her two homes. Above is the home of her carpenter-husband where she lived by day and at the left is the palatial residence of the banker where she presided at night.

Dates of this sort bring out another astonishing angle to the matter. Mrs. Beswick does not agree with Beswick, her now thoroughly disillusioned husband, on the exact number of children they have. She claims she has had 18 children, nine of whom are living and who run in age from 5 to 24 years. To the contrary, Beswick asserts they have only 15 children and that 11 of them are living.

Two of her daughters and a son are the only visitors Mrs. Beswick has to break the lonely hours in her cell.

HOW THE SWEET SINGER OF SMACKOVER REAPED MILLIONS FROM OIL SUCKERS

hand. Love you, children, it was a weak sister. The thing never did make more than 25 barrels a day, and that was on the pump, as J. L. Fallin, Marr's production foreman, testified. But, also according to Fallin, he spilled oil on the derrick, under Marr's orders, to make it look like she had come in as a gusher and was a sure-enough ring-tail. And he and his men, also at Marr's orders, filled the storage tanks with water and spread a film of oil on top, to make it look like pure oil from the snorter.

It was earlier that Pat Marr, born Marrolyes, sent this letter, steaming hot from his Irish soul, to T. H. May of 1908 North Fifth street, Kansas City, who believed in him because his name was Pat and had written to tell him so. So this letter from Pat:

"Faith—but that's the kind of letters that puts hair on me chist and blood in me eye. With a bunch of paddies behind me like you, we'll be able in about 32 days to sport hothouse Killarny roses on the oilcloth when we sit down to the cornbeef and cabbage, and we can strut our stuff from here to County Cork. That's what we eat on the lease (corn beef and cabbage). Every darn roughneck is a Mick, and they'd all go to hell and back for old Pat Marr. They are working son-of-a-guns too, and all hell can't stop 'em from hitting the old pay sand down in section 29 about 32 days from now.

"Sure I'll reserve you the 50 and you'll never regret it at all—at all, but you'll be wishing it was more.

"Thanking you for your letter and assuring you that Pat is with you until hell freezes over, I am, yours for a fortune, Pat Marr."

Pat Marr did strike oil, and lots of it, and every time he struck it he sent out descriptive stuff that was strong enough to make the folks pop-eyed trying to envision it, always winding up with a high-pressure plea for more money, so that he could go on and on, getting more oil and still more oil. He, Pat Marr, was monarch of Smackover and Oildom's man of destiny, and he wouldn't be satisfied with paying his investors less than 10,000 per cent.

He did pay a dividend, 100 per cent, $432,000 to 4963 unitholders in his Double Barrel and Camden No. 2 syndicates. Gave their money back. But begged them to let it to buy stock in his other syndicates and double and treble and get their neighbors come in, and most of them did.

If, in subsequent allusions to the dead, he made it appear that he had paid $1,500,000, as the indictment alleges, there was a discrepancy which can be charged to enthusiasm. The same enthusiasm, perhaps that caused him to mention, casually, that his work, at other times, had paid investors 100,000 per cent in cash profits. He would do such things for investors who would send him their money. He had squared his fighting jaw and he wouldn't be satisfied until he made rich the man who invested $100, made a fortune for every one who invested $5000 and made a millionaire of every one who invested $10,000.

There were 10 companies in all that he formed in less than two years. The last one was the Marr Oil Corporation and he was offering his unit holders stock in that corporation in return for their holdings in other ers when the postoffice inspectors, after months of work, laid before the Federal grand jury the information which led to the indictment. Marr was arrested and the next day resigned as president of the corporation and sold out his holdings in it.

And now they are trying him in the Federal court which bestrides the Arkansas-Texas line, and as he sits there, little more than a youth, barely 5 feet and 5 inches in height, in a blue serge suit with flaring trousers, it is difficult to envision him as Oildom's man of destiny. He looks like one of the poolroom boys, always welcome at the Saturday night dance, or like one of our leading chauffeurs, or at best like the proprietor of a small clothing store, for he is unmistakably more Margolyes than Pat.

He grinned sheepishly when I asked him about the stuff they were reading to the jury hour after hour. "Aw, now," he demurred, "that's just trade talk."

I wanted to photograph him, so that the folks could see just what kind of a soap bird they had sent their money to, but he thought it would look egotistical and he just hated to seem egotistical. So the photographs printed here are some that were taken a year ago, at Smackover when the grizzled veteran of many oil fields was starting of the wild cherries blooming in the valleys and the unleashing of the floodgates of fortune.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

HAMILTON, Mo., April 19.

THIRTY years ago this spring James Cash Penney started clerking in one of this small town's small dry goods stores at $3.27 a month, working early and late, making the fires in winter, cutting calico, fitting shoes, measuring gingham, and in the evening, when the day's business was done, sweeping out the place and putting the scattered merchandise in place for the next day's trading.

Last Saturday the same "Jim" Penney stood on the same spot, in the same building, cutting calico, fitting shoes and measuring gingham for the same folk of the countryside who in other years were wont to ask for "that pleasant, obliging young man" who was sure to "amount to something" in the world. Outwardly things hadn't changed much. The little town had grown some. There were automobiles lined up where the buggies used to stand, the old store building of J. M. Hale & Bro. had been remodeled and Jim Penney himself was older and a bit gray, as were his old-time customers.

But for all the sameness, things were not quite the same after all. Jim Penney's appearance behind the counter this time, cutting calico, fitting shoes and measuring gingham, happened to mark a great event in the business life of Hamilton and the realization of a long-cherished ambition of the one-time clerk. The occasion was the formal opening of Jim Penney's own home-town store, the 500th store in the long string of Penney stores reaching over 35 states, and the twenty-second anniversary of the founding of the J. Waited for Old Employer to Quit

The townspeople, the old-time customers, were there to do their week-end trading as of yore, yes, but mostly they were there to shake the hand of Jim Penney and welcome home again the youth who, in becoming several times a millionaire himself, had given hundreds of other promising youths their opportunity that might not have come otherwise and was now bringing that opportunity to his old home for those who might care to work with him and share the rewards of his persistence and theirs.

For a long time Jim Penney waited to realize his ambition of opening a store in the town where he was born 48 years ago and where he learned his first lessons, hard ones though they were, in merchandising. As dollars and cents are counted, he had been able to do it long ago when he was opening stores in Wyoming, Utah, Kansas and a score of other states. But dollars and cents, one is soon compelled to realize, are not the motive behind all of J. C. Penney's operations. Least of all were they the motive in this. To have established a store here earlier in his career would have meant becoming a competitor of the man

FORMER $27-A-YEAR CLERK OPENS 500TH STORE OF CHAIN IN TOWN WHERE HE GOT FIRST JOB

HAMILTON, Mo., April 19.

THIRTY years ago this spring James Cash Penney started clerking in one of this small town's small dry goods stores at $2.27 a month, working early and late, making the fires in winter, cutting calico, fitting shoes, measuring gingham, and in the evening, when the day's business was done, sweeping out the place and putting the scattered merchandise in place for the next day's trading.

Last Saturday the same "Jim" Penney stood on the same spot, in the same building, cutting calico, fitting shoes and measuring gingham for the same folk of the countryside who in other years were wont to ask for "that pleasant, obliging young man" who was sure to "amount to something" in the world. But for all the sameness, things were not quite the same after all. Jim Penney's appearance behind the counter this time, cutting calico, fitting shoes and measuring gingham, happened to mark a great event in the business life of Hamilton and the realization of a long-cherished ambition of the one-time clerk. The occasion was the formal opening of Jim Penney's own home-town store, the 500th store in the long string of Penney stores reaching over 35 states, and the twenty-second anniversary of the founding of the J. C. Penney Co., which has grown in two decades to be the largest dry goods organization in the world.

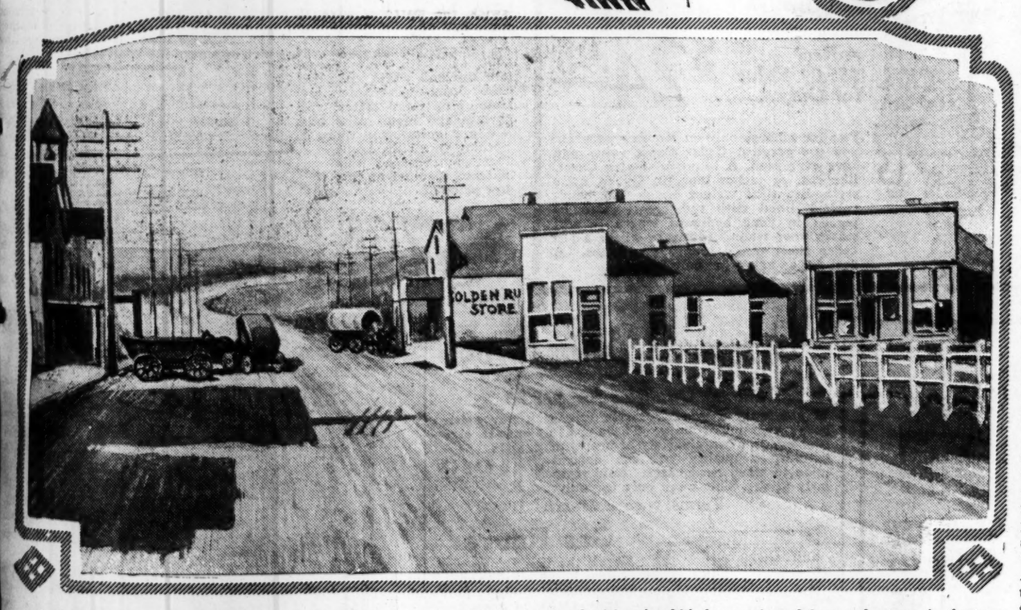
The Hamilton store, 500th of the Penney chain, on opening day. The founder is seen at the right of the group in front. The building, before it was remodeled, housed the old firm of J. M. Hale & Bro., for whom Penney worked as a youth.



James Cash Penney, former Missouri boy who has just opened the five-hundredth unit of his long string of dry goods stores in the town where he was born and first worked as a clerk. Below is the first of the Penney "Golden Rule" stores which he established in Kemmerer, Wyo., just 22 years ago this month.

Waited for Old Employer to Quit

The townspeople, the old-time customers, were there to do their week-end trading as of yore, yes, but mostly they were there to shake the hand of Jim Penney and welcome home again the youth who, in becoming several times a millionaire himself, had given hundreds of other promising youths their opportunity that might not have come otherwise and was now bringing that opportunity to his old home for those who might care to work with him and share the rewards of his persistence and theirs.

For a long time Jim Penney waited to realize his ambition of opening a store in the town where he was born 48 years ago and where he learned his first lessons, hard ones though they were, in merchandising. As dollars and cents are counted, he had been able to do it long ago when he was opening stores in Wyoming, Utah, Kansas and a score of other states. But dollars and cents, one is soon compelled to realize, are not the motive behind all of J. C. Penney's operations. Least of all were they the motive in this. To have established a store here earlier in his career would have meant becoming a competitor of the man who had given him his start. Penney could never do that.

Last fall his old employer retired from business, J. E. Goldsberry, a junior member of the firm who remained, was offered and accepted a position as manager of a Penney store in Marshfield, Ore., and the way was clear. The building that had housed J. M. Hale & Bro. in the days when Penney was a $27-a-year clerk was purchased and remodeled. New fixtures were installed and spacious show windows fitted out with such trimmings as befit the forging of the 500th link in a chain as stupendous as that of the Penney company. Then the Penney name, spread its gilded letters across the front and Penney enterprise, after 27 years' absence from Hamilton, made its triumphal return.

But Penney himself is not the sole proprietor of this home-town store, deep as is his attachment for the place of his birth and boyhood. It happens that among the vast number of men he has "brought up" in his business as managers there are 14 other natives of Hamilton. From his point of view, which from the first has been that of giving the deserving man a chance, what could be more fitting than that these 14 other natives should share it with him? And they do. The manager of this new store, too, is a native Missourian, Frank Duck, who received his commercial training in the organization, and now, as director of the Hamilton store's destiny, will strive to make it a "mother store," branching out into other units in which he also will have an interest, as is the custom in the Penney company.

Facts Bigger Than Dreams

Thirty years ago, when the poorly paid clerk was getting his first thrills of proprietorship by referring casually to "our new line of ginghams" or the assortment of calicoes that "we have just got in," he may have first dreamed in a vague sort of way of the store he would some day preside over in Hamilton. He doesn't quite remember himself when the fancy first took root in his mind. But of this he is certain: He never dreamed that it would be the 500th store to bear his name or that it would be one of a chain of 96 stores established within a single year. Castle building of that magnitude was too extravagant even for the comprehension of a $27-a-year clerk. As is usually the case with successful men, it was not until years of hard work, rigid economizing and self-denial had taken much of the pleasure out of day dreaming that he was able to picture such a future with any well-founded hope of making it materialize.

Penney was 18 when he got that job with J. M. Hale & Bro. and as short of cash as are most ministers' sons of that age in towns the size of Hamilton. So short, in fact, that he jumped at the opportunity to "clerk in a store" without negotiations as to salary. When the detail finally was brought to attention, $25 for the remaining 11 months of the year seemed enough to bind the agreement. He stayed on and dodged as best he could the gibes of his fellows, who, although not occupying a position so esteemed in the business life of Hamilton, were getting considerably more than $27 a year. That $27-a-year job was a source of much village merriment and no little discomfort to the holder of it before the first year finally elapsed and his salary was increased to $200.

During those two years, however, and the next, in which the figure mounted to $300, Penney got the merchandising complex so firmly fastened on him that he was never to get rid of it again. And along with it he got the training in small-town business methods that later was to make his fortune. When, eventually, his health broke down under the rigorous routine of service as clerk, janitor and errand boy and he went to Colorado to recover it, he carried with him the germ of an idea which later was to develop into the J. C. Penney Co., with its ever-lengthening chain of "Golden Rule" stores. That move was essentially the turning point in his career, for it brought him into contact with more far-reaching opportunities and business men with broader conceptions of dry goods operations.

Bought First Store in 1902

His connection with Johnson & Callahan of Longmont, Colo., later led to his promotion to the managership of their store at Kemmerer, Wyo., and then, after he had saved a little money, to his purchase of the Kemmerer store for himself. That momentous event in his life took place on April 14, 1902, just 22 years before he was to celebrate the anniversary by opening his 500th store in Hamilton. It was the original "mother store," the first link in the long chain that now extends into 35 states of the Union, from New York to Oregon and from Canada to the Gulf. The rapidity of the chain's growth is best comprehended by a glance at the records themselves—one store in 1902, two in 1903, 14 in 1910, 86 in 1915, 312 in 1920, 500 in 1924. And if the plans of the Penney company materialize, 71 more links will be added before the end of this year.

It was early in the career of the Kemmerer venture that Penney adopted the policy now expressed in the name "Golden Rule Store," which all of the 500 carry. His experience as an employe of J. M. Hale & Bro., back in Hamilton, had taught him that.

"While still a $27-a-year clerk," he says, "I was able to perceive what principles got the best results in business and also what method of rewarding employes made for the most efficient service. It was the same in both cases—'Do unto others as you would have others do unto you'—and I resolved then and there that if I should ever be in business for myself and an employer of men I would apply it, for it never fails to work."

System of Interpartnerships

And his attitude toward employes is one of the elements wherein the J. C. Penney Co. differs from probably all other chain-store systems. All employes are potential proprietors. They are trained from the start as future managers and partners. Unless they want to become managers and partners they are not wanted as employes. Neither are they wanted unless they can grasp the spirit of the organization which Penney conceived as the most basic principle of success. There is no clock watching in the Penney organization. The company's interest is the employe's interest and it depends on his efforts entirely how long he will remain an employe instead of a partner.

So, with all stores closely knit together in an interpartnership plan, the chain lengthens as rapidly as employes disclose their ability, not only to become competent merchants, but to perpetuate the ideals of the concern and develop other men after them. Another point of difference between the Penney organization and the average corporation is that the stores which carry the name "J. C. Penney Co." are not owned by the company, as such, at all. "J. C. Penney Co." is merely the trade name under which the various units are associated. Neither has any one individual a financial interest in all the stores of the system. Penney himself hasn't. As for how many individual stores he is interested in, he doesn't know himself, he says, and doesn't care, but thinks it is "something over a hundred."

Penney long ago made enough money to permit him to transfer his interest "from merchandise to men," and men—ambitious young salesmen who want to become store owners—are his hobby now. And here is the system by which employes may not only become partners in one store, but in several units of the chain.

An employe comes to a Penney store as a salesman. After demonstrating his ability, he becomes head man, or assistant to the manager. Later he is put in charge of a "try-out" store, many of which are operated in connection with "mother stores." If he makes good as a "try-out" manager he is ready then to become manager of a separate unit and a partner and is installed in charge of a new store, with the privilege of buying a one-third interest in it with money loaned him by the J. C. Penney Co. and to be repaid out of the profits of his store.

Being then a part of the Penney company chain, he begins to carry on the extension of the system from his unit, starting other stores in which he also will have a partnership. As manager, he will train another head man, try him out and then, when he is ready, install him as manager of the next unit, on terms similar to those he himself took advantage of. That man, in turn, continues the chain from his unit, as did his predecessor. In this way the process continues, partners farther back the line eliminating themselves as the chain progresses. The system is like a tree of many branches, with each branch putting out branches of its own and so on indefinitely. The essential difference is that the branches do not remain tributary to the main trunk or it to them. The number of stores in which a man can have a partnership depends on the number of offshoots his branch can put out itself. After two or three successive branchings, his partnership runs out and partners who entered the system after him carry on the process.

How the Partnerships Work

For instance, A, B and C, listed in order of seniority (seniority applying to previous partnerships), are partners in a store at Salt Lake City, Utah. This store prospers and is able to open another at Trenton, Mo. Partner A, having come from farthest back the line, is eliminated and B and C become partners in the Trenton store with the new manager, D. We will assume, then, that the Trenton store, with partners B, C and D, makes money and opens another at Hannibal, Mo. Here B is eliminated and the Hannibal store is owned by C, D and a new manager-partner E. If the Hannibal store, in turn, opens another, it is seen, then, that C, the last of the original partners, will be out of it. However, going back to the Salt Lake City store, B and C would own third interests each in all the stores founded by the Salt Lake unit and therefore might hold interests in hundreds of stores. The number of partnerships all depends on the individual success of the separate units.

As a connecting link between the widely scattered stores and the markets, New York offices were founded several years ago as a centralizing agency. Adjacent to the offices, which are in the Eastern market section, near the Pennsylvania station, is a 12-story building that is constantly filled with merchandise in course of distribution to the several stores. Through the central office's accounting department pass daily the transactions of every store connected with the organization, and by this means a definite check is kept at all times on every store in the list. This accounting process is facilitated by the fact that all Penney transactions are by cash. There are no charge-account books or "cut-rate" sales in Penney stores.

Besides the central New York office, the organization maintains an employment office in St. Louis to look out for promising salesmen, and another regional office in St. Paul, Minn. A vast organization of buyers serving the entire chain together is kept in the markets in various parts of the country, and the expense of maintaining it, as well as the offices, is met by assessing each store according to the amount of business it transacts.

Penney, himself, though chairman of the board of directors, now concerns himself but little with the financial affairs of the company. His fortune is made, and the constantly expanding organization that he built up from one little store on the Wyoming prairies is capable of taking care of its own destiny. At 48, he turns most of his attention to his two hobbies, one of which is farming and the other helping along some deserving youth who shows an ambition to succeed. In this respect it is interesting to note that a large percentage of his managers and partners are former farm boys.

Favors the Farmer Boy

"The farm boy beats the city product every time," he declares. "He is likely to have fewer bad habits, fewer weaknesses and more willingness to learn than the lad from the larger centers. I don't mean that the city boy is naturally more inclined toward cigarettes, gambling and drinking than his country cousin, but I do know that I have had far less trouble in this respect with country boys. Cigarettes, gambling and drinking automatically shut any young man out of an opportunity to become part owner in a Penney store. The grind is too hard for any man to stand up against with any such weaknesses to waste his health and strength."

Throughout his successes elsewhere during the years he was waiting for the opportunity to open a store in Hamilton without becoming a competitor of his old employer, Penney has kept a warm spot in his heart for the town of his birth. In 1919 he founded a public library as a memorial to his parents, the Rev. and Mrs. James C. Penney, and at other times has contributed largely to funds for betterment of the city. Fourteen of the men he trained as managers were Hamilton boys, and they now are his partners in this latest achievement—the opening of his 500th store on the spot where he used to clerk for $27 a year.

350 BRITISH SOLDIERS PUT TO DEATH SINCE 1914

LONDON, April 19.—In a written reply to Lieutenant-Colonel Meyler, who asked how many soldiers had been executed in accordance with sentences of courtmartial under the army acts since Aug. 4, 1914, and for what offense these were convicted, Stephen Walsh states: Including officers, the number is 350.

The offenses in question were: Mutiny, 5; cowardice, 18; desertion, 266; murder, 40; striking or violence, 5; disobedience, 5; sleeping on post, 2; quitting post, 7; and casting away arms, 2.

Long-Awaited Easter to Bring Out Spring Raiment Today and Open Breathless Social Season

Brides to Vie With Out-of-Town Visitors for First Honors During Week That Will Be Filled With Luncheons, Teas and Parties—Sir Alfred and Lady Robbins of London Will Be Honored Guests at Several Affairs.

EASTER, long anticipated, has dawned, and in spite of the clouds which the weather man predicts will overshadow the sun, society will burst the drab, gray chrysalis which has bound it, and, clad in its newest spring raiment, its colors contending with Nature's own, will reach out with impunity to grasp the hand of amusement which has beckoned the past few weeks in vain.

The social calendar ceases to be a dull, uninteresting, almost blank card, and is filling rapidly with luncheons, teas and other affairs incident to this time of the year. Brides will vie with out of town visitors for first honors this week. Parties given for Miss Marie Slaven of Washington, D. C., and Sir Alfred and Lady Robbins of London, England, today will begin the week. Miss Slaven is the guest of Miss Julia Evans, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gwynne Evans of West Pine boulevard, and a classmate of her hostess at Georgetown Convent at Washington. Mrs. Evans will entertain them at an informal mixed tea this afternoon and, later in the week, will give a luncheon for them at the St. Louis Woman's Club. Guests will include only the younger set home for the spring season. The first party for the titled couple will be a dinner tonight by their hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander G. Cochran at their home in Westmoreland place. Sir Alfred and his wife are due here early today. In addition to dinner parties and breakfasts planned in their honor, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph S. McIntyre will give a luncheon for them tomorrow at the St. Louis Country Club. Mr. and Mrs. Leicester Faust will be at home today at their country home, "Swastika Farm," on the Olive Street road, and Mrs. Marie Reine P. de Penaloza will give an Easter dinner at her home in Ferguson. Tomorrow's list of parties is equally as interesting, with a tea by Mrs. Cevedra D. Blake of the Kingsbury apartments, and a bridge party by Mrs. Oliver L. Garrison of Brentmoor in the afternoon and a dinner by Mrs. Charles Cummings Collins at the Florissant Valley Country Club for Miss Mary Elizabeth Edwards in the evening, to say nothing of a luncheon at the St. Louis Country Club at which Miss Polly Wyles of Chicago is to be hostess. Miss Wyles, who is to marry Dr. Anthony B. Day in the autumn, is visiting Mrs. Dudley French. Guests at her party will include some of the debutantes. The largest party Tuesday, and one of the most elaborate, will be a luncheon for 75 guests planned by Mrs. Frank Low in honor of Mrs. J. W. Jacobs and Miss Grace Bell, who are soon to sail for Europe. This affair will be at the St. Louis Woman's Club.

The wedding of Miss Edwards and Robert B. Whittemore III will be the chief attraction for Wednesday, and Thursday society will motor to the Woman's Club for an interpretation of Josephine Preston Peabody's play, "The Piper," to be given by Mrs. Edward Everett Haverstick. Friday night there will be two dances, one at the same club by the Fourth Friday Dancing Club, and another by the Assembly at Glen Echo Country Club.

Friday afternoon Mrs. John William Morrison will be hostess at one of the large teas of the week for her sisters-in-law, Mrs. Frederick Ellis Rice and Mrs. Charles Stoddard Jenney, both of Brookline, Mass., who are visiting their mother, Mrs. R. W. Morrison. Bellerive Country Club will have two opening dances this spring, one Tuesday, the other Saturday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Elmer T. Williams will be hosts at one of the largest tables on the latter occasion.

A fashionable wedding of May will be that of Miss Elizabeth Boeckeler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Boeckeler of 6440 Ellenwood avenue, and Godfrey Macdonald of New York, which will take place the last day of the month at St. Michael and All Angels' Church, at 5:30 o'clock in the afternoon. A reception, to which only relatives and close friends will be invited, will follow at the Boeckeler home. Miss Elizabeth Rhodes of Pittsburg, Pa., will be maid of honor. The list of bridesmaids has not been completed. Miss Rhodes visited the bride-elect last year when she made her debut.

Mrs. Daniel S. Brown of the Kingsbury apartments, and her daughters, Misses Sidney, Marjorie and Polly Brown, will depart soon to spend the summer in California.

Mr. and Mrs. John Howard Holmes of 6500 Forsythe boulevard, and their daughter, Miss Mary Brooks Holmes, will join the large throng of European travelers, for the summer months. They will sail early in July, returning home in time for Miss Holmes to enter Miss Porter's School in Farmington, Conn., in the fall.

Two early spring brides will be feted this week. Miss Hazel Down, daughter of George L. Down of Washington boulevard, whose marriage to William Warner of Philadelphia will take place April 28, is being much entertained prior to her wedding. Tuesday afternoon Mrs. Erwin C. Harms and Mrs. E. A. O'Donnell will give a bridge luncheon at the home of the latter, 6677 Washington boulevard. Thursday afternoon Miss Down will be honoree at a similar affair given by Mrs. Raymond J. Denyven, 6145 Washington boulevard, at the Missouri Athletic Association. Dinner parties at Hotel Chase, followed by dancing, will be given for Mr. Warner and his fiancee Friday and Saturday evenings by Mr. and Mrs. George R. Dorrill of 5573 Cates avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Reinert of Clemens avenue, respectively. Mr. and Mrs. Freen Nulsen will entertain the bridal party at a buffet supper Sunday evening at their home, 7124 Forsyth boulevard.

Miss Marjorie George Chapline, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George G. Chapline of 5143 Raymond avenue, whose wedding to Ralph Bradshaw Reed will take place April 30, will have her sister, Mrs. Richard Lee Woodward, as matron of honor, and Marshall Trump will be Mr. Reed's best man. Six close friends of the bride—Misses Stella Cowgill, Ruth Francisco, Roberta Bryars, Elva Ruler and Mmes. Arthur Brook Heman and Herbert Banister, will be bridesmaids. The ceremony will be performed in the home of the bride's parents in the presence of a limited number of guests. A number of parties have been given for Miss Chapline, including a dinner dance for 35 guests at the Missouri Athletic Association by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Harper Cobbs, and a luncheon bridge by Mrs. Leslie Knight of 5592 Pershing avenue. Miss Bryars and Miss Francisco and Miss Louise Brouster will give parties for her this week.

Miss Helen Bruce Page of Brookline, Mass. Her marriage to Thomas N. Berlage of St. Louis will take place April 26.

Mrs. William R. Compton of 18 Kingsbury place has gone to New York to visit her son, Randolph Compton, while his wife is in Bermuda with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Danforth, also of Kingsbury place, and one of her children. Mrs. W. R. Compton departed Thursday and will remain in the East two weeks.

Mrs. Ethan Allen Hitchcock Shepley of 422 Lake avenue will entertain her mother, Mrs. Louis C. Baker Jr of Bala, Pa., who will arrive the first of this week to be her guest.

Mrs. A. Shapleigh Boyd, 4623 Pershing avenue, has been appointed chairman of the Miniature Gardens exhibit at the Fifth Annual Free Flower Show of the Garden Club of St. Louis, which will be held in Shaw's Garden May 17 and 18. She has arranged a number of window exhibits of sample miniature gardens which are on display at Famous & Barr, St. Louis Seed Company, and the Stix Baer and Fuller windows. The gardens are complete with tiny houses, grounds and flower beds, and details of the materials used may be obtained from Mrs. Shapleigh. Prizes are to be offered for entries of miniature gardens at the Flower Show in the professionals', amateurs' and children's classes.

Mrs. Albert T. Terry of 5231 Westminster place and Mrs. J. Herndon Smith departed Tuesday for the East. They spent a few days with Mrs. Smith's daughter, Miss Katherine, a student at Westover School in Connecticut.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Fennimore Cooper have departed for their home in Boston after a visit to the latter's father, William Evans Guy.

Mrs. Irving H. Boemer, one of the hostesses at the St. Louis University Medical School prom to be given at Hotel Chase May 1.

Because of the illness of Mr. and Mrs. Ingram F. Boyd's small son, arrangements for the wedding, Wednesday, of Miss Mary Elizabeth Edwards, daughter of Mrs. George Lane Edwards of the Forest Park Hotel, and R. B. Whittemore were changed yesterday. The ceremony, which was to have taken place at the Boyd home on Ellenwood avenue, will be performed in the Westminster Presbyterian Church at 7 o'clock and the reception to follow also will take place at the church. Dr. Crowe will officiate. Cards will be sent to the guests notifying them of the different arrangements.

Miss Sophia Mallon of Cincinnati, who is to be a bridesmaid, arrived in St. Louis yesterday and is Miss Edwards' guest.

Rassieur-Orthwein Wedding at Louisiana Surprise to Friends

Only a Few Had Known of Engagement of Mrs. Jessie Orthwein and Leo Rassieur Jr.—Nuptials Last Night Attended Only by Bride's Family—Couple to Reside in St. Louis.

THE wedding of Mrs. Jessie Tinsley Orthwein of Louisiana, Mo., and Leo Rassieur Jr., son of Mr. Leo Rassieur Sr., of 2335 Whittemore place, was solemnized last night at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. William Nelson Orthwein, in Louisiana. News of the marriage will come as a surprise to all but a few friends of the couple, as no previous announcement was made of the engagement, although it had existed for several months. Guests at the ceremony, which was performed at 8 o'clock, included only members of the bride's family. There were no St. Louisans present, and no attendants. Mrs. Rassieur wore a blue and tan one-piece costume, with a tan hat and accessories, and carried an armful of Easter lilies.

The bride is the widow of the late Armin F. Orthwein, who died in 1917. Her first husband was a son of the late Charles F. Orthwein, and a nephew of William D. Orthwein of 15 Portland place. She has two daughters, Mrs. Frank Orthwein Everts, formerly Miss Frances, and Miss Marjorie Jean Orthwein, who will be graduated in June from Ogontz School in Philadelphia. Her home in Louisiana is one of the show places in that county. Mr. Rassieur is a member of the University Club, Sunset Hill Country Club and the Missouri Athletic Association.

After a brief honeymoon trip, the couple will come to St. Louis and make their home at the Forest Park Hotel. In the summer they will take a longer honeymoon through the mountains to the West coast.

Miss Lydia Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer T. Williams of 6941 Washington boulevard, entertained her bridge club yesterday afternoon at which the engagement of Miss Mildred Hoffman to Alanson D. Brown of Lufkin, Tex., was announced. Miss Hoffman is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. O. Hoffman of 5838 Westminster place and a graduate of Lenox Hall. Mr. Brown is the son of Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Brown of 5842 Clemens avenue and a graduate of Virginia Military Institute. He served overseas as a captain during the war.

COMINGS AND GOINGS OF INTEREST TO SOCIETY

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Murphy of 3 Princeton avenue, University City, are at a resort about 20 miles from Honolulu and have taken a number of motor trips around the island. They will remain away several months. Miss Elizabeth Murphy will depart soon and will join her parents in California.

Miss Alice Francis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David R. Francis Jr., of 20 North Kingshighway, has returned to Dana Hall, Wellesley, Mass., after spending the spring vacation with her parents.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Perry Francis of 4510 Maryland avenue, have returned from New York, Washington and Atlantic City.

The annual meeting of the Town Club will be held Thursday, at 8 p. m. in the club rooms, 899 Century Building. The meeting will be preceded by a supper for which reservations are necessary.

The first public meeting of a new Catholic young peoples' club, for social and recreational purposes, will be held at the Central Library Thursday, at 8:15 o'clock. A. Heckenkamp, organizer, will be chairman. Those interested are invited.

The St. Louis Chapter of American War Mothers met Tuesday at the Disabled Veterans' Club, when final arrangements were made for the entertainment of the State convention here April 24 and 25. Mrs. Harold Haill and Mrs. Frank C. Smith were elected delegates, and Mrs. W. H. Hand and Mrs. W. F. White, alternates. The sessions will be held in the assembly rooms of the Melbourne Hotel. A banquet will be given Thursday night, and an automobile ride to the Veterans' Hospital at Jefferson Barracks will be included in the program.

The annual meeting of the Confederate Memorial, Historical and Literary Society was held April 9, when the following officers were elected: Mrs. A. M. Seawel, president; Mrs. W. A. Vivion, first vice president; Mrs. Charles M. Holden, second vice president; Mrs. N. N. Robnett, recording secretary; Mrs. George Andrae, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Milton Southeimer, treasurer; Mrs. J. W. Gerell, auditor; Mrs. William H. Allen, parliamentarian, and Mrs. Paul Guesard, Miss Walker and Mrs. Joseph T. Davis as members of the board. Mrs. Paul Guerard, retiring president, presided.

The Literary Alumnae held a business meeting April 12 at the home of Miss Fern Bartlett, 1415 Montclair avenue. Officers were elected as follows: Miss Genevieve Hourigan, president; Miss Lucille Hall, vice president; Miss Laura Morgan, secretary; Miss Louise Buetell, treasurer.

Members of the Daughters of the American Revolution are making reservations through Mrs. Lida Vincent, 7283 Anna avenue, Maplewood, for the luncheon to be given by Douglas Oliver Chapter at the Gatesworth Hotel on April 28 in honor of the new State regent, Mrs. W. W. Botts, and the retiring State regent, Mrs. Paul D. Kitt. Regents of all local chapters will be guests.

The St. Louis Lonely Club will have a housewarming party at its new meeting place, the Westminster Hall, 3806 Olive street, Friday evening.

The St. Louis Altenheim, 5403 South Broadway, will hold its annual Easter reception tomorrow afternoon. Friends are invited. Lunch will be served from 4 to 8 o'clock and there will be dancing. The Ladies' Society of the Altenheim will have an active part in the affair. It is the twenty-fifth anniversary of the organization.

The annual meeting of the Episcopal Orphans' Home Association will be held Tuesday morning at Schuyler Memorial House, 1210 Locust street. Women of the Episcopal Church parishes belong to the association, and the officers

A Woman Is as Old as the Line of Her Throat

A great many women who looked old and careworn are being made attractive and good to look at.

The contour of the face, the shape of neck, these make beauty.

Lift up the sag and wrinkles, tighten the skin around the neck, and you will look years younger. Wonderful Plastic Surgery does this. It is woman's best friend. It is painless, quick, lasting. Write for booklet.

The Ostrich Is a Foolish Bird —Don't Be One!

Dr. F. J. Guilbault

Some people are like ostriches, who hide their heads in the sand at the approach of the enemy, believing that because they can't see the foe they are likewise invisible.

If you have eyestrain, headaches or other annoying symptoms of defective vision, you need glasses. Refusing or neglecting to get them puts you in the class with the ostrich. Sooner or later the enemy in the form of serious visual complications will overtake you; and you will have to pay a severe penalty in pain and discomfort for your neglect of your eyes.

For over 20 years I have been a specialist in the relief and prevention of visual defects by means of properly prescribed glasses. I employ no drops or drugs of any kind, nor is there any pain or annoyance connected with my expert examination of your eyes. My services and my eminently reasonable charges are emphatically endorsed by over 30,000 satisfied clients.

Seven persons out of every ten have defective or subnormal feet. Practically all of this foot trouble has its origin in the arches of the feet. Weak and broken-down arches are very prevalent and cause great suffering. Corns, callouses, bunions and painful heels are usually the result of defective arches.

There is a Dr. Scholl's Foot Appliance or remedy for every type of foot trouble.

Have a free Pedograph Print made of your feet.

This print will tell the story of your feet. You can see for yourself the condition of your arches.

WOMEN'S CLUBS AND SOCIETIES IN ST. LOUIS

will be a luncheon, the time and place to be announced later.

The Quest Club will hold its last meeting of the season Tuesday at 2:30 o'clock in the lecture room of the Kingshighway Presbyterian Church. Officers will be elected and a program presented by the following persons: Mrs. George C. White, violinist, with Mrs. D. C. Knibbs, accompanist; Mrs. R. H. McGreer, story teller; Miss Clara Schlief, soprano, and Mrs. C. S. Austin, contralto. They will be accompanied by Mrs. Harry Arthur. Mrs. W. D. Dobson is the retiring president.

The National Prize Essay Contest, organized by the War Department and sponsored by the Women's Overseas League, is designed to arouse interest in the Citizens' Military Training Camps. Girls between the ages of 13 and 20 are eligible to enter this contest. An essay of not over 300 words on the subject "Why a Young Man I Know Should Attend a Citizens' Military Trainig Camp," must be submitted by midnight, Monday, May 5.

The writers of the three best essays submitted in the United States will be awarded a trip to Washington with all expenses paid and entertainment while there, together with an additional valuable prize of jewelry to be awarded by Mrs. Coolidge.

Local cash prizes, to be announced later, will also be awarded for the best essays submitted in the State of Missouri.

C. F. G. Meyer, civilian aide to the Secretary of War, 408 Old Custom House, will give additional information. The members of the Judging Committee are: Mrs. Philip N. Moore, Mrs. Frank V. Hammar, Col. Clendenin, Chief of Staff of the 102d Division; Mr. Carl F. G. Meyer, civilian aide to the Secretary of War, and Mrs. Katherine H. Leigh, president of the St. Louis unit of the Women's Overseas Service League.

The Bay View Reading Club will have their reciprocity day tomorrow at the Kingshighway Presbyterian Church. Mrs. Alice L. MacDonald will give two readings and Mrs. Karl Howard will sing a group of solos.

Some of Week's Weddings and Engagements.

A wedding of interest which will take place May 10 is that of Miss Edith Choate Sterling, daughter of Mrs. Hugh Sterling of Plymouth avenue, formerly of Webster Groves, and Joseph Renard, son of Mrs. Augusta Renard of 6121 Waterman avenue. The ceremony will be performed at 9:30 o'clock in St. Roch's Church, the Rev. Father Schwitalla officiating, and will be followed by a reception for the families and close friends at the home of the bride's mother. Both Miss Sterling and her fiance are descendants of well known old families. She is a grandniece of Joseph Choate, Ambassador to Great Britain during President McKinley's administration. The Sterlings are an old family of Scotland. Mr. Renard's mother was Miss Clarence du Pavillion, and he is related to many of the old French families in St. Louis.

Miss Edith Schraubstadter will be maid of honor, and Eugene C. Renard his brother's best man. The bride-elect is a graduate of the Junior College of the Sacred Heart, and Mr. Renard of St. Louis University.

Mrs. Charles V. Mosby of Webster Groves was hostess at a bridge luncheon Saturday afternoon, April 12, at the Gatesworth Hotel, when announcement was made of the engagement of her sister, Miss Amy Thielecke, and Dr. H. M. Jones of Chicago. A miniature June garden wedding adorned the center of the table, with festoons of sweet peas surrounding it. The favors, which corresponded to the pink color scheme, bore the names of the guests, and the announcement. Sixty friends of the hostess and the honor guest were seated at the long table.

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Graham of 5761 Theodosia avenue will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary tomorrow. High mass will be said at St. Edward's Church, Clara and Maffitt avenues, followed by a breakfast for the family. There will be a reception in the evening at the Graham home for relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Diamond of 2819 Gamble street announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Doris, to Irvin Kaplan, of 1419A Granville place. The wedding date has not been set.

Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand Pohrer of 4215 Page boulevard announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Isabelle Pohrer, and Anthony R. Falsetti, of South Kingshighway boulevard. The date for the wedding has not been anounced.

Charles Adler announces the marriage of his niece, Miss Elsie Greenwald, and Louis Steiner, Thursday afternoon, April 17, at 4:30 o'clock, at Hotel Statler. Rabbi Julian H. Miller performed the ceremony and only the immediate families were present. Miss Selma Greenwald, the bride's sister, was maid of honor, and Mr. Simon Steiner, a brother of the groom, was best man. After a brief honeymoon at Excelsior Springs, the young couple will return to St. Louis, and will depart in June to spend the summer in the East.

ASKS POLICE TO FIND HUSBAND

Mrs. Albert J. Engler Says He Got $3000 on Deed of Trust.

Mrs. Agatha Engler of 2867 South Thirteenth street has asked police to look for her husband, Albert J. Engler, 40 years old, who left home Thursday and has not returned. Mrs. Engler says she has learned he took with him a deed of trust, jointly owned by them, and obtained $3000 on it. He was last seen driving away from a realty company's office in his Buick automobile.

QUAKER 8-Day Waker

YOU wind it only once a week. You set it at the time you desire to rise, and, depend upon it, you will be called every morning at that precise minute. The ring may be long or short, as you like, and is shut off by the mere touch of a button. And it tells you the time—the right time—when the lights are out. The movement is not the ordinary kind, but is built with the same painstaking care that is bestowed upon a fine watch, and is guaranteed to be free from mechanical defects. The case is heavily nickel-plated and beautifully polished. Every home should have at least one DEPENDABLE alarm clock. The cheap, worthless variety may resemble this one closely in outward appearance, but a clock that never tells what time it really is is as great an abomination as the man who never tells the truth. Better pay the price of a good clock and get one.

ADMITS MURDER HIS BROTHER IS HELD FOR

Sam Vitali Says He Shot Louis Valenti at the Vitali Home Last May.

Sam Vitali confessed to police yesterday that he and not his brother, Ciroro, shot and killed Louis Valenti at the Vitali home, 1511 North Fourteenth street, May 18 last.

Both Sam and Ciroro had been fugitives and were arrested in Grand Rapids, Mich., recently, where they were living under assumed names. Because police feared a vendetta against the brothers they were brought into St. Louis secretly.

According to Sam's story, Valenti had been Ciroro's patron. That is, he had advanced Ciroro $600 on which to emigrate from Italy. Ciroro paid the money back, but Valenti for no reason Sam could see, became his brothers' enemy.

On the day of the shooting Sam said Valenti came to the Vitali home and picked a quarrel with Ciroro. Then he began shooting. Sam thought that Valenti had wounded his brother and got his own pistol into action. Valenti was killed.

However, Valenti's uncle, Peter Cipriano, tells the police a different version. He asserts that the Vitali brothers lured Valenti to their home and murdered him.

Both brothers are held pending issuance of warrants. Their arrest at Grand Rapids was brought about by gossip among Italian residents which reached the ears of detectives.

FILES SUIT TO OBTAIN CUSTODY OF HIS DAUGHTER

Harry Wolpa Alleges Girl, 13, Is Permitted by Mother to Appear on Stage in Violation of Law.

A habeas corpus suit was filed in the Circuit Court yesterday by Harry Wolpa, 5528 Pershing avenue, to obtain custody of his daughter, Thelma, 13 years old, who, it is alleged, is illegally restrained of her liberty by her mother, Mrs. Myrtle Wolpa. The girl and her sister, 20 years old, are on the stage and appeared at the Orpheum last week under the name of "White sisters."

Their mother, it is stated, travels with them. She was served with the suit yesterday at Hotel Statler, being ordered by Judge Ossing to appear Tuesday to show cause, if any, why she should not surrender custody of Thelma.

The petition states that Mrs. Wolpa "is suffering and permitting Thelma to work in a gainful occupation and is exploiting her for gainful purposes, contrary to the laws of Missouri."

It is further alleged that defendant is "subjecting the girl to evil influences and surroundings and will not permit the petitioner to have any communication, conversation or association whatsoever with her."

Perry Post Taylor, attorney for Wolpa, said that Wolpa and his wife separated about six months ago. Wolpa, the attorney said, objects to his daughter appearing on the stage while still a minor. It is contended that under the laws of this State it is illegal for a minor under 14 years old to be employed in a gainful occupation.

JURY REFUSES TO RELEASE BOY FROM HOMICIDE CHARGE

Mother Says He Was Justified in Shooting Man Who Attacked Her at Home.

A Coroner's jury, which Tuesday held 15-year-old Raymond Pierce for homicide, despite witnesses' testimony that he fired in self-defense and in defense of his mother, refused to recede from its verdict when the case was reopened.

Yesterday the boy's mother, Mrs. Clara Pierce of 1713A North Twelfth street, took the stand and told of the abuse she suffered at the hands of Albert Henry, 28, a chauffeur of 909A Clinton avenue, and of the alleged attack he made on the boy, which caused the shooting in their home last Sunday afternoon.

The mother testified the intruder appeared at the house drunk and demanded money, and when refused, beat and choked her. He then turned on the youth, who had obtained a pistol from an elder brother's coat. The mother testified that over her pleading Henry struck the boy, knocking him across the bed, from which prostrate position the single shot was fired, which resulted in Henry's death a few hours later in city hospital. Just prior to his death, Henry made a statement, in which he contended he shot himself accidentally.

A daughter-in-law, Mrs. Frances Mester of 1316 Madison street, also testified yesterday that she had witnessed Henry's abuse and demands for money from Mrs. Pierce on occasions. The Circuit Attorney announced he would admit the boy to bail on a manslaughter charge.

READY FOR DORMITORY BIDS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMBIA, Mo., April 19.—The Board of Curators of Stephens College, which met today to let a contract for a $150,000 dormitory, did not let the contract because the bids from St. Louis were late. President J. M. Wood and E. W. Stephens, president of the Board of Curators, departed today for St. Louis to examine the bids. Stephens College now has an attendance of over 500.

POLICE CHASE A NEGRO THROUGH DOWNTOWN STREET

Street Car Passenger Misses Pocket Book—Patrolmen Capture 2 Out of 3 Accused.

There was considerable excitement on Olive street yesterday when a negro dashed east from Eighteenth to Eleventh street shortly after noon, pursued by two policemen. Several shots were fired and pedestrians stared in wonder until the negro, minus his hat, was captured and taken to headquarters.

It started at Eighteenth street and Washington avenue, where one Joseph Sokoles of 1022 South Twelfth street, boarded a Belt car. He was crowded by a negro and felt another lift his pocket book. Sokoles yelled. Two negroes jumped off, dropping the pocket book, and the one who had crowded Sokoles moved up to a front seat.

Three patrolmen were on the car. Patrolman Kaiser chased one negro north to Franklin avenue and lost him. Patrolman Hoffman sprinted down Olive street. Patrolman Deters took charge of the negro who wouldn't run and on his way to Police Headquarters picked up a hat.

The prisoners said they were Bernard Freeman and Hart Dickson. The pocket book, which Sokoles had recovered, contained his pay check, but no cash. He is a laborer employed at Wellston.

2 OF 5 EGAN GANGSTERS IN JAIL RELEASED ON BOND

Friends of 3 Remaining Hope to Produce Additional Surety During Week.

Two of the five Egan gangsters who have spent a week in jail because they could not secure $60,000 bond each, were released yesterday when their friends succeeded in corralling sufficient sureties to satisfy the demands of United States Commissioner Atkins. They are charged with complicity in the robbery of a mail truck at Fourth and Locust streets on April 2, 1923, and their failure to find bondsmen is said to be the fault of Ray Renard, also an Egan gangster, who is reported to have violated the code of his gang by jumping $47,000 bond.

The men released yesterday were Stephen P. Ryan and David (Chippy) Robinson. Ryan's sureties are Michael J. and William J. Whelan and John Cantoni, who qualified for $83,000. Robinson's sureties are Clarence L. (Gully) Owen, Rose Farrell, John E. (Spot) Regan and Gus E. Konig, qualified for $67,000.

Friends of the three gangsters still in jail informed Commissioner Atkins that they hoped to arrange for their release sometime next week. Renard is being sought by the police under a sixth indictment in the mail robbery, and reports are current that Egan gunmen are looking for him "dead or alive."

'MISTAH' WILLIAMS' PUPILS MIXED UP OVER BELONGINGS

Release of Prisoners and Return of Possessions Causes Excitement.

"Here's a pocketbook that ain't mine."

"Lemme see it. Ah'm short a purse. Yeah, thas my pawn ticket. But where's my money?"

Sheriff's deputies and all but one of the 23 negroes arrested Thursday night at "Mistah" Williams' lottery school, 6126 Minerva avenue, who were receiving their property yesterday after being released from the Clayton jail on $1000 bonds, began looking for the negro who had turned over the all-but-empty purse—but he was not to be found.

After a feverish half-hour in the Sheriff's office, in which watches, knives and other pocket luggage were found variously distributed, two negroes claimed they had $23 each when arrested by St. Louis police and county deputies, and had not recovered it in the melee. A third, Wesley Ray, 70 years old, of 2743 Tudor avenue, asserted that uniformed policemen searched him and four others just outside the school, and that no record was made at the Twelfth District Station of $16.50 taken from him. The 21 men and two women are to appear next Friday before Justice of the Peace Werremeyer as assisting in the operation of a policy game.

CHRIST MORE POPULAR IN INDIA THAN LINCOLN OR SHAKSPEARE

Methodist Bishop in Calcutta Says Natives Throw Away Idols When Baptized.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 19.—Christ is more popular than Lincoln or Shakspeare in India, said a letter from Bishop F. B. Fisher, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, Calcutta, India, made public at Methodist headquarters today.

He wrote that he was amazed to find in America "quibbling over little things in religion," in view of his experience in India. Bishop Fisher spoke of baptizing one complete village of 600 people in India. He said that the people took their idol, a sacred tree, and threw it in the field. In a recent Christian revival at another place, lasting six weeks, 685 stone gods were thrown away.

The students, he said, were tired of old superstitions, and wanted something to lift them out of the form of worship to which they had been accustomed: They had absorbed too much knowledge to worship idols.

TWO ROBBERS "STRONG-ARM" SALOON KEEPER AND GET $13

Husky Victim Was About to Best Them When They Knocked Him Out With Revolver.

Alex Kulingowski is a husky man, and when two young men "strong-armed" him in his saloon at 1301 North Twelfth street at 3 p. m. yesterday, he resisted and dragged them bodily to a drawer which held his revolver. As he seized the weapon one of his assailants snatched it from his hand and beat him on the head. He was knocked down and the robbers escaped with $13 from his cash register.

Two men answering the same description, but with a revolver, held up Daniel Morozinsky, confectioner at 918 O'Fallon street, at 1 p. m. and obtained $18 in cash.

What goes in her hope chest?

PRETTY things, dainty things—the work of loving hands, are laid away in the sweet spirit of anticipation. Is there a bit of regret that the bright and lovely colors may fade in the days to come? Or does she know that there is a most easy, convenient and inexpensive way to keep the dainty garments at their prettiest; to change their shades and colors at will?

She will realize with pleasure all the satisfying results that can be accomplished with New Improved RIT, the only guaranteed method to fast-dye or tint in twenty-four colors and shades. By following the simple directions which come with each 15 cent cake of New Improved RIT, the most inexperienced housekeeper achieves surprisingly beautiful results in fast-dyeing or tinting woolens, linens, cottons, silks or mixed goods.

Have You Sun-Streaked or Faded Fabrics?

Don't discard sun-streaked, faded or spotted drapes, cushions, slips, etc. Wonderful White RIT will remove all the old color—then you may fast-dye or tint in any shade desired. No RIT product harms the finest of fabrics. The base of New Improved RIT is a vegetable Oil Soap—"Washes as it Dyes".

Renew One Garment Today

Convince yourself how easy it is to make new that sweater, set of drapes, piece of lingerie, blouse or pair of hose. A cake of New Improved RIT at 15 cents is more than enough for pleasing proof.

Accept no substitute. Be sure you get the genuine at your local Drug, Department, or Notion Store

CONVICTED OF DOUBLE SLAYING

Mob Leader to Be Sentenced for Killing Hotel Man and Negro Porter.

By the Associated Press.

DUNCAN, Ok., April 19.—Marvin Kincannon, 22 years old, alleged slayer of A. L. Birch, Marlow Hotel man, and Robert Journegan, negro porter, was found guilty of first degree manslaughter by a jury in District Court here today. The jury recommended a sentence of 25 years.

Kincannon was charged with being one of the leaders of a mob that invaded Birch's hotel in an effort to drive the negro out of Marlow, and killed Birch and Journegan in the resulting fight. He admitted firing the shots that killed both of the men, but pleaded self-defense, and later, insanity.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, April 19.—Purchase of the 10-story office building at Ninth street and Baltimore avenue from the New York Life Insurance Co., by New York interests, became known here today. L. N. Rosenbaum of L. N. Rosenbaum & Co., and Isaac Mittleman and Harry Mittleman, all of New York, are the purchasers. The purchase price was not announced.

TWO APPOINTMENTS TO W. U. MEDICAL SCHOOL

Dr. Stephen Walter Ranson and Dr. Leo Loeb Named to Faculty.

Two important appointments to the faculty of the Washington University School of Medicine were announced yesterday. Dr. Stephen Walter Ranson, now of Northwestern University Medical School, has been appointed professor of neuroanatomy and director of the Department of Histology. Dr. Leo Loeb, now director of a research laboratory in the school, has been appointed Edward Mallinckrodt Professor of Pathology.

Dr. Ranson, now head of the Department of Anatomy in Northwestern University Medical School, will come here next Fall, and will have associated with him a number of men whom he will direct in scientific investigation. He is a recognized authority on the anatomy and physiology of the nervous system and the author of a standard treatise on this subject.

Dr. Loeb was trained in continental universities, and has held important teaching and research positions in McGill University, the University of Illinois and the University of Pennsylvania. He was formerly Director of the Research Department of Barnard Skin and Cancer Hospital of St. Louis, and since 1915 has been in the Washington University School of Medicine. Dr. Loeb was formerly president of the Association for Cancer Research, and of the American Association of Pathologists and Bacteriologists. He has made important contributions to the study of cancer, diseases of the blood and of the circulation. He is well known for his work on the thyroid and other glands, and is the author of several hundred articles on pathological topics, and has published a monograph on the subject of adema, or dropsy.

He will assume his new duties July 1.

RUF ESTATE FORCED TO PAY $44,249.95 ADDED INCOME TAX

Audit Shows Government Was Underpaid for Three Years but Original Claim Is Reduced.

The estate of the late Frank A. Ruf, former president of the Antikamnia Co., was required to pay an additional Federal income tax on Ruf's income for the years 1918, 1919 and 1920, it was disclosed yesterday in an annual settlement filed in the Probate Court by the Mercantile Trust Co. as executor. After his death a new audit of his receipts in that period was made by the Treasury Department and it was found that the Government had been underpaid.

A bill of $57,000 to cover the amount due was presented, but the executor contended that the audit sufficient allowance for depreciation on certain property had not been granted and induced the Government to compromise the claim on payment by the estate of $44,249.95.

Combine Recreation, Health and Study in Your Vacation

Boulder, Colorado, has many attractions not duplicated anywhere in the world—approved courses of summer study (collegiate or preparatory); diversified recreation for young and old; sanatoriums and mountain retreats for those who desire rest.

For Study—Attend the Summer School Sessions of Colorado University (fifth largest in the U. S.); register for the Chautauqua courses; or study in the preparatory schools.

For Recreation—Hike among the quaking aspens or the cool rifers in the foothills (just a few minutes' walk from the city); motor on boulevard roads along dashing mountain streams and thru rock-walled canons flanked with spruce and pine forests; or, with the more adventurous scale the barren peaks above the clouds and tramp across Colorado's ever-moving glaciers.

For those who desire the quiet and rest of the hills, mountain cabins at low cost are available; most camp sites are free—choose them where you will—pure, cold, crystal streams from the glaciers are almost everywhere.

Boulder really wants you to come. Your ticket agent will gladly tell you about the low rates to Colorado—you can motor all the way.

HIGH SCHOOL TEACHERS COMPLAIN OF MADDOX

Say They Have Been Unable to Ascertain His Attitude Toward Pay Increase.

After a year and a half of urging, high school teachers still are unaware what Superintendent Maddox thinks of their plea for higher salaries, the High School Teachers' Association complains in a statement made public yesterday.

The association has not been able to deal with him personally for a year, and say it is "apparent" that Maddox and the Board of Education are "not taking the matter seriously." The statement follows:

"The St. Louis High School Teachers' Association desires that the public be fully informed as to the manner in which the association has conducted its campaign for better salaries. We wish to say that we have earnestly sought at all times to attain our objectives through the proper channel, namely, the Superintendent of Instruction, who is the official head of the teaching force. He is the mediator between the teachers and the Board of Education, and through him the problems of teachers' welfare should come to the Board for solution.

"In a Perfunctory Way."

"Pursuant to these ethical and professional requirements, the High School Teachers' Association first submitted its request for more adequate salaries to the Superintendent of Instruction. In February, 1923, by arrangement of the Superintendent, the officers of the association were permitted to place the matter before the Instruction Committee of the Board of Education. A short time after that date, the association asked the advice of the Superintendent as to its representatives calling upon the members of the board in the interests of the salary petition. The Superintendent did not feel at liberty to recommend that this be done, but he offered no objection to the proposed plan, and it was later carried out.

"The teachers have always been, and are now, most desirous to arrive at a satisfactory adjustment of the salary question in an amicable manner. It was brought to the attention of the public only after it became apparent that the Superintendent of Instruction and the Board of Education were not taking the matter seriously. All indications are that the Superintendent never has brought the matter before the board in any but a perfunctory way and has done little or nothing to familiarize the board with the merits of the teachers' request.

Referred to Assistant.

"It is a regrettable fact that the High School Teachers' Association has not been granted the opportunity to discuss the salary question with the Superintendent in person since March, 1923. Between that date and January, 1924, we have requested conferences four different times, and on each occasion were referred to Assistant Superintendent W. J. S. Bryan. Of course, there were no objections to negotiating through the Assistant Superintendent, and we complied twice with the directions of the Superintendent. It developed, however, that Mr. Bryan had not been authorized to speak for the Superintendent or give information as to the status of the matter. Therefore, since we had previously submitted all argument pertinent to the question, the other two proffered appointments were declined.

"The teachers are unable to understand why the Superintendent of Instruction has declined from the beginning to exchange views on this question. They have had ample opportunity to present their side of the case through written statements, though Assistant Supt. Bryan, and, prior to March, 1923, in committee meetings with the Superintendent in person. They have done everything within their power to establish the justice of their petition. Yet, after a year and a half of urgent appeal for favorable action, the teachers are in complete ignorance of the Superintendent's personal or official opinion as to the merits of their claims. His attitude, the teachers feel, constitutes denial of a reasonable right which is fundamental to democratic administration of the public schools."

JUDGMENT AGAINST BUILDERS; POOR WORKMANSHIP ALLEGED

A jury in Circuit Judge Grimm's court yesterday returned a verdict of $4529 in favor of the Chicot Bank and Trust Co. of Lake Village, Ark., against William MacDonald and George Griffiths, contractors. The verdict was in a suit brought by the contractors to collect a balance of $3171.54 due on a $47,541 building erected for the defendant at Lake Village five years ago.

The Chicot company filed a counter claim for $20,000 damages, alleging that as a result of poor workmanship the walls of the structure have cracked. The contractors, it was asserted, installed the foundation footings in ground that was not capable of safety bearing the weight of the building and that some of the supports were not properly fastened. Plaintiffs replied that they put up the building according to plans and specifications. The trouble, they stated, was due to failure of the architect hired by defendant to get the center of gravity exactly in the middle of the structure.

In allowing the defendant a judgment on its counter claim, the jury did not allow plaintiffs any part of their claim.

THIS PRESCRIPTION FOR KIDNEYS

No Drugs—Just Roots and Herbs

6-Ounce Bottle, 75c

Years ago Dr. Carey said, "When backache comes get after your kidneys—and don't waste any time."

"Right at the start, go to your druggist and ask for Dr. Carey's Marshroot Prescription No. 777; take it as directed until backache ceases and your eyes are clear and bright."

For more than 40 years Dr. Carey specialized in diseases of the kidney and bladder, and when, in the height of his remarkably busy life, he decided to dispense his most effective kidney and bladder prescription through the better druggists, he helped thousands who could not afford to go to him for treatment.

Daniel G. Carey, M. D.

Thousands of unobservant people have kidney ailments and never know it until too late, getting up in the night, and puffy eyes tell the story.

If you even suspect—start today with Dr. Carey's Marshroot Prescription No. 777. It will drive the poisons from your kidneys, and your druggist knows all about it.

Wolff-Wilson Drug Co., Judge & Dolph Drug Stores, Keiffer Drug Co. dispense lots of it. It comes both in liquid and tablet form. It will help you as it has a host of others. If it should not, if you aren't glad in one week's time that you bought it, money gladly returned—and only 75c.

RAIL FREIGHT RATE MEETING TUESDAY

Interested Parties Invited to Discuss Proposed Changes for Southern Missouri.

A suggested readjustment of railroad freight rates in the southern half of Missouri is to be presented Tuesday at an open meeting in St. Louis. Interested shippers and traffic representatives of trade organizations from Southern Missouri jobbing centers, including Kansas City and St. Louis, have been invited to attend.

Four railroads, operating in what is known as B. Territory of Missouri—all that part of the State south of the St. Louis-Kansas City line of the Missouri Pacific, will present schedules of the proposed freight rates—revised, representatives of the roads say, to bring about equitable charges. The roads are the Frisco and M.-K.-T., which already have printed and distributed the suggested schedules, and the Santa Fe and Missouri Pacific.

The meeting will be held in a hearing room of the Southwest Freight Traffic Bureau in the Century Building—a permanent organization maintained by the railroads of the Southwest for the exchange of data bearing on freight rates. Arrangements for the meeting have been made by B. H. Stanage, assistant freight traffic manager of the Frisco, and W. A. Rombach and D. R. Lincoln, respectively, manager and assistant of the freight traffic department of the Missouri Pacific.

Statement for Railroad.

Stanage told a Post-Dispatch reporter yesterday that the Missouri Public Service Commission had misconstrued their receipt of the proposed schedules, as drawn by the Frisco and Katy. The commission understood that the schedules were formally "filed" with the commission, which according to Jefferson City dispatches, were followed by the commission's taking steps to oppose them on the ground that they would cost the shippers of freight to and from points in Southern Missouri several million dollars annually.

"Nothing could be farther from the facts," said Stanage. "Nobody knows what the new proposed rates, if put into effect, would mean as to railroad revenue. The gross freight revenue of the Frisco in this territory is only $1,100,000 annually, and it would be ridiculous to propose any set of rates which would increase this amount several times."

To Thresh Out Plan.

Stanage explained further that in the territory effected there are rates in effect, as ordered by the Interstate Commerce Commission, the Missouri Public Service Commission and by the railroads themselves. These affect the four classes of freight, which are basic in the making up of railroad tariffs. St. Louis, for instance, complains—and justly, he says—that a Kansas City shipper can ship soap to Caruthersville cheaper than a St. Louis shipper, twice the haul.

"It is to adjust these inequalities, and to bring about a uniformity of rates, that we have prepared these new schedules," said Stanage. "Before formally filing them with the State Public Service Commission and the Interstate Commerce Commission we want to thresh them out thoroughly with the shippers. That is the purpose of the meeting."

DRIVER HELD IN CASE OF FATAL INJURY OF NEGRO

Coroner's Verdict Binds Him Over to Grand Jury on Charge of Criminal Carelessness.

Harry Casey, 34 years old, 209 North Sixth street, East St. Louis, was ordered held for the grand jury for criminal carelessness, by the Coroner's verdict yesterday, in the case of William Bolden, or Porter, negro, who was struck and fatally injured by an automobile driven by Casey at Twenty-first street and Washington avenue last Monday night.

Difficulty was experienced in getting testimony before the jury. At the first sitting, a negro testified that Casey's car hit Bolden, and that Casey was driving rapidly. The next day a business man who had passed by the scene, told of delay of the police in placing Casey under custody. The following day a motor cycle policeman explained why he had taken care of the injured man instead of arresting Casey.

There was no testimony yesterday, as Casey did not wish to make a statement. His bond was fixed at $5000.

SEVEN-STORY STOCK HOUSE OF BUSCH BREWERY LEASED BY FURNITURE COMPANY

Lammert Concern to Use Building as a Warehouse—Other Notable Transactions for Week.

By Berry Moore.

Through negotiations closed yesterday, the Lammert Furniture Co. acquired a 20-year lease of the seven-story stock house of the Anheuser-Busch Brewing Co., at Ninth and Arsenal streets, in the heart of the South Side industrial district. The lease involves an annual rental of more than $50,000, a total of $1,250,000 for the entire term, constituting a notable transaction for property of this character.

Another noteworthy purchase of the week was that by the Travelers' Protective Association of the commodious residence of the late Francis Andrew Drew, at 3755 Lindell boulevard, through the Mercantile Trust Co., in connection with the St. Louis Union Trust Co.

The stock house at Ninth and Arsenal streets is to be used by the Lammert company for a warehouse, which lends itself to easy conversion to this purpose. The building is equipped with a 30-foot loading platform on the south side, with sidings and terminal facilities for 14 freight cars in connection with the Manufacturers' Railway. Platforms for loading and unloading wagons and trucks are provided on the northern and eastern sides of the building.

Power Provisions.

As provided for by the lease, electricity for light and power and steam for heat will be generated by the engines of the Busch-Sulzer, Deisel Co., a subsidiary of the Anheuser-Busch Co., under the provisions of the lease. The building is equipped with Globe sprinklers and Otis elevators.

This transaction is of noteworthy interest as showing the general absorption of brewery properties for conversion for other business purposes, coincident with the development of the industrial district of South St. Louis served by the Manufacturers' Railway.

The Gaylord Box Co. recently acquired a long lease of a building of the Anheuser-Busch group, while the International Shoe Co. purchased several buildings of the Lemp Brewing Co. for the manufacture of shoes, at an auction sale of these properties held less than a year ago.

The superior shipping facilities offered by the Manufacturers' Railway, which is operated in connection with the Terminal Railway, constitutes the chief incentive in this connection, according to real estate men.

The former Drew residence henceforth will become the national headquarters of the Travelers' Protective Association, which has a membership of 120,000. The local membership is 10,000.

Association Officers.

The officers of the association are: J. Y. Williams, president; J. E. McKeown, chairman; T. S. Logan, national secretary, and E. F. Hagemann, chairman, building committee.

The association now occupies a suite of offices in the Syndicate Trust Building, which had become inadequate to its requirements.

The building purchased occupies a lot 84x155 feet, and overlooks Kenerick Gardens, and is grouped with the St. Louis Club, St. Louis University Building, Elks Club, Scottish Rite Temple, the Columbia Club and the Coronado Hotel, just across the street.

As reported by agents, the volume of real estate transactions for the week was above the average, due principally to favorable weather. The demand embraced business property, flats and apartments.

Beginning today, the ensuing week will be dedicated to the purchase of real estate for home and investment, as the safest and most profitable form of security, especially the former as a combination proposition.

The movement was launched yesterday with an automobile parade of the real estate men, organized by W. W. Kay, executive secretary of the St. Louis Real Estate Exchange.

The present week, acordingly, is expected to bring a large number of transactions in connection with this intensive campaign.

March building contracts in Missouri amounted to $11,940,300, according to the F. W. Dodge Corporation. This was a 58 per cent increase over February and a 72 per cent increase over March of last year. The March record included: $5,400,000, or 45 per cent, for residential buildings; $2,707,100, or 23 per cent, for public works, and utilities; $1,444,200, or 12 per cent, for commercial buildings, and $1,252,000, or 10 per cent, for educational buildings.

In spite of increased activity in March, this year's construction program in Missouri to date has shown a drop of 17 per cent from last year. Construction started during the first quarter of this year has amounted to $26,244,900, compared with $31,425,000 for the first three months of 1923.

TWO NEW APARTMENTS COMPLETED BY ALTHEIMER

Two 6-family apartments costing $160,000, now completed at the southeast corner of Adelaide avenue and Washington boulevard, have attracted considerable attention, in view of the fact that each building is 90 feet wide, thereby affording an unusually attractive arrangement consisting of six large rooms, two baths and shower, also a sun parlor 9 by 12 and a sleeping porch 12 by 18. The buildings were planned and constructed by Rhodes and Cook Construction Co. for Mrs. M. L. Sefranka, who was represented by H. H. Williams of Eugene J. Altheimer Real Estate, while Eugene J. Altheimer represented Rhodes and Cook Construction Co. Six of these apartments have been leased. The buildings are under the management of the Altheimer office.

BUILDING OF CHURCH ON KINGSHIGHWAY TO START SOON

Building operations soon will begin on the new St. Peter's Evangelical Lutheran Church (Missouri Synod) at Kingshighway and Wichita avenue, near the southeast corner of Forest Park.

St. Peter's congregation is now located at Swan and Newstead avenues. The present church was dedicated in 1905. The Rev. A. P. Feddersen is the pastor. The congregation was organized 30 years ago.

The site of the new church is on the northeast corner, having a front of 100 feet on Kingshighway. The building, costing $120,000, is to be built of brick with stone and terra-cotta trimmings. It is in the perpendicular style of Gothic architecture, and was designed by Theodore Steinmeyer, a local architect.

The church auditorium is 48 by 76 feet, seating 600 persons. It has an open timber-trussed ceiling. The basement is given over to Sunday school and utilitarian purposes. In the rear of the church proper are a number of large rooms for social purposes. A parsonage, with offices of the congregation, adjoins the church.

PARK SAVINGS TRUST CO. INCREASES ITS FORCE

The Park Savings Trust Co., through its real estate officer, T. L. Coleman, announces that, owing to the growth of the department, it has become necessary to increase its sales force, and has secured the services of W. J. Casey, formerly connected with Stix-Baer-Fuller, a resident of Maplewood, and Thomas J. Gugerty, who formerly was connected with a downtown real estate office. One of the largest month's sales was experienced during March.

SOUTH SIDE SALES BY FEDERER CO. ACTIVE

The Federer Realty Co. reports the following sales: New apartment flat, 5616 South Grand boulevard, for John F. Schroeder to Stefan Jurinic; double flat, 4006-08 McRee, for William D. Hahn to Louis Wille; double flat, 3648-50 Folsom avenue, for George Ermantraut to Ida Rudman; 500 feet of vacant ground in the Grand-Dover Park to the Charles S. Mueri Realty & Building Co.; 175 feet of vacant ground in the Grand-Dover Park on Fillmore street to Carl Fischer.

PARADE TO STIMULATE REAL ESTATE BUYING

Decorated Autos Occupied by Realty Dealers Traverse Downtown Streets.

A long string of decorated automobiles threaded the section east of Twelfth boulevard and penetrated as far west on Washington boulevard as Jefferson avenue yesterday noon to stimulate interest in real estate for homes and investment.

The tail of the parade was still going east on Chestnut street when the bus-load of brass band which headed it turned north at Tenth and Pine streets after doubling back from Broadway, and the line was a half hour in passing the corner. The machines were occupied exclusively by members of the St. Louis Real Estate Exchange.

Some of the automobiles bore bunting, paper garlands or balloons, and all bore signs. A predominant sign was,

"Emphasize that word 'realtor,'" said W. W. Kay, executive secretary of the Exchange. "Realtor" means a real estate man who is a member of the St. Louis Real Estate Exchange, and through it connected with the national organization.

The Federer Realty Co. had 12 cars in the parade with streamers advertising a subdivision which the company is marketing.

The Bellis Realty Co. distributed 1500 roses along the line of the parade and advertising matter.

PHELAN-FAUST PAINT CO. LEASES 1215 PINE STREET

The Mercantile Trust Co. reports having leased an entire building at 1215 Pine street to the Phelan-Faust Paint Co. After alterations the paint company will move from its present quarters, 1008 Pine street, to the new location. The lease was made for 10 years for the owner, John Kratz. The lessee is a corporation whose officers are: William J. Phelan, president; Claude H. Smith, vice president and treasurer; F. W. Phelan, secretary. The Mercantile Trust Co. represented all parties in the transaction.

C. P. HEATH REPORTS SALE OF LINDELL BLVD. APARTMENT

The Chauncey P. Heath Real Estate Co. reports the sale of 4015-17 Lindell boulevard, 4-family apartment building containing six and seven rooms. Two 2-car garages are being erected in the rear. Chauncey P. Heath represented Edward F. Walter, the seller, and Leonard Stedlin represented T. M. Massucci, purchaser.

COMPTON HEIGHTS HOME SOLD BY JOSEPH F. DICKMANN CO.

Joseph F. Dickmann Co. reports these sales: 2812 Accomac street, nine rooms, hot water heat, hardwood floors, brick garage, sold for George Atto to Joseph Maul; 3642 Lafayette, single 6 and 7-room flat, for Mayme L. Metherell to Adele Hunt; 5322 St. Louis avenue, 5 and 6-room flat, for John J. Comer to William O. Koterba; 4023 Humphrey street, 7-room bungalow, for Anna Maurer to Elizabeth F. Rose; 3435 Chippewa street, northwest corner of Tennessee and Chippewa, 35 by 135, 4 and 5-room modern flat and a 2-story factory building in rear, for Joseph Maul to Oscar Ploehn; 6215 Arsenal street, 6-room bungalow, for Frank Hartleder to Mabel Keuckens; 1101-03 South Compton, southwest corner of Compton and La Salle, for William Mauchenheimer to Zerma L. Daily. Improvements consisting of 4-family brick building.

MORRIS GOLDMAN SHOE CO. LEASES LARGER QUARTERS

Isaac T. Cook & Co., Inc., reports having closed a long term lease on the store room at 617-19 North Ninth street with Morris Goldman, wholesale shoe jobber, now at 620 North Ninth street. This is the third time in three years that the shoe company has leased larger quarters. The new store will be ready for occupancy on July 1.

Cook's office also reports a lease to the Missouri Tent & Awning Co. of the entire fourth and fifth floors of the building at 2206-08-10 Pine street, owned by the Missouri Agricultural Publishing Co.

The Weinstock Manufacturing Co. has leased the entire fourth floor of the building at 617-21 North Ninth street, containing 7600 square feet.

ALL BUT ONE OF NEW RESIDENCES SOLD BY BERGFELD

George F. Bergfeld Realty Co. reports the sale of one of its new Ames place residences, 6942 Pershing avenue, to George L. Pleitsch. This modern home contains nine rooms, two baths, hot-water heat, hardwood floors, vacuum cleaning system, tile baths with built-in tub, and is on a lot 50 by 140. There is also a brick garage for two cars. The company has sold to date all but one of the residences recently constructed by them. A photograph of the house is shown on this page.

The Bergfeld company also reports the sale of lot 37, block 5, having a frontage of 50 feet on the north line of Arundel place in Hillcrest, from John Reitz to J. H. McFarland; also lot 5, city block 5702, having a frontage of 68 feet on the west line of Buena Vista avenue in Hi-Pointe, to Katherine M. Conner.

JOHN W. GIBSON ELECTED REAL ESTATE EXCHANGE HEAD

John W. Gibson was elected president of the St. Louis Real Estate Exchange Tuesday, receiving 196 votes, 60 more than his opponent, John J. Dowling.

Six directors were elected, these being Charles J. Daly, Julius S. Feydt Jr., Orman J. McCawley, William L. Protzmann, E. D. Ruth Jr. and Edward M. Thornhill.

A vice president and treasurer will be elected at a meeting of the board of directors to be held Thursday.

SOLUTION TO YOUR LIVING PROBLEM

New-type duplex homes—not stereotyped flats and apartments, but architecturally beautiful two-family residences are being built in Pasadena, Webster, on large, deep lots. The first of this original, distinctive type duplex dwellings in St. Louis is completed. Several others are under construction. Each of the two families in this home will enjoy a spacious living room with real log fireplace, sunroom, commodious dining room and kitchen on the first floor; modern bath, cheerful bedrooms and tile bath on the second floor. You can live in one side and let the income from the other half pay off your investment. We also will have duplex dwellings for rent—occupancy later in the spring. Choice Pasadena building sites can still be purchased on easy terms, offering unequaled speculative and investment opportunity to a limited number quick buyers.

Investigate this today. Drive west on Big Bend road to Pasadena, Webster. Write or phone for particulars.

The "Home Supreme"

Located in Picturesque Alta Dena

Is Now Complete!

Scruggs-Vandervoort-Barney have decorated, embellished and furnished the entire house in a most attractive yet practical manner.

YOU are invited to visit this interesting home-picture today. Come and see an ideal home in an ideal setting, built throughout of finest selected materials, equipped with every conceivable modern convenience.

This model home is a veritable gem, right in the best part of University City, on Kingsbury boulevard, four blocks west of Washington University, three blocks south of Delmar, one-half block east of Hanley Road, one block north of Car Line.

This "Home Supreme" is different from anything you've ever seen, anywhere! Thousands of folks have admired and praised it, even before it was finished! Now that it is finally perfected and equipped it is worth coming miles to examine and study—especially if you aspire to a home of your own in the near future.

You'll be delighted with the convenient arrangement of the rooms—the helpful appliances and comforts on every hand. Note particularly the quaint, cool dining room that has no ceiling, but which extends right up to the roof, with five massive beams and amply lighted by two spacious dormer windows. In fact, one of the most attractive features of this unique house is its distinctive dormer windows in the bedroom, dining room and bathrooms.

See the "Home Supreme" by all means. You'll be cordially welcome. See Alta Dena, the charming residence park adjacent to Maryland Terrace. Come out today and choose a site on which to erect your own "Home Supreme."

You'd like to live in Gannondale

YOU will like the homes that are built to the highest structural standard, inviting in their architectural beauty, with every thoughtful feature for convenience. You will like Gannondale not only because you will find there the home of your dream, but because all the homes are built and all built to the same high standard.

Quantity Production

Results in Better Homes at Lowered Cost

To build fine homes requires the service of the best architects, engineers and construction men—men whose services would be prohibitively high for a single home. But to engage these men for the group building of fifty homes is entirely practical. Fifty fine homes in Gannondale, now all practically completed, were built as a single operation, resulting in better homes at lowered costs.

Come Out to GANNONDALE Today

GANNONDALE is just a block north of Delmar avenue, between Hanley and the North and South roads, a beautiful location for the hundred fine new homes. You will be particularly interested in one of the new homes that has been completely furnished through co-operation with the home furnishing service of Stix, Baer & Fuller. This completely furnished home best pictures what your home in Gannondale would be. You are a welcome guest, an expected guest today. We know you will enjoy your visit.

FARMS FOR SALE

California

SMALL farms in wintriless California. You can work a small farm with less capital investment; and in California you can work outdoors all the year. The State Land Board of California is offering choice 20-acre farms at Ballico, Merced County, small down payment, 20 years time on balance. Ample water for irrigation; a small one-family farm, cutting out high labor costs, insures success. Equally good opportunity in other sections of the San Joaquin Valley, as well as Southern California, for the man of moderate means who wishes to get a home of his own. California is the richest State per capita in United States of America. Most of this wealth comes from the soil. No winter handicaps. Illustrated folder, descriptive of California, mailed on request. C. L. Seagraves, General Colonization Agent, Santa Fe Ry., 946 Railway Exchange, Chicago, Ill. (c99)

Colorado

PROFITS IN COLORADO LANDS
At present low prices for good Colorado lands, real farmers can make substantial returns on investment and effort dairying, raising poultry, hogs and a variety of crops. We can tell you about choice locations in irrigated and dry land sections. Our service and literature free. Board of Immigration, State Office Bldg., Denver, Colo. (c99)

CLOSE TO LOS ANGELES.
Units of 2½ acres or more of irrigated orange groves, with beautiful country homesite and income from poultry and fruit; offered at lowest prices, with easiest terms over 5 years; on famous Fontana estate, largest fruit, poultry and livestock farm in the world; only 2 hours from center of Los Angeles by auto or electric cars; pure cold mountain water year around; ideal all-year climate; beautiful surroundings; best schools and other advantages; $3000 cash will establish you on one of these attractive homesites with house, poultry plant and flock of white Leghorns to bring assured, steady income, supplemented by profits from your orchard trees; free handsomely illustrated book tells describing Fontana poultry raising, orange groves or irrigated vineyards. 5 PER CENT MORE HUSBAND SEEKERS EACH LEAP YEAR

Matrimonial Agency at Valley, Neb., Which Receives Hundreds of Letters Daily, Gives Information.

WHAT AGENCY MEANS TO TOWN

The Local Banks Have One Stenographer Each, but F. H. Whitmore Keeps Ten Busy.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

VALLEY, Neb.—Five per cent more women ask for husbands in leap year than in ordinary years, according to F. H. Whitmore of Valley—and Whitmore ought to know.

Whitmore is an authority on marriage. He runs a matrimonial bureau, and has 37,500 men and women on his list of "wanted—to get married."

His "business" is so reliable, and his information so exact that recently, when the University of California was gathering statistics on the eager unmarried, that institution wrote to Whitmore for advice and information. And here are some of the things Whitmore told that school:

"Sixty per cent of the 'wanting-to-be-married' belong to the middle class; 37 per cent belong to the laboring class, and 3 per cent to the wealthy class.

"Seventy-five per cent of the men are between the ages of 28 and 33.

"Of the women, 35 per cent are between 20 and 30 years, 20 per cent between 30 and 40 years, and 35 per cent over 40 years of age. Ten per cent are under 20.

"Forty per cent are from the Eastern states, 20 per cent from the Southern states, 14 per cent from the Northern states, 14 per cent from the Western states and 12 per cent from the Middle West.

"Of 35,000 men, 50 per cent have a common school education; 25 per cent a high school education and 25 per cent a college education."

Working Plan of Agency.

Whitmore has an unusual plan that was first brought out by a blind man who originated the business in the valley. The blind man made so much money that he retired. Then Whitmore, who was postmaster at Valley, took it "on." The plan is never to give out the name of a woman. Woman's names are kept secret. The women do the choosing. He catalogues the men as their names and biographies are received. And when a woman writes for a husband, she is simply given the names of some of those Whitmore thinks might please her. The matter is then left in her hands to do as she pleases. The men are not told anything about it.

Valley is a town of only about 1000. It has the business of the usual country town of that size and Whitmore.

Whitmore is the biggest business in town. Each bank has one stenographer. Some of the larger stores have a stenographer. The stockyards has one stenographer.

Whitmore has ten. And he keeps them all busy. He's the biggest thing around Valley.

Valley used to be a third-class postoffice and ranked along with other towns of its size. But Whitmore has put Valley into the second class postoffice list. It now ranks with towns of ten times its size. And Whitmore receives hundreds of letters every day. He sends out about as many as he receives.

"But leap year is no joke," says Whitmore. "At least, lots of unmarried women evidently think there is no joke about it because more women always come for husbands in leap year than in other years."

DISMISSES ALL TRAFFIC CASES FROM HIS DOCKET

Austin, Tex., Police Judge Refuses to Handle Them Until Police Round Up the Crooks.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

AUSTIN, Tex.—Dismissing all traffic cases from the Corporation Court here, Judge D. J. Pickel announced from the bench recently that he did not propose to assess fines against good citizens for traffic law violations until the Police Department had broken up the gang of crooks which has for four months been operating in Austin openly and unafraid.

Judge Pickel after adjourning court notified the Mayor and the City Commission that if they did not approve of his action his resignation would be tendered at once. It has not been asked for.

Ostrich Races Rage in Vienna.

Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch.

VIENNA.—Ostrich racing is the latest craze of the fashionable people of this city.

Forty birds are expected here shortly from Rome to participate in an Ostrich Derby this Whitsuntide for which a big program of races has been arranged.

GIRL TO GRADUATE AS BACHELOR OF AGRICULTURE

Student in Oklahoma A. and M. Third of Her Sex in 30 Years to Complete Course.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WICHITA, Kan.—Ruth Swanson of McAlester, the fourth girl in more than 30 years to seek the degree of Bachelor of Agriculture at Oklahoma A. and M. College, will receive it at the annual graduation exercises in May.

Miss Ruth Swanson.

Miss Swanson, who enrolled in the college at Stillwater in 1920, has majored in poultry husbandry and dairying.

Miss Swanson has red hair. She is distinctly at home around a cow barn, in bots, cap and overalls. She knows how to care for baby chicks as well as milk cows, handle squealing pigs and hoe cotton.

Hard work in an office drove the Oklahoma miss to the farm, she says.

ROCK ISLAND TO JUNK COAL BRANCH LINE

Only 38 Miles of Road to Connect Oklahoma and Denver Fields Were Built.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Ok.—A railroad dream that involved connecting the coal fields of Oklahoma with Denver is recalled by the order of the State Corporation Commission permitting the Rock Island to abandon its branch from Guthrie to Chandler.

Unless business interests of Guthrie are successful in an appeal to the Interstate Commerce Commission at Washington, the 38 miles of rail between the two cities will be torn up soon. The railroad company applied months ago for permission to junk the branch line, claiming that $100,000 in repairs were immediately necessary and that the line was being operated at an annual loss of $60,000.

The Guthrie-Chandler line was the only stretch of the proposed Denver-coal fields railway ever built.

WICHITA, Kan.—Direct railroad connection between southern and northwestern Kansas soon may become a reality if the application for permission to construct the Golden Belt Railroad from Great Bend, Kan., to a connection with the Burlington in Southern Nebraska, a distance of 150 miles, is approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The proposed line would have its southern terminus at Great Bend and would extend north to Republican, Neb., making connections with the following main lines: Missouri Pacific, a few miles from Great Bend; Union Pacific at Ellis; Rock Island at Phillipsburg, and Burlington at Republican.

Funds necessary for the construction of the road virtually have been assured, it is said. The project recently was indorsed by the Wichita Chamber of Commerce. It would give the town an added outlet for manufactured products and another inlet for grain and livestock.

TOPEKA, Kan.—Belief that the links of the Orient Railroad system in Northeastern Mexico and this country will be virtually completed in three years is expressed by W. T. Kemper, one of the syndicate that purchased the road at a receiver's sale recently.

A payment of war claims to the road by the Mexican Government, which will make possible completion of another portion, which is being extended slowly toward the border at Presidio, Tex., will be made soon, Kemper declared upon returning from a tour of the system. Funds to extend the road from Alpine, Tex., to connect with the Mexican line at Presidio are assured, he said.

He announced a reorganization plan involving an expenditure of $21,000,000, which he asserts will place the property in condition to tap the rich traffic of which its early builders dreamed. Kemper says the reorganization will be completed in about 60 days, and that it is planned soon to expend $1,000,000 for rolling stock.

LOSES PART OF BRAIN, LIVES

Kansas Boy Also Remains Mentally Normal After Accident.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WICHITA, Kan. — Remaining mentally normal after he had lost a portion of his brain is the experience of 4-year-old Alvin Leslie. He suffered part of the loss when he was pawed by a young mule, the skull having been fractured and a part of the brain having protruded from the opening.

The injury never caused a loss of consciousness. After several came infected and further loss of stitches were taken the wound bebrain material resulted. The wound healed recently.

No Diplomas for Smokers.

JACKSONVILLE, Ala. — The Jacksonville State Normal School hereafter will issue no certificate to any student who smokes cigarettes, according to an announcement by President Daughette. The rule applies to both boys and girls.

NORTH ST. LOUIS SUBDIVISION ENLARGED BY GANSS FIRM

Edward A. Ganss, realty operator at 7 North Seventh street, reports that he has closed a deal for an additional tract of land adjoining his present subdivision on Euclid avenue, one block east of Kingshighway Memorial boulevard, fronting Penrose street, Lee, Bessie and Anderson avenues. It is the last of desirable tracts available in this section for subdivision purposes.

The McMahon Grading and Contracting firm is already shaping the land and expects to finish the grading contract in advance of the time limit.

This tract is level and will be known as Cresthill. It derives its name from the fact that it lies on the peak of the highlands. As soon as the graders leave, city sewer, water and gas will be installed and granitoid sidewalks put down. The material for these improvements has been contracted for, and cinders already delivered on the land. Some of the streets will be paved with concrete and all lots will have a uniform terrace along the streets with a gradual slope to alleys. The lots will be 35 feet wide and some will be offered as cheap as $25 per foot on unpaved streets and $35 per foot up on paved streets.

Churches, schools and stores are convenient and the land is close to the Lee and Spring avenue car lines. It has all city conveniences coupled with suburban environment, is within 35 minutes of Broadway, and within walking distance of the General Motors works. Bridge-Beach Co., St. Louis Drug Co., Underground Cable Co., and the numerous other manufacturing enterprises comprising the industrial district.

PROPERTY DEALS REPORTED BY MARTIN AND BREITT

The F. Burkart Manufacturing Co. has purchased a tract of land fronting 200 feet on the east side of Benedict avenue by a depth of 175 feet on Prairie and will erect an addition to their present plant, which covers the entire block on the northeast corner of Second and Gano. The new building will give the company about 40,000 additional square feet. One hundred feet of the ground was purchased from Theodore W. Steidemann and the remainder from Ann Hannegan, who was represented by the Kollas-Lupfer Real Estate Co. Martin and Breitt negotiated the purchase for Burkart company.

The Tag Seal Co. has purchased the 2-story and basement factory building at the northwest corner of Eleventh and Ferry streets. This company specializes in the manufacture of car and package seals. J. F. O. Reller represented the purchaser, and Martin and Breitt represented the Simmons company of New York, owners of the property.

The Columbia Distributors, Inc., specializing in the sale of phonographs to dealers, has leased the northeast corner of Fourteenth and Pine streets. This company is a new concern and has had temporary quarters in the building at 1129 Pine street, fourth floor. The lease was made for Brauer Bros. Mfg. Co. Martin and Breitt negotiated the lease.

The Windler Wholesale Floral Co. has leased the first floor store room at 1323 Pine street. Martin and Breitt negotiated the lease for Brauer Bros. Co.

BUILDINGS SOLD TO JEWISH HOSPITAL

The Welsels-Gerhart Real Estate Co. during the past week sold to the Jewish Hospital of St. Louis the buildings at 4957 and 4959 Parkview place. The building, 4959 Parkview is a three-story structure, containing two apartments of four and six rooms, on a lot 30x143. This property was purchased from Fritz and Berda Adelman. No. 4957 Parview is a three-story residence, containing 11 rooms, two baths and a garage, on a lot 40x143, and was purchased from Gustave H. Beutel.

The Board of Trustees of the Jewish Hospital at a recent meeting concluded it was desirable to acquire this property, which adjoins the present new hospital site on the east, giving an additional area on Parkview place at 70x143 feet.

Ground was broken Thursday by Aaron Waldheim, president of the Hospital Board, for the erection of the new hospital. The site of the new Jewish Hospital now covers an area fronting 340 feet 10½ inches on King's highway by a depth on Parkview place of 309 feet and a depth on Forest Park boulevard of 256 feet.

The two buildings purchased will be rented until the new hospital is completed, after which one of them will be occupied by the superintendent and the other by the nurses. It is the intention of the board to utilize this site upon which to erect a modern building to be used for the nurses.

Negotiations for the purchase of all the property now owned by the hospital, consisting of six different parcels, were handled by the Weisels-Gerhart Real Estate Co., through its vice president, Henry R. Weisels, the Hospital Board being represented by Aaron Waldheim. The new hospital will be completed on the fall of 1925.

F. G.—The Greek Church dates back to the time of Christ. The disciples were told to preach the gospel to the whole creation. Gentile means non-Israelitic people.

A BOY SCOUT.—Write to the University of Missouri, Agricultural School, Columbia, Mo., regarding the branch of agriculture which you desire. You must have a high school education for entrance to the university.

CARTER.—Following is a varnish and paint remover: Dissolve 20 parts of caustic soda (98 per cent) in 100 parts of water; mix the solution with 20 parts of mineral oil, and add 30 parts of pipe clay, provided with a mechanical stirrer, until the emulsion is complete. Now mix with stirring, 20 parts of sawdust and then pass the whole through a paint mill to obtain a uniform mixture. Apply the paste moist.

THANK YOU.—Adj. Gen. Raupp of the Missouri National Guard states there is no statute providing for an alien being naturalized by the mere process of having enlisted in the United States Army at the time of the Civil War or any other time. To complete their enlistment aliens must be naturalized by the regular legal process. Your should consult the clerk of the Federal Court regarding his naturalization.

JOHN P.—The nickel bath is prepared according to the following formula: Nickel and ammonium chloride, of each double parts; distilled water, 175 parts. A sheet of nickel is used as an anode. Perfect cleanliness of the article to be plated is essential to success. With nickel especially is this the case, as traces of oxide will cause it to show dark streaks. Fingermarks will in any case render the deposit liable to peel off. Cleansing is generally accomplished either by boiling in strong solution of potassium hydrate, or, when possible, by heating to redness in a blow-pipe flame to burn off any adhesive grease, and then soaking in a pickle of dilute sulphuric acid to remove any oxide formed during the heating. In either case it is necessary to subject the article to a process of scratch brushing afterwards; that is, long-continued friction with wire brushes under water, which not only removes any still adhering oxide, but renders the surface bright. To certain metals, as iron, nickel and zinc, metallic deposits do not readily adhere. This difficulty is overcome by first coating them with copper in a bath composed as follows: Potassium cyanide, two parts; copper acetate, in crystals, two parts; sodium carbonate, in crystals, two parts; sodium bisulphite, 2 parts; water 100 parts. Moisten the copper acetate with a small quantity of water and add the sodium carbonate dissolved in 20 parts of water. When reaction is complete, all the copper acetate being converted into carbonate, add the sodium bisulphite, dissolved in another 20 parts of water; lastly, add the potassium cyanide, dissolved in the remainder of the water. The finished product should be a colorless liquid. If a dynamo is not available for the production of power, three cells of battery is to be recommended, and the "tank" for a small operation may be a glass jar. The jar is covered by copper rods in connection with the battery; the metal to be deposited is suspended from the rod in connection with the positive pole, and forms the anode. The articles to be coated are suspended by thin copper wires from the rod in connection with the negative pole to form the cathode. The worker should bear in mind that it is very difficult to apply a thick coating of nickel without flaking.

LEGAL INFORMATION.

(By a Member of the St. Louis Bar Association.)

W. N.—If he left no will, the brother and the father would each receive one-half of his estate.

G. A.—There is no law preventing any person by the name of "Sherman" from living in Georgia.

C. H.—You will have to give the tenant one month's written notice to vacate the garage.

WORRIED.—She can sue for divorce one year after leaving her husband if she has good grounds.

C. D. S.—Wages could not be collected after 10 years, or after 12 years. The claim would be outlawed after 5 years.

ANXIOUS.—You can sue the company for damages if they refuse to make a satisfactory settlement with you. Consult a lawyer.

JOHN.—Inquire at the office of the Bureau of Immigration, 2nd Customs House, Third and Olive streets, regarding the immigrant.

A POST FAN.—If he received a total divorce in Georgia, then he can legally marry again. If he received only a partial divorce, then he cannot.

A READER.—Common law marriages are recognized in Colorado at the time mentioned. For further information regarding this write to a Colorado lawyer.

GLADYS.—Possibly you can obtain information from the clerk of the Legal Aid Bureau in the Municipal Courts Building, Fourteenth and Market streets.

MERCHANT. — If the landlord has given the month's written notice to the tenant from whom you rent, that is enough, and you will have to vacate.

C. D.—Under the circumstances he could not be prosecuted for this. However, you might report the facts to the Warrant Officer in the Municipal Courts Building.

S. W. P.—The records of divorce cases in Chicago are kept by the Clerk of the Circuit Court of Cook County. He is allowed to give out information shown by these records, as they are public records.

CURIOUS.—Stocks and bonds are personal property. If the husband died leaving no will, the wife and children would each receive equal shares of his personal property, including automobile, furniture, stocks and bonds and cash in bank.

A. P.-D. READER.—A man can change his name at any time. It is not necessary that the name be changed by the Court, but if he wanted to have it done in that way, he would have to show some good reasons for wanting it changed.

P. M. L.—They can sue you and after getting judgment they can garnish 10 per cent of your wages. They cannot levy on the household furnishings which your wife bought. If they sue you, consult the Legal Aid Bureau in the Municipal Courts Building, Fourteenth and Market streets.

A FRIEND.—The father can be compelled to support the baby, but for facts to the Circuit Attorney's office in the Municipal Courts Building, Fourteenth and Market streets. If you have a baby with the woman, you should have her sign a written agreement that she will not attempt to hold him or make any claim on him.

J. B. Z.—The interest which they have charged is usurious, and you will have a good defense to a suit or garnishment proceeding. If they sue or make any trouble, write to the Legal Aid Bureau in the Municipal Courts Building, Fourteenth and Market streets. The assignment of salary which you signed is not legal and does not bind you.

BEE—The marriage under the name stated is a legal marriage. (2) You would have to reside in Missouri one year before suing for divorce here. You would have to reside in Illinois one year before suing for divorce there. You can sue for divorce as well in Missouri as in Illinois, even though your marriage took place in Illinois. The grounds for divorce in the two States are somewhat different, of course.

MEDICAL QUESTIONS.

Health and sanitation questions of public interest only will be considered, Diagnoses or treatment of individual cases will not be given.

A. S.—We do not give advice on the dyeing of the hair.

C. P.—Apples are not fattening but nuts are fattening.

F. L. P.—Oil of cinnamon is used to remove warts.

I. C. U.—The diseases mentioned are separate and distinct.

WORRIED—If you are young and thin we could hardly conceive of your developing double chin. We would advise you doing nothing at present. If you are developing a goiter you will notice the condition as it does not develop symetrically.

X. Y. Z.—No one could advise you without a personal examination. There is, of course, an inflammatory, and perhaps ulcerated condition in the intestinal tract, or perhaps in the stomach, such as a stomach ulcer. Such a condition as described is certainly not one for attempted self treatment. Consult a physician.

R.—With all clinical symptoms absent and negative Wasserman tests, after a proper period of treatment, it is proper to assume a cure has been obtained. (2) Read over your question, enclosing stamped, addressed envelope. (2) Eleven shots of 606 will not cure syphilis. (4) It usually takes about two years to cure the disease.

T. N.—At your age the condition is most frequently found. Errors of digestion and constipation, if present, should be corrected. Apply one part Vleminckx's solution and five parts water. Dab on and let dry, at night. Wash off in the morning and rub in a good quality of cold cream. Gradually strengthen the solution by diminishing the water. The sore lesions may mean ingrowing hairs.

DEATHS

Telephone Operating

Young women just out of school will find our work very attractive. It is naturally a girl's work, among girls, with girls and for girls. No experience is necessary, and the rate of pay at the very beginning of the school period is above the average. Increases in pay occur at regular intervals, and all better positions are filled from the operating force.

We would be glad to have you call at our employment office, 4th floor, Kinloch Bldg., 10th and Locust, talk matters over with her and visit our attractive rest rooms, cafeteria, etc. We believe we can interest you.

HAYES SAYS POPE IS ONLY MAN WHO CAN SAVE EUROPE

Cardinal Mundelein Declares Pius Is One of History's Greatest Pontiffs, and Most Brilliant Man.

GREAT ACTIVITY IN AFFAIRS OF WORLD

Through Work in Russia He Has Revived Hope That Greeks May Again Look to Rome.

By FERDINAND TUOHY.
Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

ROME, April 11.—"Pius XI," observed Archbishop Mundelein of Chicago, now Cardinal Mundelein, to me a short while ago, "will go down as one of the great Popes in history. On my way here and when I arrived I was advised to be prepared for an unfortunate impression—that His Holiness had drooped and run to flesh; that his talk would be slow, his mind not as keen as I might have been led to expect.

of three long audiences with the Holy Father and I can say that never have I encountered a mind more brilliant nor learned, nor a man with a greater facility for absorbing rapidly what you are saying and putting his own remarks into more arresting, concise language."

What Pope Has Done.

Whereupon we fell to discussing just what Pius had accomplished in the two years of his pontificate. He had healed the breach with France. He had encompassed the return of religious teaching in the schools in Italy. He had taken an active stand against the transfer of the Holy Land from Moslem to Jew, over the head of Christendom. He had issued calming calls to Europe, obviously actuated by strong League of Nations sympathies. He has countenanced striking conversations of Malines between Cardinal Mercier and the Archbishop of Canterbury, who desires reunion with Rome as ardently as any Anglican since Newman.

He had interceded for the martyred priests of Russia and so shaped his policy that hope might endure of the Russian and Greek Orthodox Churches eventually loking again to St. Peter's. He had extended his ring to England's defender of the Protestant faith and welcomed Alfonso, last reigning blood-scion of the Holy Roman Empire. And now he had made a guesture of deep significance, gripping apparently not only America's 18,000,000 Catholics but many more outside that fold.

So the background might be sketched to this week's close-up of gold and scarlet glory, apotheosis of American catholicism. The dollar was indubitably necessary since the funds of the Holy Church are notoriously low; yet Pius met the opportunity of meeting America more than half way, since it fell in with his general scheme of turning the Catholic Church more and more to practical account in the affairs of the world—away, one might say, from the infallibilities and kindred curious spiritual innovations of a previous Pius.

Rumored Vatican Displeasure.

When the American prelates arrived here rather ahead of time, Archbishop Mundeleine to seek the hotel-de-luxe comfort of the Albergo Plazzo (Mussolini doesn't allow you to call it Hotel Palare any longer), Archbishop Hayes to bury himself in the sanctity of the American College, it was whispered aboard that Vatican displeasure had been voiced at all the preliminary publicity the prospective elevations had attracted. The Archbishop of New York from the first shunned publicity in which work he was conspicuously aided by his secretary, Dr. Donohoe, a grave, young man.

Archbishop Mundelein, on the other hand, was visible at all times, his attitude suggesting that he had made up his mind that, if you belong to a country where publicity is the breath of life, then religion must be written up like everything else. Twice daily Monsignor Shiel saw correspondents relating how the Archbishop had visited this or that Cardinal, had walked in the Coliseum, or motored out to Frascati or visited the Vatican tailor or jeweler. And tomorrow he would be doing so and so.

Down at the American College a rather different conception prevailed as to the utility of and desirability of having the press around. The collegians themselves were all politeness. Nearly 200 in number and infinitely the best turned out and best physically of the many thousand students of all races studying for the priesthood in Rome, these American youths could scarcely wish for more ideal surroundings.

Peace in Old Court Yard.

Though but a 100 yards or so from the clatter of the Corso all is quiet in the lovely inner courtyard of the college, brought up-to-date from the sixteenth century. Only four hours study is the rule and the students have two villas out in the country where they can play baseball and where they reside entirely in the four bad summer months. Few ever want to quit the college when their four or six years term is up.

It was here that I first met Archbishop Hayes on the second day of his stay and when he had just completed his initial function, a call upon his holiness. Through avenues of Swiss and Palatine guard and Carabinieri and Guarda Nobile he had made his way to and from the papal study and his grace was still clearly affected as he related his impressions. Seated and in Bishop's purple and gazing fixedly up at an oil painting of the pontiff (which was afterwards rehung in his room), the Archbishop related how his holiness had for an hour demonstrated the keenest and kindliest interest in all things American.

"I have had the most extraordinary experience of my life," he concluded. "Here is a man of God who alone has the power to correct the present state of Europe."

Cardinal-Designate Mundelein was no less emphatic in his praise of Pius, who, at his behest, had pronounced a blessing over Chicago and everything Chicagoan. Especially the Archbishop asked that the blessing might be given regardless of creed, and this the pontiff acquiesced in—indeed, one of the curious features of this whole celebration has been the Pope's readiness to extend the hand to all.

Things Are Different.

Archbishop Mundelein had not been here in 15 years, and having been a student at the College of the Propagation of the Faith, had countless old friends to see. "When I first came to Rome in 1894 how different things were. Cardinal Vanutelli is the only one of the Sacred College remaining from that day," he related one day. "I have just left him, and what a wonderful veteran he is! Deaf, but otherwise as young as I am, though he is 90, has served in four reigns and attended at the bestowal of more than 200 red hats. Leo XIII was Pope in those days.

"I recall my first impression—the tall, lean, bent form, the resonant deep voice, the white skin drawn tightly over the emaciated face, the great, piercing brown eyes. Then when I saw him again, a simple peasant's son was in the chair of Peter, a saint who made the vividest impression, yet how different!"

New York's prelate, not having been of Roman scholarship, had fewer people to see and spent most of his time in the college or in the company of a faithful band of friends who had accompanied him from New York, and which included Judges Morgan O'Brien and Mrs. and Miss O'Brien, Alfred Talley, George Gillespie and his daughter, Marie; Dr. and Mrs. MacFarland, Thomas Kelly, John Whelan, Mr. and Mrs. Sarsfield Lavello and Mr. and Mrs. George O'Leary.

Mundelein Makes Statement.

Directly after receiving his biretta Cardinal Mundelein delivered himself of the following expression of sentiment:

"This consistory will go down in history as a tribute to American kindness, not to our national greatness or commercial supremacy or military or scientific prowess. Our glory is that we have been able to provide bread for the Holy Father to distribute to the needy. Now I have no other ambition in life save to labor as efficiently as I can for God and my fellow-men and to try to save my soul."

Cardinal Hayes was silent and so we filed out of the Vatican through frescoed and crimson loggias and halls hung with masterpieces by Raphael and marvellously ceilinged by Michaelangelo, through avenues of papal guards and functionaries who by their uniforms and arms and stately tread of another era go to make the palace of the Popes the show place of the world.

So dawned the great day when, with culminating spectacle, the red hats were to be bestowed in public consistory in St. Peter's, this being the first time in many years the ceremony was performed outside the Vatican.

DYING YOUTH REFUSES POLICE INFORMATION OF ASSAILANTS

Gus Rizzo, 18 years old, 1529 Cora avenue, died at city hospital at 3:40 a. m. yesterday from a bullet wound in the abdomen, suffered in a typically mysterious Italian affray last Monday night, without throwing any material light on whah happened.

Rizzo related, when taken to the hospital, that he was shot by three "unknown" men, who rode in an automobile, in the Italian quarter. He changed the scene from one place to another and made other conflicting statements, while his cousin, James Russo, who took him to the hospital, shifted the scene once more. Neither story checked up with the police discovery of a pool of blood, two caps and two bullet holes in a fence, back of a house near Russo's home in the Italian quarter.

The police think it possible there was some connection between the shooting of Rizzo and the assassination of Mike Bossomo three nights previously. Bossomo, who was supposed to be one of a clique of Italians ostensibly fighting black-handers, told a policeman before he died that "Shorty" Russo and Vincent Spicuzza shot him. "Shorty" Russo was a cousin of Rizzo, and is a brother of James Russo, who took Rizzo to the hospital.

LECOINTE TO REPRESENT FRANCE IN PULITZER RACE

Noted Flyer Will Pilot Ship in Trophy Contest—Italy May Also Enter.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, April 19.—France is to compete for the Pulitzer Trophy this year, thus making the premier speed contest an international one, and the flyer from overseas will be Sadi Lecointe, foremost of all French aviators and holder of worlds altitude record.

Frederick B. Patterson, president of the National Aeronautic Association, returned today on the liner Paris from a European tour in which he sought foreign flyers and in his pocket he brought the entry of M. Dewoitine, French constructor, who decided to enter a new biplane he is building with a 500 horsepower Hispana-Suiza motor. He engaged Lecointe as pilot.

In all likelihood Italy also will be represented in the Pulitzer race by Brac Papa, famed Italian flyer, Patterson said, and there is a possibility of Belgium having an entry. The Belgians are waiting to see what kind of a showing they make in the Beaumont Cup Race in France in June.

Patterson said he was going to urge that the United States send an entry for the Beaumont Cup next year in return for the French entry coming here. France and Italy also are expected to each have an entry in the Schneider Cup races to be held in Baltimore late in October, after the Pulitzer trophy race in Dayton, O.

Monday nigth, Patterson will be the guest of honor at the dinner at the Army and Navy Club, given by his associates in the National Aeronautic Association.

LAWYER TO SPEAK ON SOVIET PLOTTINGS AGAINST THE U. S.

Army War College Man to Be Heard on Japanese Aspirations by Military Order.

A discussion of Soviet plotting against the United States Government by Frank Comerford, noted criminal lawyer and former member of the Intelligence Division of the Department of Justice, and a talk on "Japanese Aspirations" by Brigadier General Charles E. Kilbourne, Army War College, will be the principal features of "Americanization Night," at the annual meeting of the Military Order of the World War, tomorrow evening at Hotel Statler.

Comerford's talk will be broadcasted shortly after 7:30 by KSD, the Post-Dispatch. The meeting has been thrown open to all members of veterans' societies. The Sixth Infantry Band of Jefferson Barracks will play during the dinner.

Seated at the guest table will be Brigadier-General Kilbourne, Charles S. Comerford, Col. F. W. Green, Commander, St. Louis Chapter, Military Order of the World War; the Rev. Francis Lee Goff, Mayor Henry W. Kiel, Col. William H. Cocke, president of Virginia Military Institute; Gen. E. J. Spencer, Col. Albert T. Perkins, H. D. McBride, Commander, Missouri Department of the American Legion; Charles H. Riley, chairman, City Executive Committee, American Legion; Col. H. E. Yates, Sixty Infantry; Lieutenant-Colonel W. H. Clendenin, chief of staff, 102d Division; Carl F. G. Meyer, Missouri State aide to the Secretary of War; Capt. Theodore White, M. W. W. W.; Lieutenant-Colonel John A. Paegelow, commanding Scott Field; Lieutenant-Commander W. H. McEwan, jr., commander, Seventh Department, M. O. W. W.; Commander G. F. Schwartz, Fourth Regiment, U. S. N. R. F.

WOUNDED MAN TRYING TO FIGURE OUT WHO SHOT HIM

Police Also Make Several Arrests in Effort to Aid Paul Pagula in Solving Mystery.

Paul Pagula of 216 Lafayette avenue is at the city hospital with a bullet wound through his chest, while both he and police are trying to figure out who shot him Friday night. His assailant fired three times with a revolver as Pagula leaned over to unlock the back door of his house.

So as to be sure not to overlook anyone, police have arrested Mrs. Pagula, her former husband, Nick Murg of 6216 Virginia avenue, and her best friend, James Napoli of 806 Wash street. Mrs. Pagula and Napoli say they were out in front in an automobile, waiting for Pagula to open the front door. The three of them, with Napoli's small daughter, had just come in from a ride. Murg says he was not around at the time.

VON LOSSOW GOES TO ANGORA

(Copyright, 1924.)

BERLIN, April 19.—Gen. Von Lossow, former commander of the Bavarian division of the Reichswehr, who, with Von Kahr, was responsible for stopping the Hitler-Ludendorff putsch, is continuing his travels to Angora and is taking service with Kemal Pasha. In 1915 Lossow was German military attache to Turkey and knows Kemal well.

$103,000,000 SPENT BY L. & N.

Sum Has Been Expended Since Government Turned Road Back.

The Louisville & Nashville Railroad has expended more than $103,000,000 on equipment since the railroad company received its holdings back from the Government. About $59,000,000 of this amount was used in purchasing 42 passenger locomotives, 132 freight locomotives, 30 switch locomotives, 166 passenger cars and 21,425 freight cars. The remainder was used for bridges, tracks and other equipment.

TESTIFY OIL WAS FOUND IN RUINS OF FIRE FATAL TO W

Chicago Firemen Witnesses of Inquest—Three Men Placed in Custody.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 19.—Three who last night fought flames in a four-story stone box factory on West Side, in which eight firemen and one civilian were killed and score injured when the walls collapsed, testified at the inquest today that oil was found in various parts of the building.

Two firemen told of finding oil strewn over the floor and one said he found a pile of oil-soaked waste in a corner. Michael F. Kerwin, battalion chief, first at the scene of the fire, declared a terrific explosion inside the structure had caused the walls to crumble, pinning the firemen into the flames. The inquest was continued.

Three men were held in custody tonight after a day spent in questioning them. They were Sam Polinsky, Samuel Moore and Lee Uneil. Moore and Uneil are owners of a leather goods company which occupied the building and Polinsky is reported to have held a $32,000 fire insurance policy on their business in connection with a mortgage. Reports that a man boy had told of seeing a man flee ing from the building just as the fire started were also being investigated.

MAN, HIT BY TRUCK, DIES OF INJURIES IN HOSPITAL

Police Obtain Address of Brother of Victim—Pedestrian Is Injured.

A man about 55 years old, who gave his name as George Eberhardt, died at 7 o'clock last night at city hospital from a fractured skull suffered when struck by an automobile, Friday morning, in front of 5415 Gravois avenue. He for a few minuts in the ambulance when he gave a policeman his name, he did not regain consciousness.

William Lutke, 52, of 4255 Gertrude avenue, driver of the machine, said that Eberhardt became confused in crossing the street.

From neighbors police obtained what they believe is the address of a brother who resides at Evansville, Ind.

Alexander Douglas, 41, of 4917 Peck avenue, suffered a fractured left leg at 8 o'clock last night when an automobile struck him as he was about to board a street car at Grand boulevard and Bailey street.

COUPLE HELD HERE ON HUSBAND'S CHARGES

Illinois Wife and Her Brother-in-Law Face Mann Act Charge.

After living as husband and wife for two weeks at 4033 Washington boulevard, Henry Knapp, 34 years old, of Red Bud, Ill., and his younger brother's wife, Mrs. Clara Knapp, were arrested yesterday and are held for Federal authorities, suspected of Mann act violation.

Mrs. Knapp, at police headquarters last night, took all blame for the interfamily triangle. She wants her brother-in-law to be held guiltless.

"My husband's mother and aunt caused all the trouble," she said. "I threatened to leave home a month ago if they didn't stop meddling. My husband said his mother meant more to him than I do, so I packed up and left.

"I asked Henry to come with me. He knew St. Louis and found a room for me and Orloff, my four-year-old son. I stayed there a week. Then my funds ran out and I suggested to Henry that we live together, to cut expenses.

The arrest was made at request of Red Bud authorities. The husband, Otto Knapp, 28, will be here today, to see what can be done about the affair.

COLLEGIANS' VACATION TRIP TO BE STUDY OF ENGINEERING

40 Lehigh Students Will Travel 3000 Miles in Mining Districts of America and Ontario.

By the Associated Press.

BETHLEHEM, Pa., April 19.—Forty students of mining engineering from Lehigh University will this summer "pursue their studies" 2000 miles through mining districts of the United States and Ontario.

Leaving here in their modern prairie schooners about Aug. 1, the wandering collegians will seek actual contact with the mining and preparation of ores in the coal fields of Pennsylvania, the glass industry and salt mines in New York State, the abrasive and electro-metallurgical plants at Niagara Falls, the gold and silver mines of Cobalt and the Kirkland Lake district in Canada, the nickel deposits of Sudbury, Ont., the Marquette iron region, the lead and zinc district of the Northern Mississippi Valley, the bituminous coal fields of Illinois, the limestone quarries of Indiana, and the pottery, oil and coke industries of Ohio and Western Pennsylvania. All along the route, attention will be given to the geology of the regions traversed, and also to the production of nonmetallics, such as oil, gas and building stones.

Drivers and mechanics will be selected from members of the party. Equipment for camping and the preparation of meals will be carried.

There will be recitations and discussions around the campfire every evening, covering the things observed during the day, and at the end of the trip each member of the party will be required to prepare a complete report.

MUSICAL MEN WANTED AS HUSBANDS IN GERMANY

Berlin Marriage Brokers Give Entertainments for Prospective Mates.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, April 19.—Men with an academic education who can play the piano are in special demand among German women in search of husbands. Marriage brokers offer little encouragement to men who have no degree and are not musical, and advertisements printed in the newspapers almost universally specify that the charming and wealthy widows and spinsters who are seeking husbands want university trained men of musical ability.

Some of the most successful marriage-brokers have organized a club which gives balls and other entertainments for the purpose of bringing their clients together, and affording them a chance to look over the various applicants under conditions which make it possible to judge their social fitness.

Strange requirements are stipulated by some of the wealthy women who want to marry. One insists that the man who wins her heart must be "poetically gifted and have a good knowledge of beekeeping."

Most of the managers of matrimonial bureaus are women, and a great majority of the patrons are women. This is especially true since the war. Among the men patrons of the agencies are many former officers and ex-officials.

RUM RUNNERS REPORTED ACTIVE IN PUGET SOUND

SEATTLE, Wash.—Federal dry agents in this State last year confiscated, according to official statistics, 6931 gallons of moonshine and bonded whisky. [illegible] the same period, copying a [illegible]le by an employe of a Ca[illegible]s-port house, there were [illegible]ed down Puget Sound nearly 20,000 cases of liquor every month.

The whisky seized by the Volstead men during the entire year, assuming half the total was whisky, amounted to about 1200 cases, less than one-thirteenth the amount smugglers brought, according to the alleged check.

It is now definitely known that much of this illicit liquor comes into the State by way of the hundreds of small rocky islands dotting the waterway between here and Canada. Some of the islands are mere points of rock standing just out of the water, yet large enough to accommodate a cache of liquor. Others are miles in length with natural caves, dense woods and creeks up which small boats may navigate.

To inspect each and every jot of land in Puget Sound to test its immunity from smuggling stain, is this summer's work of the Federal dry workers.

Eighteen prohibition inspectors with motor boats will form the brigade to visit every Puget Sound island seeking evidences of landing places for rum runners.

600 MILES DIVIDE LUNCHEON AND TEA FOR ARMY AVIATOR

He Eats Breakfast in Los Angeles, Goes to San Francisco, Then San Diego and Home in Day.

By the Associated Press.

SANTA MONICA, Cal., April 19.—Breakfast in Los Angeles, luncheon in San Francisco, nearly 500 miles away; afternoon tea in San Diego, a jump of another 600 miles, and dinner back at home in Los Angeles; such is the outline of a day in the life of Lieut. Corliss C. Moseley, commandant of Clover Field, the army air base at Santa Monica.

Lieut. Moseley has arranged his daily meals thus not once, but several times. Piloting a biplane, he leaves Clover Field early in the morning and wings his way to the Presidio of San Francisco by 10 o'clock, as a rule, snatches a bite to eat, confers with army officers and is off for San Diego, arriving there usually about 4 p. m. Long before summer dusk he drops down again at Clover Field, steps into his waiting automobile and rolls 12 miles to Los Angeles, home and dinner.

On a recent Sunday Lieut. Moseley flew up to San Francisco, across to Yosemite National Park in the Sierra Nevada Mountains, hovered over the mighty falls and returned to Clover Field, a nonstop flight of more than 1000 miles.

FIRST PRESIDENTIAL CONVENTION IN 1812

In That Year Federalists Met in New York—Next Gathering in 1831.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 19.—New Yorkers who remember their history are recalling that the first convention for the nomination of a presidential candidate was held in this city. It was that by the old Federalist party in 1812 and nominated De Witt Clinton, then Lieutenant-Governor of the State, for the presidency. Clinton received 89 electoral votes to 219 for James Madison.

In 1789 Washington was the choice of the electors provided through the machinery of the new Constitution, and he again was elected in 1792. After John Adams had served his term, however, party divisions began to be manifest, and in 1800 the first congressional caucuses for the nomination of presidential candidates were held, with the result that Jefferson became President after the House of Representatives had been called upon to break the tie between him and Aaron Burr. The congressional caucus method prevailed in 1804 and 1808.

The Federalist convention of 1812 did not commit the parties to that system of making nominations, and it was not until the campaign of 1832 that all the presidential candidates were named in convention.

The Anti-Masonic party, first in the field, met at Baltimore in September, 1830, adjourning until September, 1830, adjourning until September, 1830, adjourning until September, 1830, adjourning until September, 1830, delegates reassembled in the same city, nominating William Wirt of Virginia for the presidency.

Both the Whig and Democratic parties held their conventions for the 1832 election at Baltimore, the former meeting on Dec. 12, 1831, the latter on May 21, 1832, naming respectively, Henry Clay and Andrew Jackson.

CHINESE BANDITS MARK LEPER COLONY "OUT OF BOUNDS"

Pledge Immunity to Hospital Which Will Get Assistance From American Mission.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 19.—The Chinese pirate island of Tai Kam, a tiny lozenge of terra firma off the province of Canton amid an archipelago which for centuries has been the rendezvous of buccaneers, is about to be converted into the biggest leprosorium in China.

Plans for housing 2000 lepers were outlined by W. M. Danner, general secretary of the American Mission to Lepers, which helps finance, construct and administer such colonies throughout the world.

A band of pirates 200 strong inhabits one end of Tai Kam. They have, however, promised American mission representatives and the Canton Government that they will mark the leprosorium "out of bounds." Assurances also have been received from chieftains of the pirate clans infesting the surrounding islands that they, too, will confine their depredations to ships and settlements other than those of the lepers.

The island site was purchased by Wu Ting-fang, the Chinese statesman, and the American mission has undertaken the construction of 16 buildings. Because native contractors fear the pirates so greatly they refuse to come near Tai Kam; therefore the Americans are superintending the work.

REPORT GIVES LITTLE HOPE FOR CHINA'S IMPROVEMENT

Military Campaigns in Central Section Inevitable This Summer—Trade to Be Affected.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and Chicago Daily News.

(Copyright, 1924.)

PEKIN, April 19.—There is little prospect of early improvement in China's internal condition, according to a report to President Tsao Kun from Dr. W. W. Yen, chairman of the financial rehabilitation commission. The report shows that China's present expenses are 17 times greater than her income.

This is chiefly due to the failure of the provincial militarists to remit the Government funds to Pekin. China's unsecured indebtedness alone amounts to $723,000,000. While this is discouraging to the other nations and creditors, there is still hope that Marshal Wu Pei-Fu will compel the provinces to respect Pekin's authority.

President Tsao Kun is indisposed and leads a monastic life, receiving few visitors. Considerable agitation is favoring Wu Pei Fu for the post of vice-president, but the belief here is general that Wu does not wish the post because of the extensive military campaign he has mapped out for the summer months.

The Tuchun of Hunan province is not willing to relinquish his provincial autonomy and admit Pekin's authority. The former Tuchun of Hupeh province, who was forced out of office by his own subjects two years ago, is campaigning for the Tuchunship of Kiangsi Province. The present Tuchum of Kiangsi is a favorite of Marshal Wu while President Kun favors the new candidate, because of his efforts to conciliate the differences between the Peking Government and Chang Tso-Lin, Manchurian war lord.

The situation is further embarrassed by reports that the soviet envoy, Leo Karakhan, is endeavoring to ignore Pekin and on Russia's behalf, is seeking to enter into secret trade agreements with the individual provinces which ignore the mandates of Pekin, particularly the southwest provinces.

It is now certain that military activities in central China will be inevitable this summer, and this fact, combined with the precarious financial condition of the Government, is bound to react unfavorably upon China's foreign trade, at least during the hot months.

WOMEN RETAIN DECIDING VOICE IN THEBES, ILL., COUNCIL

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CAIRO, Ill., April 19.—One more year of rule by women was assured for the town of Thebes when election day rolled around with Mrs. Nora H. Gammon, Mayoress, and the three women in the Village Council still sticking to their guns after one year in office. Three men were elected to take the places of the two men who did not run for re-election, and one who resigned shortly after the women had taken over the government. This leaves the deciding vote in the hands of the four women.

The new Councilmen elected were Curtis Phelps, Eck Thompson and Jacog Wimking. There were no women candidates opposing the trio.

The average unbiased citzen of Thebes says that government by women has differed very little from that of the men. The finances of the town were in good shape when the women went into power and are still in first-class condition, they point out. The women rulers have laid special stress on the enforcement of law and the guarding of the health of the village by keeping the streets clean and sanitary.

To prove a point, Journal has given the Council and Mayoress some trouble. Oscar Garrett was the first to be appointed. He resigned and was succeeded by Jim Harbison, who in turn resigned, and Garrett was reinstated. Then Garrett quit again "for good." Charles Yates then was made Marshal and is giving satisfaction.

Mrs. Gammon and the three women members of the Council remain in office another year. The three are Mrs. Nora Miller, Mrs. Maude Youart and Miss Stella King.

Pearls Worth $1000 Stolen.

Mrs. A. C. Talcott of 6 Annalee place, Webster Groves, reported to the police that sometime Friday a 30-inch string of pearls, valued at $1000, was stolen from her home during her absence. The house was entered, Mrs. Talcott said, by means of a duplicate key. Three $1 bills also were taken.

BELGIAN OFFICIALS CONFER ON DATE FOR INTERALLIED PARLEY

Ambassador to Great Britain Informs Premier Theunis MacDonald Can't Attend Before May 15.

By the Associated Press.

BRUSSELS, April 19.—Baron Monachur, Belgian Ambassador to Great Britain, conferred today with Premier Theunis and Foreign Minister Hymans concerning the fixing of a date for the proposed interallied conference. It is reported the Ambassador informed the Premier that Prime Minister MacDonald would not be at liberty to attend a meeting of the Premiers before May 15; also that the British Premier would like to have the question of the Interallied debts included on the agenda, and that if Belgium and France accepted, he might agree in exchange to discuss the position of those nations.

CLEAN ELECTION LEAGUE PREPARING FOR THE CAMPAIGN

Anti-Boss Organization Not to Name Third Ticket but Will Indorse Certain Candidates.

LETTERS BEING SENT OUT TO VOTERS

"Ringsters That Saddled and Bridled County Must Be Unhorsed Permanently," Letter Says.

Membership in the St. Louis County Clean Election League is being recruited by letters sent to many voters, which make it clear that the league does not contemplate forming an independent ticket for the primary or general election this year.

Rather, it plans to work for nomination of candidates who can meet its test for suitable office-holders, running on regular party tickets. Its aim is the same as the aim of the successful league campaign in the election of 1922—the defeat of "Boss" Fred Essen's Republican machine—which followed the corrupt primary of that year.

In 1922 the league endeavored to present an independent ticket in the general election, but the machine frustrated this plan. The league thereupon made up a mixed slate of acceptable Democratic and Republican nominees, and elected nearly all those thus chosen.

Origin of Movement.

Revulsion over the primary frauds, coupled with the unusual sentiment aroused by the "clean-up" movement served to wipe out party lines in 1922, in a county where Republicans have always predominated, and a Republican nomination was regarded as equivalent to election. But, as has been pointed out, with a presidential race on, a return to partisan voting is expected, hence the league's new plan to beat the machine.

The league letter says:

"We do not anticipate the necessity of nominating a third ticket in the coming election, but we do expect to urge citizens of known integrity with not the slightest 'boss' affiliation to permit the use of their names for various offices on the tickets of the two parties. As the Republicans are in the majority by about 10,000 votes, and, therefore, a nomination on their ticket is practically equivalent to an election, we invite you to join our organization in order to assist in the nomination of worthy candidates—those who will regard a public office as a public trust.

"There must be no nominations made to pay anti-election promises; no rewarding of those who in the past have been subservient to the 'boss.' The offices of Sheriff, Prosecuting Attorney, members of the Legislature and Judges of the County Court must not be filled to further the interests of the 'boss' and thus perpetuate deplorable conditions in the county. There must be no bartering of franchises and of legislative enactments to serve special interests."

The Registration Laws.

The letter points out that Mrs. Mellcene Smith, a Democrat, elected State Representative by the league, brought about the registration law for the county, put into operation this year, which is regarded as the greatest step ever taken to purge electoral evils. The letter goes on:

"The league can do a work in the coming campaign more important and effective than it has done in the past. Its accomplishments, in fact, will all be negatived if the county is again surrendered to the old gang. Its purpose will be to secure the election of honest, capable candidates to offices, regardless of party affiliations. This purpose has a claim on the co-operation of every intelligent, home-loving man and woman in St. Louis County.

"It does not believe that the old appeal to party loyalty—an appeal which in this instance is only an effort to induce party men to forget the long reign of political corruption—will have any weight with intelligent men and women, so far as our own local affairs are concerned. Have we not witnessed in our county the spectacle of bosses of both parties joining hands and by the most outrageous methods working in vote-swapping unity for 'boss' control? Men and women of both parties must join hands and work as a unit to unhorse permanently the 'ringsters that saddled and bridled St. Louis County and rode it to its own disgrace."

Membership dues are nominal—$1 a year. The letters are sent out over the signature of James F. Cook of Webster Groves, chairman of the league Executive Committee, whose downtown office is in the Chemical Building. J. Porter Henry, Cook's predecessor in this position, has announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for Prosecuting Attorney.

Frank C. Schwenk of Allenton, whose activity as an apple grower has given him the title "apple king," and who was an aggressive member of the first grand jury to investigate the 1922 primary, has announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for Sheriff. He has the friendship of some "clean-up" leaders. League indorsements will not be made for a time.

HYDE ANTICIPATES $2,300,000 BALANCE AT END OF TERM

Will Be Accomplished by Leaving Unpaid $2,865,200 Appropriations, Held Up.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 19.—The Hyde administration, now nearing its close, expects to step out of office next January with a balance in the State Treasury approximating the one it inherited in 1921 from the previous Democratic administration of Gov. Gardner, but it will be accomplished by leaving unpaid $2,865,200 in appropriations held up by Gov. Hyde, in order to avert a deficit.

Estimates obtained from the State Treasurer's office on expected revenues and disbursements put the anticipated balance at approximately $2,300,000, if the appropriations held up remain unpaid. That they will remain so virtually is assured, as the Governor consistently has refused to release them. If they were paid the paper balance would be converted to a deficit of about $600,000.

The last Legislature made appropriations totaling $20,834,839.27, and at the same time cut the State revenue tax 2 cents on the $100 assessed valuation, lowering the rate to 5 cents, which reduced the revenues for State purposes. This was charged as an attempt by the Democratic Legislature to put the Republican State administration in a financial hole.

To guard against the administration winding up the year with a deficit, the Governor obtained agreements from the various departments and institutions to waive claim to $3,029,000 of the appropriations given them by the Legislature. Of this amount $163,000 has been released to the penitentiary, Department of Education, Central State Teachers' College at Warrensburg and the colony at Marshall for feeble minded. The balance of $2,865,000 has been held up.

New Treatment for Varicose or Swollen Veins

Swollen veins are dangerous and often burst. Sufferers are advised to get a two-ounce, original bottle of Emerald Oil (full strength), at any pharmacist and start to reduce the veins and bunches at once.

Physicians recommend Emerald Oil; it is used in hospital practice, and a small bottle will last a long time, because it is very concentrated and a little goes a long way. Apply night and morning with a soft brush as directed until the swelling is reduced to normal. It is guaranteed.

So marvelously powerful is Emerald Oil that enlarged glands, warts and even goitre disappear when used steadily. For sale at Keiffer Drug Co. and Wolff-Wilson Drug Co.

The people want wholesale slaughters, with the stage so cluttered up with bodies that, by the end of the fourth act, the survivors can't make a move without stumbling over them.

MURDER AS AN ART IN GRAND OPERA

An original view of music's higher realm, explaining on psychological grounds the lure of well-known stage situations—One fault of operatic composers is that they always use slow-working poisons, and thus the singers die in a very tedious fashion—Outline for a proposed opera in which there would be plenty of people killed, thus ensuring a long run :: :: :: ::

THE psychological reason for operas is that the public likes to find out about other people's troubles and compare them with their own, which makes them feel they aren't so bad off after all. When the curtain goes up the singers come out and begin complaining and they complain for three or four acts until the curtain falls and ends the misery for that evening. If the characters have undergone genuine difficulties and have really suffered, the audience is satisfied and will vigorously applaud, but if the troubles are only minor ones and there isn't much killing, the audience is disappointed and wants its money back.

Most operas are written in Italian—why, nobody knows, but the fact ought to be investigated. The only time the American public comes in contact with Italian is when it reads the direction on shoe-polish cans. No one understands what the actors are wailing about and can only infer the plot—which is about as reliable as an owl car. True, they sell librettos, but you can't read them in the dark unless you have a lantern with you. Even if you could read them and attempted to follow the action you would only lag behind a couple of scenes. But that is all in the game.

An opera without murder is as rare as first-floor chop-suey joints. The more killings there are the better the people like it—they scorn your cheap show where only two or three are killed—they want wholesale slaughters, with the stage so cluttered up with bodies that, by the end of the fourth act, the survivors can't make a move without stumbling over them. It is highly enjoyable when a beautiful soprano, who has been suffering for three acts, finally decides to take poison—which she generally does along about 11:15. She gets out the bottle and holds it off at arm's length and warbles an aria about poison and its disastrous effect, and then she walks to the other end of the stage and reviews all her troubles at the top of her lungs, and then she walks to the center of the stage, steps close to the footlights and sings to the orchestra leader as if inviting him to join her in a suicide pact.

This is entertaining, all right, but most Americans would wish her to toss off the poison quicker and quit mooning around. That is one difficulty with composers—they always use slow-working poison, and if the tenor gets stabbed the chances are he will languish near death for two or three scenes while the heroine stands around and weeps, whereas, if she went to the telephone and called the hospital she could save his life. When opera singers set about to die they do it in such a tedious, long-drawn-out fashion that the man who has come for excitement begins to fidget and study the ceiling. If the basso plots murder he will do so for an entire act—as if the prisoner in his dungeon couldn't hear him—now singing in first, now in second; shifting gears to climb hills and finishing up with a note as long as the curfew. He will hold on to that final note as long as there's any oxygen left, and he lets it go with a gasp that makes him pale. Then he trots off the stage to get fanned, as if he were a prizefighter resting between rounds, and the house rocks with applause.

But to get back to the soprano who is trying to take poison. At just about the time when the audience thinks she is kidding them and isn't going to commit suicide at all, she quaffs the fatal bean and falls to the floor. If she is a slim woman she dies gracefully and accurately, but if she is built on specifications drawn up for a football stadium, she falls to the floor with a thud and jars the boards. The latter class of soprano will roll around in misery for a few moments like a beer barrel sliding down an incline, and when she dies she is loose with a peep like a peanut vender's whistle puts static in her voice.

If the heroine were to the telephone and called the hospital she could save the tenor's life.

Presuming the soprano has died successfully, the audience halloos and applauds and the curtain rises. It rises a moment later to reveal the prostrate form and some people are so impressed they send flowers over the footlights for the funeral. Then the soprano gets to her feet, smiling, and shows she is not dead at all. She takes the bouquet and retires, kicking her train out of the way, and, if there has been a villain in the scene who "planted" the poison for her, she will beckon him from out the wings, take his hand, absolutely forgive him and present him with a flower, which he sniffs.

If the audience still applauds, the soprano will go and die again, just to show how neatly it can be done. That demonstrates how fond the people are of killings.

"Il Trovatore" is quite satisfying in this respect, although the composer overlooked several possibilities. In the last scene there is a dead soprano on the floor and a tenor is about to be guillotined. He is a knight and wears a suit of mail which hangs to the knees. He doesn't seem to mind being guillotined, but starts up a song, absently steps over the soprano's body and parades up and down before the footlights, telling his troubles in a clear voice. When they lead him away he walks off as light as if he were going to a ball game, and sings until the curtain falls.

The audience rub their hands with satisfaction and look about to see if there are any more parties to be killed. There is an old gyp-

A tenor would rather lie on the floor with a stiletto in his gizzard, and sing, than drink. The heroine will glance casually at him, without changing her expression, and continue warbling.

There had been an epidemic of abusive, anonymous letters, and the puzzled Police Chief went for help to a scientific detective—The latter, by vocation a chemist, used professional knowledge in preparing trap, into which the culprit fell—Her identity being thus established, she was captured in the act of mailing another letter—A true story of ingenuity combined with science ::

By E. E. FREE, PH. D.

Fellow of American Association for the Advancement of Science.

A SMALL suburban town near one of our large Eastern cities was ruffled recently by a severe epidemic of anonymous letters. Almost without example in their scurrilousness, the letters continued to arrive almost daily at the homes of leading citizens and their wives.

The first few letters attracted no attention and were not even reported to the police. But as the flood continued it began to be talked about, at first in private, then publicly. The local Police Chief, an especially intelligent and active official, published a notice asking that all letters received be sent to him. In time he accumulated nearly a hundred of them.

But his best efforts failed to turn up even one clew to their authorship, and the flood of them continued unabated.

The Chief, as I have said, was intelligent. He was even intelligent enough to know when he had encountered a case beyond the resources of his own department. And so he got on the train one morning, went in to the city and called on a well-known consulting chemist, whom I shall call Dr. Smith. Dr. Smith happens to possess an intense and long-standing interest in the curious problems of crime and of scientific detection. The Chief met an interested response, and the upshot was that the doctor agreed to take the case.

He solved it. The culprit was tracked down and exposed. The town was freed from its annoying rain of letters. And not a dozen people outside of the Chief and Dr. Smith ever knew the details of the most ingenious scientific methods that the clever doctor devised and put into use.

Before the doctor's arrival in the case the local police had made, of course, all the usual inquiries. They had collected as many letters as they could and had examined the text of these for clews. They had submitted the letters to an expert in handwriting, eliciting the opinion that all the letters were written by the same person, in a handwriting that was purposely disguised.

They had noticed, also, that nearly all the letters, outside of a few sent to the Mayor and other persons of general public prominence, had been received by persons associated with a single one of the churches in the town. This established an inference that the unknown sender also belonged to this church group, for it is a custom of anonymous letter writers to send their screeds, in the main, either to public personages like Presidents and Judges, or to people of their own acquaintance.

But this local work had developed no direct clews. Scrutiny of the membership of the church in question led to no definite suspicions. It is a firm conviction of all criminologists that habitual senders of anonymous letters are mildly insane. Accordingly there is never any reasonable or inferable motive, nor is it necessary that the letters reflect at all the sane (and, therefore, publicly known) side of the sender's personality.

There was the case as Dr. Smith received it. The Chief admitted himself baffled. He turned over to the doctor the book in which all the reported letters had been filed. He made the doctor a special deputy and turned him loose.

The doctor's first step, of course, was to study the letters themselves. In such cases the criminologist has, usually, three lines of attack and Dr. Smith took these up in turn. First, he studied the character of the paper on which the letters were written. Second, he scrutinized the nature of the ink. Third, he looked in the phraseology and subject matter of the letters for psychological clews as to the personality of the sender.

From the paper no information of value was obtainable. Several kinds of paper had been used, perhaps by accident, perhaps in a deliberate attempt to baffle discovery. All the kinds of paper were common enough. Anyone might have bought them. A few letters were written on the stationery of a local hotel, which, like the rest, was accessible to thousands of people.

From his psychological studies Dr. Smith failed, likewise, to secure any direct clews, but he did deduce that the sender was probably a woman of middle age (as is, indeed, the usual finding in anonymous letter cases) and he acquired, furthermore, a strong suspicion that this female vilifier was suffering from a mild form of hysterical insanity, this conclusion being indicated by the frequent presence of discontinuities of phrase and meaning in the letters.

The Chief arranged to watch every letter that this woman mailed. Within two days she had been trapped in the act of sending off another one, and the epidemic of vilification was over.

Obviously, these conclusions did not help much. They are usual in all such cases and the doctor could not go out arresting women merely because they were middle-aged and looked as though they might be mildly hysterical. It was necessary to find something much more definite than this.

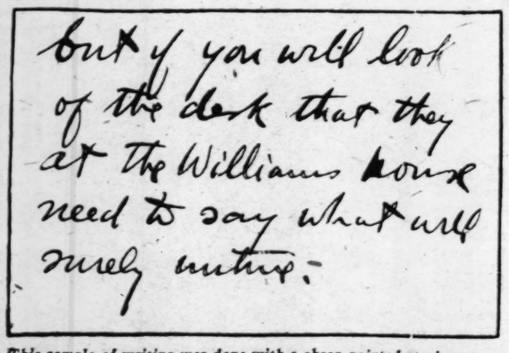
The doctor found it in his third line of investigation, the ink.

The study of writing inks is an important branch of criminologic science. Many volumes have been written about it and many court cases concerning wills, forged documents, dishonored letters and the like, have turned on expert use of this inky science. Dr. Smith, both because of his vocation as a chemist and his avocation as a criminologist, was familiar with it all.

Most modern ink contains two different ingredients. One is aniline dye of a blue color. This makes the bluish marks when the writing is first done. The second ingredient is a compound of iron. When the writing is fresh this iron compound is almost colorless, but as the writing stands exposed to the air it slowly turns deep black.

This is why these inks are called blue-black inks. At first they are blue because of the aniline dye. Later on they are black because of the iron compound.

It was an ink of this kind that the anonymous letter writer had used. Furthermore, Dr. Smith was able to show, by microchemical analysis of the colored compounds in the writing, that the ink used was of a very familiar commercial brand that was much employed in fountain pens.



This sample of writing was done with a sharp-pointed steel pen, using a thick, black ink. The marks of the two separate nibs of the pen are visible in the last strokes of the word "look" at the end of the first line. The fact that the pen was dipped in the ink (instead of being a fountain pen) is indicated by the difference between the words "Williams" and "house" in the third line. With the word "Williams" the ink on the pen had run out. The pen was dipped again in the inkwell before the word "house" was written. The thickness of the ink in the inkwell is indicated by the heavy lines in this word "house;" the lines of the initial "h" having been so well inked that they have run together.

But in this instance, the doctor found, the letters had not been written with a fountain pen. They had been written with an old-fashioned steel pen, this pen had been dipped into an open inkwell, and the ink in this well had been renewed three times during the several months that the letters had been written.

This seems a good deal to be able to read from the letters themselves, but it really was quite simple. The use of the steel pen was determined from the presence in all the letters of microscopic scratches on the paper, made by the two sharp steel nibs at the split end of the penpoint. The point of a fountain pen, being smoother, makes scratches that are quite easily distinguishable from those of the removable steel pen.

The fact that the ink was kept in an open inkwell was determined by the presence in the writing of a good deal of general room dust, dust which could not have been present in the original ink and which could have gotten in it only as the result of standing open to the air. Furthermore, when the letters were arranged in the order of their dates of mailing it was found that the ink of them first increased in thickness from letter to letter until a certain date. Thereupon the ink became suddenly thinner. This sequence was twice repeated. The obvious explanation was that the ink in the well had grown gradually thicker by evaporation until it became too thick or scanty for use. New ink was then added, refilling the inkwell. And, as I say, this was done three times, at dates which Dr. Smith was able to determine with considerable exactness.

These were the doctor's gleanings from the letters themselves. They were obviously ingenious and interesting, but they did not help greatly toward the discovery of the culprit. To take this next step the doctor employed a still more ingenious device. He arranged for a chemical offensive against his anonymous antagonist.

It is a peculiarity of all these modern blue-black inks that they can be bleached out by a weak solution of chlorine gas in alkaline water. But there are many chemicals which will not be bleached when the ink is. One of these chemicals, for example, is nitrate of silver. If you drop a crystal of nitrate of silver into a bottle of ink you can write with that ink just as usual. Its marks will not differ discernibly from marks made with the untreated ink. But, later on, you can bleach out the ordinary ink marks with chlorine and the extra marks due to the silver will show up.

This device maks it possible to prepare ink that looks and writes just like ordinary ink, but which is capable of being identified later with absolute assurance. Dr. Smith made use of this device. He prepared a number of pellets of different chemicals, each of them having the same property as nitrate of silver, the property of identifying the ink on later examination. In the guise of an inspector of electric wiring he secured access to the houses of all possible suspects.

A Night on the Desert, and an Accursed We

Another vivid narrative by Rosita Forbes, famous explorer, in which her caravan is attacked and several men killed — Retreating in the dusk, they take refuge in some ruined huts, and drink water from an old well — Englishwoman and all her men become deathly sick in the night, but a novel sort of medicine brings relief — Just what sort of a "jinn" was in the well? :: :: :: :: ::

By ROSITA FORBES.

"WALLAHI, it should be here!" exclaimed Jusuf for the twentieth time. "I tell you it is useless to go further. Did not the Sheikh say his guides would meet us while the desert was still flat as the bread a woman makes without yeast?"

The speaker raised himself clumsily in stirrups, shaped like coal shovels. He was a townsman, a member of the Emir's household, sent with me as a witness of his Prince's protection. "Allah save us, we have lost the way and, if we enter the territory of the Ait Amra without their Sheikh's guides to speak for us, we shall make no further journeyings on earth."

The fat man looked around apprehensively, as if he expected enemies to rise out of the earth. His purple robe was caked with the dust of a long day's travel and his kufiya torn and stained with sweat. "Did I not tell you that traveling was no fit pursuit for the noble?" he repeated, with the querulous impatience of a child.

I had heard this reproach so often since we left the capital of the Emir five days ago that I only looked at my compass reflectively. Since the dawn we had ridden southeast across a rolling desert, where gazelle tempted our rifles and the wind was scented with sagebrush. Unless I had seriously miscalculated, this was the place where the Ait Amra guides should have met us. Anxiously I stared ahead to some sand dunes gilded by the sunset.

Jusuf's eyes were glued to my compass.

"It is that thing of magic which has destroyed us," he said.

The Bedouin guards drew nearer to look at the needle which so loved the North Star. The tallest of them, Ahmed, who had sworn blood-brotherhood with me, leaned wearily on his rifle.

"We shall find a camping place in the dunes," he said, "and in the morning the guides of Ait Amra will come to us. Let us hasten or the night will catch us."

The baggage camels, which had collapsed with the suddenness of folding chairs, were prodded to their feet. With grunts from the animals and sighs from Jusuf, the little procession moved onward.

As we neared the dunes the half-dozen armed Bedouins unslung their rifles and spread to right and left of the riders. To encourage their vigilance, I drew a revolver from the sash of my scarlet native dress, but we were hideously at the mercy of attack. As the ridges closed round us in the dusk, I realized that any crest might hide a line of snipers and cursed my folly in leaving the open plains.

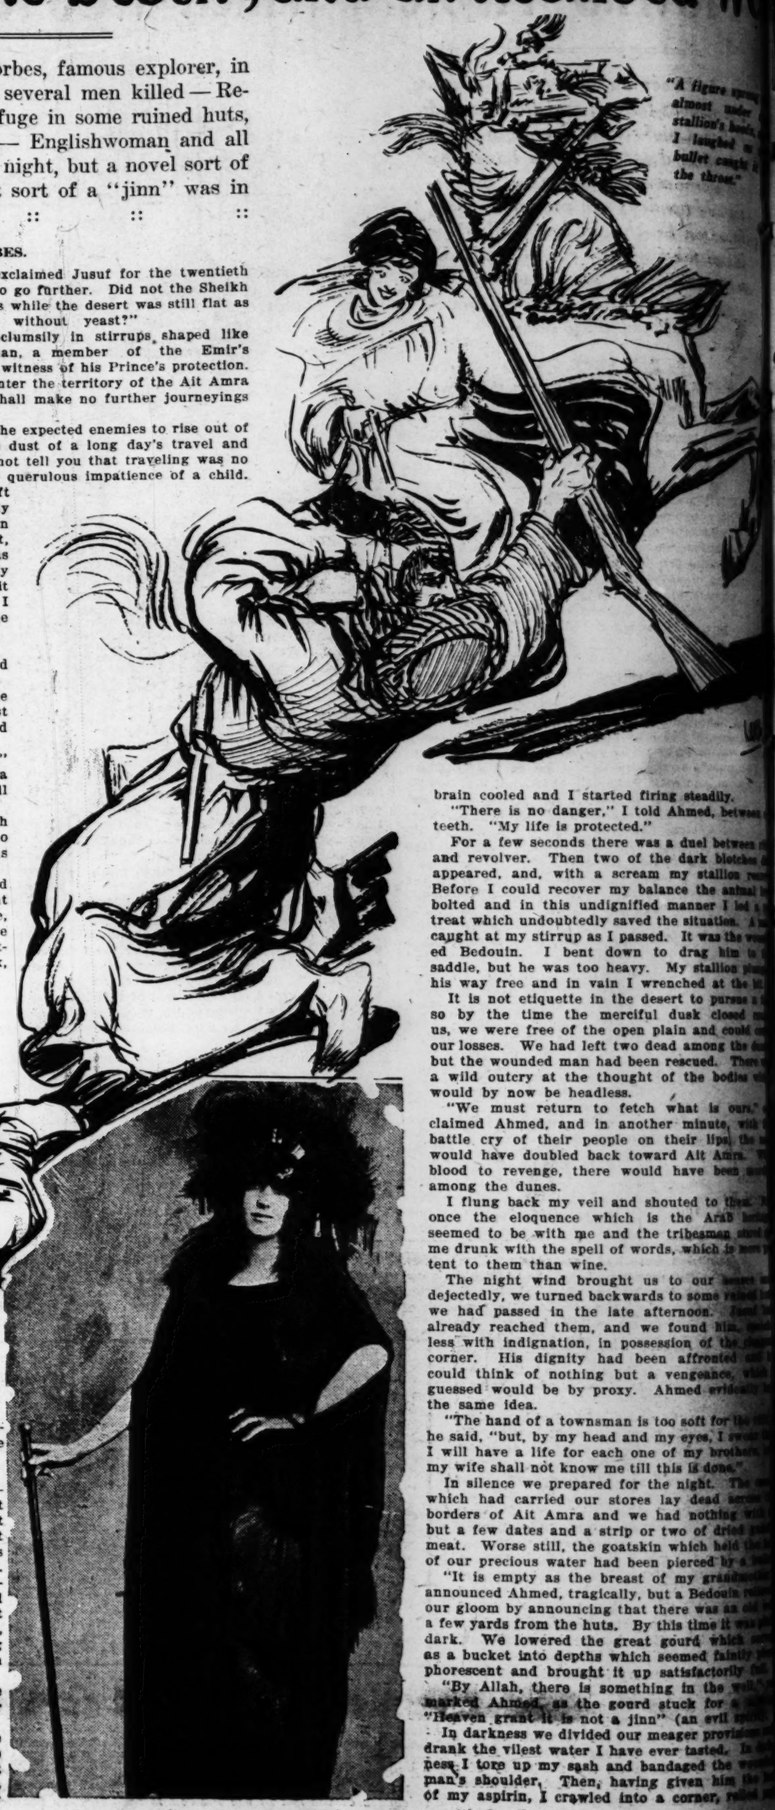
It cam with appalling suddenness—the thing for which, unconsciously, I had been waiting. A single shot broke the velvet stillness through which crept softly our small caravan. Something whined past my ear, stirring my veil. Instantly a line of fire lit the ridge on either side of us.

"Trapped!"

A camel groaned and fell to his knees. The Bedouins threw themselves flat on the sand, firing at an invisible enemy. For a second the blood beat in my head and I turned my frightened stallion at the rise. A figure sprang up almost under my hoofs and I laughed as my bullet caught it in the throat. One of my men was writhing on the ground. Another lay so huddled that I knew he was dead. I could have shouted and screamed the fury that I felt, but my heavy draperies impeded my movements, and, as I struggled with them, it seemed that a bee stung my cheek. Something warm and wet trickled down my throat.

Then a dark figure caught my rein and, in the shadow, I hardly knew whether it was friend or enemy.

"Ride, lady, there is no hope to fight," cried the voice of Ahmed. He pointed to a flying figure which already neared the safety of the plain. It was Jusuf, his stirrups swinging, his robe like a dark sail against the sunset. I looked up and saw the tribesmen silhouetted recklessly above us. My brain cooled and I started firing steadily.



"A figure sprang almost under my stallion's hoofs. I laughed as my bullet caught it in the throat."

"There is no danger," I told Ahmed, between my teeth. "My life is protected."

For a few seconds there was a duel between rifle and revolver. Then two of the dark blotches disappeared, and, with a scream my stallion reared. Before I could recover my balance the animal had bolted and in this undignified manner I led a retreat which undoubtedly saved the situation. A hand caught at my stirrup as I passed. It was the wounded Bedouin. I bent down to drag him to the saddle, but he was too heavy. My stallion plunged his way free and in vain I wrenched at the bridle.

It is not etiquette in the desert to pursue a foe, so by the time the merciful dusk closed round us, we were free of the open plain and could count our losses. We had left two dead among the dunes, but the wounded man had been rescued. There was a wild outcry at the thought of the bodies which would by now be headless.

"We must return to fetch what is ours," claimed Ahmed, and in another minute, with the battle cry of their people on their lips, the men would have doubled back toward Ait Amra. To spill blood to revenge, there would have been much among the dunes.

I flung back my veil and shouted to them all the eloquence which is the Arab heritage. I seemed to be with me and the tribesmen stood there like me drunk with the spell of words, which is more potent to them than wine.

The night wind brought us to our senses and dejectedly, we turned backwards to some ruins which we had passed in the late afternoon. The enemy had already reached them, and we found him, shameless with indignation, in possession of the farthest corner. His dignity had been affronted and he could think of nothing but a vengeance, which I guessed would be by proxy. Ahmed evidently had the same idea.

"The hand of a townsman is too soft for the sword," he said, "but, by my head and my eyes, I swear that I will have a life for each one of my brothers, and my wife shall not know me till this is done."

In silence we prepared for the night. The camel which had carried our stores lay dead across the borders of Ait Amra and we had nothing with us but a few dates and a strip or two of dried goat's meat. Worse still, the goatskin which held the supply of our precious water had been pierced by a bullet.

"It is empty as the breast of my grandmother," announced Ahmed, tragically, but a Bedouin relished our gloom by announcing that there was an old well a few yards from the huts. By this time it was pitch dark. We lowered the great gourd which served as a bucket into depths which seemed faintly phorescent and brought it up satisfactorily full.

"By Allah, there is something in the water," marked Ahmed, as the gourd stuck for a moment. "Heaven grant it is not a jinn" (an evil spirit).

In darkness we divided our meager provisions and drank the vilest water I have ever tasted. In the darkness I tore up my sash and bandaged the wounded man's shoulder. Then, having given him the last of my aspirin, I crawled into a corner, rolled

Capt. Salisbury and "Uncle John" mobilizing the baked beans for the big feast.

"YOU are all invited to take dinner with me."

It might be expected that such an invitation would attract everyone within the sound of the voice of the person extending it.

And it did.

Now, thanks to radio, there is practically no limit of distance to the carrying power of the human voice. One who gives a dinner invitation by radio must put many extra leaves in his table.

Capt. Edward A. Salisbury, a noted lecturer and traveler, rated as one of California's millionaires, found this out to his great amazement and expense.

The Captain owns La Joya Lodge, in San Franciquita Canyon, near Elizabeth Lake. He is an enthusastic radio fan. When he planned a barbecue he thought it would be a good idea to tell "the folks" about it by radio. So he casually passed the word to "Uncle John," the announcer of Station KHJ in Los Angeles.

The invitation went out over the microphone, with these startling results:

More than 27,000 persons wrote letters of acceptance.

More than 60,000 arrived at the ranch at the appointed time for the dinner.

Of these, 38,000 were fed and it was necessary to turn away more than 22,000.

The guests began to arrive at La Joya Lodge at 8:30 a. m. and some were still coming at 6 p. m.

All roads leading to the 1100-acre ranch were crowded with traffic throughout the day. If there ever was a bigger barbecue anywhere, California has never heard of it. By actual count 15,500 automobiles entered the canyon leading to La Joya Lodge up to 2 p. m.

Thirty trucks were used to carry the supplies necessary for preparing and serving the dinner.

A large detail of motor-cycle policemen did their best to keep traffic moving and four repair cars drove up and down the roads to give automobile first aid to all who needed it.

Bands, orchestras and entertainers from Station KHJ put on a varied program for the vast assemblage of dinner guests.

The barbecue pits were a striking sight. There were eight of them, each 16 feet long, and each holding 2500 pounds of meat. Fifteen bolts of cheesecloth had been used in wrapping the 20,000 pounds of beef, and great hooks reached into the pits to draw out the huge smoking roasts.

Jose Romero of barbecue fame was the master of chefs. He was assisted by 15 cooks, 20 special chefs and 50 waiters. And just to give an idea of what it took to feed the gathering there were 50,000 buns used, 30,000 apples, 800 pounds of coffee, 1000 pounds of sugar, 2500 pounds of salad and 30,000 paper plates. These are only a few of the items. The buns alone, from a baking company, required three trucks and trailers for delivery.

The major domo of the affair was L. M. Brokaw, who assisted Capt. Salisbury in the plans and arrangements, and who devoted his entire time to seeing that everything was in order for the comfort of guests. There were many details, naturally, to attend to in this respect. A day nursery and playgrounds for the hundreds of children were among the necessary installations.

From Lancaster west the combined beauty of the desert and mountains cast its spell over the radio-invited guests. The cars came in from the south by way of Bouquet and Mint Canyons. Dropping from the summit they entered La Joya a mile and half below and were escorted to parking places by 60 Boy Scouts.

Leaving the parking places the immense crowd moved slowly to the head of a beautiful canyon and crossed the dam to the far side, where it fed its way through runways in single column. The columns passed alongside of tables receiving plates of steaming, palatable food.

They passed on down the canyon, crossing to a mesa on the opposite bank and forming in groups on the hillside. The slopes had been graded and rolled. The entire tableland was enchantingly wooded with live oaks and the ground was bedded soft with fragrant leaves. A crew of 50 men had worked for 10 days preparing the barbecue site, cutting timber and grading.

At the peak of the tableland a platform had been erected and standing on it Capt. Salisbury delivered an address of welcome. Uncle John responded to the words of welcome in behalf of the visitors.

Grouped about the platform were the bands and entertainers. Radio speech amplifiers broadcast the music on loud-speaking horns.

The system of the barbecue was well regulated. The crowds were kept moving in one direction, circling the pear-shaped estate so that they finally returned to the main entrance of the canyon where the cars were parked.

During the evening those who remained after the bulk of the crowd had returned home gathered at fireside picnics within sight of the American flag rippling at the entrance to the canyon.

Just a small cross section of the great crowd which accepted the radio invitation to dinner.

Slowly something emerged. Something dark, sleek, loathesome reared itself from its concealment with a lithe, graceful, horrible, undulating movement, slowly swaying to and fro. I [illegible] I uttered a cry. Alpin lunged forward [illegible] with his wand.

The Case of the Remarkable Husband

I NOTICED the parcel-post delivery come to a stop before the house of my neighbor, John Sandys, and watched with some interest an oblong, paper-wrapped box carried to his door. The box might have contained flowers, but the habits and character of Mr. Sandys made flowers incredible. He was the type of man who might send his wife a present of a sirlion-steak upon her birthday or of a waffle-iron at Christmas, but for him to have sent a box of flowers casually upon no occasion whatever was unimaginable.

Alpin Stone, my adjoining neighbor—a dealer in second-hand books—and, so I have discovered, an individual well worth cultivating—was trimming the grass about the flower bed. I called to him.

"Alpin," said I, "a parcel has just been delivered to the Sandyses. It looks like flowers."

"Then," said he, "Mrs. Sandys must have an indiscreet admirer."

"It might," said I, "contain food."

"If it came from Sandys,' said he, "it might contain anything that is devoid of beauty or sentiment, and is useful."

"But," said I, "he's not such a bad chap. Seems fond of his wife, and she of him."

"A good husband and bountiful provider," said Alpin, sententiously, "but as empty of imagination as a puffball is of honey."

At that moment Mrs. Sandys appeared in the door. Even at the distance of a hundred yards one was aware of her exceptional prettiness, even though her features were indistinguishable.

She stood in the door an instant, looking up and down the street; then spying Alpin and myself, ran across the porch, down the steps and toward us. She paused before my house, breathless.

"Will you come? Will you please come—quick?" she said.

"What has happened?" said I, though Alpin already had moved toward her.

"The box. I'm afraid of the box!" Then, as we walked beside her—and her pallor and trembling made it apparent she was the victim of no ordinary fright—she said: "I don't know what it is. I never felt so before. It isn't fright, exactly, but a kind of loathing. The moment I touched that box it overcame me. I felt that I had something horrible in my hands."

"You opened it?" Alpin asked.

"No—No!"

Alpin paused. "You say your sensation was one of loathing and horror?"

"Yes."

"Was the box light or heavy?"

"It was—it was quite heavy."

"Did it feel," asked Alpin, "alive or dead?"

"It felt," she said, after a pause, "malignant."

"There was no mechanical ticking?"

"No."

Alpin nodded to himself. In Mrs. Sandys' hall he paused and said, impatiently, almost petulantly: "The box! The box!"

"There." She pointed to a table in the library, where rested a container some two feet long by ten inches wide and six inches deep. It was wrapped in stout Manila paper and secured intricately by a strong cord, knotted and knotted again.

We approached it. No sooner had we come within its immediate neighborhood than Mrs. Sandys covered her face with her hands and uttered a sort of moan. I, myself, was conscious of a peculiar sensation, not unlike the feeling one has in a rapidly descending elevator. Alpin Stone's face mirrored some unpleasant emotion, but his lips were compressed and his brows drawn. As if by a tremendous effort of the will, he compelled himself to lay his hands on the cover of the box. He lifted it, weighed it, shook it. From the sound the box contained some heavy substance, packed loosely in paper. He set the box down—and the movement within continued.

Alpin turned to look at me, and nodded, as if confirming some conjecture already made.

"Wait," he said. "Don't touch it until I come back. On your life, don't untie a knot. Or, better, I will carry the box into the garden. Come along."

We walked through the house to the back yard, a little plot secluded by high shrubs, and Alpin placed the box on the lawn; then he walked to a young fruit tree and ruthlessly cut a strong limb with his jack-knife—a limb with forking branches. This he trimmed meticulously until he held in his hand a stout wand, some six feet long, with a crotch at its extremity.

"Mrs. Sandys, stand at a distance, please. You, Jenkins, take that hoe and be ready."

The cord was unfastened. Alpin stood back, and with his wand loosened the wrapping paper, disclosing a strong box of corrugated pasteboard. He placed the tip of his wand under the cover and flipped it upward, poising tensely.

The box was filled loosely with white paper, such as is used to pack fragile objects, paper cut into narrow strips and looking like white excelsior. That was all. Alpin reached forward with his wand and stirred the mass of paper!

Slowly something emerged. Something dark, sleek, loathesome reared itself from its concealment with a lithe, graceful, horrible, undulating movement, slowly swaying to and fro. I think I uttered a cry. Alpin lunged forward deftly with his wand. The box was overturned amid a disconcerting flopping and thrashing about, and then Alpin turned to me, calm, restored, and said, in his natural voice: "Have a look."

I ventured nearer. There, pinned to the ground, with the arms of Alpin's fork imprisoning its throat, if the thing can be said to have a throat, was a reptile which I recognized as the hooded cobra of the Dekkan Peninsula!

"Imagine," said Alpin, almost with pleasure, "a man, unsuspicious, opening that box and fumbling blindly in the loose paper to see what he had."

I could imagine it, and the thought nauseated me.

"Better take Mrs. Sandys over to your wife," he said. "Then hurry back and help with the execution."

I left Mrs. Sandys, who seemed struggling with hysteria, in the hands of my wife, a woman of stable disposition and much tact; after which I returned to Alpin Stone, and together we completed the unpleasant task of disposing of the snake.

"Did you observe Mrs. Sandys closely?" he asked. "Was it your opinion she acted as one would expect a woman to act in the presence of a wholly unexpected and frightful occurrence? Or was it your opinion she showed fright, without such astonishment as you would expect to find?"

I considered. "She was exceedingly upset," I said.

"Naturally," he replied, shortly, "but was she astounded that anyone should try to take her life by such an abhorrent means?"

"I cannot say," said I.

"Nor can I," he said, more to himself than to me. "It is of first importance. If the whole affair is to be comprehensible to her, we have one species of puzzle. If she had reason to expect a murderous attack of some kind, but was only surprised and terrified at the manner of it, we have quite a different problem. What do you know of these people?"

"Hush," I said, for I saw out of the corner of my eye, the figure of a man come round the house and pause at sight of us. I turned. It was Mr. Sandys. Mr. John Sandys was a short gentleman, with wide shoulders and thick waist. His neck was unusually short, and his wide face habitually wore an expression which, to give it the best of it, was placid.

"Good afternoon," said Alpin.

"Howdy do?" he responded.

"A frightful thing has happened," said I.

"Is that so?" he responded, in exactly the tone he would have used if I had mentioned my belief that it would rain.

"An attempt," said Alpin, "has been made to murder your wife."

"Who did it?" said Mr. Sandys.

"Someone," said Alpin, "sent your wife a poisonous snake by mail."

"What kind of a snake?" asked Mr. Sandys. Then, after a moment's apparent study of the situation: "Didn't bite her, did it?"

"No."

He hesitated, as if striving to cope with the situation. "Must have kind of frightened her, I guess," he said.

"Mr. Sandys," Alpin said, sternly, "do you know of any reason why your wife might fear a murderous attack?"

"Susan?" He pondered it briefly. "Why, no."

"Have you or Mrs. Sandys an enemy?"

"I s'pose," he said, "there's folks that don't like us. Everybody can't like everybody. But that ain't a reason to send snakes."

"Hardly," said Alpin, dryly.

"You will notify the police at once?" said I.

"What for?" he responded, with the faintest trace of irritation. "There ain't any harm done."

"Because," said I, angrily, "the individual who made this attempt will try again. He must be discovered before that can happen."

"It is a matter," said Alpin, in an odd tone, "for Mr. Sandys to decide." With which he turned his back squarely and walked out of the yard. Mr. Sandys, apparently, paid no attention to our going. As we crossed the street we met Mrs. Sandys returning; she walked hurriedly and passed us without token of recognition.

"Jenkins," said Alpin Stone, when we reached my

Amateur Sailors to Cross the Atlantic in Small Boats

The briny route now as practicable as the Lincoln Highway, many greenhorn mariners believe, and this summer they will point their bowsprits toward the seven seas—Last year, two tiny craft manned by rank amateurs at sailing small boats made the voyage across ocean, and successfully came through some exciting adventures—The 124-day cruise of a young Frenchman, alone in a 30-year-old cutter :: ::

By JOHN E. MITCHELL.

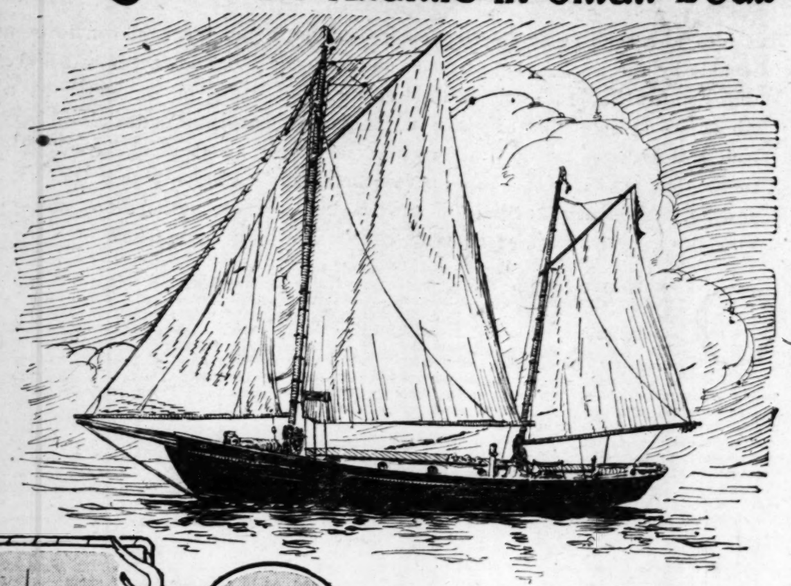
MOST of us, at some time in our lives, have sneaked away from the office clock to have a look at new lands and unfamiliar faces. In the last few years, thousands of us have slung canvas bags between the mudguards and the radiator of the automobile we some day hope to finish paying for, and chugged off across the Kansas prairies for the coast, or south to the gulf and Florida.

This winter, in a dozen ports along the Atlantic coast, men have been dreaming of the day when they could sling their duffle bags on the deck of their own little boat, and start off across the Atlantic. Just as never before have we been able to run up and down our country, like rabbits in a cornfield, so now for the first time it is practicable, these men think, to point their bowsprits towards the seven seas.

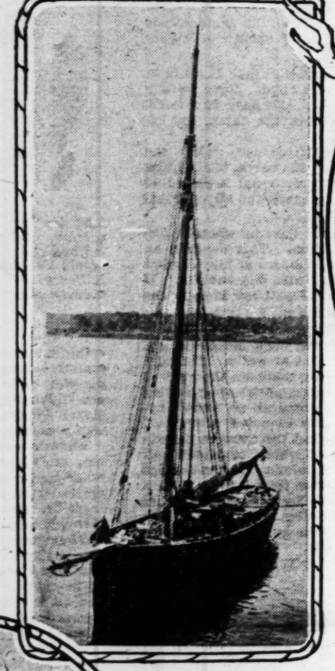
These men—these greenhorn sailors—have been convinced the Great Circle track is as practicable as the Lincoln highway because last summer two very small boats crossed the Atlantic, which is a very big ocean.

The boats were the Firecrest, 35 feet over all, and a boat with the curious name of Sowitasgoht V., 42 feet long; and the Atlantic is 3600 miles wide. The Firecrest was sailed single-handed by Alain Gerbault, a Frenchman; the Sowitasgoht by Capt. Einsle, an Austrian, with four friends. All these men were rank amateurs at small boat sailing.

They followed the track of the American Typhoon, 45 feet long, which was sailed by



The American Typhoon, 45-foot boat in which William W. Nutting crossed the Atlantic in 1920, and helped to start fad for long cruises by amateurs.



This little sailing boat, the Firecrest, is only 35 feet over all. In it Alain Gerbault, 21-year-old Frenchman, sailed alone from Cannes in the Mediterranean to New York.

a very skilled amateur, William W. Nutting, and the American Diablesse, 52 feet long, whose skipper was John B. Kelly, writer of the yearly Gloucester fishing races for the Post-Dispatch, and who was then making his first long cruise. Week after week these boats, not as long as an Olive street car, were alone at sea, beyond reach of any possible help. They ran short of food and water. They were buried upside down under mountains of water—knocked down, sailormen say—their spars and rigging were wrenched over the side, and once two men were swept overboard.

It is very improbable any of these things, however, will happen to the men who are planning to start this summer. They will not sail, as Gerbault did, in a 30-year-old cutter with dubious gear, nor will they sail alone. This boy of 21, making the voyage from Cannes, in the Mediterranean, to New York, in 124 days, had to lash his helm while he snatched a few hours' sleep and cooked hasty meals. For the rest, he stayed on deck, keeping his boat to her course, taking his position at noon, splicing, mending and painting his worn-out craft. His weather-rotted sails carried away again and again, and Gerbault calmly patched them and kept on. In the middle of the Atlantic he found his fresh water had nearly all spoiled.

Finally, on Aug. 20, as he neared America, a wave curled above his mast, and, thundering down, brought away his bowsprit and bobstay; with them it wrenched loose the shrouds until the mast tottered in its step, in danger of going with each roll of the boat.

It didn't much frighten the boy. Later he wrote simply to Nutting of the Typhoon: "The situation was bad, and, I am ashamed to say, during those hours I thought of sailing back towards Bermuda, which was only 300 miles away."

But he kept the Firecrest's head up, and out of the snarl of tangled rigging set a staysail, with which, after 72 hours of fighting against a sea cold with fury, he reached Fort Totten, just outside New York, and the voyage was over. Gerbault spent this winter in France, planning the cruise which he expects to make in the same old Firecrest, in a few months, across the Pacific.

The Sowitasgoht had an easier time. But she, too, ran short of water and had to rig up her sails as scoops to catch rain water with which to brew precious mouthfuls of tea. Off the Atlantic coast she ran into a small cyclone. For two days and a half the tiny vessel skidded up and down mountains of boiling water, playing hide and seek with the devastating center of the storm, while the wind roared a gale.

The chief problem the crew of the Sowitasgoht faced, however, was the fall of the Austrian krone to about one-thirty-seventh of the price of a postage stamp. The krone wasn't worth anything, and Capt. Einsle, an Austrian deck officer, and Frank Plunder, a young sculptor, with their three friends, had miserably few kronen when they commenced to build a boat with their own hands.

They never knew, Plunder said afterwards, where their next pound of nails was coming from, so they called their boat Sowitasgoht V., which means "as far as it goes."

One of their friends, Jochum, offered to raise money among German yachtsmen. Before he returned empty handed to Lake Constance, where they had laid the keel, he had starved himself down to 90 pounds. To get iron for the keel Plunder picked up horseshoes and scrap iron from the streets. He begged the sails. The crew lived in the boat as they built it, because they had no other place to live.

After the Sowitasgoht was at last launched on Lake Constance, they had to carry sightseers to earn enough to have it freighted to the sea. The five friends cleared Hamburg with so little money they were forced to borrow 7 shillings from the harbor master to pay the duty when they touched in at Dover, England, after the trip across the North Sea.

These are the voyages which have encouraged the men who own small boats on the Atlantic coast. If they have sufficient supplies, which Einsle and Plunder didn't have, and sound gear, which Gerbault didn't have, they think they can make the

EARTH'S INTERIOR NOT MOLTEN, BUSS OF

The idea of a solid crust, floating upon seething, liquid rocks, shown to be untenable by the tidal action of moon and sun—Some geologists now believe that man dwells on a globe as rigid as steel — Density of the earth as a whole is 5.52 times that of water, while average density of materials on surface, and rocks as far down as we know anything about them, is only 2.8 times—The answer seems to be a vast metal core—Another clue is the composition of meteorites—Study of earthquake waves strengthens new theory —Anyway, gold at center of earth couldn't possibly be reached :: ::

OLD MOTHER EARTH has a heavy heart. But for all that it may be a heart of gold.

Geologists now tell us that instead of living on a thin crust of rock and earth and floating like slag on a sea of seething lava and molten rock, as we were taught a generation ago, we are living on the outer weathered crust of a globe as rigid as steel, and heavier than any of the common rocks.

It is hot enough inside, geologists tell us, so hot that probably all the rocks are melted, but the pressures are so enormous that this molten rock behaves in many ways almost as if it were solid metal. It is now thought that the great bulk of the interior of the earth, all of it to within 1800 miles of the surface, is a mass of heavy metal, principally if not wholly iron, or iron and nickel. So that Mother Earth has a heart of iron, heavy but strong.

Yet it may not all be common metal such as iron and nickel. There are metals heavier than these, and rarer. If the core of the earth be conceived as a mass of melted metals, the heavier would tend to collect at the center, and among these heavy metals that are rare at the earth's surface are gold and platinum. So, some geologists have surmised that the center of the earth may be a huge nugget of incalculable value.

"Bosh," say other conservative scientists; "sensational humbug, fit only for half-wits. Nobody knows that the gold is there, and if it is there it is probably mixed or combined with other substances, and anyway it would be impossible to get it out."

"Don't quote me as saying there's a gold mine at the center of the earth," said one eminent authority on the earth's insides. If you did there are a lot of fools that would be writing to me and asking how it would be possible to get at it."

But the fact remains that not a few competent authorities think there is fair reason for supposing that for a short distance around the very center of the earth there may be amounts of the heavy metals such as gold, lead, silver and platinum, not necessarily in the pure state, but there nevertheless.

It is only a guess, or what the scientists more elegantly and exactly call a hypothesis, but it has something more than guesswork behind it.

What do we know of the inside of the earth, anyway, and how do we know it?

When the Nebular Hypothesis of the origin of our solar system held sway about 50 years ago, it was believed by scientists that all the inside of the earth below a depth of about 10 or 20 miles was liquid rock, like the lava that flows from volcanoes. Volcanoes themselves were thought to be safety-valves for the superheated boiler inside, so that when the pressure got too great they popped off, and maybe killed some tens of thousands of people in so doing, but saved the whole world, or at least large sections of it, from blowing into fragments. The crust of the earth was thought to be just a sort of scum on the surface of the liquid.

But investigation developed facts that did not square with this theory a bit. For example, the attraction of the moon and the sun on the waters of the oceans produces the tides; and if the interior of the earth were a rather thin liquid, the same pull of the moon and sun would raise tides there that would speedily play havoc with the exterior landscape. Furthermore, it has been found that earthquake waves travel through the inside of the earth in just about the same way and at the same speeds that they would through a solid sphere of highly tempered steel.

Evidently, then, the inside of the earth is made of something very tough and very rigid. Have we any clews as to what it might be? We have two fairly good ones. Take the weight of the earth, for example.

A competent physicist or astronomer, with the proper instruments, can weigh the earth, if not quite as accurately as the grocer weighs out a pound of butter, yet with sufficient accuracy for all practical purposes.

Sir Isaac Newton pointed out the way when he discovered the laws of gravitation. This depends on just two factors: the mass of the two or more bodies involved and their distances from one another. If the distances and gravitational pull are known, the mass can be calculated, and for all earthly purposes mass and weight amount to the same thing.

The density of the earth has been measured and found to be just 5.52 times that of water. But here is an odd thing: Taking everything on the surface of the earth, including the waters of the seas; adding to all this the rocks as far down as we know anything about them, or a matter of a few miles, and lumping it all together, we find the average density to be only 2.8 times that of water, or about half the density of the earth as a whole. If the surface of the earth is so much lighter than the earth as a whole, evidently there must be something rather heavy as we get toward the center. We have already seen that it must be rigid. The qualities seem to be approaching those of a metal.

Important work in proving that the earth is a solid mass, instead of only a crust [illegible] molten interior, has been done by John F[illegible] director of the College of Engineering, [illegible] ern University. So much did his work [illegible] Royal Geographic Society that the Vi[illegible] was presented to the American scientist.

Here is another clew. Everybody has [illegible] ors, or "shooting stars." A few people [illegible] what they really are after they have fa[illegible] earth—irregular, pitted masses, the [illegible] from the intense heat generated by their [illegible] through our atmosphere. What are the[illegible]

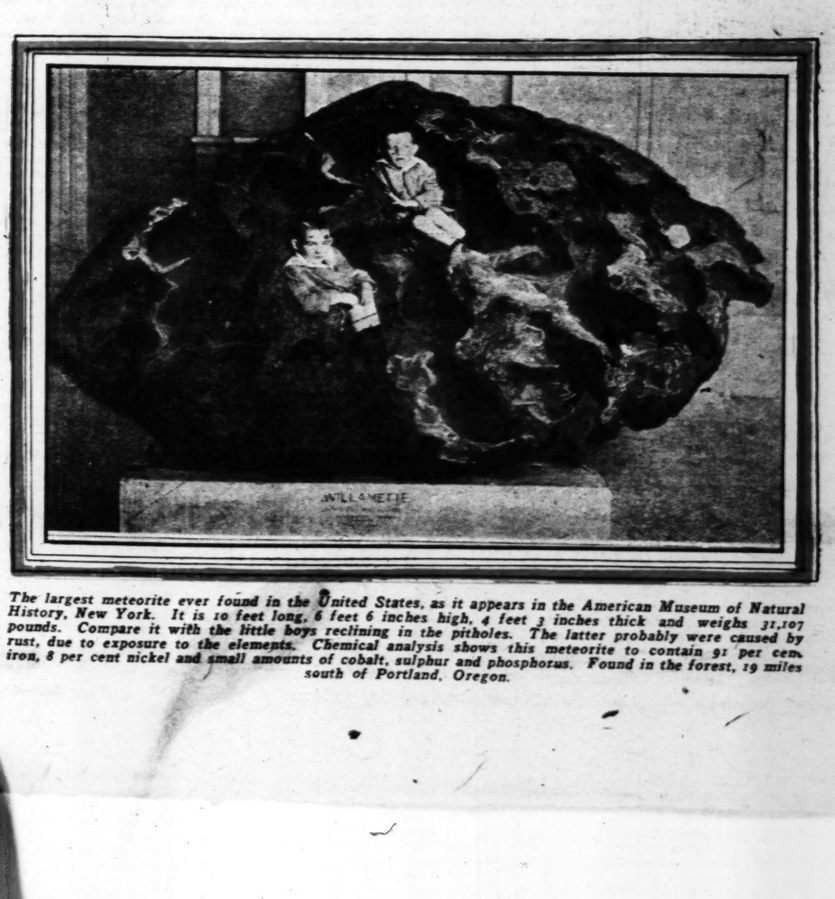
They are thought to be fragments [illegible] planet like our earth which was disrupted [illegible] immense catastrophe, or, more probably, [illegible] of the parent substance of which our [illegible] and all the planets were made. Either [illegible] meteorites are good clews as to what our [illegible] is made of.

We find there are in general two kinds [illegible] One resembles in composition the deeper [illegible] the earth's crust as we know it; the other [illegible] made of metal. This metal is iron mixed [illegible] and cobalt and a few other metals in [illegible] amounts. These metallic meteorites are [illegible] merous than the stony sort. Hence it is [illegible] likely that the earth is composed in part [illegible] but mostly of iron or nickel-iron. In what [illegible] tion are these substances divided in the [illegible] sides?

That is a question which modern [illegible] made much progress toward answering. [illegible] done it by a study of the time it takes [illegible] waves to go around the surface, and through [illegible] side of the earth. Earthquake waves travel [illegible] the earth much as sound waves do through [illegible] and the rate they travel depends on the [illegible] they are traveling through. The denser [illegible]

Every time there is an earthquake three [illegible] sorts of waves sent out through the earth; [illegible] travels around on the surface; the other [illegible] short cut through the inside, and if the [illegible] origin and the point of final observation [illegible] known, the path of the waves may be [illegible] through the earth and just how deep they [illegible] the deepest. Then from their speed, a [illegible] may be made as to the density of the [illegible]

From all these and other considerations [illegible] been found that the earth probably consists [illegible] principal layers, something like the skin, [illegible] and the pit of a peach. What we know as [illegible] crust is the skin. It probably extends to a [illegible] about 35 miles. Below this, the meat of the [illegible] responds to a thick layer of rocks of [illegible] ferent chemical composition from those [illegible] earth's surface, and resembling more [illegible] stony sort of meteorite. This layer extends [illegible] ward for about 1800 miles. Then we come to [illegible]



The largest meteorite ever found in the United States, as it appears in the American Museum of Natural History, New York. It is 10 feet long, 6 feet 6 inches high, 4 feet 3 inches thick and weighs 31,107 pounds. Compare it with the little boys reclining in the pitholes. The latter probably were caused by rust, due to exposure to the elements. Chemical analysis shows this meteorite to contain 91 per cent iron, 8 per cent nickel and small amounts of cobalt, sulphur and phosphorus. Found in the forest, 19 miles south of Portland, Oregon.

The new theory about the structure of the [illegible] section. According to some scientists, the [illegible] believe that under the layers mostly [illegible] layers of metal. Old World is sitting on a hotter part of the earth's crust than the U. S. A. Whereas in Central and Western Europe the temperature rises one degree Centigrade for every 32 meters of depth, it is necessary to go down 42 meters in most of America to get the same rise of temperature. Europe seems to be nearer the internal fires. Comments are superfluous.

Once the interior of earth was thought to be a seething mass of fire and molten rock, slowly cooling, and that volcanoes served to relieve the pressure beneath the crust, like safety valves. This view is being abandoned.

How did the earth get that way? What makes it hot? How was it made?

Science used to say that all of what is now the space occupied by the solar system was once a vast nebula, a mass of exceedingly rare gases. It began to condense. So doing, it got hotter and hotter. It began to revolve as it condensed. As it revolved a central core was formed. This became the sun, which was vastly larger than it is now. As it revolved it threw off masses of material which condensed to form planets. These in return revolved, threw off satellites and condensed into solid bodies, or bodies with a solid crust and molten interior, as our earth was conceived to be under this, the Nebular Hypothesis, first promulgated about a hundred years ago.

The new theory, the "planetesimal" theory, starts with the sun, a mighty orb much larger than that of today. Some time in the abyss of the past another star approached it. Its attraction was so strong that tidal action was set up in the sun, its crust was broken, and vast masses of gaseous matter issued with frightful velocities and to incredible distances. This matter cooled into relatively small chunks of solid matter, such as meteorites are. They coalesced to form planets and satellites. In so doing they also heated up to a great degree, but essentially they built the earth on a solid, not a liquid, foundation. Volcanoes, according to this latest theory, are merely local boils on Mother Earth's complexion, and are not a constitutional complaint.

By this theory it is relatively easy to account for the heavy metallic core of the earth, for it was there to start with and grew by gravity. A spectroscopic study of the sun shows few heavy metals in its outer atmosphere. Presumably the subsiding process has already begun there.

And so Mother Earth has a hard, heavy heart. As for a golden one? What says a conservative scientist, such, for example, as Dr. Henry S. Washington, volcano specialist of the Geophysical Laboratory of the Carnegie Institution of Washington? In cold type he declares:

"We may conclude that the metallogenetic elements (those of the heavy metals) are rare on the earth's surface and do not show intense spectrum lines on the sun because they are too deeply buried in both. One might recall, to pass from science to fiction, that the idea was, in a way, foreshadowed by Jules Verne, who in one of his stories describes a comet or meteorite composed of telluride of gold."

The fancies of Jules Verne have so many of them come true that one hesitates to scoff. Perhaps, in spite of all her manifold infirmities and distresses, Old Mother Earth still has a Heart of Gold.

"Shooting stars" and the "showers" of beautiful sparks which occur in August and November of each year are, by most astronomers, given the name of meteors. Small particles, the heat of their friction against the earth's atmosphere makes the air hotter than a furnace around them and they are burned up. Thus meteors are changed to gas and dust, and if they reach the ground it is as dust.

But fire-balls, the masses of metal or stone composition which come dashing against earth's sides from the depths of space, usually are termed meteorites. Less common than meteors, they are far larger, sometimes weighing many tons.

"There are mysteries about these objects that challenge solution," writes Garrett P. Serviss, famous writer and lecturer upon astronomical subjects. "They come upon us out of the unknown seas of space, presenting aspects at once so familiar and so strange as to defy classification.

"They are of two sorts: the iron meteorites and the stone meteorites. The former often are allied with nickel, about in the proportions used for nickel-steel armor plates, as if old Vulcan had prepared them for some stupendous war in heaven.

"In what star were they molded? From the iron bowels of what exploded planet were they shot forth, to wander for ages in space until at last they crossed our track?

"Some of them carry embedded diamonds, not Kohinoors, but numerous little, black, glittering, impish, staring eyelet points, which are true diamonds despite their ebon hue, as they prove by tearing steel saws and emery wheels to pieces as if made of nothing but wood.

"So it would appear that diamonds are made in other worlds by dissolving carbon in molten iron, and crystallizing it under the effects of pressure. But one would like to know where these worlds are—or were—and what happened to them.

"Then, again, the stone meteorites offer us other puzzles. About one-third of the chemical elements known in our laboratories are contained in them, combined into many minerals, some of which are perfectly familiar. One remembers how Columbus on his first voyage picked up in the midst of the ocean branches of strange trees and curiously carved pieces of wood, and argued from them the existence of the new world, from whose shores they must have come."

The Case of the Remarkable Husband

piazza and dropped into chairs. "John Sandys is either a very good man or a very bad man. In either event he is a remarkable man."

"He impresses me as being a clod," said I.

At that moment the newsboy threw a folded paper upon the steps. I opened it to glance at the day's news. The first item my eyes encountered was a so-called feature story in the middle of the page under the cartoon. I imagine the occurrence of the word "snake" in the headline arrested my attention. I read it hastily and passed it to Alpin.

The item, written in jocular vein, described with much detail how some unknown had broken into the snakehouse at the zoo, admitting himself by cutting the pane from a window with a diamond. There were surmises as to the purpose and alcoholic condition of the burglar; but the telling point of the narrative was the fact that a certain snake, a cobra recently arrived from India, was missing.

"Perhaps," said Alpin, "we should not have killed the reptile. Doubtless it was a valuable specimen."

He was silent a moment, looking apprehensively from time to time toward his own house. His especial worry when engaged upon some criminal problem was lest his wife should discover his activity. Mrs. Alpin Stone regarded her husband's penchant for criminal investigation as a low habit, savoring of large feet and broad shoes and taking snuff, which she learned was a habit common among policemen.

"We may group premeditated murders," he said, "into three general classes. Those arising from greed (perhaps a majority), those arising from some of the numerous by-products of so-called love and those arising from the desire for engeance. It has long been my conclusion that crimes of a fantastic nature have their origin in the last."

"Then"—— said I.

"I incline to believe this was an attempted crime of vengeance."

"But what," said I, "could a pretty, commonplace home body like Mrs. Sandys have done to call down such a horrible revenge?"

"Jenkins," he said, solemnly, "there is no such thing as a commonplace home body. The mere fact of her sex invests every woman with tremendous potentialities."

"Sandys' attitude," said I. "It is incomprehensible. Doesn't he realize? It piles the responsibility upon us, does it not? If he refuses to take action for his wife's protection, we must."

"And shall," said he. "I was about to go to the shop to consult my indexes. This is an exceptionally fascinating set of circumstances, bizarre, exotic. It should be a matter of small labor to find the right road. But to follow it—that may prove both difficult and—hazardous."

Alpin, as you may perhaps not know, is an omnivorous reader. He buys many books for his second-hand shop, but is distressed if a purchaser carries one away. And he had, for a quarter of a century, made a study of the crimes of fiction and of fact, studiously classifying them as to their characteristics, and cross-indexing them, so that, given a set of facts, he can, with a reasonable degree of certainty, build up from his data the true conclusion.

It was the next morning before I saw him again.

"Have you noted," he said, "the remarkable increase in the number of vanished young women for the past six months?"

"No," said I.

"It is remarkable," he said. "And the notable feature is the class of young women who vanish. In New York it is girls who shop in expensive Fifth avenue shops, in San Francisco it is girls who live on the Hill, in Cleveland it is young women whose photographs appear in the society columns. There have been no less than seven such disappearances in six months."

"Which indicates?"

He shrugged his shoulders. "Anything you choose," he said, "but, undoubtedly, something! None of them have been found."

"But that has no bearing on the Sandys affair."

"I wish," he said, apparently ignoring my remark, "I knew from what part of the world Sandys came. If I knew it were Australia, matters would be simplified."

"Ask him," said I, and his only reply was an ironical smile.

He gazed off across the street a few moments, and I fancied his brain busily engaged with the affair in hand, but what was my astonishment to hear him say, with every sign of keen interest in the subject: "I wonder how one recognizes real poetry. The borderland between the sublime and balderdash is so narrow. Drivel and loftiness run along side by side.

"I never read poetry," said I, with some displeasure.

"You should. Not so much for the poetry itself, perhaps, but for the pleasure of determining if the sentiment comes from the heart of the writer, or if he were only stringing together, with a certain degree of skill, words which seem to mean something, but are utter rot."

"Meantime," said I, "Mrs. Sandys sits in danger of her life."

"I am not unmindful of Mrs. Sandys," he said, with that irritating placidity which sometimes settles upon him, "but I chanced to think of this Hindu poet who has conquered our drawing rooms and our publishers and our lecture audiences."

"What about him?" said I.

"Either," said Alpin, "his is the mind of a very sweet and deep and extraordinarily wise man, or it is the cunning of a charlatan. I have read him. Sometimes I fancy I catch glimpses of thought so profound and comforting as to be beyond the grasp of the ordinary intellect. At other times I am certain it is nothing but pseudo-esoteric rot, meaningless with intent."

He arose and walked across the street to the Sandys home, mounted the porch and rang the bell. Mr. Sandys appeared and stood in the door, staring at us in his mild, vague, uninterested way.

"When do you go?" Alpin said abruptly.

With sudden gesture he threw back the folds which concealed the face of the girl bearing refreshments.

"Go?" said Sandys, with an air of not comprehending.

"Move on," said Alpin, "to the next stopping place. This one, of course, has become impossible."

Mrs. Sandys appeared, her eyes flashing, her cheeks flushed to extraordinary prettiness by sudden anger. "Don't annoy him. Don't question him. I won't have it. Isn't it enough"——

"Quite enough," said Alpin. "I do not wish to annoy. My purpose in coming was to ask for your promise not to —disappear—for 48 hours. You can do so with safety, I think. I am almost willing to guarantee it."

"Forty-eight hours," said Sandys, unemotionally. "Why should I move on in 48 hours?"

"Mrs. Sandys," said Alpin, "you have been making inquiries about me. Do they warrant you in begging your husband to place some confidence in me?"

"John. Please."

He did not look at her; scarcely did he look at us. He merely seemed to stand there like some immovable piece of household ware, not endowed with consciousness.

"Mr. Sandys," said Alpin, "are you Canadian?"

"No."

Alpin nodded. "Nor English—I mean a former resident of the island?"

"No."

"I have always wanted," said Alpin, "to make the voyage to Australia."

Sandys waggled his head uneasily. "It must be a—long trip. I—personally I don't like long trips."

"Did you notice in the paper of this morning," said Alpin, "that Marylin Graine, one of the season's most photographed debutantes, has disappeared?"

"No," said Sandys.

"Who is the richest man in the world?" asked Alpin.

"Why," said Sandys, after a pause, "I suppose Mr. Rockefeller."

"Wrong. It is the Maharaja of Jodhpore. Good evening. I have your promise. Do not leave this house for 48 hours. Admit no one but [illegible]. Take in no parcels except from [illegible] hands. Preferably keep to the second floor and away from all windows. Good evening."

"Well," said I, in exasperation, after we reacned my own porch again, "that was a peculiar conversation."

"Most illuminating," said Alpin. "I was sure I must be correct. The manifestations are identical." He leaned forward and touched my knee. "Come. I have secured an invitation to call upon the great Hindu poet—the Master of Benares."

"But I have no interest in poets."

"All the same, I imagine this one will interest you. He seems to have a certain message and to be a striking personality."

"Very well, if it will please you," said I, with the air of one making a sacrifice.

"Have you," said he, "such a thing as a firearm?"

"To visit a poet?"

He smiled. "Do you remember the multiplication table?" he asked.

"Naturally."

"Bear it in mind," said he. "Then touch your arm, fix your mind upon it. Recite it to yourself as if your life depended upon it. Which it may. Concentrate upon it to exclusion of everything else. Carry your pistol in the inside breast pocket of your coat—the left side."

* * * * *

The taxicab stopped before the door of a brick house, set well back from the street in a profusion of trees and shrubbery. I was taken somewhat aback, for the house was upon our most elite thoroughfare, and was of no mean pretensions.

"Poetry," said I, "must be profitable merchandise in India."

"I believe," said Alpin, "that the Beggar has a patron who foots the bills, thus acquiring merit."

We traversed the long walk and presented our cards to a bearded, sandaled Hindu, who performed the offices of butler. The house, I noted at once, was redolent with some pleasing, if exotic, odor, as of priceless incense burning. There was a profound quiet. The Hindu did not speak. He bowed low and motioned us with courtly gesture to follow. After crossing several rooms we entered a spacious apartment given over to the preservation of books. Cases filled with thousands of volumes erected themselves to the ceiling, and there were no windows. The light of day was admitted through the glassed apex of the ceiling, but it was now evening, and the sole illumination came from tall candles rearing themselves from Oriental candelabra. There was a faint haze of smoke—the smoke which disseminated the odor noticeable upon entering the house.

"Welcome, Friend of the Written Word," said a voice, rich, melodious, beautiful, "and welcome to your companion."

It was then that my eyes first rested upon the face of the Beggar of Benares, and whatever apprehension of evil I entertained vanished as if before some magic of exquisite purity. It was the face of an old man who has lived beautifully; a face which spoke at once of childlike simplicity and of profound wisdom.

The Beggar sat, Oriental fashion, upon a low divan. His robe was white, but not so white as his beard. At his feet crouched a second Asiatic, given to stoutness, with head bowed upon knees and face hidden as if in perpetual reverence.

"We have come," said Alpin Stone, "to drink at the fountain of your wisdom."

"The wisdom," said the Beggar gently, "of a child lost in the wilderness."

I felt a great shame, a shame for the presence of a firearm in my possession. It seemed a sacrilege.

"Be seated," said the Beggar. "It is well to comfort the body." He spoke a word to the servitor at his feet, who arose and placed chairs for our convenience.

Never from the lips of man have I heard such gracious eloquence! The talk was of virtue and beauty, and of the triumph of spirit over flesh. One listened as to a revelation. I was at peace; I was made to feel that the world was good and to perceive the feebleness of evil.

"And now," said Alpin, "let us speak of men. We of the West rest under a cloud of ignorance and misconception as to you of the East. Names come to us on the wind of rumor, but they remain names. To some we must be grateful—to the patron who sent you to us, the Maharajah of Sawnpore. Tell us of him."

The servitor at the feet of the Beggar lifted his head for an instant, and I felt the sharpness of his piercing glance.

"A youth, bound to the flesh, but striving toward the heights of purity," said the Beggar. "But I thirst. Let such refreshments as are fitting be brought."

The servitor clapped his hands; portiers opened, and a slender girl, swathed to the face in white, entered bearing a tray. She moved slowly, and, if the phrase be permissible, with mechanical grace, and stood waiting. The eyes of the servitor did not lower themselves, but remained fixed on Alpin Stone.

"Enlighten us, Master," said Alpin, and some subtle change in his voice caused me to sit tense and apprehensive, 'is not evil worked under the shelter of virtue of blacker face than evil which stands fearless in the open?"

I looked to the Beggar. His head rested upon his breast; his eyes were closed, and his face was one of perfect peace.

"The Master sleeps," said the servitor.

"It is well," said Alpin. "He will neither see nor hear."

"It is well," replied the servitor.

"Rutton Lal," said Alpin.

"I am Rutton Lal."

"At first I was deceived. His goodness deceived me."

"It was well conceived," said the fat servitor, rising. He laughed with an amusement which was inexplicably repulsive to me. "See," he said. "You came to gain knowledge. Look."

With sudden gesture he threw back the folds which concealed the face of the girl bearing refreshments. It was a white face, a Western face. "Marylin Graine," said I, for her features had been made familiar in the public prints since her disappearance.

Rutton Lal spared me a glance. "You know what you know," said he, and laughed again. "Now the work of your lives is accomplished."

Suddenly Alpin clutched my arm. "The table," said he, and, remembering, I began to recite those labors of my school days. "One time one is one, one time two is two, one time three is three." But even as I counted I saw things which were not.. The Beggar of Benares vanished from his seat, and in his place sat a woman of gracious beauty, at whose feet coiled a snake, and as I watched, reciting mechanically, fighting to perceive the real from the unreal, the snake uncoiled and moved toward me. Alpin stood beside me, staring, wide of eye, wavering upon his feet. I tried to cry out, but no sound came. I knew, but I do not know how I knew, that the approach of that serpent meant the approach of death, but I was powerless to move. "Six times six is thirty-six; six times seven is forty-two; six times eight"—— I could not recall it. I struggled to remember the answer.

Rutton Lal came very close to Alpin Stone and laughed in his face.

"We who do the bidding of the Maharaja of Sawnpore do it well," he jeered, and suddenly stopped jeering, for Alpin no longer wavered on his feet, with drowsy face and half-shut eyes; Alpin's left hand clutched the fat olive throat, and there was the sound of a blow as the butt of Alpin's automatic fell upon the lank hair of Rutton Lal's rounded skull. The man sank to the ground.

"Jenkins," said Alpin.

I clenched my hands, rubbed my eyes. The beautiful woman gave place to the sleeping Beggar; the crawling snake vanished. I felt weak, nauseated.

"He almost had me," said Alpin. He bent quickly and handcuffed the wrists of Rutton Lal. Tie his feet," said he; here is rope. We're not out of the house yet—nor Marylin Graine."

The girl still stood, motionless, apparently sightless, unmoved by what had passed.

"Rutton," said Alpin, "at the first appearance of something that doesn't exist, I shall shoot."

The Hindu shrugged his shoulders.

"You escaped from prison in Australia."

"Evidently."

"Why did you send the snake to Mrs. Sandys?"

Rutton Lal maintained a stubborn silence.

"Do you want him to know?" Alpin pointed to the still sleeping Beggar.

"No. No. He must not know."

"I thought so. Sublime goodness can impress even such as you. Talk, and I promise he shall not know. How is Mrs. Sandys concerned in this?"

"She was one of us."

"In Australia?"

"Yes."

"Where your business was abducting girls for your master, the Maharaja of Sawnpore?"

"Yes," very sullenly.

"She was the Mary Noyes who gave you up to the police? Why?"

"Love," said Rutton Lal with a sneer. "She loved a man."

"A good man?"

"A good man."

"Who knew her story, and her wickedness—her abandoned childhood, and the current of events which threw her into your hands?"

"Yes."

"And he persuaded her to cleanse her soul? He took his life in his hands that she might be redeemed?"

"He was a brave man," said Rutton Lal.

"Sandys?"

"Yes."

"You have hunted them down?"

"For two years I have searched."

"You chose a strange means."

"A warning. The story would go far. Many would read it. Those who read would fear to do as this woman did."

Alpin nodded. "So I reasoned," said he. "And now, under the shelter of the virtue of the Beggar of Benares you have entered again the business of abduction?"

"But he does not know. He does not know."

"Is there an honest man in this household?"

"All save four. It was necessary."

"Rutton Lal," said Alpin, "you will disappear. Now, while I wait, you will send your message to the intelligence of the Beggar that you have been called away, and who will take the trust of his affairs. He must not suffer."

Rutton shrugged fatalistically. He shut his eyes and remained silent a moment. "It is done," he said. "When he awakens he will know."

"I do not wish to frighten the girl. Tell her to awaken tomorrow in her own home—without memories."

"It is done," said Rutton, presently.

"Come," said Alpin. He bent over and freed Rutton's feet. "There is a very modern telephone, Jenkins. Will you be so good as to notify the police, and call a taxicab to take Miss Graine to her home?" He turned to Rutton Lal. "Perhaps," he said, "you need refreshment. Will you choose a glass from the tray?"

"For the first time since birth," said Rutton, "I acknowledge intelligence in an Occidental. You play well to the last move." He lifted a glass to his lips, and then sat down, composing his limbs comfortably, and buried his face in his arms as he had sat when first we entered the room.

We waited. Half an hour passed in silence. Rutton Lal sat motionless; the girl stood as if carved from stone. The turbaned butler entered, paused uncertainly.

Alpin rose. "Cover Rutton Lal," he said. "There may be trickery. I doubt it, but he may hope this is not checkmate, but only mate."

He motioned the butler to follow him, and they disappeared. Almost instantly he returned with our old friends, Detectives Samuels and Roush, at his heels.

"Gentlemen," said he, with a note of complacence in his voice. "Miss Marylin Graine. Yorder is Rutton Lal, abductor extraordinary to His Highness the Maharaja of Sawnpore. The story will wait. Let us make haste."

Ed. Roush stepped heavily to Rutton Lal's side and placed a professional hand on his shoulder. The man did not move. Roush lifted the Oriental head; the eyes were closed; it was the face of one who has gone peacefully to sleep—but it was the sleep from which there is no awakening.

Late that night we rapped at the Sandys door.

"It is I," said Alpin, and we were admitted.

"There is no need to move on," he said. "Rutton Lal is dead."

"You know?" For the first time Sandys exhibited strong emotion.

"The story in all its details. But you need have no fear. Malicious tongues will never touch Mrs. Sandys. Now you may begin to live."

"But how?" I said. "How did you arrive at all this?"

"The index," he said. "The cobra was a favorite means of Rutton Lal. He used it twice in Australia, once in Shanghai, and nobody knows how many times in other places. It, taken with the disappearance of a number of young society women, pointed to a recurrence of the infamous Sydney exposures of two years ago. The cable told me Rutton was at large. But I admit I was shaken when I faced the Beggar of Benares. It seemed impossible evil could shelter itself under such simple virtue. Then I saw Rutton's eyes."

He turned to Mrs. Sandys. "Madame," said he, "may I congratulate you upon a husband such as few women possess?"

"I am trying," she said, with grateful tears, "to be worthy of him."

Flivvers of the Sea

crossing infinitely more easily. As they are led on by what they have heard told of the Firecrest and Sowitasgoht, and the 22 small boats which raced to Bermuda a year ago, so Einsle and Gerbault were fired by the voyages of the Typhoon and Diablesse.

When Gerbault arrived in New York, a copy of Nutting's story of the Typhoon was under the pillow of his bunk and the plans of the Typhoon were used by Plunder in drafting the Sowitasgoht.

Before the Typhoon crossed the Atlantic in 1920 there had been no notable small boat voyage since Capt. Joshua Slocum hailed the battleship Oregon on its cruise around the Horn in 1898 from the deck of his tiny Spray. But old Capt. Slocum had been a professional sailor all his life, and even in the yacht races of the '80's of Bennett and Vanderbilt and Lorillard their skippers had been deep-water men.

Nutting, a magazine editor, was in a sense a pioneer, the first man who had not grown up before the mast to cross the Atlantic. He had the worst time. Off Bermuda, not far from the place where Gerbault lost his bowsprit, the Typhoon was knocked down. A high-crested wave spilled tons of water on her deck, the Typhoon went over until her masts lay flat in the water, and then kept on going until the ashes fell out of the galley stove and hit the deck ceiling above.

Four of Nutting's crew of five were on deck, and two of them were carried overboard in the seething water. One of them clutched at the mast as the gallant boat righted herself, and by a miracle was lifted back on deck. The other man caught at a hawser which was being towed behind to check the headlong speed of the Typhoon. Inch by inch his companions dragged him back to the rail. For minutes he hung there until they gathered strength to jerk him on board.

By this time there was nothing they could do for the Typhoon. They crept below to the wreck of the cabin, battened the hatch from the inside, and, incredibly, went to sleep. The next morning a heavy sea was still running, but it was possible to get sail on the boat and make her answer the helm. Unaided, the little 45-foot craft had ridden out a November gale which, Nutting later learned, had battered the bulwarks of the Olympic.

Not many of us will try the Atlantic in November, or even in early spring, as did the men of the Bermuda race, which was won by John G. Alden of Boston in the 46-foot schooner Malabar IV.

Yet Nutting and Gerbault and the rest did not start out feeling like Leif Kricson's little brother. They would dislike intensely to be called heroes, and would hurriedly disclaim that they had done anything the rest of us couldn't do. Because they have seen inexplicable wiles and moods of the sea, and have met in strange ports men who have sailed square-riggers up and down the oceans of the world, they don't even boast a little about their three and four months' voyages, but they are exceedingly pleased if you call them sailormen.

It costs a little more to fit out a boat than it does a Ford, and it takes more time, and there are no friendly garages and farmers along the ocean track, but the feeling as the tin-camper and the yachtsman start out is much the same.

It isn't so much they are heroes or adventurers as it is the long days that

Gray Hair Quickly Goes
Before the Touch of this Clean, Colorless Liquid

The Original Color Perfectly Restored

It seems almost unbelievable that a liquid colorless itself can give gray hair its exact original color.

But in Kolor-Bak, Science has given us just such a liquid and through its remarkable power, hundreds of thousands of people have quickly taken years from their appearance. Many report amazing results in a week.

Youthful Looks Win Attention—Always

No matter what the former color was, Kolor-Bak will restore it, and it will give the hair a beautiful natural gloss, renewed "life" and lustre, and make it soft, beautiful, "young" again.

It gives a cool, refreshing sensation to the scalp—makes it clean and makes it feel clean. It is not sticky, greasy, mussy or unpleasant to use. It is just a clean, colorless liquid which is a proved substitute for the natural pigmentation. It is as easy to use as water.

Kolor-Bak is actually a scalp and hair tonic because of its cleansing, stimulating qualities which promote health and strength—thus aiding Nature to bring about a normal condition of the hair.

No need to furnish samples of your hair. The one clean, colorless liquid is for all hair. Several people whose hair was originally of different colors could use the same bottle of Kolor-Bak with equally satisfactory results.

My Hair Was Quite Gray

"My hair was gray. It was falling out. My scalp itched and burned. A few applications of Kolor-Bak stopped the falling and dandruff. My hair soon stopped coming out and now is again its original color. I look 10 years younger."

seem to be so idle, but which are really filled with numberless little things which a man can do with his hands. It is the changing sky, and the fresh wind, and the long, easy motion of the boat. And, most of all, it is that you are going where you want to, when you want to and as you want to, without tickets and timetables.

All the difficulties of outfitting, rigging and navigation have been fairly well worked out by Nutting and his followers. Their cruises have been told by letter and word of mouth to dozens of us, until we greenhorns think with proper gear we can make Land's End in England with never so much as a lost marlin spike. But someone yet may bring back a story to equal Nutting's or Gerbault's in peril and heroism, against the odds of winter's storm or makeshift rigging. These people who go sailing are queer people.

A Fight on the Desert

self in a blanket and went to sleep with my head pillowed on my arm. The death chants of the Bedouins haunted my dreams and I saw again the two crumpled figures along the dunes. My cheek was stiff and sore, so I woke vowing vengeance on the raiders and slept no more because of a curious pain, which increased as the stars rose higher. Gradually I was conscious of a movement in the hut. Generally the Bedouins slept like statues, but now they flung themselves from side to side, punctuating their restlessness with groans.

"Wallahi, a snake eats my belly," came a woeful voice which I failed to recognize, and it occurred to me that the description exactly fitted my own agony.

"Allah, the water was accursed!" said another Bedouin.

"There was certainly a jinn in the well!"

Doubled up in my corner, I felt cold sweat on my forehead, and I was just wondering what had been in the well, when a soft, fat voice beside me remarked faintly: "It is finished! By Allah, I am going to die."

I knew the tones of Jusuf and he was the one man who simply could not be allowed to die, for his face was our only passport in a country which gives short shift to strangers.

"Allah forbid," I replied, in a voice which I hoped sounded encouraging. "I have a powerful medicine which will cure you."

Contorted with pain, I crawled to the spot where I had left my holsters and, in pitch darkness, I began fumbling for the little bottle of brandy I reserved for such emergencies as these. Sighs drifted past me and I shivered a little, for it seemed as if the place were full of tormented spirits. My fingers shook as, after much futile searching, they closed round the precious flask. Slowly, because of the pangs which wrung me, I crept back to Jusuf, but he did not answer when I called his name.

In desperation I began feeling the huddled bodies, for when an Arab makes up his mind to die it takes strong measures to stop him. My hands struck against cartridge belt and sword, and I was sobbing in the darkness before I touched the soft, yielding flesh and the weaponless girdle of the townsman.

"Jusuf, I have the medicine. It is very strong," I cried to him, but his pulse was almost gone and his head sagged inertly against my arm.

Ruthlessly I forced open his teeth and poured half the contents of the flask through them. There was a moment's silence. I could feel the shudder which ran through the limp body against my knees and I never knew whether it was tears or sweat that ran down my own face.

"Billah," murmured a Bedouin, "the claws of the evil one are rending me."

Unconsciously, my hand clutched my flesh as if it would hold it together in spite of the pain which wracked it. Then Jusuf spoke, and his voice was unexpectedly strong.

"By Allah, that is good medicine," he said. "Have you more of it?"

I handed him the flask, heard him gulping the last precious drops, and was mildly amused at the thought of his horror if he knew that the medicine was the spirit forbidden by his Prophet. Then I must have fainted, for, when I was next conscious, the sun was pouring into the hut, which was empty except for the fat, silk-clad figure of Jusuf, who was eating doura grains with relish. Outside, silhouetted against the desert were a group of my Bedouins, talking to three strangers, who were evidently the dilatory guides of Ait Amra.

I stared dully at the pinched and haggard faces of my men and decided that they would certainly accept blood money for the kinsmen killed by Ait Amra. I never saw anyone look less like fighting than Ahmed. The recalcitrant guides evidently realized it, for they redoubled their explanations and apologies. I heard repeated, "It was a mistake. Allah forgive us, but you were taken for an enemy," and then the magic word "silver," which heals so many feuds in the East.

Stupefied with pain, my hand went out to the flask which glittered a few feet away. I stared without comprehension—that round, painted thing had never contained brandy. With a gasp, I precipitated myself towards the bulging holsters whose contents had been scattered by my midnight search. There was the brandy flask intact, but I had no thought of thankfulness for the relief it promised. For a full minute I glared at the gaudy glass clenched in my stiff fingers. I remembered it now—the gift of a courteous merchant on the coast—but my brain refused to grasp what I had done.

Jusuf spoke. "Of a certainty that was great medicine, oh, lady!" he said, cheerfully, "but by Allah it burned my throat and stomach!" I stared at him wildly, for I was slowly realizing that I had given him half a bottle of eau de cologne——

An hour later, when the question of blood money and the return of the de-

How to Make Your Beauty Dreams Come True

By MME. MAREE

YES, you have blown beauty bubbles in your dreams. We all do. And now to make them come true. First of all you want to retain your girlish looks, which means that you must

Remake Your Complexion

Faces are often a network of wrinkles, crow's-feet, enlarged pores, tiny hard lumps, rough scaly coarseness and thin, purple lines. And yet the arms are as smooth and dainty as a little girl's. I am asked what to do for such a face and I unhesitatingly say eptol. You can get two ounces of it for 65 cents, enough to last all summer, at any drug store, mix with a tablespoon of glycerine and a pint of water. It thickens at once to a rich, heavy cream. Simply spread a thin coating around the eyes, temples and on the forehead, then over the cheeks; rub it in until absorbed.

Instantly it begins to work on the pores, tightens them, the outer dead skin disappears, new skin comes at once, the lines, crow's-feet, wrinkles fade out, the skin becomes smooth, looks plump and has the appearance of real, girlish health.

Makes Hair Live.

You can take hair that lays flat, coarse, straight and dead-like, apply a little beta-quinol to the scalp, when lo! each hair freshens. It takes on a glint or shimmer, it stands out alone, and whether cut short or hangs in great masses, it becomes as hair should, light, feathery and fluffy. If hair is very thick beta-quinol livens each hair to fluff up and thus takes away the feeling or sense of weight.

Ask the druggist for one ounce of beta-quinol, mix it with a half pint of rubbing alcohol and a half pint of water. Thus for the small price of only 65 cents you get a pint of the best hair tonic known, really worth its weight in platinum.

To Remove Blackheads

All you need do is to sprinkle some powdered neroxin on a cloth dipped in hot water. This you gently put over the skin where the blackheads are, then rub briskly and every last blackhead, big and little, has been dissolved without leaving a trace.

After a few applications the pores tighten up and there are no more blackheads. You can get the neroxin at any drug store. An ounce is plenty and will cost but 65 cents and will last for months.

Can I Help You.

I am quite sure if you will use these lovely beautifiers they will make all of your dream bubbles come true. But in case you do not find the ones you want at the drug store send the price to me and I will have my secretary get it and mail it to you.

Mme Maree

Now Is the Time to Prepare for Outdoors, When You Should Look Your Prettiest.

A Delightful Shampoo

Twenty-five cents worth of eggol, which you can get at any drug store, will give you enough for a dozen of the creamiest, frothiest shampoos you ever had. It washes right out, no soapy, sticky effect, the hair dries right away, fluffs out beautifully and makes your head feel fine.

Muddiness and Blemishes

If it is freckles, muddiness, red spots, sallowness and the shining, oily skin that makes you think you look like a fright, just mix an ounce of zintone and two tablespoons of your ordinary glycerine and a half pint of water.

Rub this on your face, arms, neck and shoulders and I will wager you will hardly know yourself. The effect is magical. You can get the zintone at any drug store for 65 cents for an ounce and thus make your dreams of beauty come true.

capitated heads had been arranged to the satisfaction of my still very sick followers, curiosity drove me to the well.

"The caravan is ready to start, lady," shouted Jusuf, but I wanted to understand the reason of the night's sufferings. I called the word which, for centuries, has retarded the progress of the East. "Badein" (presently), and, a moment later, found myself looking down the well.

A curious odor assailed my nostrils. The water was shimmering with a pink, putrescent slime, and, from its midst, protruded the decaying legs of a dead—such a very dead—camel!

"The place is accursed, lady!" shouted Ahmed from a safe distance. "Come away quickly or the jinn will seize you."

"It is certainly accursed," I retorted, feebly, and had just time to reach the nearest bushes before I was violently sick.

Murder as an Art—In Grand Opera

sy lying on a cot, and the composer, evidently having been perplexed as to how to kill her, simply allows her to drop dead. The excuse must be that she succumbs to the infirmities of age, but she has a fairly lusty voice for an old woman and any audience standing up for its rights would be justified in hooting. That kind of death is flimsy and uncalled for. If a composer can't do any better he ought to let the character live. As it is, there is one man left alive when the curtain goes down. Why the composer didn't have someone throw a bomb into the scene is a mystery and an inexcusable blunder. True, there are three dead and the audience is mildly pleased, but it would improve matters to kill off a few more.

In "La Boheme" there is one sure death and others indicated. The story is about a girl who blunders into a room where three vaudeville artists are practicing their act. Nobody will book them and they haven't much food until one of them shows up with a herring he stole from a meat market. There is a knock on the door and the girl is dragged in, with the explanation that she fell down the steps. (That is original and we have to give the composer credit.) They place her on the bed and she leisurely proceeds to die, not without warbling several arias.

At that juncture, one of the vaudeville actors remembers he has an engagement with himself to commit suicide and he picks up his coat and leaves, presumably to hang himself on a lamppost. A second actor falls to the floor with a fishbone in his throat, and chokes. The third actor, evidently a lightning-sketch artist, turns his back and lets the others die in peace. That is fairly good, but bets were overlooked.

If some of those composers would take the hint and put out an opera where there are plenty of people killed the show would enjoy a run as long as the retreat from Moscow.

We could lay the scene in a department store, with the floorwalker in love with a girl at the hosiery counter. Although she doesn't know it, she is a real Princess. The first act opens with the floorwalker coming up the moving stairway to court the saleslady. He sings for about 15 minutes at the left side of the stage and the girl picks up an odd stocking and sings for 15 minutes more on the other side, and then they sing together. The floorwalker proffers his ring, which he has bought at special rates, and the girl examines it to see if the stone is genuine. Satisfied, she slips it on her finger and they clinch, and a chorus of delivery boys troops in from the right and dances around the happy couple.

The next scene is laid in the boss' office. He is shown standing at the window and looking out at the skyscrapers as he idly toys with his watchchain. He turns and sings about his business prospects, but is interrupted by the entry of an efficiency expert. This is an opportunity for our first murder. The boss throws the expert out of the window and dumps the wastebasket on him. There is a trill from the orchestra and the dying efficiency expert's voice floats through the window. There is a duet between the boss and the expert and then a thump on the drum indicates the expert is no more. The boss receives a telegram, which he reads aloud. The message states he is to return to the Kingdom of Russia, where he is slated to be the next Czar, and is to bring with him his daughter, the Princess (the salesgirl).

The boss falls to the floor in a faint and sings that he forgot all about being in a royal family. A stenographer enters and dumps the contents of the water cooler on him.

The next act is laid in the bargain basement. Bargain seekers and shoplifters form the chorus. The boss and the floorwalker enter talking about improvements. The boss breaks the news that the floorwalker cannot marry the salesgirl as she is a Russian Princess and must go back to her country to keep it intact. He leaves, singing, and his voice trails after him. The floorwalker picks up the last few notes and walks over to the shoe counter. He puts on one of the bargain shoes and it pinches his foot and kills him. A janitor enters, singing a love song, and takes out the body.

The next scene is laid back in the hosiery department. The boss tells the girl that she is his daughter and a Russian Princess and that she doesn't need to eat in cafeterias any more. "Can't I marry the floorwalker?" she warbles. The boss strolls to one end of the stage, looks into the orchestra pit and rolls out a stentorian "No!" He leaves and the girl, weeping, sings she would rather sell socks and marry her floorwalker than go to Russia, where there is no steam heat. She moves to the window, raises it—still singing—perches on the ledge for a while and then drops. It is 20 stories to the ground and the soprano is abolished.

The third scene reverts to the bargain basement. The crowd of shoppers is pointing off stage and singing: "He is dead, he is dead, he is dead!" The boss enters and says: "Who is dead?" And they answer: "The floorwalker—he is dead." This is news to the boss. He staggers backward and murmurs: "You don't say!" And treads on one shopper's toes. She gets angry and stabs him with a hatpin. He falls and the other shoppers applaud.

The last act takes place on the main floor. A maniac runs in with a machine gun he stole in the sporting goods department and sprays the crowd, killing everyone between aisles A and D. Two keepers run in and kill the maniac. Then they sing a duet and explain everything. It seems that the maniac is the boss' brother and wrote the telegram, which was spurious and misleading—in fact, utterly false. An earthquake shakes the building and everyone remaining is killed.

There is enough slaughter in that opera to satisfy any audience. Perhaps the most effective bit is the hatpin scene, and a good basso can put a lot of pathos in it and bring down the house. At the end of the opera all the principals come out and join hands in their bows—the boss, the salesgirl, the floorwalker, the maniac, the janitor and the two keepers and the stenographer. There was really no reason to introduce the stenographer except that most operas have altos and, as the salesgirl was a soprano, one was needed. The boss is basso, the floorwalker and maniac are tenors of different gear and the keepers are twin baritones. The janitor can sing anything he wants.

After all, there can be no opera without murder and calamity. And how opera singers do enjoy suffering! A tenor would rather lie on the floor with a stiletto in his gizzard, and sing, than drink. If he succumbs, the heroine will glance casually at him, without changing her expression, and continue warbling. She has been looking for something of the sort to happen all along and isn't surprised.

Every opera star, no matter in what company, was "formerly with the Metropolitan." An ex-Metropolitan singer is unknown. Perhaps the soprano scrubbed floors at the time, but she was "formerly with the Metropolitan."

Her press agent is a clever dog, too. He gathers the best of the newspaper comments and frames them. They run something like this:

"Tremendous!"—Yapptown (Kan.) Herald.

"Not a single flat note."—Dingbat (Ia.) Bugle.

"Sublime! Gorgeous!" — Cohokus (Mo.) Clarion.

"Best singer ever heard here!"—Rubeville (Nev.) Times.

Of course, the names of the papers and the small towns are put in tiny type, to make them as inconspicuous as possible. The adjectives overshadow the other details, being so large they appear to have been raised with yeast.

So Easy Now to Have the L... Rounded Neck and Shou... That Everyone Admires

Scientific Discovery of Vitamines Builds Up Thin, Scrawny Figures. Drugs or Dieting—Quick Relief for Worn-Out People.

Samples Sent FREE

Are you too thin? You needn't be. It is possible for anyone to have full shoulders, rounded neck and a trim figure. Hilton Vitamines, extracted from a wide range of foods, are largely responsible for converting food into flesh and producing new vigor and vitality. Lack of Vitamines in the diet causes nervousness, loss of weight and vigor, headaches and many deficiency diseases such as skin eruptions and emaciation.

Hilton Vitamines

Quick Relief No Drugs or Dieting When Hilton Vitamines are added to the diet, results are often noticeable in their rapidity. Within a few days many emaciated, scrawny figures begin to round out—bony angles and ugly hollows disappear. In a natural manner your body quickly becomes what it should be according to your height. The flabby, weak tissues which are now a handicap become firm flesh and muscle—rich, red blood is produced—tasks now wearisome are quickly done because the food you eat is converted into energy.

A Clear Complexion, Too

Along with the healthful gain in weight comes a new, clear complexion. Even those pimples and blemishes—rosy cheeks, etc.—are indicative of new vitality and consequent personal magnetism and charm that makes for social success.

IMPORTANT: Hilton Vitamines are not to be confused with "Vitamins" products now on the market containing drugs. Hilton Vitamines are pure Vitamine concentrates, nothing else, and are so recommended by physicians.

Gains 4 Pounds in 8 Days

"I gained 4 pounds the first eight days I took Vitamines and am still gaining. Have increased my weight 9½ pounds and look like a different man."

Gains 8 Pounds Quickly

"Vitamines have increased my weight 8 pounds and done wonders for my complexion. They are the first thing I have tried that put weight on me. I admire any nervous, scrawny woman to take them."

AN AMERICAN COUSIN OF KING TUT'S TOMB

Burial place wrought out of the solid limestone at Bedford, Ind., a century ago.

THIRTY-FIVE hundred years from now, if archeologists are digging around Bedford, Ind., they may come upon a tomb which in a modest way suggests that of Pharaoh Tutankhamen, the treasures of which have recently been brought to light in Egypt.

The limestone of which the tombs of the Pharaohs are constructed is to all intents and purposes the samé as that which comes from the Indiana quarries, familiar in great banks, churches, business blocks and mansions throughout the country.

A hundred years or so ago a great limestone outcropping at Bedford was shaped down by one Winthrop Foote to make a tomb which Foote planned should 'last as long as the Pyramids.' In this the bones of Ziba Foote, drowned about 1818, and of his brother, Winthrop, died 1856, still rest.

This tomb, hollowed out of solid rock, was sealed like the Pharaohs', with a great slab of limestone. A wall was built around it and a five-foot obelisk erected over the sepulchre. A marble slab, suitably engraved, was inset in the monument.

The elements have partly obliterated the inscriptions from the marble, but the pioneer's desire for an everlasting resting place may be realized, for limestone grows harder with exposure to the air, and the original chisel marks on the limestone are as sharp and well defined after a century as if they had been made yesterday. Only the marble tablet shows the marks of time.

Metal Protected by Surface Film

IRON exposed to the weather will rapidly rust away; copper, under exactly the same conditions, will last for years. Of the other metals, some, like tin and aluminum, last almost as well as copper. A few will corrode even more easily than iron.

The reasons for these differences have been a great scientific mystery until recent researches in England, just announced by Dr. Guy D. Bengough and Mr. J. M. Stuart. These scientists have discovered that the secret of corrodability or the reverse is a surface film on the metal.

When a clean surface of copper is exposed to the air there forms on it instantly a very thin protective film of a copper compound which thereafter keeps the air away. It is not unlike the clotting of blood. As soon as blood begins to escape from the arteries it forms a tough clot or film. No more blood can escape. So with the copper. As soon as some of the atoms of it begin to be corroded away by the air the surface of the metal films over, or "clots." This protects the rest.

Aluminum does the same thing. So does tin. Iron does not, or at least the film formed on iron is not tough enough to last and to be protective. Iron is like one of those unfortunate people that we call 'bleeders,' people whose blood will not clot firmly or promptly. That is why iron rusts away so rapidly.

Maybe, now that Dr. Bengough and Mr. Stuart have found a clew to the real nature of corrosion, they may be able to devise a better way of putting an artificial film on iron and saving it from rust.

SMOKE ABSORBS ONE-QUARTER OF SUNLIGHT.

RECENT tests in Paris with an instrument that measures accurately the amount of sunlight received from moment to moment have shown that when the smoke of the city blows over the place of observation the intensity of the sunlight is cut down more than 25 per cent below its value when the wind blows the smoke in the other direction. Sunlight is so valuable to health that this is a matter of considerable importance to city communities. It is another argument, possibly the best one, for careful attention to smoke prevention.

A PRINCE WHO OWNS A TAME VOLCANO.

PRINCE GINORI-CONTI of Italy has on his estates an old volcano which no longer spouts lava but which does blow out a great deal of steam and hot water. By boring holes in the ground the Prince collects this steam and makes it drive electric generators. He gets power totaling more than 3000 horsepower. Out of the steam, after it has condensed, he extracts valuable quantities of boracic acid, the familiar drug used in eye drops.

A Town's Mystery Solved With Ink

In each house he looked for open inkwells. When he found one, he dropped into it one of his chemical pellets, keeping a record of which pellet went into whose ink. Then he went back to the city to wait for more letters.

They were not long in coming. The Chief sent them to the doctor and the doctor got out his chlorine water and made his chemical tests. He found one of the chemicals that he had added. A glance at his list identified the exact inkwell that had been used and a simple inference told him the woman who had probably been responsible for all the trouble. The Chief arranged to watch every letter that this woman mailed. Within two days she had been trapped in the act of sending off another one, and the epidemic of vilification was over.

Dr. Smith's detective pellets had done their work.

Says New Method Heals Rupture

Kansas City Doctor's Discovery Makes Truss or Operation Unnecessary

A new discovery which, experts agree, has no equal for curative effects in all rupture cases, is the latest accomplishment of Dr. Andrews, famous rupture specialist of Kansas City, Mo. The extraordinary success of this new method proves that it holds and heals a rupture. It weighs only a few ounces. Has no hard gouging pads, no elastic belt, no leg straps, no steel bands, and is as comfortable as a light garment. It has enabled hundreds of persons to throw away trusses and declare their rupture absolutely healed. Many of these had serious double ruptures, from which they had suffered for years. It is Dr. Andrews' ambition to have every ruptured person enjoy the quick relief, comfort and healing power of his discovery, and he will send it on free trial to any reader of the Post-Dispatch who writes him. He wants one person in each neighborhood to whom he can refer. If you wish to be rid of rupture for good, without an operation, take advantage of the doctor's free offer. Write him today.

Babies' Paradise—
Healthiest City in the World

Now, there's a typical Seattle baby. You will see thousands like him in Seattle—young huskies with the rich bloom of health in their cheeks, joy and content in their eyes, rolls of fat and muscle on their wonderful little bodies. No digestive troubles annoy them, no hot days or nights threaten their lives, or severe winters to keep them shut in.

No city in the world of equal or larger population has as low an average annual death rate. The adult and infant mortality rate in Seattle is less than half that of various prominent American cities.

Seattle's remarkable health record is due to absence of extremes of heat or cold, cyclones, hurricanes, earthquakes, severe electrical storms—a climate soothing to nervous troubles and one that invites you out of doors the year round; an abundance of pure water; an exceptional milk supply; perfect natural drainage; cheap and plentiful vegetables and green foods the year round; no slum districts; and a scenic wonderland which keeps people in the open.

Make this vacation a "Charmed Land" vacation. Know the joys and benefits—mental and physical.

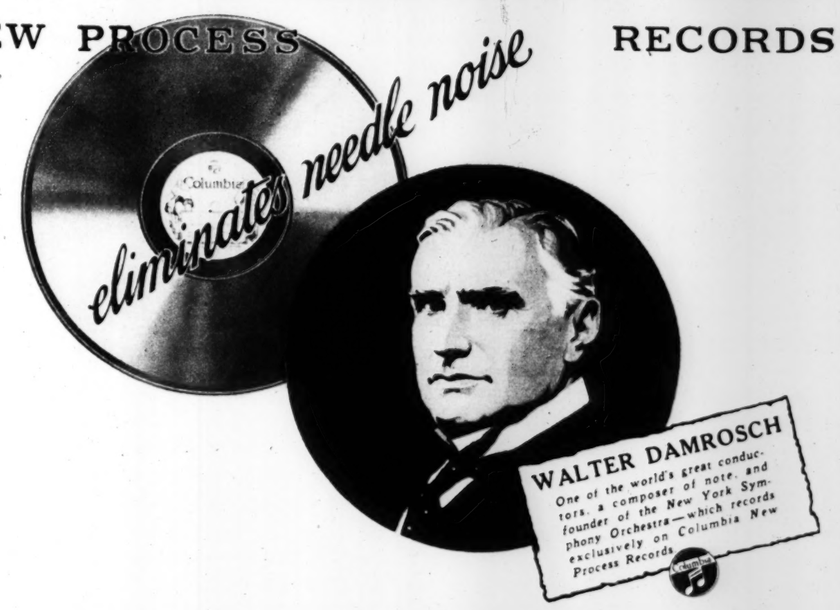
Columbia
NEW PROCESS RECORDS



"A faithful and vivid reproduction of my orchestra," says Walter Damrosch

WALTER DAMROSCH and the New York Symphony Orchestra never made a phonograph record of any kind until the invention of the Columbia New Process Record.

Then, for the first time, Mr. Damrosch found a reproducing medium which he considered adequate to transmit the music of a truly fine orchestra. "We are happy to play for Columbia," says Mr. Damrosch, "because these New Process Records represent our music faithfully."

Mr. Damrosch is not alone in commending the accuracy of Columbia New Process Records. Other artists find that this marvelous new record is singularly free from the faults that have been common to all phonograph records in the past.

Due to a method of laminated construction which makes it possible to use a more delicate and sensitive surfacing material than has ever been used before, the Columbia New Process Record is practically noiseless. There is no scratching or scraping of the needle. No filing, grating sounds to blur or veil the music.

When you listen to a Columbia New Process Record, you hear the music exactly as it was originally rendered by artists famed among musicians for their skill and musicianship.

The New York Symphony Orchestra numbers many of these among its members. Hear them under the inspired leadership of Mr. Damrosch on the New Process Record out to-day—"The Merry Wives of Windsor" and "Der Freischütz." It is a record you will want as a permanent addition to your library.

You will want also the new record by Ignaz Friedman, representing this fine concert pianist in a charming mood and playing Chopin's "Mazurka," "Minute Waltz"—and "Hark, Hark, the Lark."

Charles Hackett, fresh from sensational triumphs, has made a new record, "I Hear a Thrush at Eve" and "Thank God for a Garden." Ask any Columbia Dealer to play it for you, and also the new release by Toscha Seidel, "Symphonie Espagnole."

Columbia New Process Records cover every type of music from modern dance music and popular songs to the great classics. Prices range from 75c up.

COLUMBIA PHONOGRAPH COMPANY, INC.
1819 Broadway, New York, N. Y.

The New Columbia Phonograph is unquestionably the finest of all music-reproducing instruments. It has a purity of tone never before achieved in a phonograph—this, because of its remarkable new reproducer. It starts and stops itself. It has a new precision motor. Its tone-leaves are built on the pipe-organ tone-control principle. And the cabinets in which it is encased are made of rich woods and are exceptionally handsome in design. Prices $50 to $500.

Would You Like

Prettier teeth—teeth without dingy film?

You see glistening teeth wherever you look today. You envy them, perhaps. Why not ask for this ten-day test and learn how people get them?

Millions are now brushing teeth in a new way. You will adopt it when you know. Please learn now how much it means to you and yours.

Film mars beauty

That viscous film you feel on teeth is what makes teeth unsightly. Much of it clings and stays. No ordinary tooth paste can effectually combat it.

Soon that film discolors, then forms dingy coats. That is why teeth lose luster.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Hardly one in fifty escaped such troubles under old ways of tooth brushing.

Dental science has now found better methods. It has found two ways to fight film. One disintegrates the film at all stages of formation. One removes it without harmful scouring.

A new-type tooth paste was created to apply these methods daily. The name is Pepsodent. Leading dentists everywhere began to advise its use. Now careful people of some 50 nations employ this method daily.

The added effects

Pepsodent brings some added effects which research proved essential. It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva, also its starch digestant. These are Nature's great tooth-protecting agents in the mouth. Each use of Pepsodent gives them multiplied effect.

These results are all-important. Together they are bringing to millions of homes a new dental era. Your people should enjoy it.

Protect the Enamel

Pepsodent disintegrates the film, then removes it with an agent far softer than enamel. Never use a film combatant which contains harsh grit.

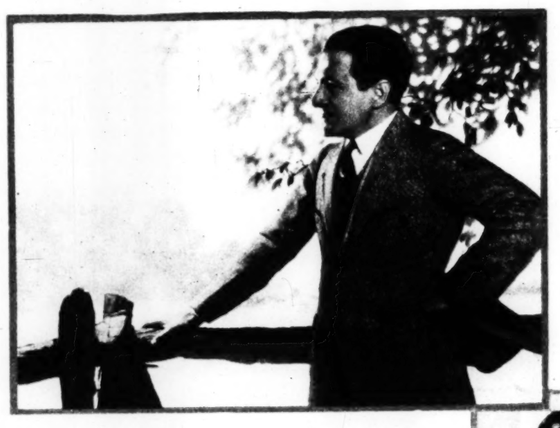
What is your Health worth to You?

Six cents a day for this unique food has rebuilt the health of thousands



"WHEN I was constipated I was always gloomy, melancholy, and unhappy. I got so I did not believe in any remedy at all. But I found on taking Fleischmann's Yeast that I did not have to have faith in it. It is one thing that will do its work whether one has faith in it or not.

"At the end of about three months I was as well as any man could possibly be. My constipation was gone, all my old headaches, listlessness and gloom left me. It does seem strange that these little yeast cakes can do this thing, but as sure as the sun shines, they can."

(A letter from Mr. T. C. Hinkle of Baldwin, Kansas)

THESE remarkable reports are typical of thousands of similar tributes to Fleischmann's Yeast.

There is nothing mysterious about its action. It is not a "cure-all," not a medicine in any sense. But when the body is choked with the poisons of constipation—or when its vitality is low so that skin, stomach, and general health are affected—this simple, natural food achieves literally amazing results.

Concentrated in every cake of Fleischmann's Yeast are millions of tiny yeast-plants, alive and active. At once they go to work—invigorating the whole system, clearing the skin, aiding digestion, strengthening the intestinal muscles and making them healthy and active. Health is yours once more.

"BEING a physician I realized that I had Chronic Gastritis. After eating, I always experienced a feeling of distress and depression, which led to pain. Life was a battle and an agony. When Yeast was suggested, it seemed to hold no prospect of final restoration to health, but good logic prompted me to take it. I began by eating one cake of Fleischmann's Yeast after each meal.

"I triumphed: for, in two months my sufferings ended, and since then I have felt no pain or discomfort."

(A letter from Captain Joseph Finberg, Medical Corps, 826 Lakeside Place, Chicago)

"OUR home is in Shanghai, China. There, our eight-year old Billy began having severe outbreaks of boils. The doctor's treatment gave relief for a short time only, for after a few weeks of peace the misery would begin all over again. At one time Billy's back was covered with one hundred and thirty scars from boils that had been opened. This was the story for two years. Then came a stay in America where we began a course of Fleischmann's Yeast, sandwiching the daily cake between layers of sugar cookies. Then did Fleischmann's prove itself, for the boils disappeared and after two years have never returned. And now, at home and abroad we feel insured for life."

(Mrs. Julia W. Stafford of Shanghai, China)

Fleischmann's Yeast comes only in the tinfoil package—it cannot be purchased in tablet form. All grocers have it. Start eating it today! A few days' supply will keep fresh in your ice box as well as in the grocer's.

"I WAS only 24 years old, my health, my good looks, and the old time dynamic energy, which I had believed so permanently mine, were gone.

"A man of wisdom is my physician, but I thought him indeed crazy when he prescribed three yeast cakes a day. But at the end of a month I was surprised to find that my disposition had improved, and the world looked much better to my tired eyes.

"For two months more I took the Yeast and now I am well and happy, my nerves are sure and steady, the old-time buoyancy and energy is mine again."

(Extract from a letter of Miss Elva Tanner, Clover, Utah)

Dissolve one cake in a glass of water (just hot enough to drink)

—before breakfast and at bedtime. Fleischmann's Yeast, when taken this way, is especially effective in overcoming or preventing constipation. Or eat 2 or 3 cakes a day spread on bread or crackers—dissolved in fruit juices or milk—or eat it plain.

Write us for further information or let us send you a free copy of our latest booklet on Yeast for Health. Address: Health Research Dept. 526, The Fleischmann Company, 701 Washington Street, New York City.
